

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. PASSED APRIL 16, 1883.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

SECTION 1.—CEPHAS BRAINERD, WILLIAM E. DODGE, JR., MORRIS K. JESUP, ROBERT R. MCBURNEY, ELBERT B. MONROE, MOSES TAYLOR PYNE, JAMES STOKES, CORNELIUS VANDERBILT, BENJAMIN C. WETMORE, JOHN S. MACLEAN, SAMUEL H. BLAKE, RUSSELL STURGIS, JR., HENRY M. MOORE, WILLIAM G. WARREN, JAMES MCCORMICK, H. KIRK PORTER, H. THANE MILLER, TURLINGTON W. HARVEY, CYRUS H. MCCORMICK, JR., THOMAS COCHRAN, JR., GEORGE S. BROWN, WILLIAM P. MUNFORD, JOSEPH HARDIE, AUGUSTINE T. SMYTHE, JOHN L. WHEAT, FRANK L. JOHNSTON, WILLIAM T. HARDIE and ALEXANDER GUTHRIE, being the persons designated for the purpose by the International Convention of the Young Men's Christian Associations of the United States and British Provinces in accordance with a resolution to that effect of the Convention of the said Young Men's Christian Associations, passed May 27th, 1881, and their associates and successors in office, are hereby constituted a Body Corporate and Politic by the name of the International Committee of Young Men's Christian Associations, for the purpose of establishing and assisting Young Men's Christian Associations, and generally to promote the spiritual, intellectual, physical and social well-being of young men, in accordance with the aims and methods of Young Men's Christian Associations in connection with the said Convention.

SEC. 2.—The management and disposition of the affairs of this corporation shall be vested in a Committee composed of the individuals named in the first Section of this Act as incorporators and their associates and successors in office, the said Board to be composed of not less than twenty-seven members, one-third of whom shall go out of office, and one-third be elected, at each of the said International Conventions of the Young Men's Christian Associations of the United States and British Provinces by the said Convention ; and if any vacancy shall occur during the interim of the said Conventions, it shall be filled by a majority of the votes of the remaining members of the Committee resident in the State of New York.

SEC. 3.—The said Corporation shall possess the general power, right and privilege, and be subject to the provisions contained in Title 3 of Chapter 18 of the first part of the Revised Statutes of the State of New York, and the Acts amendatory thereof and supplementary thereto, so far as the same are in force and applicable, and in accordance with this Act.

SEC. 4.—The said Corporation shall in law be capable of taking, receiving and holding absolutely and in trust for its general uses and purposes, and for any particular department of its work, and for any particular Association, by gift, devise, bequest, grant or purchase, real and personal property, and, with the consent of the Board of Trustees herein provided for, of letting, leasing and conveying the same, and shall also have power with the like consent to issue bonds and secure the same by mortgages upon its real estate and its improvement ; the consent of the said Trustees to be evidenced by affixing their seal to the instruments of conveyance and bonds and mortgages, and causing the same to be signed by their President and Treasurer, in pursuance of a resolution of their Board to that effect. And the real estate of this Corporation shall not be liable for any debt or obligation of the Corporation, unless the same shall have been contracted with the approval of the said Board of Trustees.

All devises and bequests, however, to the said Corporation shall be subject to the provisions of the "Act of the Legislature relating to Wills," passed April 13th, 1860, and the Acts amendatory thereto.

SEC. 5.—The said Corporation shall have the power to make and adopt a constitution, by-laws, rules, and regulations for the government of its business, the management of its affairs, the choice, powers, and duties of its officers and agents, and from time to time to repeal or alter such constitution, by laws, rules and regulations.

SEC. 6.—All real property which shall be given to or acquired by this Corporation, and all gifts and bequests of money to be held in trust, shall be held and managed by a Board of Fifteen Trustees, a majority of whom shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of all business. The Chairman of the said International Committee shall, for the time, be ex-officio a member of the said Board of Trustees. ROBERT FULTON CUTTING, BOWLES COLGATE, CHARLES LANIER, JOHN S. BUSSING, JOHN C. HAVEMEYER, JOHN NOBLE STEARNS, SAMUEL COLGATE, JAMES TALCOTT, JAMES CAREY THOMAS, WASHINGTON C. DE PAUW, HENRY J. WILLING, DAN P. ELLS, CHARLES W. LOVELACE, JONATHAN N. HARRIS and the Chairman of the said International Committee are hereby created such Board of Trustees, and whenever a vacancy shall occur in the said Board of Trustees, the same shall be filled by a majority vote of those remaining; and the income which the said Board of Trustees shall receive from the property under their management and the said property shall be devoted to the purposes of this Act and for no other purpose, and, so long as the said International Committee shall so expend the same, the Board of Trustees shall pay over to the Treasurer of the said Corporation the income of the property of this Corporation so managed by them.

THE YOUNG MEN OF OUR CITIES,

AND OF WHAT USE THE YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION IS TO THEM.

A Paper read before the Interdenominational Congress, held in Cincinnati, O., December 7-11, 1885.

BY RICHARD C. MORSE.

If, in the circular calling this congress, our cities are correctly said to be "a menace to our civilization," one efficient factor in producing this menace is the condition of the young men in them. That young men are conspicuously absent from the services of church and Sunday-school in our cities, large and small; that they are conspicuously present in saloon, pool-room, concert hall, gambling den and other places of even more vicious resort, as well as in prison and reformatory, bearing the penalty of the crimes they have committed,—these are facts often mentioned.

Some facts about the
our cities.

Consider a few figures secured by careful count and estimate in some of the smaller cities:

A city of 19,000 population, containing 3,500 young men: 85, or one-fortieth, are members of Protestant churches; not one received into a church during a year; 300 convicted of crime that same year.

A city of 20,000 population, 3,500 young men: only 29 young men—less than one in 100—members of Protestant churches.

A city of 20,000 population, 4,000 young men: only 38 young men joined the churches during one year.

A city of 17,000 population, 3,000 young men: 356 young men—over one-tenth—church members; 1,021—over one-fourth—entered 49 saloons between 7 and 8 P. M. one Saturday. This city is not west of the Mississippi.

A city of 20,000 population, 4,000 young men: 236 are church members: 39 received into churches during 1883; 1,069, over one-fourth, convicted of crime that year.

A city of 32,000 population, 5,000 young men: 21 Protestant churches; 105 liquor saloons; last year 105 young men received into 21 churches; 222 into jail and workhouse.

A city of 38,000 population, 6,000 young men: 17 Protestant churches; 128 liquor saloons; on a pleasant Sunday morning 5 per cent. of young men attended half the churches, including all the large ones; on the previous Saturday evening during two hours 10 per cent. of the young men in 7 out of the 128 saloons—6 per cent., or one-eighteenth of the saloons.

A city of 12,000 population, 2,500 young men: on a pleasant Sunday evening in all the churches 6 per cent. of the young men; in 3 per cent. of the saloons 4 per cent. of the young men.

These are only small cities. If we find these things in the green tree, what may we not expect in the dry?

Some of the reasons for these facts are not far to seek. The boy, quite prematurely, becomes in his opinion too old and ^{Some reasons for these facts.} too wise for the Sunday-school. He grows too restless to remain in the quiet of his home, whether that home be in the country or the city.

In the growth of business in our cities the demand for these restless boys has brought multitudes of them from the country to join their equally restless comrades in the great town. Their employers exercise no such home care over them as was customary in the olden time. After business hours, the evening, which formerly the apprentice or clerk spent in work, is now with young men the time of loneliness. Their lodgings furnish no attractions. The churches are closed except on the prayer-meeting nights, and the prayer-meeting does not attract them. The devil's agencies are alive with active workers and most positive attractions. With these surroundings, the young man enters on the path that lies between the home of his parents or the school or college he has attended and the safe anchorage of the home he is to make for himself. The path is often a long and difficult one.

Alluding to this interesting period in the life of a young man, an eminent public speaker lately said: "The state provides the common school, and not only gives, but enforces, universal education. But after the young man has been launched into the world to win his way as best he may, the state takes no further care than to furnish a policeman to arrest him in case he goes astray. It either directly licenses or indirectly tolerates the saloon, the pool-room, the concert-hall, the gambling den, and resorts of every kind; but its only effort to keep or rescue the young man from any or all of these influences is the policeman." While the only provision of the state is a policeman, the provision of the churches in the form of church services, meetings and fellowship is wholly inadequate to cope with the multiform and multiplied temptations which meet the young man every day and evening.

Under the pressure of this need of special effort, on behalf of young men, the laymen of the evangelical churches have combined,

I. The Young Men's Christian Association, and, what they could not so well do for young men through the churches either individually or denominationally, they have sought to accomplish unitedly and undenominationally, creating for this purpose an agency which bears the name of the Young Men's Christian Association. It has been greatly aided by the hearty sanction of the ministry, but the responsible management and support of the Association has been in the hands of the laymen of the churches.

As a reform agency this Association has addressed a part of its efforts to the young men already wrecked by the demoralizing agencies we have referred to. Practical sympathy has partly as a reform agency, been excited for these victims in their homelessness, on the street, in the gutter, in jail, alms-house, asylum, and reformatory. Good results have been achieved. Young men have been rescued and reclaimed. They have been brought into the church. Often they have proved an infirm membership, requiring that care and sympathy which it is a blessing for the church to exercise. Often, also, they have proved invaluable helpers in preaching the faith they once destroyed and in pulling from the pit, whence they were digged, those in peril similar to their own. Among these trophies of redeeming grace are some who have been intensely active and useful in this blessed work for young men.

But while not neglecting the work of rescue, the Young Men's Christian Association in its best estate, as a remedial but chiefly as a remedial, preventive agency provides, as places of resort, agency, has addressed itself chiefly to the work of prevention—seeking to bring its influence for good to bear upon the young man before he has been victimized and wrecked.

To accomplish this, places of resort were opened for young men, the design being to attract them by what was wholesome and useful. To make these places not only wholesome but really attractive, the Christian young men providing them needed money. Vicious resorts are gilded and decked with all that money can buy. But for years these Young Men's Christian Associations struggled to carry on their work in our largest cities with an expenditure so small as to give them the ability only to provide the prayer-meeting and a reading-room, poorly located in an upper story. A friend who reached the door of one of these attic rooms in a panting condition justly exclaimed: "No young man could be expected to come here unless he was terribly in earnest."

But some Associations have happily survived the period when the nature and necessities of their work were so feebly appreciated.

Among these more fortunate Associations there are seventeen in seventeen cities ; including Boston, Baltimore, Newark, Buffalo and Pittsburgh. Ten years ago these seventeen Associations had inferior rooms. Now they all have Association ^{I. Association Buildings in large cities,} buildings. Ten years ago they were given only $54,094 annually to make their rooms attractive and useful to young men. Last year $94,959, or nearly double that amount, was given in these cities for this purpose, while during the decade, as has been said, the Christian people in each one of these seventeen cities have erected an Association building for its young men, at an aggregate cost of $1,206,200. These figures show that in the seventeen cities the money annually given to carry on the work for young men has increased 75 per cent., while in addition over $1,200,000 has been invested in buildings.

But these seventeen buildings are not the only ones erected during the last ten years. They belong to a group of thirty-three (33) Association buildings which have been erected during the past ten years in thirty-two cities, at a cost of $2,421,700.

If we examine these buildings, we find them erected on a definite plan, quite unique in structure and arrangement, constituting something decidedly novel and suggestive in Christian architecture. Whatever the shape of the lot upon which the ^{erected on a uniform plan,} edifice stands, the interior is so arranged that you enter first the central or focal-room—called the reception room—out of which open doors or passages to the secretary's office, the cloak-room, the reading-room, the debating hall, the parlor, library, educational and Bible class-rooms, gymnasium and baths, prayer-meeting room and every other department of the Association. This social focus of the building receives every young man as he enters this popular resort, and when his errand is over, whether it has had to do with the physical or social, the literary or musical, the entertaining or educational, the studious or religious department of the building, he returns on his way out to this same attractive room. Sometimes you can mark here a square yard, which is traversed by every young man entering or leaving the building. This may be justly termed the structural center, about which both the edifice and the work are reared. It corresponds to the bar, the gambling-table, or other focal point of interest in the various demoralizing resorts with which young men are familiar.

Let us now examine more closely a group of eleven of these Association buildings in ten of our leading cities : New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Brooklyn, Boston, Baltimore, Pittsburgh, ^{with (A) for members;} Buffalo, Newark and San Francisco. Notice at the outset what they provide for the members of the Association.

First, in each of these, with one exception, we find the finest (a.) Gymna- gymnasium which each of these great cities contains, siums; with an excellent instructor.

A generation ago a young man in one of these cities desiring bodily training of this kind was obliged to place himself in contact with some instructor from the sporting community. To-day, in most of these Association gymnasiums the young men receive instruction from—what would have been deemed years ago a phenomenon, if not a paradox—a Christian gymnast. These instructors have come to us in answer to prayer and effort. They are in sympathy with the high Christian purpose of the organization, and they are multiplying as Association gymnasiums are being opened. In this way the Young Men's Christian Associations are throwing about physical culture in these cities a wholesome and attractive atmosphere.

Hear some of the many testimonies given by young men attending these gymnasiums :

“ Being closely confined all day at my desk, at night I often feel (Testimonies.) languid and tired, and when feeling in that state seldom exercise without having renewed life and vigor. It has done much toward enabling me to cope with a busy business life.”

“ While I am there I forget all my cares and troubles, and feel happy.”

“ Instead of the flabby flesh which covered my bones before I placed myself under instruction in your gymnasium, there is now a certain degree of firmness in my muscles and a circulation of blood which fills one with a desire to tread on air ; this may seem an exaggeration, but it is a fact.”

“ It has put me in first-rate trim, made me stronger both mentally and physically, and developed my muscles immensely. When I leave the gymnasium in the evening I have an immense appetite, as the lunch man in the neighborhood can testify.”

“ I have entered with a headache, exercised for about an hour, finishing with a brisk run of half a mile, then washed in cold water, rubbed myself with a coarse towel, and walked out minus the headache. At other times, by the use of the same means, I have banished the blues and gone home happy and hungry. I use the gymnasium for the general development and toning up of the system, not dreaming of ever becoming an athlete. One hour a day, three times a week, is conducive to good health, good spirits and self-control.”

“ This much I confess, I have often hooted the Association and its seemingly ridiculous work, but my mind's change even now astonishes me, as I am now one of its best advocates in trying to get my friends to become members. I have discovered the very good work it offers, and regret deeply that I had not long ago joined it."

A young lawyer writes: "I attend the Association gymnasium five to eight times a week. It has given me a keen appetite, sound sleep, and buoyant spirits."

"A book-keeper reports a gain of fifteen pounds in weight, and health wonderfully improved; chest measurement increased two and one-half inches, and upper arm two and one-fourth inches."

A student writes: "My weight has increased thirty-four pounds, and my chest four inches. Nothing else I have ever done has been so beneficial to my health."

A stenographer writes: "I am confined to my office all day, and must have relaxation. I find moderate, systematic exercise very beneficial, and consider the gymnasium one of the most valuable features of the work."

Testimonies like these come from many cities, and could be multiplied indefinitely.

While these ten Associations provide this very superior bodily training, sixty-seven Associations in as many cities have gymnasiums, most of them the best which the community has yet secured. In forty-two other cities, some less thorough form of bodily culture in light gymnastics, calisthenics, etc., is provided by the Association. So that in one hundred and nine cities physical training in some form is offered to young men. Association sentiment at these and many other points is calling for much more to be done on the excellent lines already marked out.

But these eleven Association buildings contain, also, besides gymnasiums, educational or class-rooms, where in the evenings young men receive instruction in writing, book-keeping, (b.) Educational short-hand, free-hand drawing, vocal and instrumental ^{al} Classes; music, English composition and debate, in the German, French, and Spanish languages, and in other useful branches of knowledge.

The New York Association reports 1,231 young men in attendance upon these classes. Only two universities in the country report so many students. In the ten Associations under consideration eighty-four classes are taught, containing 3,975 students.

Some testimonies from the young men in these classes indicate their value:

"I am holding a very good position at present, obtained by the knowledge of short-hand gained at the Association, (Testimonies) which I never would have otherwise mastered."

"I have found the instruction received in the German class beneficial to me, both in business and in private life."

"Since I joined the book-keeping class I have kept all the books of the business."

"When I first joined I knew comparatively nothing about music, but I can now take up an ordinary piece of music and read it at sight. This has led me to take great interest in the singing in my own Sunday-school and church."

"The most practical advantage that I have derived is, that I have been able to secure a satisfactory situation in a Spanish commercial house as the result of the knowledge I have acquired in the class, thanks to the Association."

"I earn my livelihood as a corresponding stenographer, which art I have learned mostly at the Association class."

Testimonies like these can be also greatly multiplied.

Besides these ten Associations, 124 others have 419 educational classes, seeking to emulate those of the leading city societies. In advertising these classes and in seeking to give young men the option of this useful and rational way to occupy their evenings, two facts have been discovered:

First. That a far greater number of young men than the Associations can yet accommodate are eager to prefer this useful method of evening occupation to the saloon and other demoralizing resorts.

Second. That proficiency in each branch of knowledge gives promotion in many more branches of business than is generally apprehended. One experienced secretary sent out to all the young men in the Association, asking how many would join a class in free-hand drawing. To his surprise over 200 replied, and the following great variety of occupations was represented among the number: Apprentices to engravers, lithographers, silversmiths, printers, designers and electricians; journeymen painters, gas-fitters, carpenters, pattern makers, blacksmiths and elevator builders, carpet designers, machinists, engineering draughtsmen, architectural draughtsmen, locksmiths, boiler makers, railroad switchmen, surveyors, upholsterers, confectioners, artists, manufacturers, book-keepers, clerks, salesmen, lawyers, messengers, lecture agents, law stenographers, ferry masters, composers, students, office boys and errand boys.

These eleven Association buildings contain not only gymnasiums and class-rooms, but lecture halls and social-rooms. Here were (c.) Lectures, given last year 159 lectures and talks on health, and Receptions, Sociables, etc.; 81 social receptions, musicals, etc., combining instruction and amusement. At some of the social entertainments refreshments are provided. To some of the lectures and sociables the young men are entitled to bring their lady friends.

In some Associations both an orchestra and a glee-club have been formed; and in summer-time the rambling or outing club carries into the open air on Saturday afternoons large numbers of young men, most of whose time is spent at the desk or counter.

Libraries are owned by 326 Associations. Most of them are small collections of books. Only twenty-seven have over 2,000 volumes each. But in proportion to the number and (d.) Libraries. value, the volumes are much more used than other collections, because they are not isolated in a separate building, but are easily accessible to all the frequenters of a large and popular resort. What makes these collections of books particularly useful to young men is the fact that they are open during the evening, when many other collections are closed. They also lie in the path of the young man as he seeks the gymnasium, the lecture, the educational class, the reading-room, the prayer-meeting, and the parlors where he is spending many of his evenings.

The leading Association library is in the possession of the Association in New York City, and has received its first endowment in the form of a bequest of $150,000, being the residuary estate of the late William Niblo. This library now contains over 32,000 volumes.

The following testimonies from young men are to the point here:

"Coming to the city, as I did, almost an entire stranger, without friends, I found in the rooms of the Association a warm welcome, the use of the reading-room and library, the pleasant (Testimonies;) entertainments, lectures, etc. These are all of such decided advantage to me that I would feel completely lost without them."

"My mother being dead and having no sisters, I used to find it hard to enjoy my evenings without going into a pool-room, but since I joined the Association I have spent nearly all my spare time in its rooms."

"In the literary society I believe my mind has been sharpened and made active in debate. The lectures have been a source of inestimable value. My only regret is that I was so long in joining the Association."

"The Association has been a sort of refuge to me in times of trouble and care. In its entertainments and lectures the Association has been brimful of enjoyment and instruction."

"The Association has kept me from going out nights with young men to theatres and saloons, and to play billiards, pool, etc.; when I go out of a night now, I go to the library and peruse useful books or magazines."

“Being a stranger in the city, the Association has been to me like a home, where I could go and spend my evenings, feeling always welcome, and in a society where all the influences help me to lead a purer and better life.”

In order to obtain the expensive privileges which have been described, the young man becomes a member of the Association.

(B) For Non-members- Such membership is freely granted without any reference whatever to the religious faith or creed of the applicant, and the roll of members contains the names of Jew and Gentile, foreign-born and native-born, Romanist and Protestant.

But the doors of these hospitable buildings are open to a far greater multitude of young men than those who are able to pay the membership fee.

The young man arriving in the great city as a stranger, wants first to find a wholesome boarding house suited to his means. In (a.) Boarding-houses- the reception-room a list of such places carefully collated is put into his hands. He also needs employment. The bureau of the Association for this purpose is free to him. In this employment department alone, in nine of the leading

(b.) Employ-ment- city Associations last year more young men were counseled with and helped than are found on the lists of membership of these nine Associations. The third thing the stranger wants is a place of resort in the evening, and he is cor-

(c.) Reading-room, etc.; dially invited to the reading-room, parlor and library, where he is made to feel at home, and whence he often finds his way to the religious meetings.

This free and open-handed welcome brings to the reception-room, the employment bureau, the reading-room, and the religious meetings a multitude of young men more numerous even than those who flock to the gymnasium, the classes, the lectures, and other entertainments.

These two groups of members and non-members are constantly changing, many of the non-members being irresistibly attracted into closer contact and identification with the Association, while their places are supplied by the ceaseless incoming tide of stranger young men. In the light of these facts, we also see how small a part of the field and reach of the Association's influence is represented by the number of young men enrolled as members. In this point it differs radically from the social club, with which it is often compared, but which is shut to every one but paying members.

We have considered mainly thus far the work for young men in the ten Association buildings of ten leading cities. Let us now examine a very different group of Association buildings in five small cities or towns with a population varying from 5,000 to 30,000, namely: St. Johnsbury, Vt.; Newburgh, N. Y.; Germantown, Penn.; Rome, N. Y., and York, Penn. The value of these buildings varies from $18,000 to $50,000. For years the Christian people of these places had marveled at the vigor and enterprise with which the devil's agents had reproduced the saloon and other demoralizing agencies of the great city. These buildings represent an attempt to erect a successful opposition to vicious resorts. In them we find the gymnasium, the educational class, the lecture-hall, the social-room and its entertainments—all borrowed from the larger model in the great city and adapted to the needs of young men, many of whom will soon be part of the great multitude beginning life in the large cities. In these smaller cities the Association building can compass a work of prevention which in the larger cities it is too late to accomplish. By a wise enterprise in providing lectures and entertainments—under Christian auspices—the young men postpone the arrival of the low theatre and the less desirable order of amusements. By means of the gymnasium and other appliances athletic organization and sports are kept under wholesome Christian control. In one town, where the liquor traffic had been unsuccessfully assailed, the promoters of reform saw and realized that the saloons were frequented for something besides the drink. They were criticized because while seeking to remove the saloons they provided no social resort as a substitute. With a wise benevolence they gave their Christian young men an Association building, and they now testify that more has been accomplished by this means in the suppression of the liquor traffic than by all other agencies combined.

2. Association Buildings in small cities.

But these buildings which offer such a generous and attractive welcome to young men, involving so large an outlay on capital and income account, bear the name of Christ upon them. In them the young man also finds the prayer-meeting and song service, the Bible class, the Christian worker's class, and other religious meetings. Years ago the religious activity of the Association was its prominent, almost its sole activity. The more expensive and attractive agencies we have described have been wisely added and as wisely made prominent. Has this change robbed the Association of its character as an agency for the evangelization of the young men of our cities? This is a vital question, for if the Association is losing its hold as an agency in city evangelization, then I am an intruder upon the attention of this congress and a trespasser on your time and patience. In point of fact, however, careful investigation shows that in these larger rooms and new buildings the religious work is being pushed more actively and ingeniously than was possible under the old régime. For example, in one of these Association buildings, gymnasium and library, parlor and classes, entertainments and reading-room are so attractive that, by actual count, 260,660 visitors entered its reception-room last year. In this building the religious part of the work was carried on so vigorously that one in every six of this great number, namely, over 42,000 found their way to some one of the religious meetings, which to the number of 1,160 annually are held in that building; and 286 of these young men were by their own request counseled with as inquirers about the way of life through faith in Christ.

3. The evangelistic part of the work most fruitful when the other parts of the work are emphasized.

During the week of prayer for young men last month (November, 1885)—a week now observed by the Young Men's Christian Associations all around the world—meetings for young men were held in this Association building every night. The interest was so great that they were continued a second week. Seventy-one young men manifested a desire to begin the Christian life. Of this number thirty-six are hopefully converted and are uniting with the churches. The average attendance at these meetings was 195. Such a broad and fruitful work in the evangelization of young men was impossible to this particular Association in the period before it secured an adequate building, and while its work was chiefly, almost wholly, a religious one.

Like testimony comes from all the Associations which Christian citizens have generously equipped with appliances that enable them to offer to young men a broad and hospitable welcome.

Hear what the young men themselves say about this work :

(Testimonies.) “Joining the Association at a time when my mind was filled with doubts, I was drawn into the meetings in the parlor by the singing, and while attending these meetings was led to give my heart to Christ.”

A medical student writes : “The Association has offered me a place of refuge and of pleasant Christian enjoyment on every Sunday that I spend in a city where I am a comparative stranger. More than all, I feel that I am among friends to whom I may go for advice.”

“The Association has been a great help to me in my endeavor to maintain a Christian life, both from attendance on its religious meetings and not less in providing enjoyments more elevating than those I might otherwise be tempted to indulge in.”

"The very atmosphere of the place seems to make you feel that there is something more to work for than mere earthly gain."

"Coming into the city, and having no friends here, it has made me feel somewhat at home. It has enabled me to find one of the nicest churches possible; and has been a great assistance to me by waking me up to a sense of my Christian duties."

"My first interest was in the gymnasium, but when I think of the greatest benefit I have received, it is in the direction of increased Christian activity."

Another says: "The gymnasium was my first attraction, but, since I became a Christian, the Bible class and religious meetings have been the features most dear to me."

"My active Christian work commenced in the Association, hence it was the means of starting me to work in the church, and has strengthened and bettered it ever since."

These testimonies come from cities where the many sidedness of the Association work is most pronounced.

From a city where the Association had attempted to do a work wholly religious, a prominent Christian and public man, who had himself been active and self-denying in this work—a man widely known and as widely trusted both in church and state—writes:

"I have felt for years past that our work, though most valuable in one respect, was a minus quantity in regard to what appears to me to be the very center-point of the Young Men's Christian Association. It lacked entirely holding power as a preventive and home agency. It was merely the means of doing some evangelistic work among some of our young men. But from my experience of the last fifteen years, I have found that however valuable this work may be as an adjunct, it is not the sole work of the Young Men's Christian Association, and, if prosecuted as the sole work, it not unfrequently brings the Association very seriously into conflict with the churches, and does this quite unnecessarily. I am satisfied that we want home life offered to the thousands of young men who have not this advantage, and we want the elements of a well organized club or place of meeting, without the concomitants which make it injurious. Through our new secretary, I trust that we shall be enabled in our city before very long to model our Association on this basis."

An Association president, alluding to the pressure to which the institution is often subjected by unwise and ignorant friends, says:

"We must stem the tide of every variety of suggestion and objection, from the depraved desecrator, who urges that we should eradicate Christian from the name, throw the Bible out of the window, and introduce the pool-ball and the poker chip, to the devotionalist, who demands that we 'purge the temple,' close the gymnasium, shut up the reading-room, banish sociability, and permit nothing but plain chairs, bare walls, and a perpetual high-pressure prayer-meeting."

Avoiding either extreme, the Association accomplishes most for the evangelization of young men in our cities, by seeking to benefit the whole man physically, socially, educationally, and spiritually, upon the lines of the scheme already indicated.

The religious work of the Associations is conducted upon the platform of the evangelical churches, and in entire harmony and sympathy with these churches. This is abundantly ical character

tion.

guaranteed by the evangelical test of membership—a test which confines the voting and office-holding membership to young men who are members of evangelical churches. It was not till this test was adopted that these buildings and other permanent property were given to the Associations, and most of this property is held securely in trust for them upon the condition of their fidelity to this fundamental evangelical principle of the organization.

Another sure guarantee of both the evangelical and evangelistic character of the Association is found in the character, qualifications, and motive of the executive officers, or general secretaries, who devote their lives to this department of Christian work. To this I will allude a little later.

A third guarantee is found in the fact that while the Association maintains this close relation to the church, it loyally enjoins on its members to "hold their duties and obligations to their respective churches as having the prior claim upon their sympathy and efforts,"—a rule of conduct carefully observed throughout the societies.

The question is sometimes asked, "Is not the Young Men's Christian Association developing into a new church or sect?" One reply to this is found in its recognition, just stated, of the priority of the church. Another answer, still more convincing to some, will occur to any one who thoughtfully examines these Association buildings, and the varied work going on in them. Such an observer will note the entire absence of any provision for the family or household. If the germ of a church is here, it must be an impossible church of one sex. But the young man on his way to a home of his own is found here. He can become a controlling member of the society only by first joining the church, where ample provision is made for the family and the household, and whither the index finger of the Association, its principles and its teachings, is ever pointing him. A careful examination of the structure and working of the Association seems to disclose the fact that it exists less for itself than for the Church of Christ.

We have now examined two groups of these novel Association buildings, located in cities large and small. We have examined the attractions—physical, social, entertaining, educational, ^{s. Total number of buildings.} religious, which draw young men in large numbers to these buildings. The question will be asked, how many of these well-appointed buildings are there?

Since 1875 thirty-three have been obtained. Before 1875 twelve had been secured. These forty-five are valued at $3,547,700. They are genuine Association buildings. Upon them the Young Men's Christian Associations have expended seven-eighths of the money invested in Association buildings. Besides these forty-five, forty more bear the name. But they can not justly be called young men's buildings. While over seven-eighths of the capital invested in Association buildings has been expended upon the forty-five genuine buildings, less than one-eighth has been put into these inferior buildings. The Associations have certainly shown wisdom in being very frugal in expenditure upon buildings which really misrepresent their work in the eyes of the community. Indeed, it ought in all fairness to be said, that in the case of each one of these poorer buildings the genuine friends of young men and of this work are seeking—as you are doing in this city—either to remodel the present building or to substitute it with one adapted to the work and genuinely attractive to young men.

In looking over the list of the best Association buildings, it is worthy of note that three of them are located in one city. In the same city lots are already purchased for a fourth, and it ^{a. Three in one city.} is perceived that these four are only harbingers of more to follow; a fact which shows that the necessity is already recognized of multiplying these places of resort if adequate, wholesome provision is to be made for young men.

It is equally noteworthy that the best of these buildings and the best Association building in the world is the noble gift of one man to the young men of the city in which it is located. Within a few days of its dedication an aged capitalist in a ^{b. The best given by one man.} neighboring city offered, and has since undertaken, to erect for the Young Men's Christian Association there a building thoroughly adapted to its needs; facts which indicate that we may expect buildings of this sort from individual public-spirited citizens as well as from the combined efforts of all the friends of young men in a community. What nobler memorial could a capitalist leave behind him in the city in which he has accumulated his fortune than such a building as the late Mr. Frederick Marquand has left to the city of Brooklyn—a building warm and bright, day and evening, with a perpetual hospitable welcome to the generations of young men coming, as he did, from the country, to make their fortune in the great town.

As many buildings as the single gifts of individual citizens and the combined gifts of many friends will together secure, are urgently needed in every city, if any fit provision is to be made for the vast mass of young men yet uninfluenced by any Christian agency.

Another one of these buildings is occupied by the German-speaking Branch of a Young Men's Christian Association. Nearly

c. One for German-speaking young men. one-half of the money for the purchase of it was given by German-American merchants. It marks the fact that the Associations are making a beginning—only a beginning, and as yet a very small one—of work in the interest of our German-speaking young men—a class as neglected in this regard as they are influential, numerous, and, by the right means, accessible.

d. Fourteen in course of erection. Fourteen Association buildings are now in course of erection in fourteen cities. Two of these are in leading cities of the South—a section of the country where no such building has yet been completed in any large city.

But these remarkable and unique buildings could never have been erected, and the work in them, which is assuming better and more use-

6. General Secretaries who are ful forms every year, could never have been developed, without the agency of a special class of workers, who make the elevation of young men the business of their lives, just as the gambler, the saloon-keeper, and their associates find their employment in the demoralization of young men. The

a. Necessary to building and work. men devoting their lives to this work are termed general secretaries. Study the story of any one of these better Association buildings, and you will find the real architect to have been the general secretary. It was his vigilant eye which detected, in time for correction, the radical mistakes which the nominal architect, in his ignorance of the Association work, was making. Study the work going on in these buildings, examine the regiment of young men distributed into committees, each well drilled, and all keeping time together in the rythmical activity of the work. You will discover that the efficiency and harmony are due largely to the quiet management and capacity of the executive officer, who is the right hand both of the board of management and of the active workers.

There have been a few Association buildings from which the light and warmth of the work have somehow departed. I recall one in a large city. The occupancy and then the actual possession of it was abandoned. It had been obtained before a competent secretary was secured. Some years later the needed man was found, and now in place of the lost building a far better one is occupied by a ceaseless activity, full of blessing to young men.

In another large city the work became so languid that the organization ceased to deserve the name it bore. This was all due to the fact that a competent secretary was succeeded by one ignorant of the work and persistent in his ignorance. He was at last firmly removed, and what had been demolished is being slowly rebuilt by a competent successor in the secretaryship.

In another city a large and handsome building was erected by friends who had not first secured a competent man as secretary. In a few years the beautiful structure seemed—in the eyes of intelligent friends—to be a whited sepulchre of work for young men. But, before a complete wreck had been wrought, in answer to earnest prayer and hard work, the right man was secured as secretary, and as steady as the needle to the pole has been the return to vigorous usefulness and to the confidence both of the young men and the community.

Such experience leads us to emphasize the necessity of competent secretaries to act as executive officers of this work for young men.

Ten years ago, the list of Association general secretaries contained the names of twenty-one, who in the light of the experience of the past ten years were qualified for the office. That list ^{b. growing in numbers,} now contains the names of 229 competent secretaries in 153 cities and towns, varying in size from Berwick, Pa., with a population of 2,300 and a handsome building, to New York City. Of these 229 secretaries, 176 are in charge of the Association work in 142 cities; forty-three are in charge of railroad branches, composed of railroad employés and located at railroad terminal points; ten are in charge of Association gymnasiums.

A school, almost wholly devoted to the training of young men for the secretaryship, has been recently opened in Springfield, Mass. This department has now fourteen pupils. It is encouraging to notice that, while forty-five cities have excellent buildings, 142 have secretaries. Competent men are being secured in advance of the buildings, which can not be utilized without them. This is wholesome growth.

In examining the Association buildings we discovered that they were held under the control of a membership and in the hands of

c. controlling motive Christian. trustees pledged to keep this work in all its activities true to the Christian name it bears. Another equally sure guarantee of the evangelical and evangelistic character of the Association is found in these general secretaries who have been gradually enlisted in its work and are making it their life work. If the motive of the building and the trend of its activities are toward leading young men to Christ, equally true is it of these secretaries that they are one and all engaged in this work primarily to lead young men to a saving faith in Jesus Christ. For fifteen years I have met with these brethren in their annual conferences. Here they have compared their views and methods. They have helped one another to define and shape this new form of Christian activity and life service. To every thoughtful observer the dominating motive of these men is transparent. They are in this work primarily not to run gymnasiums, nor to build up libraries, nor to organize classes, nor to furnish amusement and entertainment, but to extend the kingdom of Christ among young men.

But these buildings and secretaries are not the Young Men's Christian Association. They are merely the homes and the servants of a mighty movement and work, the object of which is 7. Laymen in management and work. to employ the cheerful, self-denying activities of young men, laymen in the churches, on behalf of their fellow young men. As buildings and secretaries have multiplied, the number of young men active upon the various working committees have multiplied. Six hundred of these Associations report 18,000 young men on their working committees. It is the tireless, well-organized activity of these bands of volunteers—in the board of management and on the working committees—which makes these buildings warm and hospitable with a social welcome, a personal interest and a brotherly fellowship, that compare with the atmosphere of the saloon as light compares with darkness and as heaven compares with hell. The enthusiasm and self-denial of this army of young volunteers, and the generous leadership of older men who have given freely of their money, time, and effort, have constituted the propelling force of this great movement for the welfare of young men.

Looking now beyond the forty-five cities favored with Association buildings and the 142 cities favored with Association secretaries, we find that 600 Associations reported last year 100,000 11. The demand for Associations greater than the supply. members and a working force on working committees of 18,000 young men. These 600 Associations reported an annual expenditure of $700,000.

In the light the census sheds on our city and town population, and in the light of what has already been achieved by Young Men's Christian Associations, it is clear that while 45 cities have Association buildings, 500 cities need them; while 142 cities have Association secretaries, 450 cities need them.

Instead of three and a half millions invested in buildings, fifty millions could be utilized.

Instead of $700,000 of annual resources, at least $7,000,000 are needed. And even with this $7,000,000, we should stand face to face and in competition with an expenditure for liquor of over $700,000,000, devoted to the demoralization of young men in only one form of ruinous indulgence. Such an extension of the work would only carry to all cities of the country the advantages now enjoyed by a few. But even in the case of these few cities, where the best work is being done for young men, the multiplication of it is urgently called for. New York City has only three Association buildings—a good beginning, nothing more. Philadelphia, Chicago, Brooklyn, and other cities, have as yet only one each.

If such an extension of this work for young men is called for, the question may be justly asked: "Does any agency exist for its extension?"

III. Agencies for the extension of Young Men's Christian Associations.

This leads us to notice the fact that these Associations do not exist as isolated societies, each caring only for its own local work. In the long series of experiments and struggles out of which the institution has been evolved and its present resources in men and money secured, the Associations have often met together in convention and conference. They first met as an International Organization or Convention of the United States and British Provinces. An executive committee—known now as the International Committee—was appointed at first for correspondence and the calling of future conventions. Later its work was made to include visitation by visiting secretaries.

I. International Committee and Secretaries.

One secretary after another was added for the West, for the South, for other parts of the country. The experience of the best Associations favored with the best secretaries was accumulated and compared. Tried and tested methods were propagated. Mistakes were discovered to be avoided.

One Association established a branch reading-room in a railroad depot for railroad employes, placing a railroad secretary in charge. It proved a decided success, and soon a visiting railroad secretary of the International Committee was placed in the field to multiply these railroad branches, and now seventy are in operation at fifty-five railroad terminal points; and at every point the railroad management co-operates in sustaining the branch—so great is its utility to the railroad service.

a. Railroad Department.

Testimonies to the value of this railroad work—similar to those already cited from mercantile young men—come to us from brakemen and conductors, from sleeping-car employés, trainmen, (Testimonies.) baggage-men, express carriers, firemen, engineers, and from men in every department of the railroad service.

A brakeman on one of the trunk lines says: "I derive a good deal of benefit from the reading-room, the library, the games, and plenty of good company that I would not get in other places. If I did not visit the room I would probably begin to gamble, and do other things that would do me no good."

A conductor says: "The lectures on 'First Aid to the Injured,' that have been given from time to time, have been a great help to me. The time I have spent at the room has altogether been most profitable."

A trainman enumerates: "The conveniences of the bath and wash-rooms, the cheerful companionships, and, last, though best of all, the restraint which the teachings of the Association put, through the attractiveness of the rooms, upon theatre-going and other amusements of like or worse character."

A timekeeper in the railroad shop: "The entertainments given at the rooms lately, I think, have been a benefit to every person who has had the pleasure of attending them, and the draughting class, of which I am a member, will prove a benefit to every one who will stick to it."

A sleeping-car employé: "It is a pleasant place to read, write and talk. I think I have been specially helped in the Christian life by associating with the secretaries and others connected with it."

A baggageman says: "The Railroad Branch of the Young Men's Christian Association has been of great benefit to me. It helps to keep us from bar-rooms and other places of evil resort."

A brakeman testifies: "This room furnishes the men a chance to refresh themselves physically and spiritually when they get a little time off duty—a pleasant place, where they will find elevating influences, pleasant companions, innocent amusements, and thus be helped to become useful members of society, instead of visiting the drinking saloons and getting into an atmosphere of profanity and obscenity."

Another trainman says: "One of the best and most pleasing features of our Association is the dining-room. Here we have gas stoves by which we can make our tea or coffee and warm our meals. This feature is, to my mind, far superior to the old way of eating a cold lunch in a baggage car or coach. It makes it seem something like home, and we all enjoy and patronize it. As for the other privileges, they are of great value to railroad men."

Similar testimony comes from the managers of our railroads.

Eleven of the leading railroad officials of Chicago, after hearing and carefully discussing detailed reports, passed the following resolution, and after it had been printed and critically examined, affixed their signatures to it:

"Resolved, That we believe that the work of the Young Men's Christian Association among railroad men in Chicago has proved of great advantage to the men and to the companies supporting it. Employés who formerly supported saloons now spend leisure time in the reading and library rooms. The attendance of employés at these rooms, and their use of the libraries, classes and other facilities is steadily increasing. All this tends to better service and greater security for passengers and property. The expenditure is legitimate, and yields large returns."

An experienced manager, after close observation of the work for years, says: "As to the value of the work done from this centre, it is in my judgment of the highest order. So long as it is profitable for railroad corporations to promote good morals among their employés, and to establish kindly relations between them and the corporations, so long there can be no question of the profitableness of such a work as is done by the Railroad Branch of the Young Men's Christian Association at so trifling a cost."

Another manager, on a rival trunk line, writes: "The value of this work can hardly be overstated. Under its influence and teaching we have better men and better service."

One who probably controls more railroad property than any other man in the country, writes: "In all the larger fields of Christian or educational endeavor I know of no efforts which accomplish more for the people immediately concerned and for the character of the service they render to the public in the safety of life and property than the efforts of the Railroad Branch of the Young Men's Christian Association."

A president of one of the leading trunk lines says: "I have had the opportunity to become personally familiar with the workings of the Railroad Branch of the Young Men's Christian Association. On the lines with which I am connected, one hundred thousand men are employed, and they represent over half a million people in their families.

"The demand for speed constantly increases the dangers of carriage. The steady hand and clear brain of the locomotive engineer, of the switchman at the crossing, of the flagman at the curve, of the signal man at the telegraph, alone prevent unutterable horrors, and this Association does more in fitting men to fulfill these duties for the safety of the public than all the patent appliances of the age."

The International Committee of the Young Men's Christian Associations has on its files strong commendations of this work from officers, directors, or owners of every railroad company on whose lines the work has had a fair trial.

Eight years ago in Princeton College the students made their organization a Young Men's Christian Association. College students came as delegates to the International Convention, and asked that a visiting college secretary of the International Committee be put in the field. A competent man was secured. Now in 205 colleges—including almost all our leading institutions—the Association is organized, with 10,000 students as members. On the Yale College campus, at the request and solicitation of the Christian students, a handsome building is being erected for this work by one of its munificent friends. Every year a large number of these students come to our cities. They enter professional schools and business life. An unusual proportion of them are young men of influence. This college work has made many of them active Christians, self-denying, and sympathetic with such work as that of the Young Men's Christian Association. And on their graduation they now unite with our city Associations more readily than ever before.

These facts indicate that this institution for young men has secured the favorable regard of the railroad capitalist and employé on the one hand, and of the university faculty and students on the other. These are two mighty factors in working the weal and woe of the country;—the railroad, with its million employés and their families, supporting nearly one-fifth of our population, and with money invested in it amounting to one-eighth of the capital of the country, and the university, which is the bulwark of our higher education and whose students we count among the very flower of our youth.

One secretary of the International Committee is a German-American, devoting his whole time to Association branches of German-speaking young men. Already, and partly through the efforts of the International secretary, one of these branches has secured a building of its own. Nearly half of the money to purchase this building, as has been already stated, was the gift of German-American merchants. What influential class of our young men is it more important to reach with the Gospel? What effort more promising than this has been made to bring them into our Christian fellowship?

Another secretary of the committee finds his field of labor among the colored young men of the South, being occupied chiefly as yet with the students in the colleges and other educational institutions in that part of the country.

But the most important achievement of the International Convention and its Committee has been the calling and fostering of the various State Conventions. At the call of the Committee the Associations in thirty-four States and in Canada have come together by delegates. In thirty states the Convention has succeeded in patterning its organization upon the International so far that each of the thirty now has its own executive or State Committee. These Committees wisely seek, with the aid and by the counsel of the International, to employ in their turn visiting secretaries, to promote extension and better development of the Association work upon their fields, so that now in eleven States and in Canada these conventions employ fourteen secretaries to devote their whole time to this important work of supervision, development, and extension. Adding to these the secretaries of the International Committee, the Associations have a force of twenty-five men,—thoroughly posted upon the Association work in its best estate,—giving their whole attention to developing and extending this work for young men.

A few examples will be in point:

In a large city a fund for a building was being raised. No subscription was good till $50,000 had been secured. The total had only reached $40,000, and there the undertaking halted. The help of an International secretary was asked and granted. The addition of his experience, counsel, and efforts secured the needed balance. Precisely similar work has been recently done in another large city by a State secretary. To a small city, where the opinion has prevailed that the young men ought to do the work for young men without a secretary and the financial support required for such an officer, one of these visiting secretaries comes. He calls on the men of business and character in the place, tells them what is being done at other points no larger nor wealthier. The result is a call for a competent secretary, in response to whose efforts the young men are benefitted, and in time a needed and suitable building is provided. In another city, after the secretary is called, difficulties are met with. He does not prove to be the right man, but a wreck is averted by the vigilance of the State Committee and the State secretary.

Sometimes, but very rarely, both Association and building have been endangered, and both have been rescued and a blessed victory plucked from the very jaws of defeat by the vigilant activity of International or State Committee.

The Associations of a state—assembled from year to year in State Convention—see their need of a visiting State secretary. They are led to see this partly through the counsel of the visiting secretary, who is there on behalf of the International Committee. They pledge what they can for this purpose. They ask for and secure the aid of an International secretary to counsel and co-operate with them. With his help they attain their object. In this way one state after another is being led to develop and extend this work for young men.

The State organizations are of paramount importance, because in their turn and upon their field they each seek through their agents or secretaries to care for and develop not only the city Associations but equally the railroad, the college, and the German departments of this work for young men.

Young Men's Christian Associations exist in most of the countries of Europe and in many other parts of the world; but, owing largely to our International and State organizations, the American Associations are both more numerous and more efficient than those of any other national group. Since 1855 a world's conference of the Associations has met triennially in the various capitals of Europe. In 1878, owing chiefly to American influence and precedent, this conference appointed a Central Committee, with a quorum located at Geneva, effected an organization, and have since carried on a work modeled upon that of our own International Convention.

Owing also to contact with the life and work of the American Associations, a young men's society (Christlicher Verein Junger Männer) on the American plan was formed in Berlin in 1883, and under the leadership of a competent General Committee similar societies have been and are being formed in the leading cities of the German Empire.

Summary. An attempt has been made to show:

First. That by the patient effort and experiment of many years and many workers, the Young Men's Christian Association, when occupying its best buildings and officered by its best secretaries and directors, proves itself an effective preventive agency for the welfare of young men in our cities, large and small.

Second. That when this work is most broadly planned in Christ's name to build up the whole man, body and mind, soul and spirit, then young men, instead of being so difficult a class to reach, prove readily accessible to Christian effort, and the best foundation is laid to bring the largest number of them under the power of the Gospel.

Third. That this Association is welcomed equally by the railroad manager, the university faculty, and the German-speaking merchant as an agency peculiarly fitted to promote the best welfare of the large and influential classes of young men found among the million railroad employés, among the students in our academies, colleges, and professional schools and among our German-speaking fellow-citizens.

Fourth. That the demand for this work for young men is immensely greater than the supply of either money or men for its prosecution, no one of our large cities being adequately supplied, and many having as yet made no provision for their young men.

Fifth. That efficient agencies to conserve, develop, and extend this work exist in the International and State Conventions and their executive committees, and that through their efforts the Association work in its best estate is being emulated and imitated in cities, large and small (fourteen new buildings being now in course of erection), upon the continent of Europe, and specially in the leading cities of Germany.

In the light of these facts, it is clear that if the condition of the young men in our cities contributes materially to make these cities "a menace to our civilization," then one excellent and practical way of averting this menace is for all good citizens to invigorate and extend the Young Men's Christian Association as an agency well fitted to elevate and Christianize young men.

Yesterday in this congress one of the speakers, alluding to the sad lack of attendance upon our churches, added as the only solution of the problem he could offer: "We must compel men to come in by the compulsion of love."

The mission of the Young Men's Christian Association has been very inadequately set forth, if, between the lines of this paper, he that runs can not read that the life of the organization, its vital energy and force, comes from the love for young men which animates and penetrates all its agencies. The blessed compulsion and constraint of this love we believe to be irresistible when it springs from the love of Him whose precious name the Association bears, for whose service it has been created, and on whose presence and blessing all its usefulness depends.

ANNUAL STATEMENT OF RICHARD C. MORSE, General Secretary.

At the nine regular meetings of the International Committee, held at its office in New York since the Atlanta Convention, and at all the monthly meetings of its four sub-committees, the General Secretary has been present. At these meetings the entire work of the Committee and its Secretaries has been carefully considered and determined upon. In preparation for these meetings and in carrying out the instructions of the Committee, the General Secretary has had conferences several times each week with the chairman at his residence, and less frequently with the chairmen of sub-committees; also with the various visiting Secretaries on their return from each tour.

An important part of the preparation for the regular meetings of the Committee and sub-committees, has consisted of correspondence by the General Secretary, relating to the tour and work of each of the visiting Secretaries. As a result of this correspondence, these tours have been carefully planned, modified and passed upon by the Committee. Similar supervision has been given to the office secretaries in conducting the general correspondence, in revising and issuing the numerous publications of the Committee, and in looking after the many details of the secretarial department.

It has been a year of unusual activity on the part of the Associations in the enlargement of their work in every direction. In connection with this rapid development, the call upon the Committee for counsel and timely coöperation, has required such attention and effort as have tasked its energies and resources.

In the State work, several of the State organizations have been severely crippled, and have urgently called for timely coöperation by the Committee. Through correspondence by the General Secretary, representation at the following State Conventions has been provided for, as indicated in the following table, from which it will be seen that at 26 State and Provincial Conventions, 44 representatives of the Committee have been present.

The calls for help in securing Association secretaries have multiplied and a larger number than ever before have been satisfactorily attended to.

The force of workers at the disposal of the Committee has been seriously crippled by the unexpected disability of its valued secretary, Mr. Thomas K. Cree. During the past year he has been unable to render any active service. Under these circumstances the Committee sought and obtained the coöperation of the following brethren as visiting agents, the service being, in each instance, rendered at the Committee's expense: C. A.

Licklider, secretary of the Lynchburg, Va., Association, visited Rome, Ga.; Opelika, Auburn, Selma, Greensboro, Tuscaloosa, Birmingham and Huntsville, Ala.; and Memphis and Knoxville, Tenn., making in all twenty-four visits to twenty places during October, and December, 1885. T. A. Harding, general secretary of the Washington Association, spent a month in visiting Hamilton, Ont., Memphis, Tenn., and other points in that State. H. F. Williams, of Minnesota, spent a month for the Committee in work it had been requested to do in that State, and also attended, on behalf of the Committee, the Indian Missionary Convention held near Sisseton Agency, Dakota, in September. W. C. Douglass, State Secretary of Massachusetts, rendered important service for some weeks at Indianapolis; F. De S. Helmer, of Atlanta, at Chattanooga and Mobile; G. T. Coxhead, of St. Louis, at Memphis and W. P. Hall, of Louisville, at Nashville; J. M. Barkley, State Secretary of Michigan, spent a month as the agent of the Committee in the State of Indiana.

In the college work the force of the Committee received special reinforcement and help from the very useful labor for four months of J. E. K. Studd, a recent graduate of Cambridge University, England. His report will be read with interest.

Under the pressure of this work the correspondence, and the personal conference and consultation required of the General Secretary and his assistants at the Committee's office, have rapidly increased beyond their power to give them the thorough attention which they deserve and would amply repay.

A special meeting of the Committee was held in Atlanta, immediately following the International Convention. The members present and the General Secretary remained two days in that city, taking part in starting the movement for an Association building fund in Atlanta, a movement which has since resulted in complete success.

At New York in December, and at Chicago in April, (at the latter city in response to an invitation from the Chicago members of the Committee) special dinner meetings of the Committee and its Secretaries were arranged for by the General Secretary. A number of the friends of the work were guests of the Committee on each occasion, and several hours were spent in a full presentation of the work by the various Secretaries, followed by suggestions from the members and friends of the Committee.

The correspondence of the General Secretary with the friends of the Committee, who manifest their interest in its work by contributing funds needed for its support, has been maintained and extended.

In preparation for the day and week of prayer last November, an extensive correspondence was conducted from the Committee's office with the Associations all over the country, and from reports received following that season, there was evidence of an increased observance of the time with more fruitful results. The number of Associations taking up collections was not much larger than usual, but the season itself is becoming, from year to year, more and more a blessed spiritual event in the work of a growing number of the Associations.

In response to an invitation from the Inter-denominational Congress, the General Secretary prepared and read before that body, at its meeting in Cincinnati, Dec. 10th, 1885, a paper on the subject, "The young men of our cities, and of what use the Young Men's Christian Association has been and can be to them." In reply to a similar invitation from the Presbyterian Social

Union of Chicago, he prepared and read at its meeting in February, 1886, a paper on the subject, "Why are the young men absent from our churches?"

Prolonged absence of the Secretary from the central office is more difficult as the work there increases, but he has made a number of visits to various Associations. He has also participated, as usual, in the preparation of the Topics for Prayer Meetings and spent several weeks, in company with other Secretaries of the Committee, in preparation of the "Outlines of Study for the Bible Training Class."

ANNUAL STATEMENT OF ERSKINE UHL,

Office Secretary.

Last year, like the former ones, brought with it new and growing demands upon the office force in the way of correspondence, aid to the traveling Secretaries, the compiling of records and statistics, the preparation of matter for the press and its distribution through the mails, and the reception of numerous visitors.

Each year the preparation of the Year Book and of the Topics for Prayer Meetings, involves an immense amount of painstaking effort. In addition to these publications, the College Bulletin, a great variety of circulars, etc., 67,110 copies of pamphlets have been printed since the Atlanta Convention.

In the building movement there has been remarkable growth during the past year, largely stimulated by the influence of the Atlanta Convention. Seventeen new buildings appear in this book. Some twenty are being planned, or are in course of erection; and many other Associations are taking initial steps in this direction. A suggestive floor plan of an Association building has been sent from the office to fifteen Associations, and as a result decided changes have been made in the plans of several buildings, which it is hoped will add materially to their convenience and adaptability to Association purposes. When to this aid rendered to the building movement from the office is added that afforded it by the visits of the traveling Secretaries, it is not too much to say that in the building department alone more help has come to the Associations from the Committee during the past year than was given to it in some of the earlier years to all the departments of the work combined.

J. T. Bowne remained in the office until September first, 1885, when he resigned to take charge of the Association department of the School for Christian Workers, at Springfield, Mass. P. Augustus Wieting re-entered the office July first, and has since been occupied with correspondence and the preparation of printed matter. C. M. Thorpe has charge of the copyists and other occasional clerical help, of the books and accounts, of the orders for publications, and a host of other details. His prompt and patient attention to these matters adds greatly to the comfort and efficiency of the work in the office. Robert Johnston has rendered useful service as general assistant since January first.

The secretarial work carried on by Mr. Bowne until September first, has since that date fallen to me. Much valuable help has been rendered by Charles E. Corwin, especially in the records and the correspondence of this department, as well as in the general office work, since April fifteenth, 1885.

The work of the Committee in its secretarial department is three-fold: First, To investigate the qualifications of candidates suggested; Second, To recommend to such as seem to have gifts in this direction, what appears to be the best line of preparation for each; Third, To furnish to Associations seeking secretaries (or to State Committees acting in their behalf) information regarding men who appear suitable for the places, so that correspondence may be carried on intelligently between the two parties. This work then is advisory. The decisions are made by others.

Much work in the secretarial department has been done by the agents of the Committee on their tours, which has not been recorded in the office, but the statements which follow are derived from the office records.

During the year closing April first, applications were made to the Committee to assist in filling 145 places. 56 of these were supplied with men through our suggestion, 53 were filled without our agency, 20 have not been filled because the Associations making them were not ready to act upon the suggestions they had solicited, and 16 are still on file because suitable men have not been found to fill them. The demand for qualified men is continually in excess of the supply.

257 young men who presented themselves as candidates for the secretaryship, or were suggested as likely to be useful in it, have been communicated with either in person or by correspondence. Of this number 94 found places in the work—88 through their own efforts or those of their friends; 56 through the suggestion of the Committee; 106 were dropped after a thorough investigation, and 27 are now registered, some of whom have been suggested to places, while others might be if they would take a course of preparation.

Of the 56 men who have entered the work through our suggestion during the year,

New England	"	16	"	18,
Middle States	"	17	"	18,
Southern States	"	7	"	10.
Western States	"	13	"	14,

32 of these 56 had previously had some experience in secretarial work and the other 24 were new men. 39 entered as general secretaries and 12 as assistants, 4 as State Secretaries and 1 as Assistant State Secretary.

Two features of the work of the past year call for special notice.

The first is the growing appreciation on the part of the Associations of the qualities required in a general secretary. This often leads even small Associations to insist upon a standard of excellence and an amount of actual experience in the men with whom they are willing to open correspondence on this subject, which is almost beyond human reach and practically keeps many promising men out of the work. And it is needless to say that the position of the Committee, always delicate and difficult, is made far more so by such demands.

The second offers a solution of this difficulty which promises to be satisfactory, but which it is feared must be partial for a long time to come. I refer to the School for Christian Workers, which has just entered its new and commodious building, having opened its full course of instruction last September. The outline of study prepared under the direction of the Committee in former years (and still used with great profit by candidates in various parts of the country) has there been enlarged and supplemented by instruction in Bible truth, rhetoric, vocal music and gymnastics, while every student is carefully trained in practical Association work in connection with the different Associations in Springfield. All applications for admission are carefully investigated. Students are retained only so long as, in the judgment of the instructors, they give promise of becoming successful in Association work. In addition to the students taking the full course of two years, the school kindly offers its advantages, for the present at least, to candidates for the secretaryship who can only remain there for a limited period.

The following table shows the changes in different parts of the country in the number of Associations (including Branches) which employ general secretaries, also a gratifying net gain of thirty-seven secretarial points:

ANNUAL STATEMENT OF ROBERT WEIDENSALL,

Secretary.

Many things have conspired to make the prosecution of the Association work committed to my care difficult during the past year. Chief among these were the sickness and death of my brother and mother, as well as the affliction of my sister. The character and times of these trials doubled my burdens, and rendered me unfit for the work I had to do.

Notwithstanding, the Lord was with me, and a satisfactory work has been done, and of a kind that will insure larger and more permanent increase of true Association effort in the field in which I have been employed than that of any previous year.

I was present at the General Secretaries' Conference at Chattanooga, Tenn.; at the opening of the International Convention at Atlanta, Ga.; and at the meeting of the General Synod of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of the United States, at Harrisburg, Pa. All three of these in the month of May, 1885.

I attended the following State Conventions: Tennessee, at Murfreesboro, October 15 to 18; Iowa, at Davenport, October 22 to 25; Kansas, at Emporia, October 29 to November 1; Nebraska, at Hastings, November 19 to 22; Minnesota, at St. Paul, December 3 to 6.

These Conventions were in the States in which I was to labor most of the year, and my attendance enabled me to materially assist in planning for the most thorough Association work within them for the future. These plans included, at the earliest practicable time, the employment and continued maintenance of efficient State Secretaries by the States themselves, as the best course to pursue for the cause and all concerned.

The Tennessee Convention showed marked growth for the work in that State, particularly in Knoxville, Chattanooga and Nashville, the last of which has secured a large building fund; also growth in the district work of the State. The money to employ a State Secretary in Tennessee can be secured, and such an agent of the Associations would do a great work in that State.

The Iowa Convention gave evidence of the good work done by the State Secretary, C. G. Baldwin. There was only one thing for the Convention to do, that was to authorize the employment of Mr. Baldwin for another year, and arrange for the securing of the means to support the work. While the State Committee, through Mr. Baldwin, worked almost incessantly to benefit the local Associations, it did not put forth the effort necessary for its own self-support, and accordingly affairs were in a bad condition financially, notwithstanding the help rendered by the International Committee last year. It was therefore evident that the State must have the assistance of the International Committee, which was sought and granted. In my canvass I secured about $1,400 in addition to the subscriptions made at the Convention, and what the State Committee proposed to do. This made it possible for the Committee to prosecute its work without embarrassment. Iowa will need the help of the International Committee next year, when without doubt the work will become self-sustaining.

The Kansas Convention was a vigorous one. The work all over the State has been very wisely handled by the State Committee, chiefly by its chairman, R. B. Gemmell, and its secretary, A. Nash, assisted by the International Secretaries from time to time. $1,000 were subscribed in the Convention one year ago towards the amount necessary to support a State Secretary, but no suitable man could be found. In the last convention $1,200 were pledged, which with a balance of $148 on hand from last year, made about $1,850 for State work this year. There is no State Association work in the country with which I have been connected for the International Committee, which was in as good condition without a State Secretary, as that of Kansas. We looked everywhere for the man for State Secretary, and it was as late as April 1st, 1886, before the right man, Geo. S. Fisher, of South Bend, Ind., was placed in the field. I made a short tour of the State, after the Convention, under the direction of the State Committee, to help several Associations in need, particularly that at Lawrence, and to assist in organizing two new Associations, one in Wichita and the other in Arkansas City. I also visited the Atchison Association, and made arrangements for J. W. Hansel, of St. Joseph, Mo., to do the excellent work that he did for that Association.

At the Nebraska Convention, about $300 were subscribed. This with the $100 on hand, made $400 for State work. As no suitable man could be secured to help the State Committee but little of the money subscribed was collected. I had the honor and pleasure of dedicating the new Association building at Hastings, Neb., where the Convention was held. This is the second Association building in the State. The State Committee has done but little outside of what has been accomplished by the secretary of the Committee, Geo. A. Joplin. The growth of Nebraska, in every way, encourages me to believe that steps should be taken very soon for a State Secretary. In the next two years, if not before, the means, I am sure, can be raised for that purpose, provided the Omaha building is secured.

The Minnesota Convention was the best one for a long time in that State. It had the old time ring in it. This was, in a large measure, due to the faithful work of H. F. Williams, State Secretary. A new life was manifest in the delegates from every part of the State and from Dakota. I had been in the State several times before the Convention, helping the Committee in its finances, and with all the effort made by the Committee itself, it was obliged to come into the Convention in arrears. The delegates raised about $1,100 towards the amount required, including the last year's deficit. There was need of help from the International Committee, which was granted. I was in the State fully three weeks and raised $500. The condition of the St. Paul Association prevented the State Committee from securing what it would otherwise have done. This will not be in the way another year. A grand work is now being done by the Minneapolis and St. Paul Associations. Northfield has a good building and Minneapolis will soon have the means to erect a splendid edifice. There will be need of more help to carry the State Committee through this year. The service of the State Secretary is demanded on all sides by the Minnesota and Dakota cities and towns. Mr. Williams is on the borders of the wonderful northwest country, full of splendid towns and teeming with the best of young men from our own and other countries mostly protestant. How necessary that his work should be the best, and well maintained.

Of other States, I might say that Illinois and Wisconsin are doing a splendid work in every particular. Missouri has lost her State Secretary, but the work has not had a backward movement. Mr. Coxhead's work was well done. There has been a great advance in the three principal cities of this State, St. Louis, Kansas City and St. Joseph, due largely to the efficiency of the general secretaries at these points. Two new buildings are now in course of erection, one at Kansas City and the other at St. Joseph. A State Secretary will be secured when the Associations in these three principal cities are in condition to contribute their share to the support of one.

Kentucky is doing little or no State work at present, nor will it be possible for her to do much until the Louisville Association is in a condition to take the lead.

I have good reports of the Michigan State Committee and their State Secretary, J. M. Barkley.

I met and conferred with the following State Committees; Tennessee twice, in Murfreesboro and Nashville; Iowa twice, in Des Moines; Kansas twice, in Ottawa and Emporia; Nebraska once, in Omaha; Minnesota three times, in St. Paul and Minneapolis; Missouri once, in St. Louis.

I assisted the South Bend, Ind., Association in securing a building of its own by an address before a union mass meeting on Sunday evening, and in the personal canvass for funds with Geo. S. Fisher, general secretary, until $3,400 were secured. Also aided the Omaha Association in presenting its claims for a lot and building of its own in several public meetings, and in the solicitation of subscriptions until about $18,000 were upon the books. Made an address at the anniversary of the Minneapolis, Minn., Association, on the need of a building, which address, I am told, gave the first impetus to the present vigorous Association building movement in that city.

I assisted Mr. Olandt in adjusting the German Branch of the Milwaukee Association. Held satisfactory conferences with the Germans, and with the board of directors of the Association.

By request of a number of persons I visited the School for Christian Workers, at Springfield, Mass. Was very much pleased with it, and with its present outlook.

Met with the Executive Committee of the Western Secretarial Institute, to arrange for the purchase of a suitable piece of land on the shore of Lake Geneva, Wis., for a summer training school and encampment devoted entirely to the Young Men's Christian Association cause.

The following is a summary of my year's work:

I made 37 public addresses, 21 of which were on the work of the Young Men's Christian Association and the rest were on kindred topics. Among the Association addresses was the one before the General Synod of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of the United States; one before the young men of the German Branch of the Milwaukee Association; three anniversary addresses before the Minneapolis, Minn., Burlington, Iowa, and the Kansas City Railroad Associations; one before the students of the School at Springfield, Mass.; one before the College Conference at Grinnell, Iowa; one in the Opera House, Duluth, Minn.; and one in the Opera House, Arkansas City, Kansas.

I have traveled 30 095 miles in 17 States, visited 90 different cities and towns, some of them many times, and 48 different Associations. Attended the General Secretaries' Conference at Chattanooga, Tenn., and was present at the opening of the International Convention, at Atlanta, Ga. Was present and addressed two meetings of the International Committee, in New York and Chicago. Attended five State Conventions — Tennessee, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska and Minnesota. Met with the State Committees of Tennessee, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, Minnesota and Missouri, and conferred with parts of State Committees frequently.

Attended boards of directors' meetings at South Bend, Ind.; Omaha, Neb.; Wichita and Arkansas City, Kan.; and met with the finance committees of the Lawrence and Leavenworth Associations, Kansas. Had conferences with the executive committees to arrange for the securing of means for Association buildings, at South Bend, Ind., Omaha, Neb., and Louisville, Ky.

Much was accomplished by personal advice and correspondence that cannot be reported

ANNUAL STATEMENT OF THOMAS K. CREE,

Secretary.

During the past year, owing to continued indisposition, my connection with the International Committee as secretary has been little more than a nominal one. Prior to the Convention at Atlanta, I visited that city and arranged with the various local committees for the entertainment of the Convention, and for the prosecution of work to follow it. I also visited Chattanooga and arranged with the committees there for the entertainment of the Secretaries' Conference assisted in assigning the delegates to homes, and attended and participated in the Conference. Returning to Atlanta, I assisted in assigning delegates to homes and was present at, and took part in the Convention. At the close of the Convention a movement was made to secure money for a building, and I remained some two weeks to assist in this effort. The movement was heartily seconded by the leading Christian and business men of the city, and by the Atlanta Constitution, one of the most influential papers in the South. There was no occasion for soliciting funds, as the money—some $70,000—was given voluntarily by those interested in the object. In the early Winter arrangements were made for me to take up my work in the South, but after beginning it I found my health would not permit me to continue it, and I regretfully handed it over to other representatives of the Committee.

STATEMENT OF EDWIN D. INGERSOLL,
Railroad Secretary.

After attending the Secretaries' Conference at Chattanooga, the International Convention at Atlanta and a meeting of the International Committee, with its corresponding members and secretaries, in May, 1885, I visited Topeka, Kan., at the request of the president of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé R.R. Co. This company had opened reading-rooms and libraries for its men at every division station, putting up buildings for the purpose where necessary. These reading-rooms and libraries had been in operation about two years, but the results were not entirely satisfactory. As desired by the president, I laid before the general manager the means, methods, objects and results of the Railroad Department of the Young Men's Christian Association. The result of the conference with him was that he turned the building at Topeka over entirely to the control of the Young Men's Christian Association of Topeka, with a liberal appropriation for its support. After considerable time and effort to secure an experienced and competent railroad secretary, one was called and in October entered upon the work. He has labored faithfully and made some progress. Results have not yet convinced officers and men that the new method is so far superior to the old that there is no desire to return, but there is a strong confidence that the efforts now being made are in the right direction and will yet attain a degree of success impossible under the old methods.

At Kansas City the railroad secretary resigned. The acting State Secretary of Ohio, resigned that position to become his successor. Under his experienced leadership the work is vigorous and successful.

At Bloomington, Ill., there has been steady and healthy growth. A movement is in progress to secure a building.

At Elkhart, Ind., a two-story and basement brick building, 34 x 75, has just been completed. The faithful, persistent and self-sacrificing labors of the secretary, aided by a few faithful workers, and especially by the Ladies' Auxiliary, supplemented by numerous subscriptions from citizens and by generous gifts from two officials of the railroad company, assure a speedy dedication of a well equipped building, free from debt.

At Union City, Ind., the appropriation of the C. C. C. & I. R.R. Co., had been withdrawn because of the unsatisfactory character of the work. Another secretary was secured, the appropriation restored and the work is now prosperous. Its spiritual results have been marked.

At Hamilton, Ont., while attending the convention of Young Men's Christian Associations of Ontario and Quebec, a building project was launched, which has since steadily progressed and promises to result in an Association building worthy of the city. Repeated visits were made to guide and help the movement.

At Toronto, the way seems clearly opening for a re-union and re-organization of the railway work of two Associations, as the Railway Department of the Young Men's Christian Association of Toronto.

The railroad secretary of Fort Wayne, Ind., resigned to become Assistant Secretary of the State of Wisconsin. A competent successor and assistant have been secured, a city Association organized and the organization of the Railroad Department of the Young Men's Christian Association of Fort Wayne, completed. Its record of work is unexcelled and well repays all the time and effort and money expended at that point.

Many visits have been made to many points throughout the country where the work is progressing steadily, of which no special mention need be made but where aid and counsel were asked and given.

Much time has been given to attendance upon state conventions, secretaries' conferences, parlor conferences, meetings of state committees and local boards of managers, anniversaries, and in dealing with candidates for the secretaryship.

Many places are waiting, as they have waited, and calls of railroad officials and men for aid in organizing this department of work have had to go unanswered for want of time.

Noting the whole field and its needs, what has been done seems insignificant. There is work, urgent and pressing, North, South, East and West, which it is utterly impossible to overtake with the present force.

Much time has been given to preparation for the Fourth International Conference of the Railroad Department of Young Men's Christian Associations. held while this is going through the press, a report of which will soon follow.

ANNUAL STATEMENT OF L. D. WISHARD, College Secretary.

The first five years of the inter-collegiate work, from September, 1877, to June, 1882, were chiefly distinguished by extension, i. e., the multiplication of Associations; the next three years by development of existing organizations. The past year has been signally marked by both. Forty-two new Associations have been formed, which is a larger number than in any other year except 1881-82, while in no previous year has the work been so thoroughly strengthened as during the year just closing. The work of extension has been largely brought about by C. K. Ober, who has devoted most of the past year to the college work.

The work of strengthening has been effected in the following ways:

FIRST. THE WORK OF J. E. K. STUDD.—Through the personal influence of Mr. Moody, this gentleman, a graduate of the Class of '83, of Cambridge University, England, was induced to visit a number of our colleges under the auspices of the International Committee. The plan pursued was to have Mr. Studd spend from three to six days at a college, conducting meetings for Bible study with Christians, and gospel meetings with the unconverted. The account of his work appears in his own report. Mr. Studd's prominence in athletics in Cambridge, where he was captain of the university cricket eleven contributed to secure for him a hearty welcome from many students in the leading institutions of the United States and Canada. His experience in Christian work, in which he was also a leader in his own university, enabled him to accomplish results which can scarcely be over-estimated. He was intimately acquainted with the missionary movement which proceeded from Cambridge, and led several of her prominent men, including his brother, Charles T. Studd, and his friend, Stanley Smith, two of England's most prominent athletes, to go as missionaries to China.

He has carried back to England a knowledge of our inter-collegiate work, which we trust will result in the formation of an inter-collegiate organization among the colleges and universities of Great Britain.

SECOND. THE BIBLE TRAINING CLASS.—Such frequent calls for printed help for Bible study had come to the College Secretary for several years that it became necessary to prepare a pamphlet, as none could be found which corresponded to the wants of students. Accordingly several weeks last Summer were spent in Northfield, Mass., with Messrs. Morse, Ober and Brown in the preparation of "Outlines of Bible Study for the Bible Training Class." The pamphlet was published in October. The first edition of 5,000 copies was exhausted in four months. A second edition is now being circulated. The constant demand for the pamphlet indicates the rapidly increasing interest in such study of the Word as renders one skillful in its use in dealing with the unconverted.

THIRD. INCREASED OBSERVANCE OF THE DAY OF PRAYER FOR COLLEGES.—At the request of a meeting of ministers and prominent laymen whom I addressed last Summer in Northfield, Mass., at the Christian convention, conducted by Mr. Moody, I prepared, early in January, a circular of information concerning the college work, which was sent to 3,000 ministers for use in the churches on the last Day of Prayer for Colleges, which is observed on the last Thursday in January in the North, and the last Thursday in February in the South. This circular was also furnished for publication to the religious newspapers. The effect was an observance of the days in many places. In some churches collections were taken up in aid of the inter-collegiate work.

FOURTH. CONVENTIONS AND COLLEGE CONFERENCES.—I have devoted far more time to these than in any preceding year. There are now 225 College Associations in 31 States, 1 Territory and 4 Provinces in Canada. It is impossible for one secretary to visit over 75 of these in a year in connection with such convention work as has been done in former years. I have accordingly met students in a greater number of State conventions and conferences than ever before, in this way reproducing over a far wider territory the effects of a college visit. I have met 2,500 college delegates from 170 institutions in 23 conventions and conferences, also 3,500 students in college towns where 14 of these conventions were held. These 6,000 students will represent the influence of the conventions in their colleges. I have also made 62 visits to 49 colleges.

FIFTH. BUILDINGS.—The larger colleges are recognizing the need of a building adapted to the social and spiritual character of Association work. Since my last report, one such building has been dedicated, in Toronto University at a cost of over $6,000, and another is approaching completion on the campus at Yale, erected at a cost of $60,000. It will be opened at the begin ning of the next college year. The former was secured through subscriptions by the students, faculty and friends of the university. The Yale building is the gift of Mr. Elbert B. Monroe, acting as a residuary legatee of the late Frederick Marquand. Other leading colleges, including McGill, Williams and Hamilton, are considering the matter and the four College Association buildings—Princeton, Hanover, Toronto and Yale—will doubtless be followed by others in the near future.

ORGANIZATION OF THE WORK AMONG INDIAN STUDENTS.—One very significant feature of the year consists in the organization of an Association in the Santee Normal Training School, Santee Agency, Nebraska. The object of this institution is the education and training of Indians for teaching and preaching among their people. Mr. Elbert B. Monroe, while visiting Indian schools a year ago met the members of this newly organized Association, and was impressed with the importance of bringing about an intimate union between them and the students of our colleges. At his suggestion I spent two days with them in June, 1885, and received their Association into the international organization, and with the aid of an interpreter, Rev. A. L. Riggs, principal of the school, conferred with them concerning their work.

Another Indian Association was organized by Mr. Ober, in the Indian school at Carlisle, Pa.

The adaptability of the Young Men's Christian Association to college life has received one of its most striking recognitions in the recent union of Harvard with the inter-collegiate movement. There had been in Harvard ever since 1802, an organization known as the Society of Christian Brethren, whose name had become so dear to the Christian students that while sympathizing with the purposes of the Inter-collegiate Young Men's Christian Association, they were loath to change the name of their venerable society. After very deliberate consideration, however, the change has just been made. This recognition by our oldest university of the adaptability of the Young Men's Christian Association to its needs, encourages the belief that the value of such work will yet be recognized by the still older institutions of the old world.

ANNUAL STATEMENT OF HENRY E. BROWN,

Secretary.

Owing to the illness of Mr. Cree, most of my time during the past year has been given to general work in the South.

An urgent invitation to special work in Texas, was brought to the Committee at the Atlanta Convention by a pastor who came 1,500 miles for this one purpose. In response to his plea for some one to "come over and help us," I was sent to that State by the Committee in June, 1885, though the hot weather had begun to deplete the cities.

Within the last ten years the population and wealth of Texas have doubled, and its railroad mileage has increased four-fold. It contains five cities of 25,000 to 35,000, four of 10,000 to 25,000, and ten of 5,000 to 10,000, twenty to fifty per cent. of this population being colored or foreign speaking. The great majority of the business men in these cities are young men.

After my visit last Summer I returned in the Autumn, and again in the Winter and Spring. I visited all the larger cities, working in each substantially as follows:

After much private conversation with pastors and business men, several prayer meetings and a mass meeting, subscription books were started, pledges to become binding when $2,000 were raised. Lists of members were secured on a pledge of five dollars annual dues, provided the Association secured rooms well furnished and in charge of a competent general secretary. The soliciting committees met frequently and reported progress. The Association was gradually organized. Pastors and leading business men were consulted concerning the most suitable persons to represent the Christian business men of the several churches on the board of managers. About fifteen of these in each city, were secured to act on the board of managers. The influence of pastors, Sunday-school superintendents, editors, reporters, business men and Christian young men, was secured in favor of a generous effort for the salvation of young men.

Among the cities visited were Denison, Dallas, Houston, Galveston, San Antonio, Fort Worth, Austin, Waco, Lampasas, Sherman, Marshall and Corsicana. To most of these several visits were made and such aid rendered as was in my power. Associations now exist in all of these cities except three.

Good evangelistic work has been done in many of the cities of Texas during the year, and this has resulted favorably to the Association, and, in some cases, the people were induced to increase their donations to the Association.

About $25,000 have been raised during the year. Four general secretaries are at work in four of the five cities of over 25,000 inhabitants, viz: in Galveston, Houston, Dallas, and San Antonio. Fine rooms are being fitted up for the use of these four Associations. The aggregate membership, on the five dollar basis, of the two largest Associations is nearly 800. In San Antonio, with the help of Mr. Moody, a building fund has been started. Associations are springing up in all directions, faster than they can be thoroughly organized. Two Associations in towns of less than ten thousand inhabitants, are providing permanent rooms of their own, and in other smaller cities organization is being recommended upon plans adapted to their size and ability. It seems very important that Texas have a full State work as soon as possible. All plans are now directed to this end.

A training school for Christian workers in connection with the San Marcos August Assembly, is being planned where the Associations will be represented by delegates who will attend with a view of getting qualifications for better work on their return home.

I have also visited Little Rock, and aided the Association there, and have visited during the year the Colored Associations of Tougaloo University, at Tougaloo, Miss., and Wiley University, Marshall, Texas; also the general Colored Association of Little Rock; and have visited the following colored schools in the interest of Association work, viz., Leland University, Straight University, and New Orleans University, New Orleans, and Tillotson Academy, Austin, Texas.

I have corresponded with all of the 35 Colored Associations, and have prepared seven printed letters, sending out about 300 copies of each. I have also prepared for general use among all Associations, and especially for training classes, four pamphlets, under the general title of "Helps for Christian Workers," on the following topics: Revivals, Passages for Inquirers, Inquirers Classified, What is a Young Men's Christian Association?

ANNUAL STATEMENT OF E. W. WATKINS,

Secretary.

The direct and immediate influence of the last International Convention at Atlanta upon the citizens of that city, had much to do in shaping my work for the following year. The enthusiastic liberality displayed by the people in that city in their contributions for a building greatly stimulated the building movement throughout the country. A desire to follow Atlanta's example manifested itself in all sections. Calls for help in organizing building canvassing committees immediately became more numerous and pressing than ever.

After spending a few days in New England, Virginia and Tennessee, I assisted the Milwaukee Association to carry its building fund to $53,000, being three thousand dollars above the amount originally asked for. This building movement was a result of the previous International Convention and an object of effort during the two years which had since elapsed. Soon after, I visited Richmond and helped carry a building canvass to a successful issue. Later in the year, I assisted New Britain, Albany, New Haven and Norfolk. The Milwaukee and Richmond buildings are now in process of construction, and are to be exceedingly attractive and well arranged. New Britain and Albany are completing architectural plans. The New Haven canvass suffers from delay. The Norfolk canvass is going on successfully. It may be well for me to state, that the help rendered was not so much in raising money myself as in organizing local elements for active work. The method of operation is set forth in the leaflet just issued by the Committee, entitled "Plan of Canvass for a Young Men's Christian Association Building." I have also met with building committees or addressed audiences upon this particular subject, in Charleston, Atlanta, Selma and Birmingham.

The Staunton, Va., Association has bought a lot. Lynchburg is moving for a building, and Selma is now made sure of one by the generous gift from three ladies of an eligible lot, and by subscriptions from business men in addition to the $15,000 secured immediately after the Atlanta Convention. This Convention, by its thorough presentation of Association methods, awakened a new interest in our cause among thoughtful and conservative men throughout the South. They now recognize, much more fully than ever, that these methods are well suited to help the churches of the South in reaching her vast numbers of intelligent young men. I have given 94 days to this section. This promising condition of things is also due to the fact that the Associations are doing less general work and more definite work for young men than heretofore.

I have strengthened the railroad work, which is in an excellent condition, at Richmond, Manchester, Charlottesville and Atlanta. Through the influence of these Associations, railroad men in each of these cities have identified themselves with churches, and at Charlottesville the work affected the patronage of a saloon to the extent that the owner has closed its doors and left town. I am now making an effort to organize this work at other Southern railroad centres. Interest has been developed at Clifton Forge, Va., and Birmingham and Montgomery, Ala. Difficulties hitherto existing in the way of establishing this work in the South are gradually being overcome.

I assisted in re-organizing the Charleston and Selma Associations, and both are now exercising a helpful influence over the work throughout their respective States. I also aided in perfecting new Associations at New Berne, N. C., Savannah, Rome and Athens, Ga., and Birmingham, Ala., all of which are doing good work.

The South has long felt the need of at least one thoroughly organized State Association. The influence of such an example, many have considered, would be to the Southern States what efficient State work has elsewhere been; consequently I have devoted considerable time during the year to State work. As a result, Georgia has just perfected its organization, raised over $2,000 for its Committee, and put into the field an efficient State Secretary in the person of M. B. Williams. But not only this, Virginia, with its eight general secretaries—a larger number than any other Southern State—has perfected its organization, and relying somewhat upon the help of Maryland and North Carolina, is to engage a permanent State Secretary as soon as the right man is found. The money needed is practically raised.

32 secretaries are employed in the Southern States, 16 of whom came from the North, and 16 from the South. 9 Southern men are laboring in Northern fields, and 8 Southern young men are known to be preparing for the work. With two State Secretaries in the South the number of general secretaries will probably be liberally increased during the coming year.

I have devoted 92 days to New England, principally in strengthening the work in New Hampshire, Vermont and Connecticut. The Maine State Convention provided for three months' State work, which is now being done by A. E. Hines. The Vermont Convention pledged money for a few months' work, and George S. Avery is now laboring in that State. The Connecticut State Committee made a better report at their last Convention than at any other period of its history, and more money than ever was pledged by the Convention to continue Mr. Lawrence's services. The substantial growth of the work in this State is worthy of special note. 13 general secretaries and 4 or 5 assistant secretaries are now employed as compared with 3 secretaries at the beginning of Mr. Lawrence's engagement.

I assisted the Bridgeport Association at the beginning of its fiscal year, to put into operation the main features of the "Plan of Canvass for a Building," just referred to, which resulted in securing over $3,000 for current expenses. Only two conferences were held, (after the assignments were made,) with an interval of one week.

I attended State Conventions in New Jersey, New Hampshire, Vermont, Connecticut, Virginia, North Carolina and Georgia, and assisted in working up conventions in South Carolina and Alabama, which I am to attend.

I have been present at sixteen parlor conferences, held in the interest of buildings; six State Committee meetings; the dedication of the St. Johnsbury building; the General Secretaries' Conference at Chattanooga; and the International Convention at Atlanta. I have delivered ten addresses before women's meetings, and thirty-six addresses before mixed audiences.

Considerable time has been given to secretarial work, in advising, both personally and by correspondence, with Associations and State Committees needing men, and with men who might fill these vacancies.

ANNUAL STATEMENT OF CLAUS OLANDT, JR.,
German Secretary.

During the past year the German work has made marked progress: 1. The existing German Branches have become more firmly rooted, and are more in sympathy with the methods and plans suggested to them than ever before. 2. In two cities, Philadelphia and Baltimore, the funds have been secured to employ general secretaries and two young men have entered the work. 3. Building funds have been started in two places; Milwaukee has $2,000 and Philadelphia has nearly $1,000 subscribed. 4. The constitution for college Associations has been translated into German, and printed. Organizations have been effected in two German colleges, making, in all, three German College Associations now organized. 5. Striking and earnest testimonies to the benefit of the work have been given by the German pastors, together with their active coöperation. 6. In nearly every Branch the membership roll shows a decided increase.

Considerable time has been devoted to developing and helping existing organizations. On this account the work has been started in but two or three new centres. Several large cities in the East and in the West have been visited, but it has been deemed advisable to postpone organizing till a later date.

A large portion of my time has been given to Philadelphia, Baltimore and Milwaukee, in raising the necessary means to employ general secretaries, and in securing subscriptions for the proposed buildings.

Through the liberality of Mr. James Stokes, two German young men were enabled to spend a few weeks in the School for Christian Workers, at Springfield, Mass.

ANNUAL STATEMENT OF C. K. OBER,
Secretary.

My time during the past year, from April 1st, '85, to April 1st, '86, has been devoted largely to college work in Maine, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Tennessee and North Carolina. In these States I have visited fifty-one (51) colleges, organizing Associations in twelve (12) of them. This work of organization has been chiefly in Kansas and Minnesota, and has comprised a variety of institutions, viz.: the State University and the State Agricultural College of Kansas, denominational universities and colleges, normal schools, both State and independent, the Indian school at Carlisle, Pa., and the Albany Medical College.

I conducted conferences of college students in connection with the International Convention at Atlanta, and the State Conventions in Wisconsin, Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Michigan and Ohio, and attended the Eastern and Central Pennsylvania College Conference at Carlisle, Pa. In addition to my college visitation and organization and my attendance at conventions, I have given during the year twelve and one-half weeks to general work.

In Tennessee I paid two visits to Memphis in the interest of the city Association, and spent a week with the Jackson Association in a successful effort to raise money for a year's work with a general secretary.

In Indiana I spent three and one-half weeks, visiting Indianapolis three times, Union City twice, and spending between two and three weeks in New Albany. My work in Indianapolis was chiefly with reference to the securing of a new building for the city Association. I also represented the International Committee at an important meeting of the Indiana State Committee in December. In Union City I spent a Sunday with the Railroad Association in June, and in January spent half a day in conference with the president and general secretary about the financial situation, and arranged for assistance from the State Committee. At New Albany I found the Association doing a good work, but occupying poorly furnished rooms and in debt for current expenses. I spent several weeks there in assisting the board of directors in relieving the necessities of the Association and establishing it upon a firm basis. Several conferences were held in the interest of a building, but it was finally decided that the time had not arrived for such an effort.

In Brooklyn, N. Y., I spent two weeks, December 8th to 22d, in connection with and following Mr. Moody's eight days meetings for young men, in the new Association building.

In Ohio I gave five and one-half weeks to general work, acting in the capacity of State Secretary. My first visit was preliminary to and in connection with the State Convention, held at Oberlin, February 11th to 15th. My second visit was from March 12th to April 2d. Although my mission in Ohio was to "strengthen the things that remain," fill secretarial vacancies, and secure, if possible, a State Secretary, yet it was necessary to encourage a new work in two important cities. At Steubenville an Association had been organized and a young men's meeting started, but there had been no plans made for a broad work with a general secretary. I met with the Association and explained the present method of work, assisted in raising $600, which has since been increased to $2,000, and helped secure a general secretary, who enters upon his work May 1st. To Canton, where some young men had been holding, for several weeks, a large and interesting young men's meeting, I made several visits; assisted the young men in organizing an Association and in securing rooms, and directed in a canvass for subscriptions. The solicitation was begun among the young men, and at last accounts they had raised among themselves about $1,500, and efforts were to be made to secure $4,000 for the first year's work. I have sought and found men who gave evidence of qualification for the secretaryships of the Xenia, Canton and Youngstown Associations and for the State Secretaryship, and put the Associations and the State Committee in communication with them, but with what result is not yet known.

In Northfield, Mass., during the Summer, I spent several weeks with other Secretaries of the Committee in preparing the "Outlines of Bible Study for the Bible Training Class." This pamphlet and course of study has proved of great help, especially to the College Associations, and many new classes have been formed on the plan suggested. I regard the preparation of this pamphlet as the most important work of the year.

ANNUAL STATEMENT OF P. AUGUSTUS WIETING,
Secretary.

I re-entered the service of the Committee the first of last July. My work since then has been confined almost exclusively to the New York office. My duties have consisted mainly, in assisting in the extensive correspondence carried on at the central office, and in the preparation and revision of matter for publication.

Some little time has been given to outside work. I attended and took part in the anniversary exercises of the Bridgeport, Conn., Association; was present at the Maine State Convention, at Bangor, Oct. 21-25, 1885, and at the request of the State Committee, afterwards visited the leading cities of the State in the interest of the finances of the State work, securing a number of additional subscriptions to that object. I also conferred with members of the boards of directors of the Lewiston and Biddeford Associations, and subsequently was able to be of service in helping to secure a secretary for the former Association.

I assisted in opening the way for a secretary at Peekskill, N. Y.; aided in the organization of Associations at Ellenville and Greenpoint, N. Y.; addressed a public meeting in the interest of the Association at Unadilla, N. Y.; and during the absence at the South, in the service of the Committee, of the State Secretary of New York, attended to the correspondence in his field and assisted in arranging for the State Convention at Elmira, which meeting I also attended.

I visited Wilmington, Del., to confer with a committee of gentlemen interested in the organization of an Association in that city.

STATEMENT OF J. E. K. STUDD.

Mr. D. L. Moody last summer, at Northfield, was much stirred by hearing of the way God had led and used those young men who recently left our University of Cambridge for the mission fields of China. He felt strongly that such testimony of blessing on consecrated lives was greatly needed, and urged my giving account of it amongst students in your colleges. To this I agreed, and God certainly did bless it to convince men of the reality of unseen things, and many a Christian man was led not only to a life of more devotion to God in college, but to make his whole life a subject of prayer to God as to what He would have him do. It seemed a new light to many not to consider only what would be a prosperous profession, and more than one owned to having been "seeking great things for himself," forgetting our Lord's command, "Seek ye first the kingdom of God * * * and all these things shall be added unto you." In my interview with the students I was impressed with their need of more Bible study, and therefore arranged in each place for half-hour Bible readings daily. These were usually very well attended. During those half hours I tried to interest the students in their Bibles, sometimes running rapidly through a Bible subject; sometimes through Old Testament types, etc., and it was interesting to see them getting thirsty for more knowledge of the Word and owning that it was a new book to them. I liked the expression used by some of the students, "We are quite in love with the Bible," and they certainly proved it by determining, instead of giving a great deal of time to secular studies during their vacation as intended, to devote themselves to "having a good time over the Bible."

The features of the work varied a good deal in different places. In some colleges the awakening in Bible study first mentioned was most prominent; in others the quickening of God's children resulting in more consecration of life to God and more personal work in college; whilst in others conversions were most prominent. God certainly uses strange and varied means of drawing souls to Himself, and we came across a very curious instance in one of the colleges.

A young man of good ability, but of decidedly sceptical views, had, ever since reading "Tom Brown's School Days," longed to see some specimen of an English schoolboy, and when it was announced that a Cambridge graduate was to hold meetings, curiosity alone drew him one evening to hear an address. The word reached his heart and he decided for Christ, and is, I hear, going on well. It was a source of great encouragement to the Christian young men of his college, for they had been making this friend a subject of special prayer, with apparently no result, for some months, so that when the answer came, their joy knew no bounds, and they began to pray for other fellow students.

I found it always most important to press the necessity for the new birth, as taught in the third chapter of John's Gospel, and it was generally the means of awakening and bringing true peace to some. As I write, I have in mind one who had joined the Church some years back. He never thought anything further was needful until one evening he came to a meeting where I was speaking on this very subject. The young man's look of distress and interest was noticed by some present, but not till several nights later did he own that he found he was standing on a wrong foundation, and had been working up to life instead of from life. That night he accepted Christ, and now says that he never has known such happiness as he now experiences.

As I regard your college Association work, the chief line on which interest needs awakening seems to be that of Bible Study, not theological, but personal, practical study. Your Training Classes are invaluable if well looked after, and the plan detailed in the "Outlines of Bible Study" carried out. I am looking forward to commencing a class in connection with my work and workers in London, and propose, if possible, making each member of my class eventually a teacher of another class. Your organization is admirable, and all effort, I think, should be now directed to seeing that organization carried into practical effect without allowing the College Association to become too dependent on external aid. I cannot tell you what a happy time those four months were that I spent in this college work, and how I thanked God for allowing me to witness such things. I need hardly add that the students of America will for some time to come be much in our sympathies and prayers. I cannot close my report without mentioning the kindness and hospitality we received everywhere, and the sympathy and co-operation of many of the faculty in so many of the colleges, but for which the work might have been very much more difficult. The following is a summary of my visitation and work:

Visited the following schools and colleges: Princeton, Lawrenceville, Madison, Williams, Yale, Washington and Lee, University of Virginia, Pantops Academy, Harvard, Amherst, West Point, McGill, Union, Cornell, University of Wisconsin, Illinois State Normal University, Illinois Wesleyan University, University of Toronto, Queen's, So. Carolina, University City of New York, Colored University at Atlanta and Clark's.

Also visited the cities of Philadelphia, Boston, New York, Chicago, Richmond, Va., Charleston, S. C., &c., and addressed public meetings.

Was present at College Conferences of New York, Wisconsin, Illinois and Virginia. Attended Medical Students' Missionary Conferences in New York City, Philadelphia and Chicago.

Made nearly one hundred addresses, and gave forty-six Bible Readings.

STATEMENT OF THEODORE A. HARDING.

I spent the month of March, 1886, in the service of the Committee, at Hamilton, Ont., and in Tennessee. At the former place an interest was fostered in securing an Association building, a strong committee appointed, and the canvass entered into heartily, with promise of ultimate success. Nearly half of the amount asked for—$30,000—was secured the first week. The time in Tennessee was devoted principally to Memphis. The meetings held by Mr. Moody, followed by those of Messrs. Sayford and Towner, awakened a renewed interest in the Association. The need of a general secretary was keenly felt, as well as that of suitable rooms in which to carry on the work. Several meetings were held, at which the board of managers and prominent business men were present, and it was decided to erect or rent a suitable building for the Association. A committee was appointed, composed of the leading business men of the city, and they are now at work soliciting funds. Visited Nashville in the interest of the State work, also attended the Convention of the Associations of Western Tennessee, at Dyersburg, March 18-20. Nine Associations were represented by forty-four delegates.

Two Associations were organized, one at Mason, Tipton County, with fifty-five members, and the other at White Haven, with thirty-one members. There is great need of a State Secretary in Tennessee, and a desire on the part of most of the Associations to aid in securing one. There is steady growth of the work throughout the State.

STATEMENT OF C. A. LICKLIDER.

At the request of the International Committee, I gave several weeks to the work in the South during the Fall and Winter of 1885-86. In October, I visited Rome, Ga., spent four days conferring with the board of directors and made two public addresses, assisted in raising money to carry on the work for a year and selected suitable rooms for the Association. I visited Atlanta to confer with the representatives of the Committee, and spent Sunday in Jonesborough, Ga., speaking in one of the churches, morning, afternoon and night. I visited Athens, Ga., found all the churches engaged in union meetings, and met and counseled with the board. I visited Opelika, Ala., twice, organized an Association and spent a day trying to interest prominent business men in the work. Spent 5 days in Columbus, Ga., addressed the Association on Sunday afternoon and a large mass meeting in the evening, and assisted in raising nearly $1,000 to employ a general secretary, whom the Committee has since helped it to secure. I visited the State Agricultural College at Auburn, Ala.; addressed the students and conferred with the faculty. Spent a day in Selma, Ala., advising with representatives of the International Committee and addressed a mass-meeting in the evening. Visited Marion, Ala., addressed the Association in its own hall, the only Association building yet completed in the South. Spent a day and more, at the Southern University at Greensborough, Ala., and the Alabama State University at Tuscaloosa, addressing the students and counseling the Association in each place. I spent 7 days in Birmingham, Ala., reorganizing the Association and interesting prominent business men in the work. Visited Huntsville, Ala., addressed the Association and a large number of members of the Presbyterian synod, then in session in that city. Spent two days in Memphis, advising with the board and interesting young men in the work. In January, I visited Knoxville, Tenn., held a conference with the Association board and assisted in putting on foot plans that, it is hoped, will result in securing a building. In all I visited 20 places.

STATEMENT OF H. F. WILLIAMS.

At the request of the International Committee I attended the Indian Missionary Convention, held at Ascension Church, near Sisseton Agency, Dakota, September 23-26, 1885. This convention is held annually, and is composed of the missionaries, pastors and officers of the Indian churches, delegates from the various missionary societies, and representatives of the "Koska Okodakiciye," or Young Men's Associations, that have been formed in a number of the churches on the various reservations.

The young men held separate sessions for the discussion of the work of their Associations, and my mission was to bear to the Indian brethren the greetings of the Associations represented by the International Committee, and to make a careful study of the general plan and methods of work of the Indian Associations. Every opportunity was afforded for a thorough study of the work, and most grateful acknowledgement is made of the kindly assistance rendered by the veteran missionaries among the Dakota Sioux Indians, Rev. A. L. Riggs and Rev. J. P. Williamson. Several addresses were made through an interpreter, and profitable conferences were held in Bible study and kindred topics.

Careful inquiry and investigation concerning these Indian organizations brought out the facts: (1) That the work was begun about seven years ago, through the influence of an Indian pastor, who learned something of Association methods while attending school in Beloit, Wis.; (2) that the Associations were formed in the churches, and were kept subordinate to them; (3) that there were eleven Associations, with a total membership of one hundred and seventy-one; (4) that a definite and successful work for young men only was being done; (5) that, while doing Christian work and recognized as Christian organizations, they had not fully adopted the test of active membership; (6) that there was great eagerness to learn of the extent and method of Association work among white young men.

The results following the visit of the Committee's representative, which may be appropriately included in this report, are as follows: (1) An expressed strong desire on the part of the Indian young men to become identified with the Associations of their white brethren; (2) the subsequent appointment of a committee to confer with the State Secretary of the Minnesota and Dakota Associations, as to the manner of becoming a part of the State organization; (3) a change in the constitution of the Indian Associations so that they were placed upon an evangelical basis; (4) the adoption of the "Dakota Young Men's Christian Associations," as the official name of the Indian organizations; (5) the appointment of delegates to the annual convention of the Associations of Minnesota and Dakota, at St. Paul, December 3-6, 1885; (6) the report of the above delegates at the convention named, and the formal reception of the Indian Associations into the State organization.

Later in the Autumn, I spent a month in the service of the Committee in assisting the Association at St. Paul in a financial canvass for its current expenses, and to meet a debt incurred by a change to more commodious quarters.

STATEMENT OF J. M. BARKLEY.

On going into Indiana, where I spent a month in the service of the International Committee, I was directed by said Committee to report for duty to the State Committee. Following the instructions of the latter Committee, I began work in Indianapolis, seeking to assist the Association in that city in its canvass for a building fund. In this effort I spent two weeks. During this time I attended one parlor conference, one general meeting of the building committee, met the Methodist and Union Ministerial Associations, visited various churches and made five addresses, besides assisting the local committee daily in its solicitations of funds.

I then visited Rushville, for consultation with the Chairman of the State Committee and by his direction, I visited in turn, the Associations in Union City, Fort Wayne, Richmond, Madison, New Albany, Evansville, Brazil, South Bend and Elkhart, thus taking a tour around the whole State.

At each place I met, as far as I was able, the officials of the Associations and advised and counseled with them. The general plan pursued in visitation embraced these points: 1. to learn what work the Associations were doing and the needs of each; 2. to transmit account of each to chairman of State Committee for future use; 3. to meet the needs, as far as possible, at once, and give any necessary instructions as to legitimate Association work; (4) to afford aid in any other way that circumstances demanded and time allowed. This plan was faithfully pursued, and the notes made are nearly ready to be transmitted in convenient form to the chairman of the State Committee. In all, I made 12 visits to 11 places, travelled 1560 miles, attended 11 conferences and made 8 addresses.

REPORTS OF CORRESPONDING MEMBERS.

To APRIL 1, 1886.

GERMANY.

Association work in Germany widely differs from similar work in English-speaking countries. The societies which have been for many years in affiliation with your Associations have borne the name of Christian Youths' Unions; one of these, the Bremen society, has lately celebrated its fiftieth anniversary. But whilst in other lands the work is essentially a lay work, the German Associations are closely connected with the church, the pastor being in almost every instance the president of the same. This results from the fact that the ministers in our cities, towns and villages try to gather the young men, whom they have confirmed, for mutual Bible study on Sunday evenings. In this way most of our Associations are begun. These young men all being, as a rule, Christians, there exists only one class of membership, as every one can vote and is eligible to office. This system of Association work has been greatly blessed, for a good number of missionaries for the home and foreign fields have grown out of this institution. And I think we cannot be too thankful to our ministers, who have, besides their many other duties, so faithfully served our young men, and thereby the cause of Christ.

About three years ago a new phase of Association work was begun in Germany with the formation of the Berlin Y. M. C. A. (Christlicher Verein Junger Männer.) The distinction between active and associate membership was established, and thus the doors to membership thrown wide open to all young men, and a great many young men, who, as a class, were formerly not reached, are now brought into a Christian atmosphere. The active members show a missionary spirit and try to bring, with God's help, their fellows nearer and nearer to Christ Jesus, the Lord. Associations of this kind are at present existing in Berlin, Hamburg, Stuttgart, Reutlingen, Munich, &c., and employ five secretaries. Besides these, six of the old Associations, which do the same aggressive work, have now paid agents. Three years ago we had only five Association papers in Germany; at present there are seven, and two or three more are about to be started. The writer receives constantly letters from Associations and private persons from all parts of the country, who desire information about the work and who are willing to do all in their power to promote the Kingdom of Christ among the young men of their communities. Within the last three years the number of the Juengling's Vereine in Berlin has grown from 12 to 22, and in the whole of Germany there are now 650, being an increase of 88 in the last year.

Tabular lists of these Associations will form, as usual, part of your Year Book.

CHRISTIAN PHILDIUS, Cor. Mem.

Since the above report was written there has been established at Berlin a Central Committee of information for organization of Young Men's Christian Associations in Germany, placing of general secretaries, &c. Chamberlain

Von Ende, Count Waldersee and Count Bernstorff form the Committee, and Mr. Phildius has consented to act as its General Secretary. This latest Association movement is due to the wise counsel and efforts of Rev. Frederick von Schluembach, formerly German Secretary of the International Committee, and who, since he began his labors in Germany, has organized the Berlin Association, and rendered other important service to the cause in that country.

The following is from the "Jahrbuch" (Year Book) of the Berlin Association :

FROM THE REPORT OF THE PRESIDENT.—"It is a fact that, since the coming into existence of the Berlin Association, Young Men's Christian Associations have been organized in Reutlingen, Hamburg, Stuttgart, Colberg, Colbergmuende, Stockholm and London (German), and further, that several other German cities are about to organize Associations on the same plan."

"During the last three years over fifty Christian Youths' Unions (church societies) have, by letter, asked for information about the work. Such information has been sent to Leipzig, Bayreuth, Heilbronen, Stuttgart, Karlsruhe, Hamburg, Modritz, Oldenburg, Emden, Oppeln, Bremen, Meseritz, Halle, St. Johann, Liegnitz, Thailfingen, Pforzheim, Schleusingen, Altdorf, Bautzen, Kirchheim, Neudoerfchen, Stettin, Reutlingen, Braunschweig, Colberg, Strassburg, Elberfeld, Hanover, Breslau, Wiesbaden, Duesseldorf, Lintorf, Drause, Schaffhausen, Waldenburg, Altona, Rummelsburg, in Pom., Werther, Coennern, Wandsbeck, Eckartsberge, Danzig; also to St. Gallen, Bern, Wyl, Basel, Geneva, Clarens, Vienna, Amsterdam, Zeist, Copenhagen, Stockholm, London, etc."

"Many of the Unions have sent their representatives to Berlin to study our arrangements and methods. Several young men offer to spend some time with the Association as volunteers to prepare for the office of general secretary."

FROM THE REPORT OF THE GENERAL SECRETARY.—"An event of prominent importance, in our Association history, was the trip the general secretary made to America last March. That the American friends invited him to come over for the purpose of studying their plans and methods, and paid the expense of this great journey by water and by land, is to us a proof of the value that they place upon our work. This shall not make us proud, for we know that God alone can give the willingness and the increase, but, to the contrary, it shall be a spur to proceed further with all humility on the way taken in God's name, and to show ourselves worthy of such proofs of friendship as the general secretary received in the hearty love and hospitality shown to him on all sides by Germans and Americans. May the Lord richly bless the friends on the other side of the ocean for all that they have done for the representatives of our Association, and so for our cause in Germany."

"Count Pueckler, too, a member of our board of directors, made a journey to the United States at the same time, and was one of our delegates at the Atlanta Convention. He met with such a hearty reception and cordial welcome in all the Young Men's Christian Associations he visited, even to the Golden Gate of the West, that he remembers the American brethren with great thankfulness, who, by their cordial welcome, wanted to show their sympathy for the German Association movement."

The Berlin Association has a building fund of 8,329 marks. The Association receipts for 1885 were 15,217 marks. The balance in the treasury January 1, 1886, was 88 marks.

HAWAII.

The membership of the Honolulu Association has increased during the year fifty-two, making a total of two hundred and ten. The Association has held thirteen business meetings, with an average attendance of twenty-nine. Committees on devotional meetings, temperance, entertainments, reading room and finance, have attended faithfully to their respective duties. Classes in book-keeping and in vocal music have received regular instruction. The reading room is supplied with fifty different publications, and has had an average daily attendance of forty. Numerous literary and social entertainments have been held. A noonday prayer meeting has been in operation during the year, as also a Bible class Sunday morning, and a Sunday evening service.

The receipts of the year have been $3,321, and the expenditures $3,270.

Mr. S. D. Fuller, the general secretary, is doing efficient work.

Much attention has been paid to work for boys, and there is now a splendid Boys' Branch. A pleasing feature of the year's work has been three entertainments given to sailors of various ships of war of the British navy.

The Chinese Young Men's Christian Association in Honolulu has dedicated a fine hall during the year, and is doing much good. The Associations among the native Hawaiians are progressing as usual. A. F. JUDD, Cor. Mem.

JAPAN.

Young Men's Christian Associations are being organized in two of the mission colleges, with promise of doing good. There are native Associations arising also in most of the large towns or cities of Japan. The one at Osaka has nearly all the church members as members. It has received for the purchase of a new building, several thousand dollars, from friends in New York and London.

At Yokohama, a Young Men's Christian Association has recently been formed. Its means are limited; and it will rent a cheap place for the present, hoping to enlarge as its membership increases. It has been suggested that an Association composed of both European and native members, would be useful.

Libraries are in process of formation in each of the Associations, and they hope to secure more periodical literature for their reading rooms.

I will endeavor to visit the different Associations and make fuller inquiry for another year, if it be in my power. JAMES H. BALLAGH, Cor. Mem.

TURKEY.

I have to report the formation of a Young Men's Christian Association in the Mission High School at Bardezag, (near Nicomedia, about sixty miles south-east from Constantinople) with a membership of about twenty. The leader in the movement is a teacher in the school, a young man of piety and influence with the young men. He has become deeply interested in the Association work, and is devoting himself, as far as he can and the way is open, to the development of the Association idea in this land. He is studying the Watchman and the publications of the International Committee, with a view to adapt to the people of this land the methods which have been found successful in Association work elsewhere.

MANITOBA.

Since my last report the Association at Portage la Prairie has ceased to exist, owing largely to the removal from town of very many of the young men who organized and carried it on, and whose loss was not met by a corresponding addition of new material.

Last October the Association at Winnipeg was favored with a visit from J. H. Elliott, of Minneapolis, who brought greeting from the International Committee. Since then the Association here has employed an assistant secretary and moved into more commodious and handsomer rooms, and is in good shape for work. During January of this year an Association was organized in Manitoba College and is doing good work.

C. M. COPELAND, Cor. Mem.

NEW BRUNSWICK.

The Associations remain about as last year, although several are not very active, and Carleton has suspended (we hope only for a time) on account of the Salvation Army occupying the same building.

Moncton and St. John employ general secretaries. Quite a religious interest has been awakened among our railway men, and at several points they hold religious services. We hope to have them represented at our annual convention, and it is likely that they will become united to our Association railway work.

J. E. IRVINE, Cor. Mem.

NOVA SCOTIA.

There are now eighteen Associations in this Province, most of them in a fair state of prosperity. During the year several of the places in which these are located have been visited by gracious revivals of religion, in the benefits of which the Associations have shared.

The Eighteenth Convention of the Maritime Provinces met in August last in St. John, N. B. There were present 88 delegates and corresponding members, representing 17 Associations. A very pleasant and profitable convention was held, from which the delegates went away determined to be more than ever active in the "work for young men by young men." The brethren were much gratified with the presence of the honorable chairman of the International Committee, Mr. Brainerd, whose genial spirit and wise counsel did much to assure the success of the convention.

A good work has been going on during the year among the railroad men at several points, and large numbers have been led to decision for Christ. This movement has been under the management of the railroad men themselves, and though not yet organized as distinctively Association work is the result of the labors of two young men now employed as evangelists, who were brought to God some years since by the instrumentality of the Association in the eastern section of this Province. The managers have been hoping for a visit from the Railroad Secretary of the International Committee.

W. B. McNUTT, Cor. Mem.

ONTARIO.

I am glad to be able to report that the work in this Province is in a very prosperous and hopeful condition. The Provincial Convention at Hamilton, Ont., Feb. 18-21, 1886, was the most successful yet held. The reports showed that much progress had been made in the various lines of work, especially in Bible study and training class.

The first College Young Men's Christian Association building in the Dominion of Canada, was dedicated at Toronto University, on March 8d, where a vigorous work is being carried on.

Representatives of the International Committee have aided us very materially on several occasions by their visits.

The total expenditure in connection with the general work in Ontario and Quebec last year was $1,035.

JOHN J. GARTSHORE, Cor. Mem.

PRINCE EDWARD'S ISLAND.

There are but two Associations on this Island, one at Charlottetown and the other at Summerside. The former Association has nothing special to report for the past year. Its work goes on quietly and at least it holds its own. The Association at Summerside was organized in July, 1885. It has been the means of quickening professing Christians and of reaching and influencing unconverted young men.

T. C. JAMES, Cor. Mem.

QUEBEC.

Two Associations have been organized during the year, one at Bedford and one in St. Francis College, Richmond. Good progress has been made in clearing the debt from the Quebec Building, and it is expected that the whole amount will be raised at an early date. McGill College Association is now petitioning the university corporation for a location on the grounds, and it purposes pushing for a building next Fall.

The Montreal Association is making special efforts to secure property and place a branch in the western section of the city. Neither the Grand Trunk Railway nor the Canadian Pacific Railway have any Association work amongst their employés in this Province.

D. A. BUDGE, Cor. Mem.

ALABAMA.

It is with great pleasure that I am able to report that the work in this State is in a better condition than ever before. Since my last annual report the Selma Association has been re-organized, and is now in full operation, with an efficient general secretary, and a building fund of $15,000. Birmingham has made rapid progress, and also has a paid secretary. Mobile is active and promises to be more so. Marion Association is going steadily on in its legitimate work for young men. Huntsville, Tuscaloosa, Greensboro and Auburn have Associations, and in other towns efforts are being made to put the work in a practical shape. A State Convention is called to meet in Birmingham 23d to 25th of April.

C. W. LOVELACE, Cor. Mem.

CALIFORNIA.

Looking back over the work during the past year, we have every reason for encouragement, and gratitude to our Heavenly Father for the unmistakable evidences of his leading hand. The work has steadily increased in all departments, and a larger number of our citizens are interested in this special work for young men in California to-day than at any other time since its organization. The Fifth Annual State Convention held in Napa City, the third week in October, was a grand success, one hundred and twenty-three delegates being in attendance. A constitution for the State Association was adopted, and a new State Committee of thirty members, all prominent business men representing different parts of the State, elected. Plans were laid and money raised for the employment of a State Secretary, who is now actively engaged in the field, Mr. C. S. Mason, late general secretary of the Stockton Association having been secured for this important position. He entered the work February, 1886, and is giving excellent satisfaction, and encouraging results follow his labors. With enlarged facilities for the work, a most excellent State Committee, harmony throughout the State, and a competent State Secretary, by the blessing of the Master, we expect grand results in our State this year.

Our greatest need in California to-day, is a larger number of competent general secretaries for local fields, many of which are now languishing from the lack of such officers. "The harvest truly is plenteous, but the laborers are few." There are twenty Associations in the State, three of which are in colleges. Eight general secretaries and five assistants are employed and there are three places where the office of general secretary is vacant. Three district conventions were held during the past year and two district committees organized. Work among boys is successfully organized in several Associations.

H. J. MCCOY, Cor. Mem.

COLORADO.

The number of Associations in the State remains the same as at the last report—four. Two general secretaries and one assistant are employed.

The condition of affairs in this field has rendered it impossible for the State Committee to enlarge the work, chiefly because we have no new places in which to organize where the work will receive adequate support.

The Associations in Denver and Leadville are doing excellent work.

G. C. HUNTINGTON, Cor. Mem.

CONNECTICUT.

The work in Connecticut has been wonderfully blessed the past twelve months. Through the efforts put forth many young men have been led to Christ, united with the church, and are now active in Christian work. The Associations in this State recognize but one line of work to pursue, and that is for young men. All but one hold meetings for young men only, and nine conduct workers' training classes. Eleven general secretaries and five assistants are giving their whole time to the work.

Norwich and New London have fallen into line the past year and now employ general secretaries, and Middletown is shortly to follow their example. New Britain has a building fund of $27,000, and New Haven one of $12,500. Most of the Associations in the State have charters exempting them from taxation on amounts ranging from $15,000 to $100,000.

The State Committee, numbering seventeen gentlemen, has held during the year five meetings, and wisely planned with the State Secretary much of the work that has been done.

The State Secretary, E. A. Lawrence, has been untiring in his efforts to aid the Associations, and has rendered valuable assistance to all those existing, beside organizing at Norwich and reviving New London. He also has conducted evangelistic services at Wolcott, Clinton, East Hampton and Higganum.

The Twentieth State Convention was held at New Britain, Nov. 12-15, 1885, and was attended by 116 delegates and thirty visitors. This was by far the largest Convention ever held in this State.

A work for German-speaking young men has been inaugurated at New Britain, a work for Swedes at Meriden, and some efforts for railroad men at Hartford. The only work for commercial travelers is the hotel work done on Saturday nights by the Meriden, Bridgeport and New Haven Associations.

A work for boys is carried on in Stamford, Bridgeport, New Haven, Meriden, Waterbury, Bristol and Hartford Associations. Meriden has a ladies' auxiliary.

There has been an increased interest in the Yale College Association through the visits of D. L. Moody and J. E. K. Studd. "Dwight Hall," the building which this Association is to occupy, is now under roof, and its completion is expected before the beginning of a new college year.

The State Committee closed the year free from indebtedness.

Numerous calls upon the International Committee for assistance have been promptly responded to, and several of its members and secretaries have rendered good service during the year.

GEORGIA.

The International Convention of 1885, held in Atlanta, had a very beneficial influence upon the Young Men's Christian Associations in Georgia and the South. The rapidity and enthusiasm with which the people of Atlanta raised the money for the building for the Association of that city, has had a wonderful effect upon the work throughout the State. We believe it is but a question of time when, in each of the larger cities of Georgia, there will be a handsome building dedicated to the work of the Association. In five of these larger cities, viz., Atlanta, Athens, Rome, Columbus and Savannah, the work is in a much better condition than ever before. The Associations in Athens, Rome and Savannah expect to call general secretaries before very long.

The work, as it now stands in Georgia, employs a State Secretary, three general secretaries, one assistant secretary, and one gymnasium instructor. At Atlanta there is a successfully conducted railroad department.

The State Convention, held in Atlanta in April, 1886, was attended by eighty-six delegates from different parts of the State. Great enthusiasm prevailed. Two thousand dollars were subscribed to carry on the State work. The demand for the services of State Secretary Williams was very general. It is the policy of the State Committee to organize slowly and thoroughly. The newly appointed committee already has its work well in hand.

The Atlanta Association now, for the first time, admits only young men to its regular religious meetings. The religious work of this Association is very successful, while the other departments are being well handled.

The International Committee has been a party, in some way or other, to almost every move we have made. The Committee has been very efficiently represented by Messrs. Wishard and Watkins, in conferences, in the State convention, and in general visitation throughout the State, while the Secretaries at the New York office have been called upon frequently for advice, which they have cheerfully given, and it has always been very valuable.

W. WOODS WHITE, Cor. Mem.

ILLINOIS.

The general condition of the Association work in our State is very encouraging. Our Associations now number 67 of which 22 are in colleges. The general financial support is better than usual. We are glad to report a large number of conversions among young men during the past year.

Our list of secretaries is as follows: two State, thirty-five general, railroad and assistant, two vacancies, total thirty-nine.

The State Committee numbers twenty-seven members, and meetings are held quarterly. Our State Secretary, I. E. Brown and Elmer E. Brown, his assistant, devote their entire time to the work. Their labors have been abundantly successful. The State Convention at Galesburg, Oct. 8-11, 1885, was the largest ever held, there being in attendance 209 delegates and corresponding members from thirty-seven Associations. Ten district conferences were held, each of which was full of interest.

A College Conference of great interest, was held at Normal in January, at which one hundred and twenty-four students were present.

We have the following work among special classes: nine Associations and Branches for Railroad men, twenty-two Associations in colleges, work among commercial travelers and fifteen boys' branches by means of which work is being done for boys.

The financial condition of the State work is improving with the special attention which the Assistant State Secretary is giving to this department.

The following International Secretaries have rendered us valuable aid: L. D. Wishard, at College Conference, Messrs. Weidensall, Ingersoll and Olandt, in brief visitation, and Messrs. Morse and Uhl, through correspondence.

A. T. HEMINGWAY, Cor. Mem.

INDIANA.

There are now in our State twelve local, seven college and four railroad Associations, all of which, with possibly one exception, are in a healthy and hopeful condition.

There are eleven general secretaries at work at nine points.

At our last State Convention—a very enthusiastic gathering—held at Fort Wayne, there were present representatives from twenty-two Associations.

L. D. Wishard conducted the State College Conference at Danville, which proved of deep interest and benefit to the college students in attendance. E. D. Ingersoll, C. K. Ober, W. C. Douglass and J. M. Barkley have, under the direction of the International Committee, rendered valuable assistance to our various Associations. The visitations of these workers were made necessary by the withdrawal of L. W. Munhall from the State Secretaryship and our inability to supply the vacancy. Dr. Munhall had served the State for twelve years and only resigned that his entire time might be given to evangelistic work.

During the year the South Bend Association has secured a $15,000 building, and Elkhart is about to dedicate its new building. The example of these cities has inspired our other Associations to hopeful efforts in the same direction and, as a result, building funds have been started at various points.

O. H. PALMER, Cor. Mem.

IOWA.

There are now forty-three Associations in the State—of which eleven are in colleges. Nine are secretarial points, but two are at present vacant. Several others are ready to employ general secretaries. Seven secretaries, three assistants, and two gymnasium instructors are employed at present, February, 1886.

The State Committee consists of thirteen members, seven of whom must be residents of Des Moines. The Committee holds two full meetings each year. The members residing at Des Moines constitute an executive committee, and hold such meetings as may be necessary. There are sub-committees on boys' work and college work.

A State Secretary has been employed since July, 1884. The work which is pressing upon the Committee is legitimate and in the line of permanent progress and there is much more than can be done through one man.

The State Convention was held at Davenport, Oct. 22-25, 1885.

District work is taking shape slowly. Three district secretaries have been appointed in localities where a cluster of Associations is found. The bounds of these districts are flexible according to the powers of the central Association. It is designed to make them small so that conferences may be held easily, which shall include every Association. It is believed that many small Associations will be formed within such districts and fostered by district conferences. At present, the district secretaries act under the direction of the State Committee.

The college work is fairly well organized and held its first College Conference at Grinnell, at which every college was represented, eleven in all. Three others, not as yet organized, were present by delegates.

The International Committee has rendered very efficient help to the State Committee by assistance at the State Convention and College Conference and in securing a financial basis for State work.

M. H. SMITH, Cor. Mem.

KANSAS.

Twenty-three new Associations have been organized during the past year, making in all thirty-eight in the State.

There are four encouraging features in regard to the work of the past year: 1. The work at the more important points has been placed on a firmer basis, making a number of strong Association centres. 2. Increased secretarial force, six general secretaries, one railroad and three assistants are employed. Another Association has called a general secretary. A State Secretary entered the field April 1st. 3. The Associations, as a whole, are largely engaged in definite work for young men. 4. The financial condition of the Associations has been better than in any previous year, fully forty per cent. more money having been contributed to the work.

The State Committee, composed of eighteen members, with headquarters at Topeka, hold quarterly meetings. Eighty-three delegates were present at the State Convention at Emporia, October 29th to November 1st, 1885. This was the largest, and in many respects, the best Convention ever held in the State.

A railroad department, with a general secretary in charge, has been organized at Topeka. A liberal appropriation for the first year's work has been made by the A. T. and S. F. Railroad Company. This is the first real aggressive work done by the Association for the railroad men of Kansas. It is expected, as a result of the success of the railroad work at Topeka, many other fields in the State will be opened to a similar effort in the near future. The college work has never been in a better condition than at present. Five new College Associations were organized during the year.

Work for boys is being carried on, with satisfactory results, by the Associations at Ottawa and Oswego.

At the last State Convention $1,200 of the $2,000 recommended to be raised for State work this year were pledged.

Valuable aid has been received from the International Committee, through its secretaries, Messrs. Weidensall, Ingersoll and Ober.

AUGUSTUS NASH, Cor. Mem.

KENTUCKY.

The report of Association work in this State for the past year is not especially encouraging, yet there are many things to be thankful for.

We have seven Associations. Three secretaries are employed, all of whom are engaged at Louisville. The efficient work done by W. P. Hall, the secretary at this point, has had a very beneficial effect, and the Association is now free from debt and making an effort to secure a more suitable building.

One of the assistant secretaries at Louisville gives all his time to the railroad work.

We held no State Convention during year.

A new and flourishing Association has recently been organized at Paducah. The State work is suffering sadly for want of a State Secretary.

We have been benefitted and encouraged by visits, from time to time, from several of the International Secretaries.

An interesting feature of the work in Louisville has been the organization of a Colored Association.

JOHN G. CECIL, Cor. Mem.

LOUISIANA.

The work in this State has made some progress during the past year, two new Associations having been organized, one at Minden and one for colored young men in New Orleans. A boys' branch has also been organized by the New Orleans Association with hopeful prospects.

We now have six Associations and branches in the State, with one general secretary and one assistant.

The New Orleans Association, in addition to its work in the rooms and at the hospital and prisons, has aided very materially in the general gospel meetings held by Messrs. Aitkins, Moody and Bliss, besides opening its parlor to the Pastors' Union and the Sunday school teachers' meetings, both of recent organization. These movements have tended to bring its work favorably before both the pastors and people, and we hope for even more successful work in the future. There has been no Convention or State work the past year.

CHARLES H. SHUTE, Cor. Mem.

MAINE.

During the past year there has been an increased interest in Association work in Maine. Six new Associations have been organized since my last report, making in all twenty Associations now in our State. The condition of these, as a whole, is very good, though some of them are not as active as we would wish.

General secretaries are employed at Augusta, Bangor, Biddeford, Lewiston and Portland, and at Auburn and Rockland like officers will be secured as soon as suitable men can be found.

Our State Committee numbers twenty. Several meetings have been held and a line of work has been entered upon which, we hope, will result in stimulating the different Associations and increasing interest in the work. About the first of March, A. E. Hines, formerly general secretary at Charlottesville, Va., became our State Secretary. We hope to see, as a result of his work, the starting of several new Associations and renewed vigor on the part of those now in existence.

The State Convention was held at Bangor, October 22-25, 1885, and surpassed in attendance and interest manifested, any convention we have held for a number of years. Particularly was this true of the college students, more of whom were present than ever before. College work is in an excellent condition and very encouraging.

Auburn, Augusta, Bangor, Biddeford, Lewiston and Portland are engaged in a very successful work among the boys.

The financial condition of our State work is good, a sufficient amount having been subscribed at the State Convention to prosecute the work determined upon by the State Committee.

W. C. Douglass, L. D. Wishard and P. A. Wieting, represented the International Committee at our State Convention, and rendered valuable aid. We are indebted to them for many timely suggestions concerning our work.

A District Conference for the eastern part of the State, was held at Foxcroft, March 21-22, 1886. It was well attended and proved a gathering of much interest and profit.

W. S. COREY, Cor. Mem.

MARYLAND, WEST VIRGINIA AND DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

We have twenty-three Associations doing aggressive work; of these sixteen are general, three college, three railroad and one German. Five general secretaries and six assistants are employed.

The Executive Committee consists of twelve members, with headquarters at Baltimore. Six meetings were held during the year, and the committee maintained a general and careful supervision of our field. The committee has been unable to employ a secretary, as was hoped, but considerable visitation was done by the members.

The fourteenth annual meeting of the States Association was held at Martinsburg, November 19-22, 1885, and was probably the best one yet held in our territory. Fifty-four delegates represented sixteen Associations. E. D. Ingersoll was in attendance, and rendered efficient service.

Conferences have been held at Mountain Lake Park, and at other places during the year,

All the variety of agencies used by Associations to meet the wants of young men are employed at our three principal points—Baltimore, Washington and

MASSACHUSETTS.

The Young Men's Christian Associations of Massachusetts have, during the past year, increased in numbers and efficiency. There are now in this State fifty Associations and two branches, forty-two being general, six college and two railroad. The present total membership is about 18,000.

During the past year Associations have been organized at Pittsfield, Dalton, Lee, Malden and the Institute of Technology at Worcester.

In nineteen different cities there are thirty-two secretaries and assistants, besides other employees. Two of the Associations in these cities have called secretaries for the first time during the past year, and at two other places the way is now open for the Associations to employ such officers.

There are nine Associations which own buildings, and several others have started building funds. The Cambridge Association has entered its new building, which has been well equipped and furnished at a cost of $50,000. The Charlestown Association, by large additions and improvements, has nearly doubled the value of its building. The Worcester Association has increased its building fund from $50,000 to $96,000, and will begin at once to build. Movements are being set on foot in other cities to secure the necessary amount for buildings during the present year, thus indicating a very general feeling in the State of the need of permanent homes for the Associations. The State Convention was held at Providence, R. I., October 8-11, 1885. The union of the State organizations of Massachusetts and Rhode Island was effected, the number of the State Committee was increased by the addition of two members from Rhode Island, and hereafter the organization will be known as the State Committee of Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

During the year there have been two conferences of the general secretaries with the State Committee in Boston; four District Conventions, one New England College Conference with Brown University, at Providence, and one New England General Secretaries' Conference at Springfield.

While not directly connected with our State work, yet from being so nearly related to it, it seems proper to mention the School for Christian Workers, which was opened last September, and is now well organized, and is attended by over twenty young men who are studying the work with a view to entering the secretaryship.

In April, 1885, W. C. Douglass, the general secretary of the St. Louis Association, became our State Secretary. He has rendered most efficient service.

At the Convention it was voted to re-district the State, increase the number of district conventions and place them under the direction of the State Committee. This work has already been entered upon, and will be completed before long.

The work among the schools and colleges has grown in interest and efficiency, and one new Association has been organized during the year. The railroad work in this State is necessarily limited, but there are yet some points where this special work might be profitably undertaken.

The State Committee has held regular monthly meetings, except during the summer months, and its members have been able to render assistance in the work from time to time as called upon. There are still a number of places where the way is or soon will be, open for Associations and general secretaries and, it is hoped, that suitable men can soon be found to fill these positions.

The International Committee was represented at our State Convention, at the College Conference and at the General Secretaries' Conference at Springfield.

S. B. CARTER, Cor. Mem.

MICHIGAN.

The number of Associations in this State is 26, a little less than last year, but the Associations remaining are in so much better condition than when my last report was made, that I am safe in saying that very substantial progress has been made since then. Our total membership is between 2,500 and 3,000. Among the college Associations, that of Olivet has been especially blest with conversions and so has, by God's grace, kept its record for "good works," as chronicled last year.

The Detroit Association, while very successful in its general work, has succeeded in raising over forty-four thousand dollars for its building fund, half enough to erect for it a suitable home. A lot has been purchased and plans for the building secured. It is expected that the fund will be completed and the building erected during the present year. The Grand Rapids Association has recently taken important steps forward in its work, and only a few weeks since, entered its own building, the first one of its kind erected in the State. The Association at Bay City, organized less than a year ago, has thus far made a most excellent record both financially and spiritually. The Lansing Association, which existed in name only a few months since, has lately reorganized and has secured pledges for fourteen hundred dollars for the work of the ensuing year and it is now looking for a secretary.

Nearly every Association has been quickened and inspired by the noble words and example of the State Secretary, J. M. Barkley, and these encouraging facts have been in a large degree due to his faithful effort.

Thirteen paid secretaries and assistants are employed including the State Secretary, eight of whom were secured the past year.

The State Committee consists of eighteen members representing eleven of the principal cities and towns of the State where Associations are located. The chairman and treasurer and a working quorum, reside at Detroit where regular meetings are held quarterly.

The work of the State Secretary has been largely in seeking to firmly establish already existing Associations, and in arranging for and conducting district conferences.

The State Convention at Bay City, February 4-7, 1886, was an excellent meeting. A constitution was adopted and the work of the State properly organized. The treasury of the State Committee was cleared of a debt of nearly three hundred dollars by liberal collections taken during the sessions of the Convention, and substantial financial encouragement was given for the ensuing year by thirteen hundred dollars in pledges, and the Associations were made glad by the assurance that the State Secretary would still continue his work. The presence of C. K. Ober was very helpful.

The first secretaries' conference ever assembled in the State, was held on the opening day of the convention, and a secretaries' institute of several days length was planned for the coming summer.

Early in the year the State Committee adopted a plan proposed by the State Secretary for dividing the State into five districts, and holding district conferences. Four such conferences were held previous to the State Convention, and they were largely attended in most instances and by some members of the State Committee, besides the State Secretary. They proved very profitable spiritually, and also added to the treasury of the State Committee one hundred and forty dollars.

The work among college students, railroad men, and boys has been hopeful.

The present condition of the State finances is fairly good. About eight hundred dollars more than is now pledged will be needed to carry forward the work of the year.

A. E. HAYNES, Cor, Mem.

MINNESOTA AND DAKOTA.

The Young Men's Christian Association work in Minnesota shows an advance all along the line this past year. The following comparative statement taken from the reports of 1884 and 1885, show something of the encouraging progress made during the past Convention year :

	1884.	1885.	Gain.
Number of Associations	10	28	18

In 1884 eight Associations reported a total of twenty-seven religious meetings each week. In 1885 thirteen Associations reported an average of fifty-one meetings each week. The total number of professed conversions during the past year was 379. The above statements do not include the eleven Indian Associations that were formally received into the State organization at the last Convention, except in the number of Associations.

Since the Convention in December, six Associations have been organized, in four of which it is expected that general secretaries will be employed this year. There are now in this State, four city general secretaries, one railroad secretary, five assistant secretaries and one gymnasium instructor.

The State Committee consists of eighteen members, and supervise a territory covering an area of 232,191 square miles. The importance of a division of this vast empire into districts is fully appreciated by the Committee; and this will be done as soon as possible. The State has enjoyed for a little over a year the faithful and efficient services of H. F. Williams, as State Secretary. The railroad work at Minneapolis, just organized at the last report, has proved a marked success, and work of the same nature is now being planned for St. Paul, Fargo, Brainerd and Winona.

During the visit of C. K. Ober from the International Committee in October last, Associations were organized in nearly all the colleges and normal schools of the State. Since that time good work has been done in each and their reports at the last State Convention were among the best.

The expenses of the State Committee for the last year exceeded the pledges for its support, $69.74. Some of the pledges have not been realized on account of misfortune to the individuals or Associations making them; the finances for the present year are planned to provide for such a contingency.

We acknowledge very gratefully the assistance of the International Committee through Mr. Weidensall, who gave to us most valuable aid in our canvass for money; through Mr. Ober, in his work above referred to; through Messrs. Wishard and Weidensall, at the State Convention; and through direct aid to Mr. Williams in his special work at St. Paul.

MISSISSIPPI.

The Association situation in Mississippi is about the same as it was when I last reported a year ago. There are but few Associations in the State and none of them very strong.

It was hoped that the influence of the Atlanta Convention, which had so good an effect upon the work in many parts of the South, would prove alike beneficial to the work with us, but I regret to say that this new impulse did not manifest itself to any marked degree in our State.

During the year the Meridian Association, the largest in the State, has added a considerable number of books to its library and has started a reading-room which is kept open every evening.

R. W. MCBRYDE, Cor. Mem.

MISSOURI.

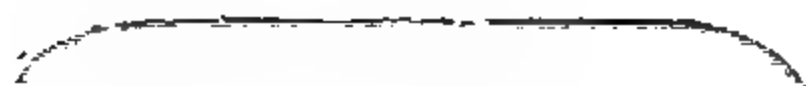

The work in Missouri has made solid progress since the last report was rendered. New Associations have been organized at Glasgow, Farmington, Brownsville, Fulton, Lexington, Clinton, William Jewell College and Central Wesleyan College. Three have died, Warrensburgh, Odessa and Neosho, making a total of 25 Associations now in existence. They are classed as follows: local 14, college 7, railroad 3 and German 1.

The principal development has been in the securing of building funds in St. Joseph and Kansas City, the opening of a new building in St. Louis and the securing of a general secretary at Independence.

The Kansas City Association owns a lot valued at $22,000 and has its building in process of erection, nearly the whole amount needed to complete it having been secured.

The St. Joseph Association has raised $50,000, purchased a site for $20,000, and will proceed at once to build, expecting to raise during the erection of the building, the additional $15,000 which is needed.

The St. Louis Association was long hindered in its work by reason of its poorly arranged and badly located building, but last fall it leased a spacious mansion in the best residence portion of the city, fitted it up handsomely and erected a gymnasium. As a result of this improvement, nearly 800 new members have been added and the Association has entered upon an era of prosperity, such as it has never before known.

The Independence Association has secured a competent general secretary, and has sufficient money pledged for a year's work. This is the first city of 5,000 inhabitants in our State to employ a general secretary. Pierce City Association has recently added a gymnasium. Sedalia has been without a general secretary for six months, but has just secured one, and hopes to recover lost ground.

The Ninth Annual State Convention, held in Sedalia last October, was attended by 130 delegates, every Association in the State but one, being represented. Messrs. Ingersoll and Ober, of the International Committee, rendered valuable services. We are also indebted to that Committee for the services of Claus Olandt, Jr., who organized an Association in the German Wesleyan College at Warrenton.

We have no State Secretary at present, George T. Coxhead having resigned last fall to accept the general secretaryship of the St. Louis Association. Our State work is now carried on by the State Committee, assisted by our general secretaries. Over $600 was raised for State work at the Sedalia Convention.

The total secretarial force of the State is fourteen, employed by eight Associations in five cities.

T. S. MCPHEETERS, Cor. Mem., pro tem.

NEBRASKA.

There are now nineteen Associations in Nebraska—a gain of four since last year, with no deaths to report. As the best indication of their prosperity, conversions are reported from nearly all of them. There are three general secretaries and one assistant.

The State Committee consists of seventeen members. It meets quarterly, and works by visitation, correspondence and conventions. There is no paid secretary.

A State Convention was held at Hastings, and though not attended by as great a number of delegates as the one held the year before, on account of the distance to be traveled, yet it was one of the most profitable ever held. As a result there were thirty conversions, and an Association was organized in Hastings College.

There has been no work among special classes except college students. There are five College Associations which maintain fraternal correspondence with each other. There are three Associations doing a work for boys. The finances of the State Committee are in good shape.

Aid was rendered by the International Committee through its Secretaries, Robert Weldensall and C. K. Ober.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

We have twenty-four Associations on our list. With peculiar obstacles to definite work for young men, we have, in some respects, made progress. Some of our Associations are doing but little, on account of active workers leaving the State, and some keep up their organizations hoping for better days.

Since my last report Associations have been organized in Whitefield, Wildwood, Laconia, and Colby Academy, New London. In Laconia $600 has been pledged for the first year's work. Some of these new Associations, especially the one at Wildwood, have had wonderful success. In Keene they have re-organized with bright prospects, and over $2,000 has been pledged with which to employ a general secretary and provide new rooms. Concord has a general secretary, and is doing a successful definite work for young men and boys. The observance of the Week of Prayer resulted in several conversions in their rooms. Manchester is at present without a general secretary, and under some embarrassments, but it is hoped the way will soon open for its accustomed earnest work.

The State Committee consists of thirty members. A sub-committee of ten is authorized to transact most of the business, and meet as the occasion demands.

A State Secretary and an assistant devote their whole time to the work. Considerable time is spent by them in conducting gospel meetings in different parts of the State, but they hold themselves in readiness for all strictly Association work that may be required. The thirteenth annual series of gospel meetings, now in progress, has been attended with great success, and many young men have been reached.

The Eighteenth Annual State Convention, at Lake Village, September 24-27, 1885, was attended by 170 delegates, among them several students from Dartmouth College and Colby Academy. It was regarded as the best Convention held for several years. Written reports were received from nineteen organizations; 110 conversions were reported from eight of these. An impulse was given to local Association work, as well as to our peculiar State work.

The Association of Dartmouth College was greatly aided by meetings held by D. L. Moody, during which there were several marked conversions among the students, followed by a renewed consecration, and much earnest, successful work by the members of the Association.

Some of our Associations are doing a good work for commercial travelers, and several are successful in boys' work.

The International Committee has ever been ready to respond to all calls for assistance. E. W. Watkins, by his visitations and suggestions, has rendered valuable help.

ALLEN FOLGER, Cor. Mem.

NEW JERSEY.

The work in New Jersey has never been in a more encouraging condition than at present. The past year has been fruitful in practical results, and the future is full of promise. There are now twenty-nine Associations in the State; six have been organized during the year, at Orange, Whippany, Kingston, Harrison, Peddie Institute at Hightstown, and Rutgers Grammar School at New Brunswick, and two have died.

Sixteen general secretaries and assistants are employed; a gain of three. Five years ago there was but one in the State.

The new gymnasium and hall of the New Brunswick Association is approaching completion, and ground will be broken soon for the new home of the Morristown Association. Though but a few months old, Orange has a membership of nearly four hundred and a building fund of $7,000. At Bridgeton new and commodious rooms have been rented and active work for young men begun, with a general secretary in charge. The work in Newark is full of interest and constantly widening in its influence. A branch has recently been organized at Harrison and the subject of work among the Germans is being considered.

The college work is well organized, and growing in strength and numbers. There are seven College Associations, in all of which there has been considerable religious interest. At Hackettstown there has been a marked revival, while at Princeton and Rutgers quiet work is constantly going on, with conversions and other encouraging results.

The College Conference, held at New Brunswick in February, was very successful, and stirred the Associations to renewed efforts.

The State Convention at Bordentown, in April, 1885, was deeply spiritual, and of great profit. We believe that the spirit of consecration there manifested has borne fruit in the present condition of the work.

The reports received, almost without exception, show progress in all the departments of the work, but especially in more direct and practical efforts for the salvation of young men. The State Committee is composed of fifteen members who meet at the call of the chairman, as business requires their attention. The expenses of the Committee are very small, and readily met by the Associations. There is a pressing need of a State Secretary, and it is believed that one will be in the field before the end of the year.

The International Committee was represented at the State Convention by E. W. Watkins, and at the College Conference by Messrs. Brainerd, Wishard and Ingersoll. Messrs. Morse and McBurney were present and aided in the organization of the Orange Association.

The State Committee, as heretofore, consists of 28 members, from various parts of the State, and has, as usual, held its regular quarterly meetings. The work done by its sub-committees has been effective, and has greatly assisted Secretary Hall in what has resulted in very encouraging progress throughout the State in general Association work.

The twentieth annual meeting of the State Association was held at Elmira, February 18-21. The attendance, 485, being larger than ever before.

The Secretaries' Conference was held at Binghamton, February 16-17, and was attended by 82 delegates, an increase of fourteen over last year.

Thirteen District Conventions were held at Mt. Vernon, Wappinger's Falls, Warwick, Kingston, Cohoes, Watertown, Little Falls, Owego, Olean, Corning, Westfield, Medina and East Carlton, with an aggregate attendance of 800, showing a decrease from last year of 82 delegates.

The State Committee has, during the year, expended $3,914.85.

While the work in the colleges and among commercial travellers, and German young men, has held its own, the railroad work has been making rapid progress, and is in a very encouraging condition. The railroad corporations of the State continue to appreciate the benefits derived from the railroad department of our work, realizing that greater safety is secured, and a better class of work obtained from those employes who are brought under the influence of the Association.

The notable accessions to the buildings of the State during the past year have been those of Syracuse, Auburn, Young Men's Institute of New York City, and Brooklyn, all of which have been completed, furnished, and opened for Association work. A number of other buildings are now being planned, and the Association work of the State is in a very encouraging condition.

HENRY DALLEY, JR., Cor. Mem.

NORTH CAROLINA.

Association work in this State is in about the same condition as it was when I last reported. We cannot hope to accomplish what we should until we have a State Secretary in the field. Our Tenth Annual State Convention was held at Chapel Hill, March 11-14, 1886. There were present forty-three delegates, and International Secretaries Watkins and Wishard, who rendered very efficient service. Several hundred dollars were subscribed for State work, and a new State Committee was appointed, with Thos. Hume, Jr., D.D., of Chapel Hill, as chairman.

J. G. HALL, Cor. Mem.

OHIO.

The State has thirty-three active Associations, sixteen of which are general, fourteen college and three railroad. Four Associations, to wit: the general Associations at East Liverpool and Marysville, and the railroad Associations at Toledo and Galion have suspended during the year, while there have been added three general Associations, at Oberlin, Salem and Steubenville. Nine general and three railroad Associations employ general secretaries. The total membership is 5,049, of which 741 are active workers. 1,711 members have been added during the year.

The Dayton Association has a fund almost sufficient to cover the cost of its new building, which will be a credit to the city, while Cincinnati has adjusted a vexatious law-suit, settled with the parties thereto, met every existing obligation, secured a title to its property, and already has a building fund amounting to nearly $14,000.

Fifteen of the sixteen Associations reporting have reading rooms, and several also have large libraries.

The social and educational features of the work has received proper attention. The religious work has not been neglected, though it has suffered in many instances through the resignation or retirement of local secretaries, and the inability of the State Committee to secure a competent State Secretary. C. K. Ober has spent several weeks at different times during the year in the State, and rendered efficient service.

In several Associations very satisfactory results have accompanied work for boys. A good work has also been accomplished among the inmates of penal and reformatory institutions, and in caring for sick young men in hospitals and at hotels and boarding houses.

The receipts from various sources were $887.40, which with the balance of $91.13, enabled the State Committee to meet its obligations and leave a small balance in the treasury.

The Nineteenth State Convention was held at Oberlin, February 11-14, 1886, at which were present three International Secretaries, six members of the State Committee, three corresponding members and representatives from thirteen general, fifteen college and three railroad Associations, making with the members from the junior departments, an attendance of 150.

WILLIAM McALPIN, Cor. Mem.

OREGON, WASHINGTON TERRITORY AND BRITISH COLUMBIA.

There are at present nine Associations in this field, five in Oregon, three in Washington Territory, one in British Columbia. Two have been organized during the past year, at The Dalles, Oregon, and in Pacific University, Forest Grove. The work in general is, even under the present disturbing influences, far in advance of any previous year in direct aim to reach young men. Four general secretaries, one branch secretary and one assistant are at present employed. The Executive Committee is composed of nine persons with a quorum residing in Portland, Oregon, where regular meetings are held. In March, Dr. L. W. Munhall and the chairman of the Executive Committee made a tour of visitation under the direction of the Committee.

The Annual Convention was held Oct. 7-9, 1885, at Tacoma, W. T. with 29 delegates present. The Convention was successful in every particular and good results have been apparent. The first College Association in this district was organized, January 27, 1886, by the chairman of the Executive Committee, at Pacific University, Forest Grove, Oregon, with twelve active and six associate members.

The finances are in good condition. The proposed visitation of an agent of the International Committee to this field was last year unavoidably postponed but is looked forward to with pleasurable anticipation by the Committee and the several Associations.

E. C. FROST, Cor. Mem.

PENNSYLVANIA.

The State Convention was held at Reading, September 24-27, 1885. There were 208 regular delegates present, representing 52 Associations. Six thousand dollars were pledged for State work during the coming year, and the State Committee authorized to secure an additional assistant secretary.

District conventions have been held at Titusville, Sharpsburg, Lancaster, Plymouth and Tyrone. These have been largely attended and the results are encouraging.

A College Conference was held at Carlisle, attended by representatives from the eastern part of the State. C. K. Ober rendered valuable help, both by his presence and efforts in preparation for it. The attendance was good, and the interest encouraging.

Since the last report general secretaries have been located, for the first time, at Philadelphia (North-West Branch), Carbondale and Johnstown. The way is open also for the same at New Castle and Titusville, both of which places have extended calls which have been accepted. Sharpsburg and Chester have also called general secretaries. Pittston and Pittsburgh railroad department are vacant for the present.

There are now fifty men in the State giving their entire time, as secretaries and assistants, both State and local.

In November last Mr. Moody held Christian conventions at Reading, Bellefonte, York, Williamsport, Altoona and Chester. Incident to his work Association building funds were started at some of these places. At Reading about ten thousand dollars were, or have since been raised; Williamsport, twelve thousand; Bellefonte, eight thousand. At Chester one man has pledged five thousand dollars, on condition that twenty thousand be raised.

At Philadelphia one man pledges fifty thousand and another ten thousand on conditions that the whole amount of indebtedness upon the building in that city be cancelled. At Harrisburg, through the generosity of a friend, a lot adjoining the present building has been secured, and it is proposed to erect a much needed addition. At New Castle the new building has been completed, and will soon be occupied. Efforts to push to speedy completion the building funds mentioned have been somewhat retarded, by causes which it is hoped will soon be removed.

The Harrisburg Association has been recently engaged in what is, in some of its phases, a new work, viz.: a systematic visitation of small places in the surrounding country, holding conferences with the young men in them, not primarily with a view to organizing them, but to stimulate and awaken inquiry among them, and lead to some line of practical Christian effort among young men.

The State Secretary and assistant have been steadily engaged in the usual work of visitation.

The Railroad Department in existing organized fields report progress.

The College Department has had a season of more than ordinary religious interest.

The young men's meetings held by all of our Associations, report a larger average attendance in the aggregate, than ever before. Many young men have confessed Christ in them and united with some church. At the time of preparing this report, gratifying news come from quite a number. In one city of 30,000 inhabitants the average at the young men's meeting for the past two months has been 300.

There are now 96 Associations in the State, and the number growing into continued usefulness and promise of permanence, is steadily increasing.

S. A. TAGGART, Cor. Mem.

RHODE ISLAND.

The number of Associations in this State is the same as last year, viz: five. All are doing good work and in some great activity and growth is manifest.

In October a joint convention of the Associations of Massachusetts and Rhode Island, was held in Providence and a plan of union in State work arranged for. Great benefit has already resulted to this State from the labors of W. C. Douglass, our joint State Secretary, and much more will undoubtedly follow.

The general secretaries of New England held their annual conference at Providence, in February, 1885, with great profit and pleasure to those engaged in our local work.

The New England College Conference for 1886, was held at Providence, Feb. 26-28, and was attended by the large number of 130 students.

An effort is being made to secure funds for the erection of a much needed building for the Providence Association.

C. A. HOPKINS, Cor. Mem.

TENNESSEE.

There has been a steady and healthy growth in the Association work of this State during the past year. We believe that the organizations in the smaller towns are becoming more permanent, and that more efficient work is being done by all the Associations.

Although no visitor has been employed by the State Committee, the Associations have not been neglected, but have been faithfully cared for by district committees in their several districts. The State Convention, last October at Murfreesboro, was the most practical yet held, there being also a more general representation of the Associations. Mr. Weidensall rendered valuable aid as representative of the International Committee.

Considerable interest is manifested in our district work. Each district has recently held a convention attended by some forty delegates. We are grateful to the International Committee for the work done by Messrs. T. A. Harding and C. A. Licklider, and for their attendance at these conventions.

Since the Atlanta Convention much interest has been manifested by the larger Associations upon the subject of buildings, and funds for that purpose have been begun by the Associations at Nashville, Knoxville, Memphis and Murfreesboro. The Chattanooga Association is soon to occupy a handsome suite of rooms specially constructed for its use, and furnished, free of rent, by a leading citizen.

We feel thankful to God for the increasing interest in our work.

JAMES H. COWAN, Cor. Mem.

TEXAS

The situation in Texas has improved rapidly during the past year, owing to careful and vigorous visitation by one of the secretaries of the International Committee, Henry E. Brown.

Dallas, Houston, Galveston and San Antonio are rejoicing in general secretaries and well furnished suites of rooms. San Antonio has $12,000 toward a building and hopes to secure at least eight thousand more in the Fall; Corsicana owns a large room and is getting ready to call a secretary; Marshall is erecting a three thousand dollar building; Waco hopes to call a secretary in the Fall; Denison has had a secretary part of the year; El Paso has organized and opened rooms. Several smaller towns have organized and are trying to solve the old problem, "How to reach the young men in places that cannot secure money for a general secretary."

We hope to organize a full State work the ensuing year and have already begun to receive pledges toward the support of a State Secretary.

W. J. B. PATTERSON, Cor Mem., pro tem.

VERMONT.

There are now eighteen Associations in Vermont, most of which are actively at work.

Our State Committee has fourteen members, who meet occasionally for consultation. At the State Convention held in St. Albans, Oct. 30–November 1, 1885, the State Committee was authorized to employ a State Secretary if the necessary funds could be secured. Several hundred dollars were pledged by the delegates, and the committee has since called to that position Geo. S. Avery, formerly general secretary of the Lowell, Mass., Association, who is now engaged in a much needed work in this State.

Through the efforts of the members of the Burlington Association an active Association has been organized at Winooski.

E. W. Watkins, to whom the Vermont Associations are greatly indebted, aided in the organization of a new Association at Middlebury, where enough money has been secured to employ a secretary. There are good indications of a reorganization at St. Albans.

The work among students has been actively prosecuted at Middlebury College, Vermont University, and St. Johnsbury Academy, and an Association has recently been started at Saxton's River Academy, Bellows Falls.

The work of the St. Johnsbury Association has grown considerably since it entered its new building. On the whole, Association work in Vermont is prospering.

F. W. SMITH, Cor. Mem.

VIRGINIA.

While the advance of the work in this State has not been all that we could have hoped, still on the whole it has been very gratifying. There are now thirty Associations in the State, four of which were added during the year; one has ceased to exist.

There has been a decided advance in the character of the work done. It has become much more definite in its aim, and therefore much more effective in its results than heretofore.

We have seven general secretaries, three assistant secretaries and one gymnasium instructor.

The greater permanency of the work is shown by the fact that building funds have been started in all the principal cities. Richmond has a fund of over thirty thousand dollars, Lynchburg one of nine thousand, Staunton, eighteen hundred, Alexandria, nine hundred and Norfolk, one hundred.

Our annual State Convention was held in Norfolk, Feb'y 18–21, 1886, and was attended by a larger number of delegates than any previous Convention held in this State. A State College Conference was held at the Washington and Lee University, Lexington, last November, and proved of great blessing.

We have a State Committee of sixteen members with headquarters in Richmond. The Committee meets frequently and has employed a State Secretary for five weeks during the past year with great success. At the recent Convention six hundred dollars were pledged towards putting a State Secretary in the field for six months during the coming year.

Railroad work is now being carried on at Richmond, Charlottesville and Roanoke, and two railroad secretaries are on the pay rolls of the railroad corporations of Virginia.

The International Committee has been of great help in the State in aiding in raising funds for the Richmond Association building and in rendering efficient service in connection with the State Convention and the College Conference.

WISCONSIN.

Wisconsin has twenty-eight Associations, a gain of four during the year. One State Secretary, thirteen local secretaries, six assistants and one librarian, make a total of twenty persons now employed by the Associations in this State. For the first time there is an Assistant State Secretary in the field.

During the past five years the number of Associations has grown from 11 to 28; membership, from 1,089 to 2,800; public reading-rooms, from three to sixteen, libraries, from two to eleven; Bible classes, from two to seventeen; meetings for young men only, from none to nineteen; and in money used in the prosecution of local work from $2,500 to $22,500; and in the expense of the State work, from $1,400 to $5,000.

Twenty-one gentlemen constitute the State Committee, which has held well attended quarterly business meetings. The sub-division of the Committee keeps the different departments in working order, and under constant supervision.

The State Secretary, W. E. Lewis, has completed his ninth year in the service, and in no year has his work been of so much value as the last. D. F. More, who has been secured as assistant, will be able to take much of the detail, leaving Mr. Lewis free to accomplish more than ever before in the general work.

The State Convention in Oshkosh, October 15-18, 1885, was the largest and best ever held in Wisconsin. 135 delegates and 41 corresponding members and visitors were present. C. K. Ober, and R. A. Orr, general secretary at Pittsburgh, Pa., rendered invaluable service.

The fourth State College Conference, held at Madison, January 22-24, 1886, was attended by nearly 100 students besides the students of the State university located there. It was conducted by L. D. Wishard, ably assisted by J. E. K. Studd, of Cambridge University, England; Rev. W. H. Marquess, of Fulton, Mo.; State Secretary Barkley, of Michigan, and State Secretary Williams, of Minnesota. A special feature of this Conference was the presence of many members of the Young Women's Christian Associations, who were led and helped greatly by Miss Anna Downey, of Batavia, Ill.

Ten district conferences have been held. This line of work is being extended as one of the most valuable agencies that can be used in interesting the people of the State in our work.

Nine of our Associations are in the colleges and normal schools, two among railroad men, one among Germans and one among Scandinavians. The German department, in Milwaukee, languishes somewhat for lack of a general secretary. However, the reading room is kept open, committees are working, and some effort has been made among themselves towards securing funds for a building. At North La Crosse an appropriation has been secured from the C. M. & St. P. R.R. Co., and in the near future this will be a very important point for railroad work. Seven Associations are doing work for boys. By a resolution adopted at the State Convention the name "Junior Department" was adopted for this branch of the work. An interesting feature of the State Convention was the presence of a large delegation of "junior men." The work among the lumbermen in the camps has been prosecuted vigorously. Mr. Knudson, the Secretary, with his assistant, Mr. Leimkueller, have done faithful work. During the Summer the tent was used at several points, and as the result of services held, there were many conversions.

The second annual gathering at the Secretarial Institute, at Lake Geneva, last August, was even more successful than the first. Land has now been purchased for a permanent encampment during each Summer, and the Institute will doubtless grow in power.

The amount expended in the State work during the year was $5,194.27. Of this amount $931.24 was on account of the previous year (including work among the lumbermen), leaving $4,263.03 actually used last year. This is the largest amount ever expended in the State work, and was raised with less difficulty than any other year's finances. More than half of the $5,000 needed for this year's work has already been secured.

The most marked advance during the year has been in building funds. Milwaukee's has been increased to $55,000, and Racine's to $21,000. Oshkosh has raised $20,000, and the prospects are very bright that these three Associations at least will be occupying their own buildings by the beginning of 1897. Some of the other Associations are moving and hope to show material progress soon.

C. B. WILLIS, Cor. Mem.

Statement of B. C. WETMORE, Treasurer, for the year ending December 31st, 1885.

YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATIONS

OF THE

United States and Dominion of Canada

EXCEPT THE RAILROAD, GERMAN, COLLEGE, COLORED AND INDIAN ASSOCIATIONS, WHICH ARE GIVEN IN TABLES V, VI, VII, VIII AND IX.

COMPILED FROM OFFICIAL REPORTS RECEIVED BY THE INTERNATIONAL COMMITTEE
UNTIL MAY, 1896.

The names of officers are the most recent that have come to the knowledge of the Committee, as far as convenience of printing permits their insertion. Some later changes among the paid officers of the Associations may be found in the List of General Secretaries, etc. The Secretaries' names in SMALL CAPITALS denote General Secretaries; those in italics, Executive Secretaries.

As many Associations prefer to report for their official years, closing at various dates, it is impossible to secure reports to any one date. But the reports are, for the most part, for the calendar year, 1895.

Further reports from many of these Associations appear in Tables II, III, IV and X.

A few reports, from Associations recently organized, cover a period less than a year.

* Associations which occupy their own buildings,—see Building Table.

SUMMARY.—Table I.

664 Associations report officers.
611 report an aggregate membership of 110,386.
570 report an active membership of 53,737.
465 report working committees with a membership of 15,435.
442 report current expenses of last year at $688,401.

YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATIONS

OF THE

United States and Dominion of Canada,

EXCEPT THE RAILROAD, GERMAN, COLLEGE, COLORED AND INDIAN ASSOCIATIONS, WHICH ARE GIVEN IN TABLES
V, VI, VII, VIII AND IX.

COMPILED FROM OFFICIAL REPORTS RECEIVED BY THE INTERNATIONAL COMMITTEE UNTIL MAY, 1896.

As many Associations prefer to report for their official years, closing at various dates, it is impossible to secure reports to any one date. But the reports are, for the most part, for the calendar year 1895.

Further reports from many of these Associations appear in Tables I, III, IV and X.

A few reports, from Associations recently organized, cover a period of less than a year.

* Associations which occupy their own buildings—see Building Table.

YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATIONS

OF THE

United States and Dominion of Canada, EXCEPT THE RAILROAD, GERMAN, COLLEGE, COLORED AND INDIAN ASSO- CIATIONS, WHICH ARE GIVEN IN TABLES V, VI, VII, VIII AND IX.

UNTIL MAY, 1886.

As many Associations prefer to report for their official years, closing at various dates, it is impossible to secure reports to any one date. But the reports are, for the most part, for the calendar year 1885.

Further reports from many of these Associations appear in Tables I, II, IV and X.

A few reports, from Associations recently organized, cover a period of less than a year.

YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATIONS

OF THE

United States and Dominion of Canada,

COMPILED FROM OFFICIAL REPORTS RECEIVED BY THE INTERNATIONAL COMMITTEE UNTIL MAY, 1886.

As many Associations prefer to report for their official years, closing at various dates, it is impossible to secure reports to any one date. But the reports are, for the most part, for the calendar year 1885.

Further reports from many of these Associations appear in Tables I, II, III and X.

A few reports, from Associations recently organized, cover a period of less than a year.

These Indian Associations formally adopted the test of active membership at their annual convention held at Iyakatapi (Ascension) Church, near Sisseton Agency, September 26th, 1885. Delegates to the State Convention of the Young Men's Christian Associations were also appointed. The Associations were formally received into the State organization of Minnesota and Dakota at the annual convention held in St. Paul, December 3-6, 1885.

All the Indian Associations have meetings for young men only. They have committees for special features of work, such as invitation, visitation of the sick, etc.

The Associations last year contributed $133.00 to local work, and $175.00 for support of missionaries among their own people.

Two conventions are held each year, the one in the Fall being the principal meeting.

There are two other Indian Associations, one at Santee Agency, Nebraska, in the Normal Training School, and the other at Carlisle, Pa., in the Indian School located there. They are reported in the College Table.

“I MUST DIE TO WIN.”—This is a common expression, used frequently in connection with life insurances as an objection to the ordinary life plan. “It is an excellent form of provision for the family, but I must die to win.” BUT YOU MAY LIVE AND WIN.—This refers to the Endowment plan, which meets the above objection. Take, for instance, a policy payable to yourself 10, 15 or 20 years hence. If you die before the termination of the period, your family wins. If you survive the period, the policy becomes at once a provision for your own advancing years. You have lived and won.

The “Manhattan’s” new plan meets the want. It retains the advantage of the endowment feature while reducing the net cost of Life insurance under the contract to almost nothing. For an example of the operation of this plan, address the Company, giving your age, and a statement will be sent you.

"THE ATWATER FILE."

FOR READING ROOMS, HOTELS, LIBRARIES, COLLEGES, &c.

The almost universal adoption in the United States and Provinces of this Newspaper File, is evidence of the most conclusive kind to its merits.

They are very generally used in the Reading Rooms of the Y. M. C. A., and the demand for them has steadily increased for many years.

I OFFER A FEW OF MANY TESTIMONIALS.

F. R. WARDLE, late Secretary of Ohio State Committee of Y. M. C. A., writes: "After many years' experience in furnishing and conducting Association Rooms, and after trying every file in general use, I can unhesitatingly pronounce the 'ATWATER FILE' to be altogether the best I have found."

F. H. WEAVER, Post Treasurer at Fort Apache, Arizona Territory, writes: "The ATWATER FILE is the best I have ever seen, and this is the fourth Military Post into which they have been introduced by me. If well treated the files will last a long time."

F. D. HATHAWAY, Gen'l Secretary Y. M. C. A., Leavenworth, Kansas, says: "The ATWATER FILE is perfect in its simplicity, and in its adaptation to Reading Rooms."

The Y. M. C. A. WATCHMAN, of Chicago, says: "We know of none better than the 'ATWATER NEWSPAPER FILE.' The Chicago Association has used them for many years, and is well pleased with them."

THE STATIONER AND PRINTER, of Chicago, says: "It is remarkable for lightness, simplicity and convenience."

World.

The only Type-Writer awarded a Gold Medal at the
New Orleans Exposition.

New York Juvenile Asylum, New York, May 1st, 1886.

THE HAMMOND TYPE-WRITER CO.

GENTLEMEN — After a trial of some sixteen months, we have come to the conclusion that the HAMMOND TYPE WRITER is indispensable to our work. It has worn well, and we have attained greater speed with it than with any other type writer. We have not had occasion to use it in the way of manifolding but judge it to be all that is represented in that respect. We are very much pleased with the machine in every particular, and verily believe that its equal has not yet been patented.

Very truly yours,

E. D. CARPENTER, Sup't.

Constant use does not disturb alignment. The automatic hammer stroke gives absolutely uniform impressions. It is unsurpassed in speed and will write over 600 characters in one minute. Its type wheels, comprising different styles of type, are interchangeable. It manifolds well. Its open carriage ends admit paper of any width. It is light, portable, strong, simple and durable.

For pamphlet and specimen of writing, address,

AN ACT

To Incorporate the International Committee of
Young Men's Christian Associations.

PASSED APRIL 16, 1883.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

SECTION 1.—CEPHAS BRAINERD, WILLIAM E. DODGE, JR., MORRIS K. JESUP, ROBERT R. MCBURNEY, ELBERT B. MONROE, MOSES TAYLOR PYNE, JAMES STOKES, CORNELIUS VANDERBILT, BENJAMIN C. WETMORE, JOHN S. MACLEAN, SAMUEL H. BLAKE, RUSSELL STURGIS, JR., HENRY M. MOORE, WILLIAM G. WAR- DEN, JAMES MCCORMICK, H. KIRK PORTER, H. THANE MILLER, TURLINGTON W. HARVEY, CYRUS H. MCCORMICK, JR., THOMAS COCHRAN, JR., GEORGE S. BROWN, WILLIAM P. MUNFORD, JOSEPH HARDIE, AUGUSTINE T. SMYTHE, JOHN L. WHEAT, FRANK L. JOHNSTON, WILLIAM T. HARDIE and ALEXANDER GUTHRIE, being the persons designated for the purpose by the International Convention of the Young Men's Christian Asso- ciations of the United States and British Provinces in accordance with a resolution to that effect of the Convention of the said Young Men's Christian Associations, passed May 27th, 1881, and their associates and successors in office, are hereby con- stituted a Body Corporate and Politic by the name of the International Committee of Young Men's Christian Associa- tions, for the purpose of establishing and assisting Young Men's Christian Associations, and generally to promote the spiritual, intellectual, physical and social well-being of young men, in accordance with the aims and methods of Young Men's Christian Associations in connection with the said Con- vention.

SEC. 2.—The management and disposition of the affairs of this corporation shall be vested in a Committee composed of the individuals named in the first Section of this Act as incorporators and their associates and successors in office, the said Board to be composed of not less than twenty-seven members, one-third of whom shall go out of office, and one-third be elected, at each of the said International Conventions of the Young Men's Christian Associations of the United States and British Provinces by the said Convention ; and if any vacancy shall occur during the interim of the said Conventions, it shall be filled by a majority of the votes of the remaining members of the Committee resident in the State of New York.

SEC. 3.—The said Corporation shall possess the general power, right and privilege, and be subject to the provisions contained in Title 3 of Chapter 18 of the first part of the Revised Statutes of the State of New York, and the Acts amendatory thereof and supplementary thereto, so far as the same are in force and applicable, and in accordance with this Act.

SEC. 4.—The said Corporation shall in law be capable of taking, receiving and holding absolutely and in trust for its general uses and purposes, and for any particular department of its work, and for any particular Association, by gift, devise, bequest, grant or purchase, real and personal property, and, with the consent of the Board of Trustees herein provided for, of letting, leasing and conveying the same, and shall also have power with the like consent to issue bonds and secure the same by mortgages upon its real estate and its improvement ; the consent of the said Trustees to be evidenced by affixing their seal to the instruments of conveyance and bonds and mortgages, and causing the same to be signed by their President and Treasurer, in pursuance of a resolution of their Board to that effect. And the real estate of this Corporation shall not be liable for any debt or obligation of the Corporation, unless the same shall have been contracted with the approval of the said Board of Trustees.

All devises and bequests, however, to the said Corporation shall be subject to the provisions of the "Act of the Legislature relating to Wills," passed April 13th, 1860, and the Acts amendatory thereto.

SEC. 5.—The said Corporation shall have the power to make and adopt a constitution, by-laws, rules, and regulations for the government of its business, the management of its affairs, the choice, powers, and duties of its officers and agents, and from time to time to repeal or alter such constitution, by laws, rules and regulations.

SEC. 6.—All real property which shall be given to or acquired by this Corporation, and all gifts and bequests of money to be held in trust, shall be held and managed by a Board of Fifteen Trustees, a majority of whom shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of all business. The Chairman of the said International Committee shall, for the time, be ex-officio a member of the said Board of Trustees. ROBERT FULTON CUTTING, BOWLES COLGATE, CHARLES LANIER, JOHN S. BUSSING, JOHN C. HAVEMEYER, JOHN NOBLE STEARNS, SAMUEL COLGATE, JAMES TALCOTT, JAMES CAREY THOMAS, WASHINGTON C. DE PAUW, HENRY J. WILLING, DAN P. EELLS, CHARLES W. LOVELACE, JONATHAN N. HARRIS and the Chairman of the said International Committee are hereby created such Board of Trustees, and whenever a vacancy shall occur in the said Board of Trustees, the same shall be filled by a majority vote of those remaining; and the income which the said Board of Trustees shall receive from the property under their management and the said property shall be devoted to the purposes of this Act and for no other purpose, and, so long as the said International Committee shall so expend the same, the Board of Trustees shall pay over to the Treasurer of the said Corporation the income of the property of this Corporation so managed by them.

REPORT

To the Twenty-seventh International Convention of the Young Men's Christian Associations.

The International Committee submits the following as its seventeenth report, which covers the period since the Atlanta Convention, May, 1885. The seventeen reports cover the entire period of the Committee's service, namely, twenty-one years, beginning in June, 1866.

I. The Eleventh Annual Convention of the Young Men's Christian Associations of the United States and British Provinces convened at Albany, on the second day of June, 1866. The previous Convention, held in Philadelphia, June, 1865, had appointed as the Executive Committee for that year, Alfred Taylor, Peter B. Simons, George Cookman, James Grant and Henry C. Pollock, of Philadelphia. That Committee, reporting to the Albany Convention, gave general statistics regarding sixty-five Associations. A reference to the statistical statement embraced in their report will show the meagerness of the information then possessed regarding the Associations on the continent; great efforts had been made by the Committee to secure full information. This report contained two recommendations of special importance. One: That the Executive Committee should be appointed for a term of say five years, and permanently located in some city where an Association existed; Two, That a fund should be provided which would enable the new Committee to carry on a work more at large than any which the reporting committee had been able to undertake. Both were adopted by the Convention, and a committee of five was appointed, located in New York, for a term of three years, with the usual list of corresponding members for each State and Province.

Of course, the statistics of that year furnish appropriate figures for measuring the advance of the Associations during the period which has elapsed. It is not, however, improper to count the twenty years during which the Committee has had its headquarters in New York City, from the Montreal Convention of the following year (1867.) The report for that year contained a list of 141 Associations, with 52,378 volumes in their libraries, valued at $87,730. The expenditures of the Committee for the year were $279.27, in what is now known as the appropriate work of the Committee.

During that year three State Conventions had been held, viz. : New York, Maryland and Connecticut, and one for the six Northwestern States, known as the Northwestern Convention. At the New York Convention, ten Associations were represented by eighteen delegates; at the Connecticut Convention, twelve Associations were represented; at the Maryland Convention, eight Associations were represented, and at the Convention for the six Northwestern States, six Associations were represented.

At that time one Association owned a building; namely, Baltimore, which was valued at about $11,000, but was adapted to but few of the purposes for which an Association building is now used.

Chicago, New York, Washington and Bethlehem were engaged in raising money for the purpose of erecting buildings at an early day, while some of the Associations had small building funds, (that of Boston being the largest) but they were not at that time contemplating the immediate erection of buildings for their use. There are no statistical reports indicating the amount of money, or pledges then held by the Associations for building purposes, but it is probable that the total sum was less than $300,000.

The contrast between the situation as it existed at that time, and that which is now presented, is striking in the extreme. A detailed study of the statistical reports will make that contrast the more impressive, but a few figures will serve to indicate it.

In the year past, Conventions were held in 32 States. In New York, for instance, where in 1867 only eighteen delegates represented ten Associations, last February, 591 delegates represented 99 Associations. In Kansas, at its fifth annual Convention (1886), 180 delegates represented 33 Associations, and $3,200 was subscribed for the support of the State work during the coming year. During the past two years forty-five Association buildings have been added to the list, with a total value of $1,219,080, and the larger proportion of these are in the smaller cities; two are for colleges, namely, Yale University and the University College of Toronto.

When the Committee reported at Montreal, it consisted of five members, all resident in New York City, and all its work was performed by them. Now the Committee consists of thirty-three members, and requires for the prosecution of its work a secretarial and clerical force, of fourteen. Then it reported its actual expenditures to have been $279.27, and last year, with most careful economy, its expenditures reached $37,848. Then, as far as ascertained, only the Associations of Boston, Montreal, New York, Philadelphia, Cincinnati and Chicago employed paid Secretaries. Now the Associations employ (including assistants) 664 Secretaries. Against the 141 Associations reporting to the Committee at Montreal, 1064 now report.

Perhaps the accelerating progress of the Associations is best attested by the recent increase in the number of secretaries. During the two years that have elapsed since the Atlanta Convention, secretaries have been located at one hundred and eighteen new points, namely thirty-seven during the first year, and eighty-one during the second year, making now an aggregate secretarial force of six hundred and sixty-four. The average age of these secretaries is an interesting element. Five years ago that average was 32 years; to-day the average is $29\frac{1}{2}$ years, showing the disposition of the Associations to seek, as their executive officers, persons who are near the age of the young men to be influenced. And here is to be noted, that there yet remain in connection with the Secretarial department a very considerable number of those who are included in the enumeration of eight years ago.

In this connection note should be made of the Springfield School, (founded by David Allen Reed), the Association department of which is under the supervision of J. T. Bowne, formerly on the secretarial staff of the International Committee. When we met at Atlanta, this school had not been organized, and Mr. Bowne was just then arranging to leave the service of this Committee to begin his work at Springfield. Now, the number of pupils in that school fitting for the secretarial office is thirty-three. Already it has furnished sixteen secretaries for this service. The system of instruction is constantly improving. The school is becoming more and more popular, and its usefulness to our cause can hardly be estimated. It is peculiarly satisfactory to the Committee that this enterprise as undertaken, is carried on, and is designed to be carried on as a private enterprise, controlled by its own trustees and faculty and not in any way dictated to or influenced by any organization representing the Associations. Its hold upon these societies and upon the young men who seek to serve them must be, therefore, a hold secured and maintained by reason of its adaptation to the needs of the Associations, and because it keeps pace with these needs in the instruction of its pupils.

II. Col. William P. Munford, of Richmond, Va., was one of the earliest friends of the Association cause. He was a member of the second annual Convention, held at Cincinnati in 1855, and from that time onward was actively interested in our work. He was president of the Convention held at New Orleans in 1860. In 1875, when the Executive Committee was increased in number by the addition of gentlemen not residents in New York, Col. Munford became one of its members and continued to hold that office until the adoption of the charter of the Committee, at the Milwaukee Convention in 1883. He then became one of the advisory members and remained in that connection until the time of his death, on the twenty-first day of February, 1887. Few persons connected with the Committee, residing out of New York, attended more of its meetings than Col. Munford, though he was probably by many years its oldest member. He attended the last Convention at Atlanta as a delegate from Richmond, and participated actively in its deliberations. He maintained a correspondence with the Committee in regard to its work down to within ten days of his death. Throughout a long public career, his sound judgment, his self-denying and faithful work and unaffected piety justified the confidence and affection bestowed upon him.

III. The Committee has been represented each year at the various State and Provincial Conventions. Such Conventions have been held in Alabama, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Maine, Michigan, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Vermont, Virginia, and Wisconsin. Joint Conventions have also been held by the Associations of the Maritime Provinces; Ontario and Quebec; Maryland, District of Columbia, and West Virginia; Massachusetts and Rhode Island; Minnesota and Dakota Territory; and of the Pacific North-west (including Oregon, Washington Territory and British Columbia.)

IV. The following is a summary of the statistical reports thus far received by the Committee:

V. The most considerable advance during the past two years has been made in the Southern line of States. Since the Atlanta Convention, buildings have been practically completed in Atlanta, Selma, Richmond and Lynchburg, of the aggregate value of about two hundred and twenty-six thousand dollars. State Secretaries have been permanently secured in Virginia, Georgia, Tennessee, and, for a portion of the year, in Mississippi and Alabama. In Texas, at the date of the Atlanta Convention, there could scarcely be said to be a single working Association. Now there are twenty-one, eight of which employ General Secretaries, and the first Convention of the Associations of Texas was held in the fall of 1886, when 16 Associations were represented by 40 delegates.

VI. The Committee has held regular monthly meetings at the office in New York. It has also held two meetings in Chicago, of great importance; they were also attended by a majority of the Secretaries, a dinner was provided by the members of the Committee resident in that city, and quite a number of the leading residents of Chicago were present. Two like meetings have been held in New York which were attended by all the Secretaries, and by many prominent residents of that and neighboring cities. At all these meetings a review of the work of the Committee was presented by the Secretaries in addresses made after the dinner.

VII. A full account of the receipts and disbursements for the past two financial years of the Committee is submitted with this report. The following is a summary statement of these accounts :

Audited and found correct, April 26, 1887, by

JOHN H. HANKINSON, R. FULTON CUTTING.

In the year 1885,

375 Associations (including those which took up collections on the Week of Prayer for young men), contributed $5,428.90.

206 persons gave sums of $25 and under, aggregating $2,287.95.

130 persons (18 of whom gave from $500 to $1,000 each) gave, in sums over $25, a total of $22,779.43.

In the year 1886,

430 Associations contributed $6,935.21.

111 persons gave sums of $25 and under, aggregating $1,287.20.

141 persons (23 of whom gave from $500 to $1,000 each) gave, in sums over $25, a total of $29,625.23.

The expenses of the Committee for 1887, to the date of the Convention, have been $17,053.61. These are paid, with a small balance in the treasury.

Provision has also been made in part for the special expenses of this Convention, and the visitation arranged for in connection with it. This extra expense, amounting to at least $5,000, will make necessary extra effort to secure the balance needed for the present year and for the further period until the next Convention.

For this purpose there is needed

(1). For the balance of 1887, $28,900.

(2). For the year 1888, $42,000.

(3). For January-May, 1889, $17,500.

Making a total needed between now and the next Convention of $88,400.

It will be observed that, notwithstanding the extraordinary calls upon the treasury, the Committee comes to the Convention with a small balance in its favor, but it must not be understood that the situation of the Committee is such as to justify the slightest relaxation of effort on the part of the friends of the Associations, to supply it with the money required for the prosecution of its work. The demands are constantly increasing, not only in number, but in the amount required to meet them. Those who have contributed in the past, still continue their generous gifts.

In this there is, of course, encouragement, but it is encouragement to further effort and not to a suspension of effort. The list of our donors must be largely increased. The Committee could to-day employ, with advantage to the work, at least three additional Secretaries, and its expenses have increased during the past two years from $31,000 to $37,000, not including the extra item for work undertaken with special reference to this Convention. The Committee comes here with a favorable balance in its treasury because of extraordinary efforts put forth, mainly by its General Secretary, in obtaining contributions. These cannot be continued, much less increased, by the same individual, and coöperative effort by others in this direction must be secured.

The pressure upon our treasury is not due to any indisposition on the part of Christian men to contribute to its support. It is due rather to the failure of the friends of the Association cause to present adequately and intelligently the importance of the demand which is made, and the value of the service which is rendered. This work appeals to thoughtful men, to men who think with Edmund Burke, who said: "Tell me what are the prevailing sentiments that occupy the minds of your young men, and I will tell you what is to be the character of the next generation;" men who believe that sentiments and purposes which spring from Christianity and from Christian instruction are the foundation and promise of substantial hope for the future.

VIII. The Committee in several of its reports has called attention to the fact that the members of the secretarial force were overworked, that the calls were such that it was quite impossible to respond to them and maintain, permanently, a good degree of health. The Committee, during the past two years, has been painfully convinced of the truth of this statement, for some of the secretaries—three at least—have not been able to render service corresponding in extent and energy to that of previous years. The Committee has been able to keep pace, measurably, with the demands which have been made upon it, only through the willingness of the Associations in one section and another to forego for a time the service of their State or local Secretaries, that they might aid this Committee in overtaking its most pressing calls. It has had the assistance, in this regard, of C. A. Licklider, of Lynchburg, for two months; T. A. Harding, of Washington, for three months; H. F. Williams, of Minnesota, for two and a half months; W. C. Douglass, when State Secretary of Massachusetts, two months; J. M. Barkley, of Michigan, one month; J. E. K. Studd, of Cambridge University, England, four months; F. W. Douglas, of Indiana, one month; T. J. Wilkie, of Toronto, two months; and for briefer periods, L. W. Messer, of Cambridge, E. A. Lawrence, of Connecticut, F. De S. Helmer, of Atlanta, G. T. Coxhead, of St. Louis, and J. B. Reynolds, of New Haven.

Major Joseph Hardie, (a member of this Committee) in the fall and winter of 1886, made an extended tour among the Associations of the Pacific Coast, and rendered most important service to our cause.

When it was decided that the twenty-seventh Convention should be held in San Francisco, the Committee determined that, so far as possible, a careful canvass of the Associations in what we may now call the far West, and of towns where Associations ought to be established, should be made prior to the meeting of the Convention. In addition to the members of the secretarial force detailed for the performance of this work, namely, Messrs. Weidensall, Watkins, Wishard and Brown, the Committee secured the assistance of H. F. Williams, State Secretary of Minnesota, W. E. Lewis, State Secretary of Wisconsin, and D. A. Budge, Secretary at Montreal. That there might be no lack, Major Hardie was willing, at the request of his associates, to take part in this service also.

The Committee estimated the cost of this visitation and of the Convention in San Francisco, over and above the estimate for all ordinary service, at $5,000, and set immediately about collecting that sum. It has already received on account thereof subscriptions to the amount of about $4,000 from twenty-two donors, including five hundred dollars from the San Francisco Association.

If the full sum required for this specific service is received, it is the plan of the Committee to continue this visitation among the Western Associations immediately after this Convention, to the end that the best results possible arising from its influence may be garnered and assured.

IX. It is not deemed necessary in this report, to make even a summary statement of the work of the several Secretaries and of those who have performed services as agents of the Committee during the past two years; their full reports are herewith submitted, and will be placed in the hands of the delegates to this Convention.

Mr. Weidensall has been almost wholly employed in the North-west.

The condition of Mr. Cree's health has almost wholly excluded him from active service, though he is now improving, and we look for his return to real work.

Mr. Watkins has been employed in the Maritime Provinces, New England, the South and on the Pacific Coast.

Mr. Ingersoll has been employed in the railroad service, and to some extent in general work.

Mr. Wishard, among the colleges from Maine to California.

Mr. Brown, in addition to his usual work among the colored young men, has been mainly employed in Texas.

Mr. Ober, in general work and among the colleges in the Maritime Provinces, New England, the Central, Southern and Western States.

Mr. Olandt, amongst the Germans, and for some months in general work in the South.

Mr. Douglass, who became a member of the secretarial staff in November last, has been engaged in general and railroad service in the Central States.

Mr. Uhl and Mr. Wieting at the office, and Mr. Uhl also in the secretarial department.

Mr. Thorpe and Mr. Corwin as assistants in the office.

The General Secretary, Mr. Morse, in the work of supervision, correspondence and finances. In addition to this, Mr. Morse has performed some work in visitation, and has devoted considerable time with satisfactory results to the college work, especially at Yale University, in connection with the new building, the completion of which marked an epoch in the work of the Associations in colleges.

X. The reports of the Corresponding Members of this Committee, always important, complete its official record. For the year 1885-6 forty-two were submitted, and appeared in the Year Book for that year. For the present year reports have been received from China, Germany, Great Britain, Manitoba, New Brunswick, Ontario, Prince Edward's Island, Quebec, Alabama, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Vermont, Virginia, Washington Territory and Wisconsin. These reports, together with any others which may be received, will be published in the Year Book for the present year.

XI. Special circumstances connected with the work of the Committee in the colleges of the country have, in its judgment, rendered necessary the publication of a small sheet directly in that interest, now called the "Intercollegian." How long this may be necessary the Committee is unable to say. It is satisfied, however, of the present need for such a sheet. Beyond this the Committee believes that no periodical controlled by it is essential in the prosecution of the Association work.

The small bulletins issued by the local Associations and by some of the State organizations render a valuable service, and the "Watchman" under the editorship and control of Mr. Varsdale, as his private property—but addressed under his intelligent appreciation of our work to the promotion of the Association cause—thus far certainly is a satisfactory medium of communication between the Associations of the Continent. The Committee feels that his service and the service of his paper in behalf of young men and of the Associations and of a just Association sentiment, should be recognized and appreciated.

XII. The resolution of the Atlanta Convention directed the calling of the Convention in San Francisco, if when the time arrived, in the judgment of the Association in that city and of the Committee, it should seem desirable to call the Convention there. A careful consideration of the whole field led the Committee to the conclusion that the strongly expressed wishes of the San Francisco Association in that regard should prevail, and accordingly the call was issued. It was known to the Committee that there might be great difficulty in arranging for a full attendance of delegates from the Associations at large, but as to those matters the Committee well knew that no satisfactory assurances could be obtained, and it must treat with the situation as it presented itself at the time when it was necessary to issue the call. It could only act with the best light it then had, and leave the result to Him who has guided the cause of the Associations from the beginning.

The controlling consideration in the mind of the Committee in reaching a conclusion was that it found itself able to provide for what it is believed will appear to have been a thorough canvass of the Pacific coast in the Association interest, anterior to and also immediately subsequent to this Convention.

XIII.—The Committee recommends :

1. The continued use of the Life-Membership Certificate.
2. The observance of the second Lord's day in November and the week following it as a season of prayer for the blessing of God upon the Associations and their work.
3. The usual authority to the Committee to hold parlor conferences and dinner meetings, where the work of the Convention shall be presented.
4. Instruction to the Committee to prepare and issue each year a Year Book, containing statistics of the Associations.
5. The Topics for Daily Prayer Meetings, compiled under direction of a member of the Committee, have been so useful that the Committee feels justified in recommending the Convention to authorize their preparation for the two coming years.
6. An increase of the fund annually placed at the disposal of the Committee, to the sum of $50,000, in view of the growing magnitude and importance of the specific fields of effort open to it, viz. :

- (1) At the East and North-east.
- (2) At the West and North-west.
- (3) On the Pacific Coast.
- (4) At the South and South-west.
- (5) In the Dominion of Canada.
- (6) Among Colored Young Men.
- (7) Among Railroad Men.
- (8) Among German Young Men.
- (9) Among Students in Colleges.
- (10) Among Commercial Travelers.
- (11) General visitation of the better organized fields, including attendance at State and local Conventions.
- (12) The work at the Central Office, including correspondence, and the distribution of printed and written information through circulars and the newspapers.
- (13) And, as of special importance, the Secretarial Department of the work.
- (14) Under the charter of the Committee and the rules of the Convention, it is necessary at this time to elect eleven members of the International Committee in place of Cornelius Vanderbilt, Robert R. McBurney, Henry Parish, Jr., and Cleveland H. Dodge, all of New York, Jacob B. Perkins, of Cleveland, Thomas C. Day, of Indianapolis, H. E. Sargent, of Chicago, Thomas Cochran, Jr., of St. Paul, Frank L. Johnston, of St. Louis, Joseph Hardie, of Selma, and John L. Wheat, of Louisville. Also four Advisory Members of the Committee in place of Morris K. Jesup, of New York, D. W. McWilliams, of Brooklyn, Augustine T. Smythe, of Charleston, and William P. Munford, late of Richmond.

XIV. It was feared by many fast friends of the Associations that the secular departments of their work, as one by one they came into prominence, would distract the working force employed—the active members—from the religious features of the service which it had always been contended were the chief elements of power and usefulness. These fears have not been realized. It is a cause for devout and fervent gratitude to God that as the Associations have increased in wealth, as they have taken on and made available one secular agency after another, they have yet advanced rapidly in the acquisition of genuine religious and spiritual power. Careful study of the Bible, as the book for young men, has become year by year the leading feature in their active work. Their members learn to use God's Word, intelligently, fittingly, in dealing with unconverted associates, and more and more as the years pass away, God honors his Word in the conversion of the young men who come to our rooms. In them Jesus, the Divine Saviour, is discovered to the enquirer as the Redeemer of individual men, as the fit object of adoration and love. The reports which come up to the Committee, abound in records of awakening and conversion. No period in the history of the Associations has been more fruitful in this regard than the two years to which this report relates. Not only does God bless, to the salvation of young men, the regular services in the rooms of these societies, His Spirit is present also in the State and District Conventions, and from each and all the Committee receives reports of young men saved by Grace. In these facts is found the chief ground and cause for gratitude to Him, who, as the Master of the Assemblies, will, it is believed, be present as the Leader and Chief in this Convention. In this record the work of the Associations has its fitting crown, without it the existence of these societies can hardly be justified, with it they may devoutly hope for, yea confidently expect, continued and increasing progress.

XV. In closing, the Committee desires to quote and emphasize the following paragraph from its report submitted to the Milwaukee Convention :

"The Committee is not so foolish as to deny that mistakes have been made in its administration, that mistakes have been made in the administration of local Associations, that things have been done—both general and local—which were indiscreet and unwise. But there is one fact, with its surroundings, which must impress any one, conversant with our history, with the truth of the proposition that the hand of God is in this work and that His Spirit guides it ; and it is this : that for more than thirty years these Associations have existed on this continent for the avowed purpose already specified, composed of young men dwelling in different sections of the continent, having few business relations and most of them no acquaintance with one another; and that all this time these Associations have been growing in numbers and in strength, have been growing in wealth, in influence and in unity; that they have annually come together in general, in State and then in district conventions, and that during all that period there has been no substantial break in their harmony, no substantial difference in their gatherings, no substantial dispute when the topic was presented as to the real purpose of the work; and yet there is no formal constitution or legal tie connecting them together, and they join hands simply and only because they have this common purpose, this one work."

The four years which have elapsed since this was written have but served to illustrate and enforce the truth of these observations. As the Associations multiply, and State organizations are effected, the tendency to separation and isolation is increased. In the great State gatherings which now take place, larger by far than were many of the early International Conventions, the local Associations are induced to a forgetfulness of their relations to kindred organizations in other parts of the country. It should be, therefore, the aim and purpose of Association workers to strengthen the few ties—none of them legal, most of them but in a slight degree official—which bind the Associations of the continent together in the one work for young men. These formal official ties consist simply in the service of the Corresponding Members of the Committee for the several sections; in the visits of the members of the secretarial staff; and in the few calls, hardly more than two a year, which are made upon the Associations, namely, the call for the Convention and the call for the Week of Prayer and the collection incident to it; and principally in the biennial gatherings of the Associations in convention under the call of the Committee. The rest consists wholly in the teaching of the Association men and in their practice, inspired and guided by the Divine Spirit, which recognizes this unity, the oneness of the Associations in the work at large which they have in hand.

A striking paragraph illustrative of the views expressed in the quotation already made, is found in the address of Mr. Gladstone in 1860, on "The Work of Universities," in which he says:

"I might detain you longer, gentlemen, upon the various kinds of good they, the universities, did, and I might search long without discovering any characteristic evils to set down against it. * * * They established, so to speak, a telegraph for the mind; and all the elements of intellectual culture scattered throughout Europe were brought by them into near communion. They established a great brotherhood of the understanding. Without a visible head or a coercive law, or a perilous tendency to aggression, they did for the mind of man what the unity of the Roman Church aimed at doing for his soul. They did it by the strong sympathy of an inward life, and by a common interest and impulse, such from their nature, as were the least capable of being directed to perverse or dangerous ends."

This, with very little modification in words and no change save in application, characterizes the agencies of these Conventions, and represents with great truthfulness the relations of these agencies to the work at large. With such changes as each man can make for himself, the great statesman of England has presented a striking picture of the work and the services which these Conventions and the Committee which represents them, have rendered, of the tie which binds the Associations together, and of the place they now occupy in Christian service on the continent.

BIENNIAL REPORTS OF SECRETARIES OF THE INTERNATIONAL COMMITTEE TO APRIL 1, 1887.

BIENNIAL REPORT OF RICHARD C. MORSE,

General Secretary.

1. In his more direct connection and personal intercourse with the Committee and its various sub-committees, the General Secretary has attended all the fifteen regular meetings of the International Committee held since the Atlanta Convention, and also the more numerous monthly meetings of the sub-committees, besides the meetings of such special committees as have from time to time, been appointed. In preparation for these meetings and in carrying out the instructions of these committees, the General Secretary has had conferences several times each week with the chairman at his residence and less frequently with the chairmen of the sub-committees. It has been equally a part of his work to confer with the various visiting secretaries on their return from each tour.

The usual special meeting of the Committee was held in Atlanta immediately following the International Convention. The members present and the General Secretary remained two days in that city, taking part in the Association movement for starting a building, which resulted so speedily in complete success. At New York, in December, 1885, and December, 1886, and at Chicago, in April and November, 1886, special dinner meetings of the Committee and its Secretaries were called, at which a number of the friends of the work were present by invitation, and several hours were spent on each occasion in a full presentation of the work by the secretaries, followed by the friends and members of the Committee. The Chicago meetings were held by special invitation of the members of the Committee in that city.

2. In preparation for this personal intercourse with the Committee, the General Secretary has had intercourse and correspondence with all the Visiting and Office Secretaries of the Committee in relation to their work. This work is clearly stated in their several reports. The plan of this work, as arranged by the Committee and sub-committees, was duly communicated to them. In planning the activity of these secretaries, representation has been carefully provided for at each State Convention, as indicated in the following table, from which it will be seen that at 58 State Conventions, 93 representatives of the Committee have been present.

3. In all this most responsible part of his work, not only has the General Secretary been guided by the chairman in protracted conference with him several evenings each week, and with the various secretaries as they have been in the city, but the chairman has carried on in his own name a considerable part of the correspondence, which called for most careful thought and deliberation. The chairman has thus averaged between three and four evenings each week devoted to personal conference and the writing of many of the most important letters—a personal service which has been simply indispensable to the proper discharge of their own duties by the General Secretary and his associates.

4. But the time and labors of the Secretaries of the Committee have not been sufficient to enable the Committee to respond to all the calls for supervision and help which have been made upon it during the past two years. This has been, in part, due to the disability of its highly valued secretary, Thomas K. Cree. Other members of the force have also been for a time disabled or called from their fields. To reinforce and supplement the labors of its regular staff, the Committee has called to its assistance, through the General Secretary, the following fourteen gentlemen as visiting agents, the service being in each instance rendered at the committee's expense : C. A. Licklider, Secretary of the Lynchburg, Va., Association, made twenty-four visits to twenty places at the South during October and December, 1885; T. A. Harding, General Secretary of the Washington Association, visited ten places; H. F. Williams, of Minnesota, spent a month for the Committee in work it had been requested to do in that state, and also attended, on behalf of the Committee, the Indian Convention, held near Sisseton Agency in Dakota, in September, 1885; W. C. Douglass, previous to becoming a regular Secretary of the Committee, rendered important service for some weeks at Indianapolis and St. Louis; F. De S. Helmer, of Atlanta, at Chattanooga and Mobile; G. T. Coxhead, of St. Louis, at Memphis; J. M. Barkley, State Secretary of Michigan, spent a month as the agent of the Committee in the State of Indiana. In the college work the committee received special reinforcement and help from the useful labor for four months of J. E. K. Studd, a recent graduate of Cambridge University, England. T. J. Wilkie, of Toronto, conducted a large amount of correspondence and visitation among the Associations of Ontario, in the absence through ill-health of the Provincial Secretary. Joseph Hardie very generously spent several weeks in visitation upon the Pacific Coast, and in attendance upon the Oregon, the California and the Texas State Conventions. F. W. Douglas did valuable service for the Committee in the State of Indiana, in the course of which he demonstrated his fitness to become, and was chosen, State Secretary. A. G. Todd spent several weeks of visitation in Tennessee, chiefly at Memphis. En route to the Convention at San Francisco, D. A. Budge, of Montreal, traveling via the Canadian Pacific, H. F. Williams, of Minnesota, and W. E. Lewis, of Wisconsin, via the Northern Pacific, have arranged to visit, as representatives of the Committee, various points upon or near the Pacific Coast.

5. A fourth department of the work consists of replies to those who seek at the office of the Committee, personally or by correspondence, for information and counsel upon important problems relating to their work. One evidence of the growth of the Associations is discovered in the graver nature of the problems relating to their welfare, which come for settlement to the office of the Committee as a place where the best experience of the best Associations is accumulated. These requests have involved the giving of counsel and of aid in securing funds for buildings, in planning for buildings after the funds have been raised, in securing competent local secretaries, in lifting a burden of debt where often the good name of the Association is at stake, or in reorganizing Associations where plans and methods long since disused elsewhere, have been continued. To this may be added problems in State work involving the organization of State Committees, the planning of Conventions and the securing of State Secretaries or Assistants. These are a few of the many matters constantly coming for consideration to the International Office from all parts of the Continent.

6. The correspondence with the friends of the Associations who manifest their interest in the International work by contributing funds needed for its support, has been maintained and extended during the past two years.

7. In preparation for the Day and Week of Prayer in November, 1885, and November, 1886, an extensive correspondence was conducted from the Committee's office with the Associations all over the country. A decided stimulus was given to the observance of that time. This season is becoming from year to year more and more a fruitful spiritual event in the work of a growing number of the Associations. In response to the request of the International Convention, 324 Associations took up collections during the week of prayer in 1885 and 389 in 1886—a more numerous response than in previous years.

8. Responding to the urgent invitation of the Central Committee of the World's Conference, the General Secretary spent his summer vacation of 1886 in a journey (without expense to the International Committee) to attend at Geneva, Switzerland, a special meeting of that Committee. Members or representatives were present from Great Britain, France, Germany, Spain, Italy, Belgium, Sweden and Austria. The nature and condition of the Association work in the various countries represented were very thoroughly discussed. The report of what had been accomplished in Germany, especially at Berlin, upon the American plan of work produced a deep impression, and as one result two of the cities of Switzerland, Geneva and Zurich, have arranged for and secured General Secretaries.

9. Responding to the invitation of the Interdenominational Congress, the General Secretary prepared and read at the session of that Congress in Cincinnati, December 7-11, 1885, a paper upon "The Young Men of our Cities and of what use the Young Men's Christian Association is to them," which has since been published in pamphlet form by the Committee.

As a member of the Graduate Committee of the Yale Young Men's Christian Association, the Secretary has frequently visited New Haven during the erection (August, 1885 to October, 1886), upon the Yale College campus of Dwight Hall, provided and furnished for the use of the Yale Association, by Mr. and Mrs. Elbert B. Monroe, in memory of the late Frederick Marquand. Since the dedication of the building, October 11, 1886, the Graduate Committee has actively co-operated to promote the highest usefulness of the new building in the development of the work of the Association in Yale University.

In July, 1886, at the request of the college students from the various College Associations, in their Summer School at Mt. Hermon, Mass., the Secretary read a paper upon the work of the Young Men's Christian Association, and remained several days in attendance upon the school.

Prolonged absence of the Secretary from the central office is more difficult as the work there increases, but he has made a number of visits to various Associations. He has also participated, each year, in the preparation of the Topics for Prayer Meetings, and spent several weeks, in company with other Secretaries of the Committee, in preparation of the "Outlines of Study for the Bible Training Class."

BIENNIAL REPORT OF ERSKINE UHL,

Office Secretary.

My work during the last two years has been chiefly in the office, varied by occasional visits to neighboring Associations, chiefly in the interest of new buildings. The extent of the building movement is shown by the fact that the forty-five new buildings of the past two years, and the twenty-four that are now being planned or in course of erection, are located in twenty-eight States and three Canadian Provinces. A suggestive plan of the arrangement of Association rooms has been sent from the office to fifteen Associations; and the plans of eleven proposed buildings have also been carefully examined. As a result of these suggestions, decided changes have been made in the arrangement of a number of buildings, which are expected to materially increase their adaptability to work for young men.

The growth of the Associations steadily increases the work of the office. The attempt, for instance, to keep a correct list of the changes among their 600 salaried officers (and the only one kept anywhere) involves far more labor now than when the number was 400, two years ago. The faithful, painstaking efforts of our limited office force cannot satisfactorily overtake this work; but each one is doing his best in his own department. C. M. Thorpe has charge of the copyists and other occasional clerical help, of the books and accounts, of the orders for printed matter, and a host of other details. Robert Johnston and E. D. Doster are occupied in the general office work.

The secretarial work carried on by J. T. Bowne until his resignation in September, 1885, to take charge of the Association department of the Springfield School for Christian Workers, has since that date fallen to me. Much valuable aid, especially in the records and correspondence of this department, is rendered by Charles E. Corwin.

The three qualities indispensable in a general secretary are, a life thoroughly devoted to Christian work, a special love for and capacity to influence young men, and the power to organize these men into a compact, self-perpetuating institution. The quality last named is the rarest of the three, and men combining all these qualities are by no means numerous. On this account it gradually became a part of the Committee's work to search for such men and to introduce them to the Associations in need of secretaries. The Committee did not seek this form of effort. It became committed to it almost unconsciously. As the Associations came to realize their need of such officers, and did not find them in their own membership, they naturally sought advice from the Committee. More and more definite steps were taken to meet this need, and since 1880, some Secretary of the Committee has been charged with the correspondence and other details relating to this branch of the work, while every other Secretary has put forth effort in the same direction.

It scarcely need be said that the Committee does not "locate" or "settle" secretaries. Even the newest and least organized Association is led to see that the decision regarding a man and the invitation extended to him to become its secretary must be its own, and the greater part of our present activity is intercourse with and suggestions to the better organized State Committees regarding men who may prove to be useful in some part of their fields.

These Committees, especially those which employ State Secretaries, are also engaged in similar efforts, following largely the example and methods of the International Committee. The figures contained in this report, and which include the work of all the International Secretaries, so far as recorded at the central office, probably indicate one-sixth—perhaps less—of the total activity in secretarial matters among the Associations of the continent.

When a man writes us for information about entering the secretaryship, or is suggested as a suitable candidate for it, we send him (together with pamphlets on the duties of the office and the necessity of full preparation) a set of searching questions. Similar replies are solicited from his references, who are, if possible, business men familiar with Association work. If the replies are reasonably satisfactory, the candidate is urged to fit himself for the work by the study of what has been written about it, by active effort in the various departments of his own Association, by visits to well organized Associations, or, better than all whenever practicable, by attendance at the Springfield Training School. His name is also entered on our office register, and when he seems to be fairly prepared for the work, such information as we have regarding him is submitted to local Associations or State Committees that have asked for such aid. 327 names were entered on our register during the two years closing April first, and correspondence or personal intercourse was held with 325 others who did not give evidence of being suitable to undertake the work. Of the 327 who were registered, 177 found places in the work—58 through their own efforts or those of their friends, 119 through the suggestion of the Committee—188 were dropped after a more thorough investigation, and 12 are now on the list.

On April 1st, 1885, 21 vacancies were recorded in our office as needing our help. 256 applications have been added to these, for State Secretaries and their assistants, for general secretaries and their assistants, and for gymnasium superintendents. The last named have been altogether the most difficult to meet. Few earnest men have realized in the past the opportunities for active personal influence over young men which this position opens. But a change is occurring, and plans already on foot, in connection with the Springfield School, promise a better training for this special field of effort than has yet been offered. We assisted in filling 119 vacancies. 102 others, entered on our books, were filled through the action of others independently of us. 84 were postponed through various reasons. 23, almost the same number as at the opening of the period, now stand on our books. Among the 119 vacancies which we helped to fill are 15 in general work; 6 of these fields not having employed such an officer before; but the recognition of the need of him and the securing of money for his support was in every case greatly advanced by the agents of the International Committee.

Each one of these State Secretaries becomes at once a recruiting officer to enlist more men for the service. Two other States, under the guidance of our Committee, are now planning to secure such an officer for the whole or a were of the coming year.

Of the local vacancies aided, 2 were in Canada; 21 in New England; 42 in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland and Ohio; 23 in States west of these (including 3 in California); and 16 at the South. At ten of these points, promising building movements are now on foot, which owe much of their vigor to the presence of the secretaries secured through the International Committee, and favorable reports have reached us regarding the work of nearly all these men.

In addition to the vacancies already referred to, advice has been sought from the Secretaries of the Committee regarding probably as many more, but not in so formal a manner as to warrant their entrance on our register.

In 1866 there were, so far as ascertained, only three secretaries devoting their time to our work. In 1871, when the "General Secretaries' Association" was organized, there were probably less than twenty salaried officers, hardly any two of whom bore the same title, while very few of them were doing what would now be considered the work of a general secretary. In 1873, the first list compiled for the Year Book (and probably quite incomplete) contained 51 names. The list for 1879 contained 126. We have in the office of the Committee the names of 1,148 who have entered the work since the last named date, making a registered total during the past 8 years of 1,304. No doubt some others have been in the work without their names reaching us at all.

Considerable effort has been made by Mr. Corwin, during the last few months, to collect information regarding these men. Concerning 275 of them little has been learned, except their names and the positions they held, generally for very brief periods.

The remaining 1,029 were occupied immediately previous to their entrance into our work, as follows:

BIENNIAL REPORT OF ROBERT WEIDENSALL,

Secretary.

During the past two years my work has been seriously interfered with on account of the sickness and death of my mother and three brothers, and also the affliction of my sister. The times, places and conditions of these trials more than doubled my burdens and rendered me unfit for the work I had to do. However, I committed my work unto the Lord and He has much more than made up my loss, for there has been an extraordinary growth of the Association cause in the Western field.

The urgent demands of two years ago for the multiplication of young men's meetings, Bible study and workers' training classes, also the securing of permanent buildings of the best type and the employment of efficient and experienced general and State Secretaries, have in great measure been met.

The sensible determination of the State Committees to develop and make strong the existing Associations, particularly in the great centers, and to organize new Associations only when there was promise of permanent success, have been closely adhered to with the best results.

All my efforts have been directed to the growth of the Western field, as a whole, and to this end I have devoted the greater part of my time to the States most ready to employ State Secretaries, with gratifying success. I am glad to state that my fellow Secretaries have all rendered great assistance in all that has been done and in some particulars they have been the principals.

Four new State Secretaries have been put in the field: James M. Barkley in Michigan, George S. Fisher in Kansas, J. V. Read in Tennessee, and F. W. Douglas in Indiana. Mr. Barkley left the work in February, 1887, after serving very acceptably for nearly two years. His place will be filled as soon as a suitable man can be found. Eight Assistant State Secretaries have been added to the list: two in Illinois, W. F. Levings and A. M. Bruner; two in Wisconsin, D. F. More and W. E. Burford; two in Kansas, Chas. E. Mails and Chas. L. Helmick; one in Minnesota, Frank Cutler; and one in Iowa, Wm. M. Danner. The addition to the number of general secretaries has been unusually large and of a better class.

Fine Association buildings have been completed, or are now in course of erection, in Detroit, Mich., Indianapolis, Ind., Nashville, Tenn., Milwaukee and Racine, Wis., St. Joseph, Mo., Elkhart, Ind., Northfield, Minn.; and Hastings, Neb., Oshkosh, Wis., and South Bend, Ind., have purchased buildings and adapted them to Association purposes. Louisville, Ky., has built a handsome and commodious gymnasium addition to its building. Omaha, Neb., Kansas City, Mo., Minneapolis, Minn., and Wichita, Kan., are ready and will build this coming summer. In a number of other places efforts are being made to secure the means to erect buildings.

The spiritual work of the Associations has kept pace with the material growth. A host of young men have been led to the Saviour and into the church; a large number of Christian young men have been strengthened in their Christian character, while many others have been developed into efficient Christian workers through the training classes and other practical methods employed. The spiritual work has been particularly noteworthy in the colleges.

Among the remarkable features of Association work in the West, accomplished mainly during the last two years, are:

First. Illinois and Wisconsin each employ four state workers; Kansas employs three, and Minnesota and Iowa each two.

Second. Kansas in its fifth year with a State organization, and with a State Secretary in the field only seven months, raised $3,200 in its State Convention, the only case of the kind in the history of the Association work in America.

Third. Tennessee secured its own funds without outside help, except at the convention, to employ a State Secretary. With a feeling of gratitude for what has been done in that State by the International Committee, it is proposed to relieve the Committee of the burden of helping to secure the means to maintain the state work.

Fourth. The Chicago Association has done a wonderful work and has increased its membership to over 5,000. Its current expenses last year were over $38,000.

Fifth. The Association at Wichita, Kan., was organized about eighteen months ago. Before it was a year old an attempt was made to secure $30,000 for a building. A lot was purchased for $9,000, and at the end of the year it had $14,000, including the price of the lot, and that sum has since been increased to $50,000. The present value of the lot is $24,000.

Sixth. The establishment of the Western Secretarial Institute, and the purchase of a most desirable property on the north shore of Lake Geneva, Wis., for a permanent camp. This institute will be wholly devoted to Association work. It has been and will be of incalculable help to the secretaries and Association workers of the West, as well as to the work in other parts of the land.

Seventh. The securing of two men, J. E. Ensign in Omaha, and J. V. Read in Minneapolis, for definite periods and at stated salaries, to devote all their time to the solicitation of funds for new buildings, so as not to disturb the local secretaries in the regular work of their Associations. While this work was done in hearty sympathy with the International and State Committees, it was wholly at the cost of the Associations served by them. The experiments have worked admirably and the example will doubtless be followed by other Associations.

The outlook is most encouraging—a State Secretary can be put in Nebraska next year, and also in Missouri when her chief cities, St. Louis, Kansas City and St. Joseph, are relieved from present local strains. Kentucky is ripe for a State work, as soon as Louisville is in a condition to take the lead. The work in that city is now in good shape and on the increase.

Dakota, Colorado, Utah, Wyoming and Montana are teeming with young men and are rich in material of every kind. With proper efforts State and Territorial Secretaries can and should be placed in most if not in all of them.

By request I visited the School for Christian Workers at Springfield, Mass., and my heart was made glad to see that such a long step forward had been taken in supplying a training school for Association secretaries. Since this school does so much for the Associations, it has a right to expect in return and should receive a most liberal support from them. I was present at the laying of the corner stone of the new Association building at St. Joseph, Mo.

On the fiftieth anniversary of my birthday, April 20th, 1886, I was tendered a reception in the parlors of the Chicago Association. My gratitude to all concerned will never allow me to forget that occasion, because of its character, the persons present, the letters received, and the splendid collection of photographs made up by my friends in all lands, as tokens of their appreciation and esteem.

During the past two years I have traveled 68,241 miles in 19 different states and territories, visited 128 cities and towns, most of them several times and many of them frequently; called upon 66 Associations and rendered special help to 81 of them.

I was present at the opening of the International Convention at Atlanta, Ga.; attended 2 International Secretaries' Conferences, at Chattanooga, Tenn. and Harrisburg, Pa.; 5 International Committee meetings, 3 in Chicago and 2 in New York; 9 State Conventions, Tennessee, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska and Minnesota [first year], Iowa, Kansas, Michigan and Indiana [second year]; 17 State Committee meetings, in Murfreesboro and Nashville, Tenn., Davenport and Des Moines [twice] Iowa, Topeka, Ottawa and Emporia, Kan.,

Hastings and Omaha, Neb., St. Paul and Minneapolis, Minn., St. Louis, Mo. [first year]; Des Moines, Iowa, Ottawa and Topeka, Kan., Detroit, Mich., Indianapolis, Ind., Nashville, Tenn., and St. Joseph, Mo. [second year]. Was present at one district convention, Sweetwater, Tenn. [second year].

Imade 84 public addresses on Association work—21 the first year and 13 the second year. Among these addresses were, one before the General Synod of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in the United States, at Harrisburg, Pa.; one before the German Department of the Milwaukee Association; one before the School at Springfield, Mass., and one before the College Conference, at Grinnell, Ia.

Held 20 conferences with Association workers, Milwaukee, German Department; St. Paul, Minn., Emporia, Kan., South Bend, Ind., Hastings, Neb., Atchison, Leavenworth and Lawrence, Kan. [first year]; Union City and South Bend, Ind., Jackson, Grand Rapids and Bay City, Mich., Cleveland, O., Omaha, Lincoln and Beatrice, Neb., Leavenworth and Arkansas City, Kan., Washington, Ia., Chattanooga, Tenn., and Louisville, Ky. [second year]. Met 9 times with boards of directors, South Bend, Ind., Omaha, Neb., Wichita and Arkansas City, Kan. [first year]; Milwaukee, Wis., Jackson and Lansing, Mich., Union City and South Bend, Ind. [second year]. I delivered 8 anniversary addresses, at Minneapolis, Minn., Burlington, Ia., and Kansas City [Railroad] [first year]; Cleveland, O., Altoona, Pa., Bay City, Mich., and Emporia, Kan. [second year]. Was present at one parlor conference, at Cedar Rapids, Ia. [second year].

I assisted 9 states in raising money for state work either in conventions or by canvass: Tennessee, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska and Minnesota [first year]; Iowa, Kansas, Michigan and Indiana [second year]. Helped to secure building funds at South Bend, Ind., Omaha, Neb., Minneapolis, Minn. [first year]; Omaha, Neb., and Ottawa, Kan. [second year]. Was largely instrumental in securing Messrs. Ensign and Read for the special soliciting work referred to elsewhere. Located two new State Secretaries, Geo. S. Fisher in Kansas and J. V. Read in Tennessee and with Mr. Ober secured F. W. Douglas for Indiana [second year]; organized two new Associations, Wichita and Arkansas City, Kan. [first year]. I attended the Western Secretarial Institute in August [second year] and helped to secure means towards its permanent establishment.

BIENNIAL REPORT OF THOMAS K. CREE,

Secretary.

During the past two years, owing to continued ill health, my connection with the Committee has been but little more than a nominal one. I have assisted both years in securing financial aid for the Committee, and have retained my connection with the work by continued correspondence with many Associations. I have also visited a number and conferred with them, their officers, boards of directors and committees, and have spoken at and conducted a number of Association meetings.

After the Atlanta Convention I remained in that city to assist in securing funds for an Association building. The great success which attended that effort, and the good results which followed it all through the South, are well known.

So far as my health has permitted, I have assisted in carrying on the work of the Committee and sincerely regret that I have not been able to do more to further it.

BIENNIAL REPORT OF EDWIN D. INGERSOLL,

Railroad Secretary.

My work for two years has been first and chiefly to make 204 visits to 83 places in 25 States and Provinces.

Eighteen State and Provincial Conventions have been attended in the territory embraced by Kansas, Minnesota and Cape Breton, beside International Conventions and Secretaries' Conferences.

Six meetings of members, secretaries and supporters of the International Committee, five State conferences of secretaries, nine meetings of State Committees and Executive Boards, seven anniversaries, five dedicatory services, nine parlor conferences and two State college conferences, have helped fill up the time.

A few places and features deserve special mention :

At Topeka, Kansas, the headquarters of the A. T. & S. F. R. R., the test of Christian work under Association auspices and methods has proved its worth in contrast with the old system of railroad reading rooms and libraries.

At Fort Wayne, Indiana, the problem of securing right relations between all departments of a complete organization where one department had been organized and become strong without a central or local Association, has been practically solved. Although a Railroad Association had been in successful operation for years and had become a power in the community, it is now the Railroad Department of the Young Men's Christian Association of Fort Wayne, with other departments in operation and to be organized as needed, and all in perfect harmony.

At Peoria, the old suggestion that possibly the Railroad work would be more successful, particularly in securing corporate support for a needed building, if separated from the Young Men's Christian Association, appeared in its most inviting form. Railroad officials and men were of one mind, and succeeded in making the officers, directors and friends of the Young Men's Christian Association of Peoria see as they saw. All waited only for the Railroad Secretary of the International Committee to come at their courteous invitation, and approve of the separation which had been substantially agreed upon. A thorough diagnosis of the case, and statement of the history of all similar cases, with the results of experiments in both directions, led to a unanimous and hearty agreement to continue as heretofore—the Young Men's Christian Association of Peoria and its Railroad Department. That question is not likely to be raised again in that place by the present generation.

At Toronto, the Railway Men's Christian Association and the Young Men's Christian Association have become one. All interested are satisfied and grateful.

At Elkhart, a commodious and convenient building has been completed and equipped, and a canvass is now in progress which promises to extinguish a small debt and provide for increased current expenses.

At Bloomington, Ill., Mr. Morris K. Jesup, a director of the Chicago and Alton R.R., and a member of the International Committee, through whose effort and aid the Railroad Department of the Committee was made permanent, has purchased three desirable lots, and is coöperating with other friends of the enterprise to secure the erection of a good building for the Railroad Department of the Young Men's Christian Association of Bloomington.

At Peoria, the city Association has postponed a building movement for its own work, and is joining heartily with the R.R. department in a canvas for funds for a building for that department.

Baraboo, Wis., will erect a building this year, and St. Thomas, Ontario, has funds partially secured and plans made for a large and elegant building for railroad work.

The debt on the Troy R.R. building has been paid, and funds are being secured for an addition.

The event of all the years of this department in the building line is the erection, by Mr. Cornelius Vanderbilt, on the most desirable lot for this purpose in New York City, of a building for the headquarters of the railroad department of the Young Men's Christian Association of New York City, on the N. E. corner of Madison Avenue and 45th Street. The building will be elegant and complete. The requisites that experience has shown the need of, or that thoughtful interest and ingenuity could devise for the physical, social, mental and spiritual needs of men, that can be met by a building and its equipments, will be here met, not "regardless of cost," but with a wise and generous use of means that measures only need and probable utility. The library shelves will not only afford space for, but will contain 7,500 books carefully selected for the everyday use of railroad men and members of their families. This building is the practical testimony to the value of this work given by the railroad owner and officer who has also given closer personal attention to it than any other prominent officer.

There has been steady and marked increase in the ability and knowledge of the secretarial force of this department, and hence in the extent and thoroughness of organization, quality of work, and results.

Visits to the principal railway centers of the Maritime Provinces discovered a remarkable religious work among the employés of the Intercolonial Railway. During evangelistic services conducted by the Rev. Messrs. Meikle and Gerrior, special meetings for railway men were held each Sunday. Hundreds were converted and they continued these weekly railway men's prayer meetings in each place, and hundreds more were converted in them. In September, 1885, they held at Moncton what they supposed to be the first convention of Christian railway men, to report and consider Christian work by and for railway men, and to devise and provide ways and means to extend it. At their invitation the chairman of the executive committee of the Associations of the Maritime Provinces, who is also a member of the International Committee—Mr. John S. Maclean—and I attended their second annual convention at Truro, N. S., September 18-20, 1886. At this convention, after full discussion, resolutions were passed unanimously favoring union with the Provincial and International organizations of Young Men's Christian Associations.

The Fourth International Conference of the Railroad Department of Young Men's Christian Associations was held at Milwaukee, May 6-9, 1886. The reports, papers and discussions were far more complete and thorough than ever before and demonstrated that the work is better understood and more thoroughly and successfully done each year.

In hearty accord with the wish and plan of the International Committee that none of its Secretaries, although specialists or employed with special reference to one department, shall have less practical interest in any and all other departments, I have given what aid I could to other departments of Association work.

It has been my privilege to present the need and practical methods of Bible Training Class work in Wesleyan Ladies' College, at Hamilton, Ontario; at a Christian Convention, conducted by Major Whittle, at Topeka, Kansas; in private correspondence and through the press. As one result, two pastors have engaged in special Bible teaching or training class work. One of them in a city of 17,000 has had a Women's Class each afternoon for weeks, averaging from 800 to 850, and a Men's Class each evening of 70 pledged members, and enough more who could not take the pledge, but attended when they could, to more than double that number each evening.

I spent a week with the college students at their conference for Bible Study at Mount Hermon; and addressed the first anniversary of the School for Christian Workers at Springfield.

Perhaps as valuable service as any I have been able to render has been in personal dealing with candidates for the secretaryship, or those who were considering it as a life work, with the faculty of the Springfield school in reference to some of these, and the general work of the school, and with boards of directors and committees who were seeking secretaries.

I desire to mention particularly, both to give deserved commendation and to suggest to other State Committees and Secretaries to do likewise, the work of the New York State Committee and Secretary in organizing and supervising the Railroad Department of work in that State. Seven new railroad organizations have been formed, support secured, secretaries found and placed within the past year, and the whole kept going successfully without aid, except occasional advice, from the International Committee or its Railroad Secretary.

Providentially, I believe, there has been forced upon my mind and heart the need and the practicability of a work for and by miners of coal, iron, copper, silver and gold. A railway secretary of eight years successful experience, who was once a miner, has become Assistant State Secretary of Wisconsin, in charge of work for miners which is in successful operation. I have aided the Association of Pittston, Pa., and the Assistant State Secretary to secure an Advisory Committee, corporate support, and increased financial aid from citizens, that an enlarged and improved work for and by miners may be done there. Conferences have been held in Scranton and other places concerning this particular work and its needs. Great interest was manifested, help promised and many practical suggestions made. There are probably as many miners as railroad men on this continent. Special work for them is greatly needed, and the little that has been done already proves that it is practical and possible.

Next to the joy of receiving reports of so many men saved and set at work saving others in the Railroad Department of our work, and of spending and being spent in it, my greatest joy has been in the addition of W. C. Douglass to the working force of the International Committee with special reference to the Railroad Department.

BIENNIAL REPORT OF L. D. WISHARD,

College Secretary.

The following is a mere outline of my work during the two busiest of the ten years which have passed since the intercollegiate work was begun.

I. OUTLINES OF BIBLE STUDY.—During the Summer of 1886, I spent several weeks in Northfield, Mass., with Messrs. Morse, Ober and Brown, preparing the outlines of a year's course of study adapted to the Bible Training Class. Fully 18,000 copies of the pamphlet have been sold, chiefly to college students, and many hundreds of students have, during the past two years, pursued this course of Bible study.

II. WORK OF MR. STUDD, OF CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY, ENGLAND.—Through Mr. Moody's influence, this gentleman, who had been his chief helper in his work at Cambridge, was induced to spend several months in America, making a tour of visitation among our leading colleges. His work resulted in awakening increased interest in Bible study and foreign missions. He was also instrumental in leading a number of students to Christ. My connection with his work consisted in arranging the programme of the tour.

III. WORK IN INDIAN SCHOOLS.—Successful Associations have been organized in the State Agency Normal Training School, the Indian School at Carlisle, Penn., and Haskell Institute, Lawrence, Kan. They are proving to be so efficient that I believe if we had a large force of men for work in the college department, we could organize in many of the sixty-five Government agency schools, as well as in the schools under the care of church missions, and thus help solve the Indian problem.

IV. YOUNG WOMEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATIONS.—For several years part of my time has been engaged in forming these organizations in co-educational colleges where my regular work called me. After securing about eighty Associations in twenty states and forming state organizations in Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Iowa, a national convention was assembled on the banks of Lake Geneva, Wis., August 6-12, 1886. A national organization was there formed and a national committee chosen, with headquarters in Chicago. Mrs. J. V. Farwell, Jr., was elected Chairman and Miss Nettie Dunn, of Hillsdale College, Mich., was secured as General Secretary. She entered the work in December last and is visiting colleges, attending conventions, strengthening Associations in colleges and cities, and, in a word, prosecuting the work upon the same line followed by the Young Men's Christian Association.

V. THE INTERCOLLEGIAN.—College Associations have become so numerous and the work so varied and extensive that the College Bulletin became too small a medium of inter communication. Accordingly, it has given way to a paper, The Intercollegian, issued bi-monthly, designed to meet the necessities of the enlarged work. Its reception has been such as to fully justify the Committee in its issue, and I believe with careful management it can be made self-supporting.

VI. EXTENSION.—The work of organization has been pushed more vigorously during the past two years than for several years previous, and the College Association now exists in every State except West Virginia, Florida, Arkansas and Nevada. Among the most noted accessions during the past year, may be mentioned Harvard, Wesleyan, Universities of Iowa and Minnesota, and Emory College, Georgia.

VII. WORK IN FOREIGN MISSIONARY COLLEGES.—The Association which Frank K. Sanders formed in Jaffna Protestant College, Batticotta, Ceylon, in 1884, has been a success, and has demonstrated the adaptability of our work to such institutions. Its endorsement by students and especially by the faculties fully justified the Committee in authorizing Mr. Sanders to present the work to the students of the Syrian Protestant College, Beirut, and the Central College of Turkey, Aintab, on his way from Ceylon to America last summer. The work was heartily endorsed by faculties and students in these institutions, and is being successfully carried on. Prof. W. C. Kitchin of Ayo Yama College, Tokio, Japan, also reports the formation of an Association in that institution, and expresses the belief that this work is destined to accomplish as much for the students of Japan as for America.

Rev. H. P. Beach of Peking has recently assisted in forming an Association in the High and Training School in Fungchow near Peking. The letter of greeting which the students sent from the Mt. Hermon Summer School to foreign missionary colleges, suggesting their union with us has been anticipated by their own spontaneous action, and what has been accomplished in China, Japan, Syria, Ceylon and Turkey, may be expected at no very distant day in many of the larger institutions among the 12,000 foreign missionary schools.

Missionaries in several quarters express the belief that the Young Men's Christian Association will be a valuable auxiliary to the present methods of missionary work. I believe the Association can best be introduced to those lands through the colleges. The points of similarity between these colleges and ours are far more numerous than between the cities of heathendom and Christendom. This is largely the case because these colleges have been founded and are manned by graduates of our English and American colleges, who have necessarily given them the Christian college mould. While we are not officially responsible for the extension of this work, the fact that so many of the teachers in these colleges are American, gives us readier access to these institutions than any other committee can secure, and attaches to us a responsibility which cannot be ignored.

VIII. BUILDINGS.—The new buildings of the Associations in Yale and Toronto Universities have thus far been accompanied with the growth in the work which they were designed to effect. Other colleges are agitating the matter, and building funds have already been started in McGill University, Cornell University and Hamilton College.

IX. GENERAL SECRETARIES.—In 1886, for the first time in the history of this work, local general secretaries were secured by two of our College Associations, those in Yale and Toronto Universities. For a number of years it has been the custom in some colleges for base-ball clubs, foot-ball teams and boat crews to retain for a year or two graduates who have attained preëminence in these different sports, to train men and prepare them for the intercollegiate contests. The Associations in Yale and Toronto Universities have simply applied the same principle to the Christian work of their colleges, and have retained men who were leaders in the Association to oversee the work, not to do it, but plan it and set committees of students at work in the different departments of the Association. The plan has worked so well in these institutions that it will be continued, and other colleges will doubtless adopt it.

X. DISTRIBUTION OF WORK.—During the past two years I have reached nearly every Association on the entire field, directly by visitation or indirectly by conventions and conferences. My visitation has extended through Maine, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New Jersey, Virginia, North Carolina, Georgia, Michigan, Minnesota, Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska, Missouri, Colorado, California, Oregon, Washington Territory and Ontario and Quebec. I have attended Conventions and Conferences in all of these States except Michigan, Nebraska, Oregon and Washington Territory, and have, beside, reached New York, South Carolina, Alabama, Wisconsin, Ohio and Indiana. By correspondence and publication I have touched the entire field. I am closing this year with a tour on the Pacific Coast, extending from Los Angeles to British Columbia. The outlook is favorable for a good work in the near future.

XI. RETROSPECT AND OUTLOOK.—The first ten years of this intercollegiate movement are closing. It has advanced slowly and steadily until, in the words of a leading educator, it has become "the great fact in the religious life of our colleges." Thousands of students have been connected with the Associations in college and very many of them have, upon graduation, transferred their energies from college to city Association work, some as general secretaries and many more as officers and directors. Fully ten thousand students have during these ten years professed Christ. Many students have been led to devote their lives to the ministry at home and abroad and the present outlook would lead one to expect a very great turning to the foreign field during the next ten years. Much land remains to be possessed, but the prestige and power which the work has acquired, assures us of success as rapidly as we can move forward.

XII. COLLEGE STUDENT'S SUMMER SCHOOL.—As the result of a conference between Mr. Moody and myself, he invited each of the College Associations to send a delegate to spend a month at Mt. Hermon, Mass., in July, 1886, to study the Bible and methods of Christian work adapted to college students.

Two hundred and fifty students from ninety College Associations accepted the invitation. The work began July 7, and closed August 2d. Every morning at 8 o'clock, for an hour we considered, conversationally, some phase of College Association work. At 10 o'clock we met and spent two hours hearing addresses on fundamental Scriptural truths, and asking questions which were answered by Mr. Moody or the prominent Bible scholars whom he associated with himself in the instruction.

A number of representative general, State and International Secretaries were present, and ample opportunity was given them for the presentation of the work for young men in cities and on the railroads. Frequent conversations were also held with small companies of students on this subject, and be tween thirty and forty became so deeply impressed with the claims of the work that they expressed a desire to investigate it more fully.

A number of young men, who had decided to devote their lives to foreign missions, were present at Mt. Hermon. Their appeals in behalf of this work made a profound impression, and many students expressed a willingness and desire to enter the foreign work. This missionary interest is being deepened and widened by two young men, Messrs. Wilder and Forman, who are visiting colleges and appealing to students in behalf of the foreign work. This gathering was not under the auspices or control of the Committee which assumed no responsibility toward it.

Mr. Moody has consented to hold another similar gathering this summer in Northfield, and a much larger attendance is expected. I do not believe any convention of young men ever assembled is calculated to accomplish greater good than these gatherings of students.

XIII. SUMMARY OF WORK. I. Correspondence.—First year, 700; second year 800, letters.

II. Publication—First year, 6 numbers, 21,100 copies, of the College Bulletin and 5,000 pamphlets; second year, 8 numbers, 10,000 copies of The Inter-collegian, and 15,850 pamphlets.

III. Conventions and Conferences.—First year: met 200 students at 7 State Conventions from 41 colleges, and 1,200 students in 8 college towns where Conventions met and 2,800 students in 16 Conferences from 130 colleges, and 2,800 students in towns where these Conferences met. Second year: met 80 students in 3 Conventions from 16 colleges and 800 students in one college town where a Convention met, also 1,700 delegates at 10 Conferences from 104 colleges and 1,800 in 7 places where Conferences met.

IV. Visitation.—First year: 62 visits to 49 colleges, meeting 7,000 students. Second year: 71 visits to 60 colleges, meeting 8,000 students. First year: traveled 25,000 miles; second year: 80,000. miles.

Resumé.—Have met 9,980 students in 36 conventions and conferences from 200 different colleges, and met 15,000 students in 87 different colleges, traveling 55,000 miles.

BIENNIAL REPORT OF HENRY E. BROWN,

Secretary.

In response to an urgent request to the Committee from a pastor in Texas, who came 1,500 miles to attend the last International Convention, I was sent, soon thereafter, to that State, where, and in other parts of the Southwest, I have spent most of my time for the past two years.

There were several Associations in the Southwest at the time I went there, but they were doing a very limited work, consisting mainly of religious meetings. Outside of New Orleans and Little Rock, there was not a general secretary in that whole region. The centre of Texas is about 800 miles from where any real and progressive Young Men's Christian Association work was being done, and it seemed rather a dangerous experiment to attempt to plant Associations so far from occupied fields, and in cities so scattered as those in Texas. But the experiment was tried and the result has clearly demonstrated the wisdom of the attempt.

The four largest cities in Texas ; Dallas, Houston, Galveston and San Antonio, were selected as suitable places in which to start Association work on a solid basis and with general secretaries in charge. Considerable time was spent in each of these cities in conference with the clergy and business men, laying before them the advantages and methods of true Association work and successfully meeting objections raised by some who were cognizant of the failures of Associations, started several years before. The result of the several weeks work in the different cities was the organization in each of them of a strong Association with a board of directors composed of leading and representative Christian business men, money secured for a year's work, fine rooms engaged and fitted up, and a competent general secretary placed in charge. After the success of my efforts in these cities became known, calls for help to organize in other cities and towns in Texas, came to the Committee faster than they could be responded to.

I visited Corsicana and Waco, spending a few days in each place, presenting the claims and methods of the work, and opening the way for another to follow me to perfect an organization and secure money for the first year's work. S. T. Dimmick did this service and did it very satisfactorily. General secretaries are now employed at both of these points and a good work is in progress. Several other cities and towns have been helped by visitation and correspondence.

In December, 1886, a successful State Convention, attended by forty delegates representing sixteen Associations, was held at Dallas. A State Committee was appointed, and $100 pledged for State work. Nineteen Associations were reported, eight with general secretaries. One of the delegates had to travel 645 miles to this Convention, held with its nearest Association neighbor. Some idea of the extent of territory covered by these eight Associations with general secretaries may be had if we were to locate them in another part of the country, and placing one at Montreal, the others would lie in the Adirondacks, New York City, Springfield, Mass., Wheeling W. Va., Cleveland, and Columbus, O., and Detroit, Mich.

The new State Committee has asked for my return to Texas to help forward the work already begun, and to start it at new points. The importance of vigorously following up this new work will be readily recognized when it is remembered that Texas is considerably larger than all of New England, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana combined.

I made visits to several places in Mississippi, and had considerable to do in arranging for the first State Convention in that State, held at Columbus, March 25-30, 1887, which gathering I attended. Seventy-two delegates were present. $700 were pledged for State work and a good State Committee elected. This committee engaged as temporary State Secretary, George H. Lipscomb, of Columbus, to whose zeal and volunteer service Mississippi is largely indebted for much of its present Association interest.

The Southwest, with its thousands of young men, needs just such help as the Young Men's Christian Association is adapted to afford. The number of fully equipped Associations need to be increased, and the existing ones need to be encouraged and strengthened. To accomplish this there must be considerable State work done, and until the States are able to carry their own burdens they will need continued assistance from the International Committee through its agents and visitors.

On my way to and from Texas, I visited several white and colored Associations along the route, and have lately made a tour among the Colored College Associations in the South, visiting nearly all of them. I have corresponded more or less with each of them by written and printed letters, and have found many occasions to rejoice over the faithful labors of colored young men for their fellow students. I recall no instance of the failure of a single Colored College Association where it had any considerable share of responsibility for the religious interests of the school, and the students were able to bring the greater share of their work for young men into direct relation to the Association. Two helps, considered very essential to the success of the general Associations are almost wholly wanting among the colored Associations, viz., conventions and general secretaries. Several states have met one of these wants by inviting colored delegates to their conventions. In a number of cities Associations are agitating the question of colored branches. St. Louis has already established such a branch. The schools promise soon to furnish some good men, who will earn most of their living by teaching or in some other profession during the day, and will be able to act as general secretaries at night at comparatively small expense. The financial condition of the better classes of colored people is gradually improving. They are erecting comfortable churches in all the larger cities; some of their young men are finding permanent positions in the various professions; many young men in their colleges are being trained in Association methods and work. The day is rapidly approaching when it will be wise to organize branch or independent colored Associations in all cities of the South, and in the larger cities of the North. God speed the day!

In addition to the work outlined above, I spent several days at Northfield, Mass., with other Secretaries of the Committee, in preparation of the "Outlines of Bible Study for Training Classes;" conducted a training class for several weeks in connection with the San Marcos (Texas) Chautauqua Assembly, and a similar class at Oberlin, Ohio. I prepared and published several "Helps for Christian Workers" for use in training classes; took part in the anniversaries of the Richmond, Va., and Grenada, Miss., Associations; visited the Agricultural and Mechanical College, and the State University of Mississippi and Centenary College, of Louisiana. Attended the State Conventions of Vermont, Pennsylvania, Nebraska, Missouri and Alabama; was present at the General Secretaries' Conferences at Chattanooga and Harrisburg, the International Convention at Atlanta, one International Committee's and Secretaries' Conference at Chicago, and two at New York; visited, in the interest of railroad work, Columbus, Ohio, and made an Association address before the Nebraska State Convention of Congregational Churches.

These past two years have been by far the most fruitful of my Association service, for which I thank God and take courage.

BIENNIAL REPORT OF E. W. WATKINS, Secretary.

The Association year of 1885-86 witnessed an unusual interest in new building enterprises among the Associations throughout the country. Immediately after the Atlanta Convention I assisted the Milwaukee Association in a building canvass, and during the year similar assistance was also successfully rendered at Richmond, Va., New Britain, Conn., Albany, N. Y., Norfolk, Va., and to a slight extent at Selma, Ala.

During this year 94 days were given to the South, in connection with new building movements, the railroad and general work. The Georgia State Committee was assisted to secure the first Southern State Secretary in the person of M. B. Williams. He has just begun his second year of excellent service with this committee.

Ninety-two days were given to New England, principally in strengthening existing Associations in New Hampshire, Vermont, and Connecticut.

I attended, this year, the State Conventions of New Jersey, New Hampshire, Vermont, Connecticut, Virginia, North Carolina and Georgia, and 16 parlor conferences held in the interest of new buildings, 6 State Committee meetings, the dedication of the St. Johnsbury, Vt., building, the General Secretaries Conference at Chattanooga, and the International Convention at Atlanta; and delivered 10 addresses before women's meetings, and 36 addresses before mixed audiences, upon Association work.

During the Association year of 1886-87 much of my time was given to work in the States and Provinces lying on the outer edge of the Committee's field, the South Atlantic and Gulf States, the Maritime Provinces and the Pacific Coast.

Fifty-two days were spent in the South. The Associations in this section, catching the spirit of the Atlanta Convention, (which successful occasion and its immediate phenomenal results were the fruition of many years work of the Committee, especially the pioneer labors of its representative, Mr. Cree) show an unprecedented growth for the past twelve months. This is especially noticeable in their improvement in directness of aim, in the number of reorganizations effected, in the increase of State Secretaries employed and in successful building efforts. Associations have been supplied with new general secretaries at Charlottesville, Va., Charlotte and Raleigh, N. C., Columbia and Charleston, S. C., Americus, Columbus, Macon, Savannah and Augusta, Ga., Birmingham and Selma, Ala., and Jacksonville, Fla. Most of these Associations have been organized during this period. State Secretaries have been placed in Virginia (Maryland and North Carolina co-operating) and in Tennessee.

Association buildings are nearing completion, or have recently been dedicated, at Richmond, Lynchburg and Norfolk, Va., Atlanta, Ga., and Selma, Ala., while at Nashville and Knoxville, Tenn., Staunton, Va. and Norwood, Ga., substantial encouragement has been given to building movements. I took active part in the work at the above mentioned points, with a very few exceptions. Considerable assistance was given this year to the railroad work.

The Charleston Association, in common with other societies and the citizens generally, suffered so severely from the great earthquake that disbandment was seriously considered. Bringing this circumstance to the attention of Associations in the North, contributions for its relief were speedily sent to me to the amount of $2,869.66, which the treasurer of the Committee forwarded to its destination. Expressions of deep gratitude and sincere appreciation were promptly received in reply, accompanied with assurances that the Association was thereby placed out of danger. After a lapse of several months, I again visited the city, and found the Association in a very prosperous condition, perhaps more so than ever before during its history.

Twenty-seven days, during this year, were given to New England, among existing Associations, speaking at anniversaries and aiding in the conduct of Conferences and Conventions. A visit to Maine led to the temporary engagement of George S. Avery, as State Secretary.

Ninety-two days in May and June of 1886, and February and March of 1887, were given to the Pacific Coast, between Victoria, B.C., on the north, and Los Angeles, Cal., on the south. I assisted the Portland, Oregon, Association in organizing a building canvass, the principal Associations of the entire coast in a general way, the San Francisco Association in arranging to entertain the 27th International Convention, and the Oakland Association in arranging for the General Secretaries' Conference. I have given considerable study to rail-road affairs and conditions in this section, with the hope of establishing here that department of our work. At this writing I am in the midst of these duties, and am hopeful concerning the result. I have also partially organized an Association at Salt Lake City, and helped raise $1,000 there for its support. Financial help from without is needed to fully equip the organization.

I have given considerable attention, as in previous years, to correspondence and consultation with young men looking toward secretarial work.

During this year I attended the State Conventions of South Carolina, Alabama, Connecticut, Vermont and Tennessee, and two District Conventions in California; was present at forty conferences held in the interest of new buildings, or other special requirements, the Annual Conference of the General Secretaries of Connecticut, and the First Conference of the Southern General Secretaries, held at Chattanooga; delivered 77 addresses upon Association work, 11 special gospel addresses before young men, 6 Association addresses before women's meetings, 5 commercial addresses before young men, 4 addresses upon the Charleston earthquake, one address upon the city of Atlanta, and one before the students of the Springfield School for Christian Workers.

BIENNIAL REPORT OF CLAUS OLANDT, JR.

German Secretary.

It has been the aim and earnest desire of the German Secretary the past two years to build up and strengthen the German Associations existing in the larger centers. In this respect a marked progress in the work has been made. It is with joy and thanksgiving we lift up our hearts to the dear Lord for the rich blessings he has showered upon the work among German-speaking young men. Considerable time has been devoted to the Milwaukee Department, where a general secretary and an assistant are at work, and a fund of $6,000 is pledged for a building. Some little time has been devoted to the Branch at Philadelphia, where a general secretary has been secured and $1,000 pledged for a building fund. The large and important field at Baltimore has not been overlooked. A general secretary settled there a year ago, and the results have been excellent. In many of the smaller cities, as well as in the centers above mentioned, much time and patient effort has been given toward securing the means for the current expenses.

Through the liberality of James Stokes, three young men looking forward to the German secretaryship have been enabled to spend from three weeks to six months at the School for Christian Workers at Springfield, Mass. Two years ago there were but two men employed in the German field besides myself, now there are six men employed as general secretaries at the following points : New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, St. Louis, Milwaukee and San Francisco, and the Branch at Milwaukee employs an assistant secretary, making in all seven men who are giving their whole time to the work among German-speaking young men. The Branch at St. Louis has recently purchased a lot upon which a $30,000 building is to be erected. The New York Branch has a beautifully furnished building worth $30,000, and quite recently $5,500 have been pledged toward securing the building adjoining which is valued at $24,000. The crying need of our work is for trained men as general secretaries who are to lead and win our German-speaking fellow young men for God and the right.

In response to an urgent call for help from the State Committee of Alabama, which came to the Committee, the German Secretary was released for work in that State from February 22d to April 4th. During that time twelve places were visited. At Marion a fund was started to build a gymnasium addition to its building, the first Association building in the South. At Birmingham, $7,000 were pledged toward a building ; at Huntsville funds were secured to employ a general secretary ; at Decatur an Association was organized, a building fund started and the promise of a half acre building site secured from the D. Land, F. & I. Co.; since then the Association has been incorporated and other gifts have been tendered, so that a fine building will soon be an assured fact. In company with Joseph Hardie and J. H. Franklin of Selma, Montgomery was visited and an Association was organized. The day following $1,000 were pledged toward the first year's current expenses, and the second thousand soon followed. On Sunday evening a large union meeting was addressed by Major Hardie, and several thousand dollars pledged for a building. Within two weeks the sum was increased to $12,500, and a lot valued at $10,000 was bought. At Anniston an Association was organized, funds for current expenses secured and the promise made of a building site from the Anniston City Land Co.; at Opelika a promising Association was organized, good rooms rented and funds for current expenses secured; at Auburn an Association was organized in the Agricultural and Mechanical College. The State Convention at Mobile, March 31-April 3d, promises a bright future for the work in the State. During the Convention, and since then, several thousand dollars have been pledged for a building for Mobile.

BIENNIAL REPORT OF C. K. OBER,

College Secretary.

While the college work has claimed the greater part of my time the past two years, considerable attention has been given to other departments and needs in the general field of the Committee's work.

1. Colleges, from the writer's standpoint, afford one of the most encouraging fields for the wise application of the principles and methods of Association work. Ninety-four (94) visits have been made to ninety-one (91) colleges, and in sixteen (16) of these new Associations have been organized. These visits have been short, never exceeding three days, seldom conflicting with the regular work of the college, but designed to meet present needs in the organized Christian life and work of the students, along several important lines. Most prominent of the results aimed at have been to strengthen the intercollegiate tie and to promote a healthy enthusiasm in and for the College Association, and also for the general plan of our associated work for young men; to simplify and perfect methods and organization and to instruct in new and improved features of the work; to impart a spiritual stimulus and to lead students to enter upon a more hearty, spontaneous and aggressive Christian life; to awaken Christian students to the importance of prompt, earnest and continuous personal effort in winning their fellows to Christ; to kindle in them a love for personal and practical Bible study and suggest methods by which such study can be best carried on in colleges; and lastly, to personally present the claims of the Gospel to unconverted students.

The colleges visited have been in eighteen States and two Provinces, as follows :

Tennessee, 13; North Carolina, 4; Kentucky, 8; Missouri, 2; Kansas, 9; Nebraska, 8; Minnesota, 5; Wisconsin, 1; Illinois, 1; Michigan, 7; Indiana, 5; Ohio, 8; Pennsylvania, 5; New York, 10; Massachusetts, 6; Vermont, 2; New Hampshire, 1; Maine, 8; New Brunswick, 2; Nova Scotia, 2.

2. State organization, by which the Executive Committee of the Associations of any State is led to take the responsibility for the work within its own borders, employ a competent State Secretary and raise funds for his support, has incidentally received some attention during the past two years. In Ohio, Steubenville and Canton were aided in organizing Associations, perfecting plans and securing funds for the work. Xenia, Youngstown, Akron and Steubenville were put in communication with, and subsequently engaged the services of, the secretaries now working in these important fields. The State Secretaryship, which had been vacant for some time, was finally filled by S. D. Gordon of Philadelphia, who entered upon his duties July 1st, 1886, and has already achieved a marked success. In Indiana, for a year and a half there had been no State Secretary in the field, the State Committee had become discouraged and the Association work throughout the State was in urgent need of attention. Help has been rendered at various points, especially at South Bend, where F. W. Douglas of Nebraska has done an exceedingly valuable service as acting secretary, under the auspices of the International Committee. The deferred State Convention was rearranged for and held at Indianapolis, March 3-6, 1887. The State Committee was reorganized, with headquarters and a working quorum at Indianapolis. Over $1,500 were pledged for the State work and F. W. Douglas was engaged as State Secretary and began work at once.

The New Albany Association has been aided in securing a general secretary, F. A. Brown, of Toledo, Ohio, who began work April 1st. Attention has also been given to the needs of the Richmond Association, which was without a secretary. A competent and experienced man has been called and arrangements have been made for greatly enlarging the work.

8. City Associations have been helped in various ways as opportunity afforded. With the Brooklyn, N. Y., Association, I spent two weeks in Dec., 1885, in connection with Mr. Moody's special meetings for young men in the new Association building. At Orange, N. J., one week was spent in organizing and directing the canvass by which the Association secured funds for the erection of its building. The New York City Association was aided in securing assistant secretaries for its work. At Kalamazoo, Mich., help was given at a public meeting and a parlor conference and in organizing a financial canvass by which the Association was enabled to place its work upon a greatly enlarged and much more satisfactory basis. Assistance has also been given to the Associations of Memphis and Jackson, Tenn., Indianapolis, Union City and New Albany, Ind.; Hastings and Grand Island, Neb.; Winona, Minn.; and Bangor, Me.

4. I have attended and participated in one International Convention, at Atlanta, Ga.; eight State Conventions, in 1885, Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska; in 1886, Minnesota, Nebraska, Ohio; in 1887, Indiana and Ohio; three College Conferences, in 1886, Pennsylvania; in 1887, Illinois and Kentucky; one Medical Students' Missionary Conference, Philadelphia, 1886, and the College Students' Summer School for Bible Study, at Mount Hermon, Mass., July, 1886. I have also done some editorial work in connection with the "Outlines of Study for the Bible Training Class," and The Intercollegian.

BIENNIAL REPORT OF P. AUGUSTUS WIETING,

Secretary.

Since returning to the service of the Committee, immediately following the Atlanta Convention, nearly the whole of my time has been spent at the central office, engaged mainly in correspondence and in preparation of matter for publication.

The growth of the work in general has increased the demands upon the central office, and the full time of several Secretaries and assistants has been required to meet them.

The general work at the office may be divided into three principal departments, viz. : correspondence, statistics, publication. The treasurer's books and accounts are also attended to at this office.

Correspondence.—Several thousand written and printed letters have been mailed from this office each year, occasioned by the work of the traveling Secretaries and other representatives of the Committee, and by the numerous inquiries concerning the work in all its phases which have come from all parts of this country and from other lands. This correspondence has been greatly increased by the Fourth Railroad Conference, the International Convention and the annual Week of Prayer in November.

Statistics.—Two annual reports have been asked and received from the Associations since the Atlanta Convention, and in addition other statistics and information have been gathered from various sources. These facts have been carefully collated, published and widely circulated.

Publication.—The Year Book has been published each year as usual, and also the “Prayer Meeting Topics.” The College Bulletin and its successor, the Intercollegian, have been issued regularly. There have been published, also, 118,000 copies of fifty small suggestive pamphlets concerning work for young men. Over a dozen new pamphlets have been added to the Committee’s list of standard publications, one of which, the “Outlines of Study for the Bible Training Class,” has been especially blessed to the work.

What time has been given to work outside the office was spent in assisting in organizing Associations at Ellenville and Greenpoint, N. Y., Jersey City, and Paterson, N. J.; addressing public meetings at Bridgeport, Conn., and Unadilla, N. Y.; attending the Maine State Convention of 1885 and afterwards aiding the Committee of that State in securing additional subscriptions for State work; helping the Associations at Lewiston, Me., and Peekskill, N. Y., to secure general secretaries; assisting in the arrangement for the New York State Convention of 1886, and in the correspondence of the State Committee during the absence at the South of State Secretary Hall; conferring with a committee of gentlemen at Wilmington, Del., about organizing an Association; and advising with the secretaries at Albany, N. Y., and Cincinnati, O., concerning plans for Association buildings in those cities.

I attended, in 1885, the Maine State Convention at Bangor and the annual meeting of the International Committee and Secretaries in New York; in 1886, the New York State Convention at Elmira, the General Secretaries’ Conference at Harrisburg; District Conferences at Mt. Vernon and Port Chester, N. Y.; annual meeting of the International Committee and Secretaries in New York and the First Conference of General Secretaries of the South, at Chattanooga.

REPORT OF WALTER C. DOUGLASS,

Secretary.

1. Being compelled at times to be at the West, away from my field as State Secretary of Massachusetts, I was able, in response to the request of the International Committee, to perform the following service, prior to my becoming a regular agent of the Committee:

I attended a conference at South Bend, Ind., held in connection with the dedicatory exercises of the Association building. Following upon that, I met the new State Committee of Indiana and aided in shaping plans for the year. Visited Connersville with the chairman. In January, 1886, spent ten days in Indianapolis, and organized the canvass, since successful, for a new building in that city. Attended the International Railroad Conference at Milwaukee, May 6-9, 1886. Visited St. Louis immediately afterwards and aided the Railroad Department there in restoring its work and recovering from the great strike. Spent the following six weeks in St. Louis organizing a canvass and aiding in raising the sum of $10,000 for the Association of that city to meet its current expenses and bills for improvement of the building it now occupies. The month of July was spent in aiding the Association of Providence, R. I., in prosecuting its canvass for a building fund. In September I represented the Committee at the New Hampshire State Convention.

2. I entered the service of the Committee as one of its Secretaries in October, 1886. The same month I attended the Missouri State Convention at Independence.

Parts of November and December were spent in Kansas City in organizing and prosecuting a final canvass for a building fund. Also visited the Railroad Association there. The canvass was successful and the Association has, with the proceeds of its lot, funds to the amount of $90,000. Work upon the new building will soon be begun, and with the handsome structure nearing completion at St. Joseph, will form a great inspiration and help to the work in that section. About the same time I paid three visits to Independence, Mo., discussed a building movement with the directors, and held a conference of the leading citizens, at which it was unanimously resolved to secure a building. Through the excellent work of the Association and its energetic Secretary, Mr. Childs, aided since by Messrs. Yatman and Hansel, $20,000 has been secured and a building will be erected. This will be of great value to the work in general, as showing what is possible in towns of less than 10,000 inhabitants.

In November I attended a meeting of the Railroad Superintendents' Union of St. Louis, at which were present the division or general superintendents of ten trunk lines. Over two hours were given to a discussion of our work among railroad employes at St. Louis and East St. Louis. The result of this was wholly favorable and the sentiment was unanimously in favor of strengthening and extending this department of our work, which by the testimony both of officers and men, triumphantly stood the test of the great labor troubles of April, 1886. Later on I spent some days at St. Louis working out the results of this meeting. The subscriptions of the companies were largely increased and it was determined to enlarge to double its present capacity, the Association railroad building at East St. Louis, and to put in a secretary at the union depot in St. Louis.

From January 15th to present writing, March 31st, my time has been largely given to the railroad department of our work.

In the early part of 1887, I delivered addresses at the anniversary exercises of the Harlem Branch, New York City, and of the Associations of New York and Philadelphia; made an address on the building movement in Providence in January; and spent some days each in January, February and March at the Committee's headquarters in New York.

Attended Michigan State Convention February 4-7, visited Detroit Association February 8th, attended Ohio Secretaries' Conference February 9th, and the State Convention immediately following; attended the New York State Convention at Utica and addressed a large conference of leading citizens in that city on the evening following the adjournment of that meeting, in the interest of an Association building movement.

Spent five days with the Railroad Association at Elkhart, Ind., and organized a canvass for funds to pay debt on and more fully equip its building. In March I visited the Railroad Association at Indianapolis, and spent five days with the Railroad Association at Columbus, O.; also visited the Railroad Associations at Cleveland, Detroit, Peoria and St. Louis. Secured promises of renewal of railroad support at Galion, O., and aided a movement for a railroad building at Peoria which promises to be successful.

REPORTS OF SPECIAL AGENTS.

I.—REPORT OF J. E. K. STUDD.

Mr. D. L. Moody, at Northfield, during the summer of 1885, was much stirred by hearing of the way God had led and used those young men who had recently left our University of Cambridge for the mission fields of China. He felt strongly that such testimony of blessing on consecrated lives was greatly needed, and urged my giving account of it amongst students in your colleges. To this I agreed, and spent four months in visiting the College Associations under the auspices of the International Committee. God certainly did bless this testimony, and many a Christian man was led not only to a life of more devotion to God in college, but to make his whole life a subject of prayer to God as to what He would have him do. In my interviews with the students I was impressed with their need of more Bible study, and therefore arranged in each place for half-hour Bible reading daily.

The features of the work varied a good deal in different places. In some colleges the awakening in Bible study was most prominent; in others the quickening of God's children resulting in more consecration of life to God and more personal work in college; whilst in others conversions were most prominent. I found it always most important to press the necessity for the new birth, as taught in the third chapter of John's Gospel, and it was generally the means of awakening and bringing true peace to some.

As I regard your college Association work, the chief line on which interests needs awakening seems to be that of Bible Study, not theological, but personal, practical study. Your Training Classes are invaluable, if well looked after, and the plan detailed in the "Outlines of Bible Study" carried out. I am looking forward to commencing a class in connection with my work and workers in London, and propose, if possible, making each member of my class eventually a teacher of another class. Your organization is admirable, and all effort, I think, should be now directed to seeing that organization carried into practical effect without allowing the College Association to become too dependent on external aid. I cannot tell you what a happy time those four months were that I spent in this college work, and how I thanked God for allowing me to witness such things. I need hardly add that the students of America will for some time to come be much in our sympathies and prayers. I cannot close my report without mentioning the kindness and hospitality we received everywhere, and the sympathy and coöperation of many of the faculty in so many of the colleges, but for which the work might have been very much more difficult. The following is a summary of my visitation and work :

Visited the following schools and colleges: Princeton, Lawrenceville, Madison, Williams, Yale, Washington and Lee, University of Virginia, Pantops Academy, Harvard, Amherst, West Point, McGill, Union, Cornell, University of Wisconsin, Illinois State Normal University, Illinois Wesleyan University, University of Toronto, Queen's, So. Carolina, University City of New York, Colored University at Atlanta and Clark University.

Also visited the cities of Philadelphia, Boston, New York, Chicago, Richmond, Va., Charleston, S. C., &c., and addressed public meetings.

Was present at College Conferences of New York, Wisconsin, Illinois and Virginia. Attended Medical Students' Missionary Conferences in New York City, Philadelphia and Chicago.

Made nearly one hundred addresses, and gave forty-six Bible Readings.

II.—REPORT OF J. M. BARKLEY.

By request, and at the expense, of the International Committee, I spent one month during 1886 in Indiana working under the immediate direction of the Executive Committee of that State. I began my work in Indianapolis seeking to assist the Association in that city in its canvass for a building fund. In this effort I spent two weeks. During this time I attended one parlor conference, one general meeting of the building committee, met the Methodist and Union Ministerial Associations, visited various churches and made five addresses, besides assisting the local committee daily in its solicitations of funds.

I then visited Rushville, for consultation with the chairman of the State Committee, and by his direction I visited in turn, the Associations in Union City, Fort Wayne, Richmond, Madison, New Albany, Evansville, Brazil, South Bend and Elkhart, thus taking a tour around the whole State.

At each place I met, as far as I was able, the officials of the Associations and advised and counseled with them, and afforded aid in other ways that circumstances demanded and time allowed. This plan was faithfully pursued throughout, and the notes made were transmitted in convenient form to the chairman of the State Committee. In all, I made 12 visits to 11 places, travelled 1560 miles, attended 11 conferences and made 8 addresses.

III.—REPORT OF C. A. LICKLIDER.

At the request of the International Committee, I gave several weeks to the work in the South during the fall and winter of 1885-86. In October, I visited Rome, Ga., conferred with the board of directors, made two public addresses and assisted in raising money to carry on the work for a year. Spent Sunday in Jonesborough, Ga., speaking in one of the churches, morning, afternoon and evening; visited Athens, Ga., and met and counseled with the board; visited Opelika, Ala., twice, organized an Association and spent a day trying to interest prominent business men in the work. Spent 5 days in Columbus, Ga., addressed the Association on Sunday afternoon and a large mass meeting in the evening and assisted in raising nearly $1,000 to employ a general secretary, whom the Committee has since helped it to secure. I visited the State Agricultural College at Auburn, Ala.; addressed the students and conferred with the faculty. Spent a day in Selma, Ala., advising with representatives of the International Committee and addressed a mass meeting in the evening. Visited Marion, Ala., and addressed the Association in its own hall. Spent a day and more at the Southern University at Greensborough, Ala., and the Alabama State University at Tuscaloosa, addressing the students and counseling the Associations. I spent 7 days in Birmingham, Ala., reorganizing the Association. Visited Huntsville, Ala., addressed the Association and a large number of members of the Presbyterian synod, then in session in that city. Spent two days in Memphis, advising with the board and interesting young men in the work. In January, I visited Knoxville, Tenn., and held a conference with the Association board. In all I visited 20 places.

IV.—REPORT OF JOSEPH HARDIE.

During the fall and winter of 1886, I spent several months on the Pacific Coast, and while there was able to perform for the Committee the following service :

In September, in company with General O. O. Howard, I attended a parlor conference at San José, Cal. The following Sunday I addressed a mass meeting, and made an appeal for local work. The next two days I spent in making personal solicitations, increasing the sum raised Sunday to about $1,000. A week later I visited Portland, Oregon, where I spent two days calling upon individual members of the Association and meeting with the board of directors. From Portland I went to Astoria and attended the Convention of the Pacific Northwest. I presented the International work at the meeting and took such other part as occasion seemed to require. After this Convention I returned to Portland, where I again met the board of directors, and on the following evening, in connection with H. J. McCoy, presented the claims of the local Association at a public meeting. The next day I visited Tacoma, W. T., and made two public addresses in the interest of the local work. Salem, the capital of Oregon, where there was no Association, was next visited, and a large union meeting on Sunday night addressed on Association work and the need for it. I returned to San Francisco in time to attend and address, with General Howard, the anniversary meeting of the Sacramento Association, held on the following Friday evening. An appeal at this meeting resulted in $650 being raised. I then returned to Los Angeles, and represented the Committee at the twenty-first State Convention of California, held in that city. I was present at all of its sittings and was highly gratified at the character of the papers, the personnel of the Convention and the spirit pervading it.

In November, I spent four days in San Diego, Cal., attended a parlor conference and assisted in a canvass for money for a building. Over one-half of the $80,000 asked for was secured before I left.

V.—REPORT OF F. W. DOUGLAS.

Under the direction of the International Committee, I spent one month, in the latter part of 1886, in Hastings, Neb., assisting the Association in that city. Following my work there, I was sent to South Bend, Ind., where I remained two months, reorganizing the Association and getting it into a financial condition to call a general secretary. During these two months I made visits to a few other places in Indiana, attended the Kentucky College Conference held at Lexington, and helped to arrange for and attended the State Convention of Indiana at Indianapolis. At the close of the latter meeting, I was chosen by the State Committee, Acting State Secretary, which position I accepted.

VI.—REPORT OF H. F. WILLIAMS.

At the request of the International Committee I attended the Indian Missionary Convention, held at Ascension Church, near Sisseton Agency, Dakota, September 23-26, 1885. This convention is held annually, and is composed of the missionaries, pastors and officers of the Indian churches, delegates from the various missionary societies, and representatives of the "Koska Okodakiciye," or Young Men's Associations, that have been formed in a number of the churches on the various reservations.

The young men held separate sessions for the discussion of the work of their Associations, and my mission was to bear to the Indian brethren the greetings of the Associations represented by the International Committee, and to make a careful study of the general plan and methods of work of the Indian Associations. Every opportunity was afforded for a thorough study of the work, and most grateful acknowledgement is made of the kindly assistance rendered by the veteran missionaries among the Dakota Sioux Indians, Rev. A. L. Riggs and Rev. J. P. Williamson. Several addresses were made through an interpreter, and profitable conferences were held on Bible study and kindred topics.

The results following the visit of the Committee's representative, which may be appropriately included in this report, are as follows: (1) An expressed strong desire on the part of the Indian young men to become identified with the Associations of their white brethren; (2) the subsequent appointment of a committee to confer with the State Secretary of the Minnesota and Dakota Associations, as to the manner of becoming a part of the State organization; (3) a change in the constitution of the Indian Associations, so that they were placed upon the evangelical basis; (4) the adoption of the "Dakota Young Men's Christian Associations," as the official name of the Indian organizations; (5) the appointment of delegates to the annual convention of the Associations of Minnesota and Dakota, at St. Paul, December 3-6, 1885; (6) the report of the above delegates at the convention named, and the formal reception of the Indian Associations into the State organization.

Later in the Autumn, I spent a month in the service of the Committee in assisting the Association at St. Paul in a financial canvass for its current expenses, and to meet a debt incurred by a change to more commodious quarters.

Again, in September, 1886, and January, 1887, I spent a month in the service of the Committee. My first work was the securing of an appropriation of $25 per month from the Northern Pacific Railroad Company, for the Association at Fargo, Dak. Helena, Montana, was next visited, the Association counseled with, a canvass for $2,500 for current expenses for a year, with a general secretary, organized and started, and the anniversary meeting addressed. The canvass was so far successful as to put the Association on a sound financial basis, and a secretary has since been secured. Two days were spent in Fargo assisting to secure the balance, $750, needed to employ a secretary and meet the current expenses. A visit to St. Paul was made to arrange with the Northern Pacific for ground on which to put a building for this Association. An excellent lot, without rent charge, was granted. Another day was given to successful effort in securing a secretary for the Association. Two days were spent at Sioux Falls, Dak., advising as to plans for work in the newly organized Association, and assisting in the opening of the new rooms.

Following this visit, I attended the Conference of the Dakota (Indian,) Young Men's Christian Associations, held on the Fort Totten Reservation, in North Dakota. The greeting of the Indian young men was most hearty. Their remembrance and use of the suggestions made in the visit the year before, and the ideas gained by the attendance of their delegates at the Minnesota State Convention were evident. The closest attention was given to the several addresses and Bible readings made through an interpreter. It was found that the number of Associations was thirteen, an increase of two during the year. Their reports were of an encouraging character.

The next point visited was Devil's Lake, Dak., reached by a stage ride of forty-five miles. Three days, including Sunday, were given to this place. The great need of an Association was apparent. A number of meetings, conferences, &c., were held, including a union service on Sunday evening. The few Christian young men in this town of 1,200 population, determined to organize. Following the organization a canvass was begun and more than $200 of the $350 required to open rooms were secured. Two days were given to the Association at Grand Forks, Dak., raising a deficit of several hundred dollars to meet the expenses of the year. I next visited Huron, a town of 4,000 population in Southern Dakota, where a personal presentation of the work to a few prominent business men, and at a union service on Sunday evening, resulted in securing sufficient funds for a year's work. A general secretary was called and a work, which has subsequently been very successful, was planned.

January 15th to 25th, was given to Watertown, Dak., a town of 8,500 population. Notwithstanding a violent storm which blockaded all railroad traffic and suspended business, the visit was attended with profitable results. Special meetings were held for men only that were greatly blessed, conferences were held with the Association and sufficient subscriptions were secured to meet current expenses and to employ a secretary.

During this month of service, I visited eleven different places, traveled 4,994 miles, assisted in a financial canvass at six places, and in securing and locating general secretaries in four new fields, held twenty-seven conferences with Associations, boards and committees, made six general addresses on Association work, and gave twenty-two Gospel addresses and Bible readings.

VII.—REPORT OF THEODORE A. HARDING.

I spent the month of March, 1886, in the service of the Committee, at Hamilton, Ont., and in Tennessee. At the former place an interest was fostered in securing an Association building, a strong committee appointed, and the canvass entered into heartily, with promise of ultimate success. The time in Tennessee was devoted principally to Memphis. The meetings held by Mr. Moody, followed by those of Messrs. Sayford and Towner, awakened a renewed interest in the Association. Visited Nashville in the interest of the State work, also attended the Convention of the Associations of Western Tennessee, at Dyersburg, March 18-20. Nine Associations were represented by forty-four delegates. Two Associations were organized, one at Mason, Tipton County, with fifty-five members, and the other at White Haven, with thirty-one members.

In the spring of 1887 I visited Associations in Florida at Jacksonville, St. Augustine and Orlando. At each of these points there is now a general secretary, and at Jacksonville there has recently been opened a finely equipped gymnasium with a competent instructor in charge. I also visited Associations in South Carolina, and represented the Committee at the State Conventions of Virginia and Georgia. The work in these four States showed great improvement over former years, and is on a better basis than ever before. Nearly all the Associations are falling into the line of effort for young men only.

VIII.—REPORT OF THOMAS J. WILKIE.

In the absence, through ill health, of T. S. Cole, Provincial Secretary, I devoted about two months at intervals in the fall and winter of 1886-87, to correspondence and visitation among the Associations of Ontario and Quebec. I arranged for and attended several district conferences and the Provincial Convention at Kingston, which gave a decided impetus to the work generally; I assisted in effecting a union between the Toronto Association and the Railway Men's Christian Association of the West End in that city, by which the latter became a Branch of the Association.

This work was done under arrangement with the International Committee and in coöperation with the Provincial Executive Committee.

REPORTS OF CORRESPONDING MEMBERS.

To APRIL 1, 1887.

CHINA.

There are five Associations in this empire. Three are in institutions of learning and two are city Associations. The Tung Chon High School Association was organized Sept. 29, 1886, with a membership of 22, since increased to 45. Rev. H. P. Beach is president. The Association in Wylie Institute, Peking, has a membership of 80. Rev. W. T. Hobart is president and Chin Sung Chang is corresponding secretary. The other College Association is in the Anglo-Chinese College at Foochow. Rev. N. J. Plumb is president.

The Association at Shanghai has a membership of 44, nearly all of whom are foreigners. Archdeacon Moule is president and Gilbert McIntosh is secretary. A reading room and a library are about to be added. The Peking Association numbers 46 members, with E. E. Aiken as president and Wang Tan Ting, secretary.

E. E. AIKEN, Cor. Mem.

GERMANY.

The year of 1886 has been one of marked general progress among the German Associations. The interest of the Christian public has been more than ever drawn to the necessity of definite work for young men. People who formerly never thought of giving money for such a purpose, now contribute very willingly. Scarcely one Christian convention on home mission work has been held during the year in which ample time has not been given to the discussion of this important subject. Funds are being raised in several places for the erection of Association buildings.

The need of qualified general secretaries to spread and strengthen the work is greatly felt, and the time has come when special attention should be given to the seeking and training of the right kind of young men for traveling and local general secretaries.

The second German National Convention is to be held at Wilhelmshöhe, near Cassel, this autumn. It is hoped that it will be possible to arrange for a "Secretaries' Conference"—the first in Germany—in connection with this gathering.

CHRISTIAN PHILDIUS, Cor. Mem.

GREAT BRITAIN.

England and Wales.—No year has been more fruitful or has yielded greater encouragement than that immediately past. The reports received from the District Secretaries show that the work has been extended to forty-nine new centers. Only five Associations are reported as having suspended operations.

Two new districts were organized during the year, viz.: the Southern, comprising seventeen Associations, and the South Eastern, comprising twenty Associations. Both districts have been admitted to the National Union.

Three hundred and twenty-five visits to 178 different towns were made by Traveling Secretaries Smith, Thorne and Moor during the past year.

To aid Associations to find persons qualified to fill the office of general secretary a Secretarial Appointment Board has been established to open communication with young men looking to the secretaryship and with Associations desiring secretaries and placing the candidates and Associations in communication with each other.

There are to-day in England, Wales and Ireland 327 Associations, 295 of which report a total membership, including Associates, of 86,806. Thirty-six Associations occupy their own buildings, valued at £209,102. The total value of Association property reported is £320,449.

Scotland.—There are 248 Associations in Scotland with a total membership of 28,846, a gain of 27 Associations during the year. District work has been carried on with vigor and success. Much of the progress is due to the devoted efforts of the District and Traveling Secretaries. The system of district and sub-district organization is now well-nigh complete. There have been formed for the first time during the past year sub-district councils composed of representatives appointed by each of the several Associations in the sub-district. Their duties are to arrange for local conferences and inter-visitation, supply speakers for annual meetings, employ evangelists for special services throughout the district, to help weak Associations, and to deal with the vexed question of finance.

The number of junior sections (composed of boys) connected with the Associations is steadily increasing.

The last reports show a very decided increase over any previous year in the number of Associations observing the Week of Prayer for Young Men and in the results attending such observance.

"The Young Men's Christian Magazine," the organ of the Associations of Scotland, is issued by the Glasgow Association, and has an annual circulation of 66,000 copies.

The past year has been one of much spiritual blessing among the Associations of this country.

Ireland.—Three years ago there were only eleven Associations reporting. Now there are fifty-one. The total number of Associations is fifty-seven, an increase of nine during the past year. Twenty-two of these have adopted the London rule of membership.

E. J. KENNEDY, Cor. Mem.

HAWAII.

The Honolulu Association has had another year of successful work. It now has a membership of 196 and a flourishing boys' department. The expenses for the year amounted to $2,857, and were met entirely by the receipts.

A branch work in the interest of Hawaiian young men has been undertaken which promises well. The Queen Emma residence having been rented and put in thorough order was formally opened on Saturday evening, March 12, 1887. The exercises of the evening were interesting and much enthusiasm was manifested by the large number of natives present. Educational classes, a debating society, and a gospel temperance meeting are held weekly, and well attended. The reading rooms are well patronized, especially in the evenings. Two rooms in the same building have been fitted up for Japanese young men, and they prove a bright center of attraction to many who gather for instruction, to read or play games. A generous amount of Japanese reading matter has been provided by the Consul and other friends of the work.

A. F. JUDD, Cor. Mem.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

(See Oregon.)

MANITOBA.

An Association has been organized at Brandon, a town of about 2,000 inhabitants situated 185 miles west of Winnipeg. Beside this there is nothing new to report. The Winnipeg Association is steadily growing and that of Manitoba College is also doing good work.

C. M. COPELAND, Cor. Mem.

NEW BRUNSWICK.

The last year has been marked by increased interest in Association work. Carleton, reported last year suspended, has been revived and is again actively at work. A new Association has been organized at Shediac, and through the visits of Secretary Ober, of the International Committee, Associations were organized in the University at Fredericton and in Mount Allison College, Sackville. There are now nine Associations in the Province.

The Association at St. John shows a very good record for the past year. One new feature of its work was the securing of a gymnastic instructor, who has taught Prof. Roberts' system, giving every satisfaction to the managing committee and members. It has increased the membership and led many to take a deeper interest in Association work. The Association has also been very successful in class work—penmanship, book-keeping, short-hand, music, debating club, &c.

Secretary Watkins of the International Committee made us a visit in the interest of the Executive Committee of the Maritime Provinces and succeeded in securing promises to the extent of $1,200 for a Traveling Secretary. Such an officer is now in the field.

J. E. IRVINE, Cor. Mem.

NOVA SCOTIA.

There are now in existence in this Province twenty-one Associations, of which three have been formed during the past year. Most of these are making a fair degree of progress.

Since January last the Executive Committee of the Maritime Provinces has had in the field for the first time a Traveling Secretary, Mr. A. W. McLeod. It is expected that his labors will result in consolidating the existing work as well as extending it by the formation of new Associations in promising places.

The Nineteenth Convention of the Maritime Provinces met in July, 1886, in Sydney, Cape Breton, and, notwithstanding the locality is the most easterly in the jurisdiction, we had the largest attendance for some years. There were present 119 delegates and corresponding members representing twenty-one Associations. The Convention was specially marked by the large number of young men comprised in the delegations. It was also particularly favored in having the help of a number of veteran Association workers of the continent. There were present of the International Committee, Cephas Brainerd, R. R. McBurney and E. D. Ingersoll, of New York, and from the Executive Committee of Ontario and Quebec, D. A. Budge and Dr. W. F. Kelly, of Montreal. These brethren contributed much valuable assistance toward making the Convention one of the most successful yet held.

Shortly after the close of the Convention the International Committee added to the favors already received by sending one of its Secretaries, E. W. Watkins, to visit a number of the Associations in order to interest them in the proposal to employ a Traveling Secretary. Mr. Watkins spent a month in this work and succeeded in obtaining sufficient promises of financial support in addition to the pledges made at the Convention to warrant the Executive Committee in engaging the Secretary who is now at work.

On the whole it is thought that the outlook for the future is more hopeful than for some time past.

W. B. McNUTT, Cor. Mem.

ONTARIO.

The work in this Province is very satisfactory, not so much in the increase of new organizations, but in better methods employed. The College Associations are especially active, and more buildings will probably be erected at an early day.

The Convention in Kingston, February 3-6, 1887, was a large and practical gathering and was much aided by the presence of the International Committee's representative, Mr. Wishard.

We have been without a Traveling Secretary for some months. The Committee is now arranging for the general secretaries at principal cities to visit the towns and cities in the neighboring districts. The total expenditure for Provincial work for the year was $1,155.46.

Under arrangement with the International Committee and in coöperation with the Provincial Committee, Thomas J. Wilkie devoted several weeks the past winter to correspondence and visitation among the Associations of Ontario.

JOHN GARTSHORE, Cor. Mem.

PRINCE EDWARD'S ISLAND.

The Association at Charlottetown has been greatly revived and strengthened by special evangelistic services held in that city last fall. A large number of young men has been added to its membership and work in all departments is now active. An effort is being made to wipe out, or at least diminish, the mortgage debt upon the building. The Association has great reason to "thank God and take courage."

The other Association on the Island, at Summerside, has shared in the blessing and is now in a healthy progressive state. Its public prayer meetings are well attended and its members active in the Master's work.

T. C. JAMES, Cor. Mem.

QUEBEC.

The debt of $18,000 upon the Quebec Association building has been paid during the year, and the building saved to the Protestant young men of that old historic city. The Provincial Committee thankfully acknowledges the contributions received outside the city and Province of Quebec. This good result was accomplished through the self-denying efforts of Thomas S. Cole, Provincial Secretary.

McGill University Association has collected from the students $1,200 towards its proposed building. The Board of Governors of the University has granted a site, and it is hoped that the fund will be completed next year. The Sherbrooke Association has received a legacy of a third interest in a building.

The District Committee is now carrying out a visitation tour among the small towns and the villages in the Province, the purpose being to create an Association sentiment and distribute general information concerning work for young men.

The Montreal Association is planning to organize branches at Port St. Charles and the North East End. D. A. BUDGE, Cor. Mem.

ALABAMA.

The past year has been marked by an increased interest and great activity in Association work throughout the State. New Associations have been organized at Tuscaloosa, Camden and Centreville.

There are now fifteen Associations in the State, with a membership of 1,400. The Associations at Selma and Birmingham have general secretaries, the former Association occupying its new building, which, with the lot on which it stands, is valued at $30,000. The Association at Marion is planning for the enlargement of its building, and has commenced raising money for that purpose.

Claus Olandt, Jr., is spending several weeks in the State, developing and strengthening the work under the direction of the State Committee.

A very successful State Convention is now in session at Mobile. Seventy-five delegates, representing fifteen Associations, are in attendance, and the International Committee is represented by H. Thane Miller and Secretaries Brown and Olandt. CHAS. W. LOVELACE, Cor. Mem.

ARKANSAS.

Quite an interest has been manifested of late in different parts of Arkansas in the Young Men's Christian Association movement. Inquiries about the work and how to organize have come to me from many of the larger towns.

There are now six Associations in this State. An organization has recently been formed at Pine Bluff. It has attractive rooms, and is doing a good work. The Association at Fort Smith, which was not properly organized, is dead. Hot Springs, with its large numbers of resident and transient young men, greatly needs an Association, and one, no doubt, would receive the hearty support of the ministers and many of the business men of that place.

The Little Rock Association has gained a strong hold upon the people, not only of the city, but all over the State. Nearly $4,000, besides the rental of a building, has been subscribed for the work of the current year, including the fitting up of a gymnasium, bath-room, &c. Over two hundred young men who have not heretofore been interested in or reached by the work have applied for membership, so that the outlook for the work at that important center of the State is most encouraging.

The work in the State greatly needs the supervising care of a State Committee and the continued assistance of the International Committee.

E. S. CHIPLEY, Cor. Mem.

CALIFORNIA.

The work in this State has made steady progress during the past year. Our aims and objects are becoming better understood. Without a single exception every Association in the State is now endeavoring to do a definite work for the spiritual, social, intellectual and physical welfare of young men. C. S. Mason has been continued as State Secretary, and has done a very efficient service. Building enterprises have been inaugurated at San Diego, Los Angeles, Riverside and Woodland, with a fair prospect of these localities securing buildings in the near future. At this writing San Diego has secured $18,000 of the $25,000 required; Los Angeles, $30,000 of the $50,000 necessary; Riverside, $11,000 of the $15,000 called for in that city, and Woodland, $6,000 of the $10,000 asked for there.

Four secretaries have been placed in the State during the year, and the first German secretary in the history of our work in California was employed October 1st in connection with the San Francisco Association. The Sixth Annual State Convention was held at Los Angeles October 21-24, 1886, attended by 188 delegates, and was one of the largest and most profitable conventions ever held in connection with the Associations west of the Rocky Mountains. The International Committee was represented by Major Joseph Hardie, of Alabama.

The following statistics will give some idea of the condition of the work in the State at this time: There are ten general secretaries, five assistants, and one State Secretary; twenty-three Associations, three of which are in colleges; 8,000 members; 16 reading rooms; 11 libraries; 17 Associations conduct Bible classes for young men; 19 Associations hold meetings for young men only; $25,000 have been expended by the various Associations. An aggressive work has been done among boys in connection with several of the Associations, and the inauguration of railroad work is now being contemplated.

HENRY J. McCOY, Cor. Mem.

COLORADO.

There are four Associations in Colorado, at Denver, Leadville, Colorado Springs and Pueblo, which are the only places in the State of over 5,000 population.

The Denver Association, with a general secretary and two assistants, is doing a good work. It has just moved into commodious quarters, finely located, and handsomely and attractively furnished at an expense of $1,500 through the efforts of the ladies' auxiliary. The future outlook is first-class.

The Leadville Association, which owns a building valued at $1,500, has been doing a very good work, especially for miners, under the leadership of Wildman Murphy, general secretary, who has been in charge four years.

Both of these Associations are looking forward to a canvass for building funds this year.

Colorado Springs and Pueblo are keeping up their organizations, but without doing any active work for young men. At the former place there is a building fund of $1,000, held in trust for the Association.

There are twelve other towns in the State from 2,000 to 5,000 population each, and the State committee will make an effort to do something in these places, besides a special effort that has been decided upon for miners and railroad men.

The Annual State Convention held at Denver, March 10-13, 1887, was attended by 46 delegates, and was a very satisfactory gathering. The presence of L. D. Wishard added much to the interest. During his visit of a week in our State, Mr. Wishard organized Associations in Denver University, Denver ; Colorado College, Colorado Springs ; and University of Colorado, at Boulder.

WESLEY T. SUNLEY, Cor. Mem. pro tem.

CONNECTICUT.

More aggressive Association work has been done in this State the past year than during any former twelve months. There are now sixteen Associations, fourteen of which employ general secretaries and six assistants. All but two hold meetings for young men only, and ten conduct workers' training classes.

Since the last report, Associations have been organized at Middletown, Norwalk and Winsted. Middletown has already a general secretary, and the other two will have soon.

The State Committee, composed of fifteen business men, has met regularly during the year. Our State Secretary, E. A. Lawrence, has rendered a very efficient service. In addition to his regular Association duties he has conducted successful evangelistic meetings at Southington and Winsted.

The Twenty-first Annual State Convention was held at Stamford, September 30-October 3, 1886. There was a large number of delegates and visitors, and excellent results were accomplished.

The work for special classes, including railroad men, commercial travelers, German and Swedish-speaking young men, is being prosecuted with success wherever there is a demand for it. Nearly every Association in the State has a boys' branch and ladies' auxiliary.

Since the last report, Dwight Hall, the beautiful building for the Association at Yale University, has been completed and dedicated and a competent general secretary placed in charge of the work there. It is expected that before another year has passed Association buildings will have been completed or will be in the process of erection, at New Britain, Norwich and Stamford.

Special attention has been given since the State Convention to district work, and two conventions have been held with large attendances and beneficial results.

Members and Secretaries of the International Committee have rendered prompt and valuable assistance whenever called upon, for which the Associations are greatly indebted.

The State Committee, notwithstanding its necessarily increased expenditure, closed the year without debt, and has reason to expect ample financial support for the year to come.

FLORIDA.

There are Associations in this State, at Jacksonville, Orlando, St. Augustine, Gainesville, Tallahassee, Apopka, Seville, Barton and Kissimmee. All but two of these organizations have been formed since the last Year Book was issued.

Jacksonville employs a general Secretary, has 400 members and a pleasant suite of rooms, including a gymnasium and bath rooms. Orlando is active and will soon be ready for a general secretary. St. Augustine has handsomely furnished rooms and is doing nicely. The work in other parts of the State is rapidly developing and it is hoped a State organization can soon be formed.

We have been aided by the International Committee through visits from its agents, Messrs. Watkins and Harding.

R. H. JONES, Cor. Mem.

GEORGIA.

In practical results the work of the past year has been exceptional. General secretaries are now in charge of the Associations at Savannah, Macon, Columbus, Americus and Atlanta, while the Associations at Barnesville, Norwood, Athens, Rome, Emory and Mercer Colleges are doing good work under executive secretaries. The ministry throughout the State are helping the work more generously than ever before. Many young men have been led to Christ and many others have been set at work for the Master.

A profitable district convention was held at Barnesville, one result of which was the securing of $1,300 and a lot, for a building for the Association there. The State Convention held at Columbus March 31-April 3, was a practical meeting. The reports made showed last year's work to have been the best in our history. T. A. Harding, representing the International Committee, C. H. Yatman, of Newark, N. J., and J. V. Read, State Secretary of Tennessee, were present and did good service.

State Secretary Williams has recently raised $2,300 in Augusta for a year's work with a general secretary. Building funds of over $7,000 in Athens, $1,000 in Norwood and $1,300 and a lot in Barnesville have been raised during the year. About $25,000 were raised last year throughout the State for Association purposes, while but a few years ago $1,200 would have covered the entire annual expenditure for work in Georgia.

In our State work we have received constant and valuable help from the International Committee, to which we owe much of the success.

W. WOODS WHITE, Cor. Mem.

ILLINOIS.

We have great reason to rejoice over the condition of the work among the Associations in this State. There are 77 Associations, 24 of which are in colleges, and 9 among railroad men. There are 16 boys' branches. The financial support is unusually good. There have been many conversions among young men and large accessions to the churches from the number. Our list of general secretaries is as follows: Four State, thirty-seven local, assistant, and railroad, and four vacancies; total, 45.

The State Committee is composed of 27 members and meets quarterly. Our State secretary, I. E. Brown, and his assistants, E. E. Brown, W. F. Levings and A. M. Bruner, have done very efficient service. A successful State Convention was held at Rockford, Oct. 7-10, 1886. Two hundred and twenty delegates and corresponding members from 48 Associations were present. The financial condition of the State work is good. Four thousand six hundred dollars of the $7,000 asked for 1887, has been pledged, and the balance will probably be secured.

There have been 9 district conferences held with good results. A college conference of great interest was held at Upper Alton in January, at which 28 accepted Christ and 43 expressed willingness to go into foreign missionary work.

The members of many of our Associations are interesting themselves in a commendable manner in bringing in new members. This is especially noticeable in Chicago where the total membership in all departments now reaches nearly 5,000.

The International Committee, through Secretaries Morse, Wishard, Weidensall, Ingersoll and Ober, have rendered us valuable assistance.

A. T. HEMINGWAY, Cor. Mem.

INDIANA.

There are at present in Indiana nine general, eight college, and three railroad Associations, which for the past two years have suffered largely for the want of the fostering care of a State Secretary. Nine general secretaries have left the work during the year, and there are only four in the field at present.

The State Convention for 1886 was deferred until March, 1887, when it was held in Indianapolis. One hundred representatives from twenty Associations were in attendance, and over $2,000 were pledged for State work. F. W. Douglas, of Beatrice, Nebraska, who had been spending a couple of months in the State under the auspices of the International Committee, was elected State Secretary by the State Committee.

The event of the year has been the erection of an elegant new building by the Indianapolis Association, at a cost of $35,000, upon a site valued at $40,000.

We are greatly indebted to the International Committee for the services of its Secretaries, Weidensall, Ober and Douglass and of its special agent, F. W. Douglas.

O. H. PALMER, Cor. Mem.

IOWA.

During the year the number of Associations has grown from forty-three to fifty, College Associations from eleven to fifteen, and men employed from thirteen to seventeen, with three vacancies. There are five gymnasiums, with baths, and, with one exception, with instructors, who give their entire time to this department.

The State Committee consists of thirteen members, seven of whom are, and must be, residents of Des Moines. The committee holds two full meetings each year. The members residing at Des Moines constitute an executive committee, and hold such meetings as may be necessary. There are sub-committees on boys' work and college work.

An Assistant State Secretary has been employed since September, 1886. His attention is given to State finances, smaller Associations, and acting as general secretary in case of loss of such officers.

The State Convention was held at Des Moines, October 28-31, attended by 123 delegates from thirty-four Associations.

The college work has prospered very much the past year, especially due to the fact that eleven of the colleges were represented at the "Students' Summer School for Bible Study" at Mount Hermon. The college conference, held at Fairfield in January, 1887, was attended by eighty-five students, and was in all respects a valuable meeting.

The first Railroad Association in the State has been organized at Creston, and its budget calls for $2,600 for the first year.

The help of the International Committee has been felt in the State Convention and college conferences, and Secretary Weidensall has given the State between two and three weeks time on the finances within the year.

M. H. SMITH, Cor. Mem.

KANSAS.

There are now in this State 89 Associations, eight of which are in colleges and one is a Railroad Department. The work was never in a more prosperous condition than at present. The Associations are engaged in a definite work for young men. All hold religious meetings for young men, and a large number have training classes. The spiritual results the past year have been very encouraging.

Four Associations have secured lots during the year, on which they expect to erect permanent homes in the near future.

The State Committee was increased to 23 members at the last Convention. It has held quarterly meetings, and has done some very effectual work. A State Secretary, an Assistant and an Office Secretary are employed, and the committee is looking for a third assistant.

The State Convention held at Ottawa, Nov. 4-7, was the best gathering of the kind, spiritually and financially, ever held in this State. Two hundred and fifty delegates were present and over $3,200 was pledged for State work. The State is divided into four districts, with a chairman and secretary in each. Five district conferences have been held with good results.

Valuable aid has been received from the International Committee through its Secretaries, Weidensall and Ingersoll.

AUGUSTUS NASH, Cor. Mem.

KENTUCKY.

Our need of a State Secretary becomes more and more apparent, as we see, in many instances, Associations organized with every prospect of success, flourish for a short while then suspend or give up altogether, simply for want of advice and encouragement, such as a Secretary could give.

There are now Associations at Louisville, Paducah, Lexington, Princeton, Madisonville, Paris, Versailles, Auburn, Richmond, Danville, Millersburg, Berea, Georgetown and Perryville.

The Louisville Association is more active and aggressive than for several years; the outlook is bright and the promise for good things in the future is better than ever before. This result has been brought about in part by the erection of a very handsome gymnasium. A general secretary, two assistants and a superintendent of the gymnasium are employed here.

There has been considerable activity in the Paducah Association of late. Its prospects are flattering. The College Associations are all in healthy condition. There has been no State Convention this year. A successful and profitable State College Conference was held at Lexington in February, 1887.

Secretaries Weidensall, Watkins and Ober have visited us during the year.

JOHN G. CECIL, Cor. Mem.

LOUISIANA.

There are now ten Associations in this State, an increase of four during the past year, which we consider as quite encouraging. Most of them are small in membership, but are endeavoring to do good work in their several localities.

The New Orleans Association has increased its membership considerably, maintained its work among young men as well as in the prison and hospital, and has made good progress financially.

There has been no State work during the year.

CHARLES H. SHUTE, Cor. Mem.

MAINE.

There has been a considerable increase in interest in Association work in this State during the past year. Two new Associations, at Greenville and Kenduskeag, have been organized since my last report, and one has died. We now have twenty Associations, most of which are actively at work. General secretaries are employed at Augusta, Bangor, Lewiston, Portland and Rockland, and the vacancy at Auburn will probably be filled soon.

Our State Committee numbers fifteen. Several meetings have been held and careful consideration has been given to State work. Our State Convention was held at Portland, October 28-31, 1886. There was a large attendance of delegates. H. M. Moore, of Boston, and State Secretary Lawrence, of Connecticut, represented the International Committee and rendered valuable aid. Great interest in the work was manifested and the State Committee was instructed to engage a State Secretary, provided sufficient funds for a year's work were raised in advance. A considerable sum for this purpose has been secured and a Secretary will be employed soon.

Very successful work for boys has been done by many of the Associations. Flourishing College Associations exist in Bates, Bowdoin, and the State College at Orono, and in Colby University and Bucksport Seminary. Bates, Bowdoin and Colby were represented at the School for Bible Study at Mt. Hermon last summer.

L. W. Messer, of Cambridge, Mass., and Geo. S. Avery, of Lowell, Mass., have rendered valuable assistance to several of our Associations.

W. S. COREY, Cor. Mem.

MASSACHUSETTS.

There are in this State at present fifty-three Associations and two Branches, forty-four being general, seven college and two railroad. Total membership is 14,671. There are thirty-five general secretaries and assistants beside other employés.

During the past year Associations have been organized at Brocton, Fitchburg, Jamaica Plains, Milford and North Adams, and the Society of Christian Brethren in Harvard University has become one of the College Young Men's Christian Associations in name as well as in work. Two Associations have called secretaries for the first time and four others are prepared to employ such officers. General secretaries have been placed, during the year, at Amesbury, Jamaica Plains, North Adams and Stoneham. The building of the Worcester Association, erected at a cost of $150,000, will soon be dedicated.

The State Convention held at Lowell, October 21-24, 1886, was attended by 216 delegates. During the year there have been two conferences of the general secretaries with the State Committee in Boston, nine district conventions, and one New England General Secretaries' Conference, at Cambridge. The School for Christian Workers at Springfield is in a flourishing condition and its influence is already felt in this State.

At the close of the State Convention, Walter C. Douglass resigned the position of State Secretary, much to the regret of all our Associations. R. M. Armstrong, general secretary at Springfield, was chosen to fill the vacancy, and began work in November.

The division of the State into five districts has been completed, and each one is doing a good work.

Some additional railroad work has been done at one or two points. The State Committee has held regular monthly meetings except during the summer months. The International Committee was represented at our State Convention, and has materially aided our work in other ways.

As a whole, our Associations are in a flourishing condition, and a good year's work has been accomplished. S. B. CARTER, Cor. Mem.

MICHIGAN.

During the past year it has been the policy of the State Committee to strengthen and build up existing organizations more than to form new ones. We think results prove the wisdom of this course, as nearly every Association in the State is in good, healthy working order. Instead of checking, this has had the effect of stimulating other places to desire organization, when they have seen the good work done. So that since the date of last report new Associations have been organized at Flint, Sturgis, Northville, Niles, East Saginaw, Cadillac and Hillsdale.

The present number of Associations and Branches in connection with the State Association is twenty-nine; the number not so connected, four, making a total of thirty-three Associations. One Association has become extinct. The total membership is about three thousand.

The district work has been successfully prosecuted. Conferences were held during the fall in three of the five districts, and were in every sense successful.

In the matter of buildings, there has been very encouraging progress. In August the Marquette Association, that fifteen months ago seemed nearly ready to die, dedicated the first Association building ever opened north of the straits of Mackinaw. Kalamazoo, with a record of but half a year with a fully-organized work, has so won the public favor that one wealthy gentleman (Senator Stockbridge) presented the Association with a lot valued at $7,000, and the prospects for a building are bright. The new building at Detroit was delayed by a strike among bricklayers last summer, but the work is progressing, and roofing has begun. The pledges to its fund now aggregate about $71,000, and its dedication in the early summer, free from all debt, is practically assured.

Gracious revivals have blessed the Associations at Kalamazoo, Olivet, Hope and Hillsdale Colleges. Grand Rapids, Lansing and other points have been similarly blessed.

The number of paid secretaries is 13.

The State Convention at Grand Rapids, Feb. 3-6, 1887, was the largest ever held in the State. There were present 256 delegates besides visitors. The State Committee consists of 18 members, 6 of whom are chosen each year. The State finances are in fine shape. All debts are paid, and the pledges at the Convention, for State work during the year, though made in the face of a vacancy in the State Secretaryship, were larger than the previous year.

J. M. Barkley, who has done such noble work as State secretary, has, much to the regret of the State Committee and the Associations throughout the State, resigned, and his successor has not yet been appointed. His persistent, faithful and efficient services have placed Michigan in the front rank as to Association work. It is the purpose of the State Committee to put a State Secretary in the field as soon as the right man can be secured.

We mention with gratitude the assistance given us by the International Committee. Mr. Weldensall helped us in securing financial support, and Messrs. Wishard, Ober and Douglass have given us their counsel and cheer.

We are looking for better things than ever before, and are confident that we shall not be disappointed.

J. R. DUTTON, Cor. Mem.

MINNESOTA AND DAKOTA.

The work of the Young Men's Christian Associations of Minnesota and Dakota exhibits a growth that is most encouraging.

The number of Associations has increased from 28 to 42. The number of young men giving their entire time to the work has doubled, and is now twenty. The way has been opened for the employment of general secretaries at seven new points, four of them being in Dakota.

In the College Department a marked religious interest is reported and two new Associations have been organized.

The Railroad Department has the expressed encouragement of nearly all officials. Appropriations have been secured and work begun at two railroad centers, and systematic work has been instituted at two other points.

The interest in securing buildings has been unprecedented. At Duluth the Association has come into possession of a good building; at Minneapolis the subscription to the building fund has nearly reached the amount requisite to secure a handsome and well equipped home; at St. Paul a very encouraging commencement has been made; at Fargo, Dak., a building with adequate rooms, including gymnasium, has been placed on ground granted without rent charge by the Northern Pacific Railroad Co.; at Winona a canvass is in progress for a $40,000 building; and there is special interest at several other places.

The last State Convention, held at Winona, Minn., was not only the largest, but was the best ever held in the field. Over $2,500 were pledged for State work, and the Convention recommended the employment of an Assistant State Secretary. Frank Cutler, of Northfield, Minn., has since been secured for this position, and his effective service has been attended with excellent results.

The State Committee has been increased from eighteen to twenty-one members. The expenses of State work last year were about $2,500, exceeding the income nearly $800. The field in size is equal to the combined area of all the New England States, New York and Pennsylvania. Its condition is one of rapid growth, and its population contains a larger proportion of young men than in any of the older States. The magnitude and importance of the work intrusted to the Committee are therefore easily seen.

The remarkable growth and development of the work the past year is largely due to the faithful and efficient service of our State Secretary, H. F. Williams.

The International Committee has the grateful remembrance of our workers for the help of C. K. Ober, at the State Convention for substantial assistance in our State work and for other service rendered in various ways.

H. E. FLETCHER, Cor. Mem.

MISSOURI.

Considering that we have had no State Secretary, Missouri has made gratifying advancement in Association work since last year's report. Fifteen new Associations have been organized and two have ceased to exist, making a net gain of thirteen. The total number now existing is thirty-eight, twenty-five of which are general, eight college, three railroad, one German and one colored.

The growth of Kansas City has been so phenomenal that the Association decided, even after the foundation of its new building was laid, that the lot was too small. It accordingly disposed of the lot for $50,000, and purchased a larger and more eligible site for $16,500, and with the balance of the money realized and some $40,000 which it has raised in addition, will erect this year a much finer and more commodious structure than was at first contemplated. The St. Joseph Association expects to occupy its new $70,000 building about June 1. At Independence, a town of 5,000 inhabitants, $20,000 has been raised for an Association building, which, with the lot and furnishing, will cost upwards of $25,000. It is proposed to raise the balance needed during the process of erection.

A general secretary has been placed for the first time at Higginsville, a town of 3,000 inhabitants. There are no secretarial vacancies in the State at present. Several new points will probably be open for secretaries within a few months.

The State has been districted and the State work is carried on by the State Committee, assisted by the general secretaries. The Committee meets quarterly and since adopting the plan of meeting once each year at St. Joseph and Kansas City the work has been greatly strengthened.

184 delegates, representing 26 Associations, attended the Tenth Annual State Convention at Independence October 28-31, 1888. $750 were pledged for State work. A revival followed the Convention, which added many to the churches of the town, and the Association building movement there was really an outgrowth of the Convention.

A colored branch has been organized at St. Louis, for which there is a wide field of operation.

We are under great obligations to the International Committee for the help given by its Secretaries, Henry Edwards Brown and Walter C. Douglass, at the Convention, and for the assistance of the latter in the work at St. Louis and in the building canvass at Kansas City.

T. S. McPHEETERS, Cor. Mem. pro tem.

NEBRASKA.

I have to report 18 Associations in Nebraska. During the last year two died and one was organized. As a general thing all are prosperous. There were more professed conversions the past year than during any previous year.

The State Convention was largely attended, and Robert Weidensall, C. K. Ober and H. E. Brown were present and rendered valuable help.

The State Committee has no paid secretary and works by correspondence and visitation. It meets quarterly. J. C. DENISE, Cor. Mem.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

New Hampshire has twenty-four Associations, the same number as reported last year. Two have been dropped from the list and two have been organized. Keene and Concord have general secretaries, and are doing a successful, definite work for young men and boys. Keene has moved into new and elegant rooms, and Concord has taken a fourth room and fitted it for a hall for meetings. Other Associations are doing a more general work, it seeming necessary on account of local reasons.

The State Committee consists of thirty-one members. A sub-committee meets as occasion demands for the transaction of most of the business. The State Secretary and Assistant devote their whole time to the work. As in previous years, considerable time has been spent in conducting gospel meetings in different parts of the State, in which many young men were reached and developed into Christian workers. The fourteenth annual series of gospel meetings is now in progress and has been attended with marked success. The Secretaries stand in readiness to do all local Association work required, by correspondence, visitation or otherwise.

The Nineteenth Annual State Convention, at Dover, September 30—October 3, 1886, was one of the most successful ever held in the State. More than two hundred delegates were in attendance. In the discussions special emphasis was laid upon the necessity of work for young men, and never before was Association work in its various phases more ably presented. Several earnest workers were present from other States. The International Committee was represented by Walter C. Douglass, who rendered valuable aid. As one result of the Convention, an Association has been organized in Dover that promises to be very successful.

In July an Association was organized in Bath. Several of our Associations are doing special work for commercial travelers and for boys. Reports were made to the Convention from twenty-three Associations, with nine hundred members; eight have reading rooms; eleven have Bible classes; twelve reported special religious interest. Those reporting hold from one to five religious services every Sunday and one or two on week days. One small Association received fifty members the past year. Conversions have occurred in several, thirty-seven being the largest number reported from any one Association.

The International Committee has been ready to render all assistance called for. ALLEN FOLGER, Cor. Mem.

NEW JERSEY.

The condition of Association work in New Jersey has never been better than at present. The past year has been a fruitful one in the salvation of young men and the future is bright with promise. The old Associations have grown stronger and more persuasive in their influence, and the new Associations are full of vigor and promise permanent usefulness.

The State Convention held at Burlington in May, 1886, was largely attended and gave an impetus to the work, which has been felt through the year. There are thirty-five Associations in the State, eight of which are in colleges. Twelve Associations employ thirteen general secretaries, six assistants and three gymnasium instructors—a gain of six salaried officials.

The following Associations, each employing a general secretary, have been formed: Bloomfield, Paterson, and Trenton. Associations have also been organized at Asbury Park, Belvedere, Summit, Vineland, in South Jersey Institute at Bridgeton and, very recently, at Jersey City. The Associations at Orange and New Brunswick now occupy new and commodious buildings of their own, while in Morristown the foundations of a $20,000 building will soon be laid.

The college work is full of interesting features and practical results. Many conversions are reported. Bible study is receiving much attention. In Princeton, alone, twenty young men are consecrated to foreign missionary work.

NEW YORK.

The past year has been one of continued growth in numbers, influence and usefulness among the Associations of this State.

The Twenty-first Annual State Convention was held in Utica February 17-20, 1887, and was much more largely attended than any of its predecessors, there being present 616 delegates, representing 99 Associations. The meeting was a very successful and profitable one. Seventy-one hundred dollars were subscribed for State work in less than thirty minutes. R. R. McBurney and Walter C. Douglass represented the International Committee.

The report of the State Committee presented to this Convention showed 126 Associations now at work in the State, with an aggregate membership of 25,237; 14 of this number are College Associations and 24 are Railroad Branches; 18 own buildings valued at $1,391,800; and there is a total net property of $2,014,991 reported; 108 persons are employed as general secretaries and agents of local Associations.

State Secretary Hall has performed another year of most excellent service. He has been ably assisted by Rufus C. Stanley, W. H. Sallmon and Oliver C. Morse. The latter gentleman has recently been chosen Assistant State Secretary. The State Convention authorized the employment of a second assistant, and it is expected that such an officer will soon be secured.

Handsome Association buildings are now in the course of erection at Albany and at Harlem and the Grand Central Station in New York City. At a number of other points building funds have been, or are being, secured, and the erection of permanent homes will soon be begun.

There has been an encouraging growth in the spiritual work as well as in the other departments. The Week of Prayer for Young Men was generally observed and with excellent results. 36 Associations report 574 professed conversions, 243 of whom have united with churches.

At the State Conference of General Secretaries, held at Schenectady just previous to the Utica Convention, there were 122 secretaries and visitors present. To stimulate the Associations throughout the State, eight district conventions and twelve local conferences, well attended, were held during the year.

ASSOCIATION BUILDING, BROOKLYN, N. Y.
HANOVER PLACE FRONT.
Dimensions 60x100 feet.

OHIO.

We have 48 Associations, 36 of which are members of the State Association; 18 of these are general, 15 college and 3 railroad. Sixteen Associations report current expenses $41,380, 10 own buildings valued at $263,355, 4 have building funds amounting to $18,505, 2 have endowment funds amounting to $7,500, 17 own furniture valued at $14,250, 12 own libraries valued at $4,035, 20 have reading rooms, 16 report young men's meetings with aggregate average attendance of 766, 113 report Bible classes with an average attendance of 282.

During the year Associations have been formed at Canton, New Lisbon, Fostoria and in the National Normal University at Lebanon. The Associations at Bellaire and Miamisburgh have disbanded.

One year ago there were 17 secretaries and other paid agents at 10 points. Now there are 26 at 14 points, making, with the State Secretary, 27 men at work in the State.

Secretary Ober, of the International Committee, rendered valuable service early in the year, and aided the State Committee in securing our present efficient State Secretary, Samuel D. Gordon, who entered upon his work July 1st.

District Conferences have been held at Lebanon and Ashtabula, attended with very satisfactory results.

At Akron, Canton, Dayton, Salem, Youngstown, Toledo and the Broadway Branch, Cleveland, building funds have been commenced, new buildings projected, and, in two cases, at the Broadway Branch, Cleveland, and Youngstown the gymnasium buildings completed. The building at Dayton, dedicated February 6th, is to-day, for general Association purposes, the most complete of any west of Pittsburgh.

The State Convention at Xenia, Feb. 10-13, 1887, was very well attended, there being present two of the International Secretaries, nine members of the State Committee, with representatives from the Railroad, College and general Associations, making with the junior department present, an attendance of two hundred and thirty-five. The delegation of college students was by far the largest ever present at any Convention in this State. The presence, and efficient services, of Secretaries Douglass and Ober of the International Committee contributed greatly to the success of the Convention, which was remarkable for a deep religious interest and earnest consecration. The report of the treasurer showed an expenditure of $1,721.65, with every obligation met and a balance in the treasury.

The State Committee, since the employment of the present Secretary, has aimed to secure thorough and active organization for Association work in the larger towns, not, however, neglecting the smaller places where circumstances seemed to be favorable. As a consequence, the religious work during the year has been marked by a decided advance. The Week of Prayer in November was observed with increased interest, and thus far twelve Associations report four hundred and fifteen conversions. The work, in fact, has assumed such proportions that the recommendations of the State Committee, made at the Convention, of an increase in the number of the State Committee and the raising of more money for an increase in the secretarial force, were adopted.

WM. McALPIN, Cor. Mem.

OREGON, WASHINGTON TERRITORY AND BRITISH COLUMBIA.

The number of Associations has increased in this territory from 9 to 13, there now being 6 in Oregon, 4 in Washington Territory, 3 in British Columbia. Four Associations have general secretaries, young men's meetings, Bible studies, lecture courses, practical talks, young men's socials, gymnasiums and baths. The Portland Association is expecting to soon occupy a building of its own.

The Executive Committee secured the services of C. S. Mason, acting State Secretary of California, for one month of visitation in 1886, and have also engaged his services for a thorough visitation in 1887. Our Third Annual Convention was held in Astoria on September 23-26, 1886, with 28 delegates present. Among the visiting brethren were Major Joseph Hardie, of the International Committee, and H. J. McCoy and C. S. Mason, of California. The meeting was a very profitable one, and among the results was the raising of money for a general secretary in the local field and $700 for the work of the Executive Committee.

E. W. Watkins spent several weeks in Portland last spring, aiding the Association there in its building project. He also visited several other important points in this section and rendered valuable assistance.

E. C. FROST, Cor. Mem.

PENNSYLVANIA.

Our Annual State Convention was held at Altoona, October 14-17, 1886, two hundred and twenty-five regular delegates, representing 57 Associations, being in attendance.

1. As representing somewhat the condition of the work in this State, the following statistics are presented: Number of Associations reporting, 102; number of general secretaries and assistants, State and local, 56; number of places in addition ready for general secretaries, 5; Associations owning buildings, 11; Associations in addition with building funds, 6; value of buildings and real estate, $850,000; building funds in addition, paid in, $11,618; building funds pledged in addition, $89,000; 23 Associations are in educational institutions; 9 are at work among railroad men; 70 report special meetings for young men; 65 report reading rooms and libraries; 30 report meetings for Bible study and training of workers; 12 report gymnasiums; 30 report ladies' auxiliaries; 21 are incorporated.

The increase of the past year has been steady and permanent. No special effort has been made to organize at new points, excepting in a very few places, where the calls have been urgent and the time exceedingly propitious. In not a few places it has been advised that efforts to organize should be postponed until the most thorough preparation had been made, so that where such a step is taken there may be reasonable assurance of steady usefulness. The burden of the past year's service has been to strengthen existing Associations.

2. During the past year an Act of Incorporation of the State Young Men's Christian Association of Pennsylvania has been secured.

S. K. McKee has been employed as an additional assistant to the State Secretary.

3. District Conventions have been held at New Castle, Bryn Mawr, Warren, Lewisburg, Berwick, Oil City, Washington, Steelton and Norristown. They have been productive of even more than former good results.

4. At Williamsport the proposed Association building will be erected the coming season. At Danville Hon. Thomas Beaver has through his own generosity commenced the erection of a building for the Association at that point. It will probably be completed and occupied early in the summer. The cost is not exactly known, but will not fall short of $30,000. The new building of the Scranton Association was formally occupied by special services and receptions, February 3-5. It is spacious and well adapted to the needs of the field. The rear building for hall and gymnasium is only completed in part, $15,000 additional being required. One half of this sum has been secured and work will be resumed. The Northeast Branch of the Philadelphia Association has purchased for $15,000, a lot 57 x 120 on which it contemplates erecting a suitable building as soon as practicable. $2,500 of the purchase money remains to be subscribed.

5. The religious interest reported during the present season has been even more marked than for some years past. The young men's meetings, specially to reach the unconverted, have been generally well attended, and a large number of young men have been dealt with personally respecting their eternal welfare.

S. A. TAGGART, Cor. Mem.

RHODE ISLAND.

There are four Associations in this State, viz, Providence, Newport, Bristol and Brown University. The latter has made the largest growth and realized the best year's work since its organization. The Providence Association has steadily increased its membership and largely extended its work. At this writing it has secured pledges for over $133,000 of the $150,000 desired for its building.

The district work has been carried on jointly with the Southern District of Massachusetts. Valuable aid has been rendered by the International Committee through its Secretary, Walter C. Douglass.

C. A. HOPKINS, Cor. Mem.

SOUTH CAROLINA.

Some progress has been made in South Carolina during the past year. Nearly all the Associations are in small towns and villages where there are not many young men, and consequently it is hard to sustain the work properly.

The State Secretary, H. G. Scudday, devoted three months to the work last year and organized a few new Associations, besides stimulating to increased activity several which had allowed the interest to languish.

As one result of the State Convention held in Columbia in the spring of 1886 the Association in that place was enabled to raise funds for the employment of a secretary. A most efficient officer was found, comfortable rooms were secured and fitted up attractively, and good work is now being done. Charleston Association now employs a secretary, an assistant and a gymnasium superintendent. The influence these two Associations have exerted on the work throughout the State has been exceedingly beneficial. There are two places where general secretaries should be located, viz., Greenville and Spartanburg.

The amount of good accomplished in the college organizations last year is very great, and is indeed one of the most encouraging features of our work.

While the State Committee has done all that it could with the limited finan cial support it has received, it is hoped that this year by a re-organization and by increased financial aid from all the Associations it may be placed on a more permanent basis and become more effective in its work.

We acknowledge a visit of H. E. Brown to the Colored Associations in Charleston and Columbia. It is probable that a consolidation of the two colored organizations in Charleston will follow as a result of this visit.

Finally, I beg to refer to the most valuable services rendered the Charleston Association in its time of need by the International Committee through its Secretary, E. W. Watkins. In the darkest hour, following the earthquake calamity of August, 1886, when all things were discouraging, the Committee came to our aid and has been a constant helper ever since. We desire to express our most hearty appreciation of its thorough and efficient work.

A. T. JAMISON, Cor. Mem. pro tem.

TENNESSEE.

There has been a very decided progress in Association work in our State during the year. At present there are sixty Associations, twenty one being in institutions of learning. Although no special effort has been made for organization, sixteen new Associations have been formed. All of our Associations have made progress as they have carried out the Association object—definite work for young men only.

Several of the Associations are looking forward to permanent homes. Bristol has raised $8,000 and expects to build this summer upon a lot donated. Knoxville has $9,000 subscribed by the Association members and intends to make an effort for a building this spring. Nashville, with a fund of $39,000, has purchased a lot and broken ground for its building. Athens is to build a Queen Anne cottage costing $1,500, and Union City has just raised $3,000 for a like purpose. This subject is being agitated in other places also.

Our State Committee consists of twenty-six members and has its headquarters at Nashville. It has met regularly throughout the year, as well as held several special meetings.

The programme for Association Day at the Mont Eagle Sunday School Assembly was arranged for by the State Committee, and the exercises were participated in by a large delegation from the Tennessee Associations, as well as from adjoining States.

The State Convention, held at Knoxville in October, 1886, was the largest attended and the most fruitful in results of any Convention yet held. Thirty-five Associations were represented by 110 delegates. Nearly $1,800 was subscribed for State work. J. V. Read has since been engaged and has entered upon his work as State Secretary.

Our districts are all well cared for by faithful committees. The best District Conventions yet held in the State were those of the past winter. Each was attended by over fifty delegates. A conference was also held at Jackson in September, largely in the interest of the local work.

All of our twenty-one College Associations are actively at work. Fifteen of them were represented at the State Convention.

We are indebted to the International Committee for services rendered by Robert Weidensall and E. W. Watkins.

The Lord hath surely done great things for us in Tennessee, whereof we are glad.

JAMES H. COWAN, Cor. Mem.

TEXAS.

The Associations in Texas are steadily gaining in favor and in numbers. There are now twenty-one, eight of which have general secretaries, while others are raising money for that purpose. One Association owns its building and another owns the upper rooms it occupies. Three others are moving for buildings, and it is probable that the next three years will witness the erection of some handsome Association buildings.

Galveston, Houston, Dallas and San Antonio, the largest cities in the State, have well-organized Associations and their prospects are most promising.

The State Committee has frequent calls to help feeble Associations and furnish information to those who wish to organize new Associations.

Forty delegates from sixteen Associations attended the State Convention held at Dallas, Dec. 2-5, 1886, and were all much pleased and profited thereby. The Convention deemed it inexpedient to attempt to have a State Secretary as yet, but the general feeling was in favor of securing such an officer as soon as it was practicable. Major Joseph Hardie and H. E. Brown represented the International Committee at this gathering.

We are under many obligations to the International Committee for several months services of its Secretary, Henry E. Brown, whose earnest and efficient work has been of the greatest value to the cause.

THOMAS CONYNGTON, Cor Mem. pro tem.

VERMONT.

The Association work of Vermont is, generally speaking, in a prosperous condition, and in several of the larger towns especially so. George S. Avery was employed a portion of the year as State Secretary and rendered a valuable service. During the year Associations were organized at Middlebury, Winoochi, and in the State Normal School at Castleton. Several of the older Associations have extended their work. A number of conversions are reported by different Associations. In the Vermont Academy Association twenty young men have professed to have found Christ during the year. The Burlington Association was burnt out during the winter and is now planning to erect a new and elegant building on a valuable site purchased during the year. The outlook for Association work in Vermont is encouraging.

F. W. SMITH, Cor Mem.

VIRGINIA.

The work in Virginia was never in a more promising condition. We rejoice in the progress made this past year. There are thirty-six Associations in the State, twenty-three of which are local and thirteen college. Six were organized during the year.

The definiteness of the work has been a noticeable feature this past year. At Norfolk, Petersburg, Alexandria, Richmond, Lynchburg, Luray, Charlottesville, Staunton and Roanoke all the efforts are for young men.

A great advance has been made in the line of buildings and building funds. Lynchburg now owns a $17,000 home; Richmond will dedicate a building in April costing $42,000; Norfolk has a fund of $20,000 and is erecting a building to cost $31,000; Alexandria has purchased a home at a cost of $3,500; Staunton has a fund of over $3,000; and at a single meeting in the little town of Luray, with less than 1,000 inhabitants, $2,560 was pledged for the erection of a building.

The Annual State Convention was held in Staunton, February 24-27, 1887, with a delegation twice as large as in any previous year. $1,500 were pledged for the State work for the coming year. The annual College Conference was held at the University of Virginia, December 2-5, and was attended by 65 delegates.

The State Committee, composed of 18 members, with headquarters at Richmond, has held seven meetings during the year. H. O. Williams, of New Haven, Conn., accepted a call to the State Secretaryship and began his duties December 1. He has raised money for general secretaries at Charlottesville, Staunton and Alexandria, reorganizing the Association at the latter place and raising sufficient funds to carry on the work for the first year. Charlottesville secured a secretary January 1, and the Staunton and Alexandria Associations have each called one.

Railroad work is carried on at Richmond, at two points, at Charlottesville and at Roanoke. The way is about open for a railroad secretary at Petersburg.

The State has received considerable aid the past year from agents of the International Committee, especially in securing a State Secretary and at the College Conference and State Convention.

WISCONSIN.

Wisconsin has thirty-one Associations, a gain of three during the year. One State Secretary and two Assistants, sixteen local secretaries, three assistants and two gymnasium instructors make a total of twenty-four persons now employed by the Associations of the State, a gain of two during the year.

The year has been marked by an almost complete change in the secretarial force, only seven secretaries or assistants having been in their present positions at this time last year. This has necessarily made much change in plans and methods of work, but it is altogether for the better, the work throughout the State never looking so promising.

The State Committee, as in the past, has given much time and attention to the work, quarterly meetings being held, in one instance only failing of a quorum.

The State Secretary has completed a decade of continuous service in one position, and much of the success of the work in the State is due to his faithfulness. The Assistant State Secretary has done excellent work in this, his first year, while the Secretary among the lumbermen completed his fifth year of work among the woodsmen, marked by great blessing. An Assistant, doing exclusively evangelistic work, has been in the field three months.

The Twelfth Annual State Convention was held in Baraboo in October; $2,600 were pledged to the State work, a sum larger than ever before. The International Committee was represented by Secretaries Ingersoll and Olandt.

The fifth State College Conference was held in Beaver Dam, Feb. 10-13, 1887, attended by a goodly number of delegates, and was followed by a revival, in which nearly all the students in Wayland University professed conversion. R. P. Wilder of Princeton, Miss Dunn, Secretary of the National Committee of the Young Women's Christian Association, and College Secretary Wishard were in attendance. The Fourth International Railroad Conference was held in Milwaukee in May last, well attended, and accompanied by excellent results. Seven District Conferences have been held, three of which resulted in the organization of Associations and employment of general secretaries.

The College Associations have been active. On the Day of Prayer for Colleges, at Ripon, under the lead of the State Secretary, twenty-eight students decided for Christ, and in the days immediately following the number was made thirty-six.

The railroad work has been carried on with more than ordinary energy, and at Baraboo there are hopeful indications of a building soon. The German work at Milwaukee is in much better condition than it was a year ago. There is now a general secretary, and a building fund amounting to $5,600. Secretary Olandt, of the International Committee, spent several weeks aiding this German department.

Work among the "Juniors" has prospered, and in some Associations the most hopeful feature is the "Junior Department." At Milwaukee a fine room has been set apart in the new building, to be called the boys' room, and which the boys are now taking steps to furnish. The Western Secretarial Institute at Lake Geneva assumed more definiteness last Summer. This season the land purchased will be improved and occupied for the Institute work during the first two weeks in August.

The amount expended in the State work for the year was $5,019.53 (including $1,609.87 for the lumbermen's work). About $6,000 will be required this year, a large proportion of which is already pledged.

January 1, 1887, the Associations in Milwaukee, Racine and Oshkosh occupied their new buildings. The total cost of these properties was $129,000, of which about $40,000 are yet to be secured. The Milwaukee building will be dedicated in May, free of debt. This marks a long step in advance in the Wisconsin work, and assures its permanency in the years to come.

YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATIONS

OF THE

United States and Dominion of Canada,
EXCEPT THE RAILROAD, GERMAN, COLLEGE, COLORED AND INDIAN ASSO-CIATIONS, WHICH ARE GIVEN IN TABLES V, VI, VII, VIII AND IX.

UNTIL MAY, 1887.

The names of officers are the most recent that have come to the knowledge of the Committee, as far as convenience of printing permits their insertion. Some later changes among the paid officers of the Associations may be found in the List of General Secretaries, etc. The Secretaries' names in SMALL CAPITALS denote General Secretaries, those in italics, Executive Secretaries.

As many Associations prefer to report for their official years, closing at various dates, it is impossible to secure reports to any one date. But the reports are, for the most part, for the calendar year, 1886.

Further reports from many of these Associations appear in Tables II, III, IV and V.

A few reports, from Associations recently organized, cover a period less than a year.

*Associations which occupy their own buildings,—see Building Table.

SUMMARY.—Table I.

708 Associations report officers.

677 report an aggregate membership of 128,996.

640 report an active membership of 61,845.

601 report working committees with a membership of 19,138.

815 report current expenses of last year at $853,265.

YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATIONS

OF THE

United States and Dominion of Canada,

EXCEPT THE RAILROAD, GERMAN, COLLEGE, COLORED AND INDIAN ASSOCIATIONS, WHICH ARE GIVEN IN TABLES V, VI, VII, VIII AND IX.

COMPILED FROM OFFICIAL REPORTS RECEIVED BY THE INTERNATIONAL COMMITTEE UNTIL MAY, 1887.

As many Associations prefer to report for their official years, closing at various dates, it is impossible to secure reports to any one date. But the reports are, for the most part, for the calendar year 1886.

Further reports from many of these Associations appear in Tables I, III, IV and X. A few reports, from Associations recently organized, cover a period of less than a year. * Associations which occupy their own buildings—see Building Table.

ANDREWS MANUFACTURING CO.,
 686 Broadway, New York,
Manufacturers of Improved Seating for Halls, Chapels, Sunday Schools, Churches, &c., ASSEMBLY FOLDING CHAIRS.

The extreme comfort afforded by these Chairs, with their Tilting Backs, noiseless Folding Seats, Foot Rests, Hat, Coat, Cane and Umbrella Racks, has led to their adoption in hundreds of the best buildings in the country.

The handsome Y. M. C. A. Buildings of Brooklyn and Harlem, N. Y., recently completed, are furnished with these Chairs.

We have also furnished the Y. M. C. A. Halls of Buffalo, Syracuse, Albany, Newburgh, N. Y., Baltimore, Md., Richmond and Norfolk, Va., and many other places with similar chairs.

FOR CHURCHES, this style of seating is now becoming very popular in replacing Pews.

The Early Story of the Confederation

OF THE

Young Men's Christian Associations.

BY REV. WM. CHAUNCY LANGDON, D.D.

NOTE.—The Year Book of 1884 contained a "Historical Sketch" of the Associations by Robert R. McBurney. The Committee did not, however, assume any responsibility for the statements contained in the Sketch. The following personal reminiscences by Rev. Wm. Chauncy Langdon, D.D., are published as an important contribution to the early history of the Associations. The activity of Dr. Langdon in the early years of the Association movement is well known to those familiar with their history. Of course much of this matter rests very largely in the knowledge of Dr. Langdon, and is published on his responsibility. It is the hope of the Committee that this publication will induce other of the earlier leaders to commit to paper their knowledge upon the various topics connected with the beginning of this special form of work for young men.

The Year Book of the "Young Men's Christian Associations of the United States and Dominion of Canada" for 1887, reports between eleven and twelve hundred such societies, with an aggregate reported membership of nearly 155,000, and some 75,000 active or working members, engaged in the objects of these organizations, under the direction of over 600 General Secretaries or other paid officers; with buildings and real estate of the net value of about $4,750,000, or, including libraries and other property, of over $6,000,000, and at an annual current outlay of some $960,000.

These Associations are, at the same time, in correspondence, directly or indirectly, through an International Committee located in New York, with over 2300 other essentially similar societies of Christian young men in all parts of the world.

The early story of the Confederation, which, in "the day of small things," gathered together the local beginnings of this now vast organization and directed them to common ends on common principles, and, but for which, a late writer thinks that the American Associations would probably long since "have ceased to exist," will not be without interest to those who look with sympathy upon the Associations of to-day and upon their present work. But, if this story is to be told, it should be while some of those who were actively engaged in it are still living. If it be told by him who was privileged to take the lead in it, and who, probably alone, has at hand the early records, manuscripts, correspondence and private memoranda which can refresh and correct his memory, what the story may gain in authenticity and accuracy must be at the expense of becoming, almost necessarily, something of a personal narrative.

The first Young Men's Christian Association was organized in London, in June 1844. This was a time of unprecedented commercial activity and growth, when, however, the conditions of the young men employed in business houses were seriously unfavorable to their religious and even to their moral character. The movement originated with Mr. George Williams, a junior assistant in the large dry goods business of Messrs. Hitchcock & Co., St. Paul's Churchyard; and it was prompted by an anxious desire on the part of this gentleman, then but twenty-three years old, and a few others with whom he consulted, to do something "for improving the spiritual condition of young men engaged in the drapery and other trades."

Soon afterwards, the purposes of the Association were extended to include young men generally; annual courses of lectures to young men were instituted; Sunday afternoon Bible classes were opened; Branches organized in various parts of London and in other cities and towns of England; and, by 1851, the year of the Great Industrial Exhibition, by which eager and observant thinkers were drawn to London from all countries, this Association was established as a Mother Society, on a firm and effective footing—Mr. Wm. Edwyn Shipton being its energetic Secretary.

The year 1851, therefore, brought the work of this Association to the knowledge of many Christian visitors to the Exhibition from abroad; and it was, in consequence, "towards the conclusion of this year, that the Association received intelligence of the formation of similar societies in Paris, Geneva, Adelaide in South Australia, and Boston in the United States;" and, in the following year, that they heard of like "movements among young men in Holland and Germany."

Certain organizations of Christian young men there had been, here and there in America, some years before 1851. But, with one exception, so far as known, they had proved ephemeral. That exception was a society organized in Cincinnati in 1848, originally among the young men of a single church, but afterwards on union principles. This society, being still in active existence, when brought into relations with the Young Men's Christian Associations of other cities, ultimately somewhat modified its character, took the same name and assumed its place among them.

But the knowledge of the London Association first took effect in Montreal in November, 1851. A letter from Mr. Geo. M. Van Derlip, giving an account of the work of the London society (a letter written in June 1850, but published in the Boston Watchman and Reflector more than a year afterwards) made the work known about the same time in the latter city. The first American Young Men's Christian Associations were organized in consequence in Montreal and Boston, respectively, on the 9th and the 29th of December, 1851.

Of the Montreal society nothing was known in the United States for more than two years. The Boston Association, however, made "immediate use of the press and of the post;" and the publication and circulation of its constitution resulted, in the following spring, in the organization of societies in Worcester and Springfield, Mass., in Buffalo, and in Portsmouth, N. H., and shortly afterwards, in Washington, D. C., and in New York.

In the latter of these cities quite extensive preparations were made for laying the foundation of the new Association broadly and deeply; and its organization was completed June 30th, 1852, "under the auspices of many of its first citizens, both lay and clerical."

The circumstances under which the Washington Association was organized, and especially the character of its membership, were exceptional; and the relations which that Association came afterwards to hold towards the idea of a confederation were the natural outcome of this its exceptional character. In fact, the story of the confederation itself begins with that of the society in Washington.

The Rev. Dr. Clement M. Butler, rector of Trinity Church in that city, receiving a copy of the constitution of the Boston society, placed it, in April, 1852, in my hands, requesting Mr. Thomas Duncan and me, who were young teachers in his Sunday School, to consider whether some such organization could be effected there.

We consulted with a few clergymen, who all doubted if such an society could succeed in a city the young men of which regarded themselves so generally, rather as sojourners than as permanent residents, identifying themselves quite as much with other places. Nevertheless, they invited a conference for us from the pulpit ; but it was a failure. Whereupon, we called on the ministers of the city generally, and then ourselves invited a meeting through the press. The appointed time was Wednesday, June 9th, 1852, and the place, the Masonic Hall, corner of E and 10th streets.

On that evening and at that hour, but one person, besides our two selves, appeared. Hard by, at the same hour, a great concourse was assembling in the open air, to hear Senators Cass and Douglass in ratification of the Democratic nomination of Pierce and King, for the Presidency and Vice-Presidency of the United States. Of this concourse, not a man could, as a citizen of Washington, vote for such officials—no man, but as a resident of some other part of the country, to which he must return for that purpose.

We three waited patiently in the room from whose window we could hear the shouts of the crowd and at least the voices, almost the words of the speakers; and after these eminent statesmen had spoken, some sixty persons came to justify our patience, and the meeting proceeded.

No incident could more strikingly illustrate the character of the members of which the Washington Young Men's Christian Association was made up, or the extent to which their interests were rather national than local. In the language of the Preface to the Constitution as first printed, "Every State in the Union furnishes its quota of young men to the rapidly increasing population of the Capital: every denomination, sect and order of men, every condition of mind, morals and estate, have their representatives among the young men of our city." And in that of the Preface of 1854, "A band of Christian young men in Washington, themselves from all parts of the Union, open their arms to receive others, coming in like manner as they have done, to a strange city." Yet, it is very unlikely that any one of us clearly realized, at the time, the nature and the importance of the difference between the Washington and all other American Associations, or the extent to which the former was virtually a microcosm of the institution at large.

The meeting, when it did take place, was very hearty in its interest. A Committee was appointed to prepare a Constitution, etc., and an adjourned meeting was held and our organization perfected, on the evening of the 29th of the same month—the evening of the day on which Henry Clay had died in Washington, but a few hours before.

During this organization arose two issues, and only two, which were both, like all the serious questions which divided us in those early days, of a generic rather than of a local character.

The first of these grew out of a provision for a representation of "each denomination" on our constituent Committee, and place was claimed, accordingly, for three Methodists of distinct organizations and for both an Old and a New School Presbyterian; and both claims were, of course, allowed. The incident was of the slightest possible consequence in itself. Of the divided and sub-divided state even of our American Protestant Christianity, it was, however, a sort of reductio ad absurdum.

The second issue was raised during the debate on the adoption of the Constitution, and it was in reference to the word Evangelical in the phrase defining the qualifications of membership. It raised the question whether the purposes of the Association were based on a large social Christianity which would include some not usually so described, or on more sharply defined theological principles. This was virtually a New England issue and it was decided, as the same issue had been decided in Boston, on the more restricted basis.

A third such issue, equally illustrating the almost national character of our Association, was early involved in the selection of those who were invited to address us at our public anniversaries.

On the first of these occasions, held at the Smithsonian Institution, July 13th, 1852, we were addressed by a Southerner, the Hon. Robert M. Charlton, U. S. Senator from Georgia. On the next, it was therefore necessary to invite a Northerner, and accordingly, the Hon. Robert C. Winthrop, of Boston, was asked for the December following. We were forced to consider national prejudices and even politics in everything. So, at a meeting of the Board of Managers, Sept. 27th, one of our Southern members—to quote my diary—"threw a firebrand among us by an attempt to expel the National Era, an abolition newspaper, from our reading rooms. This bringing in of politics was most desperately opposed by 'several of us,' and the casus belli was laid on the table for the present."

Probably no purely local Association would have had any serious trouble with such questions as this or many others which largely occupied our thoughts.

Finally, at a business meeting held on Nov. 8th, the Association was called to consider for the first time, in what direction it would proceed to work.

The question before us was on a resolution, offered by me, for the appointment of a committee to prepare a memorial to the corporate authorities of the city, praying them "to take measures effectively to prevent the notorious disturbances and Sabbath breaking in the public streets." I also gave notice that, should this resolution pass, I would afterwards move that the same committee should be instructed "to call on the President of the United States and request him, if it meets with his approval, to recommend to Congress the establishment, in this District, of a House of Correction."

The discussion on these propositions really turned on the primary question of the essential character and purposes of the Association, and especially on the genius of our society. We had, indeed, done not a little to attract and to care for young men coming as strangers to the city. The committee on the sick had watched by some otherwise lonely sick beds ; and my diary brings freshly back to me every memory of two deaths, of young men away from their New York and Western homes, by which my own sympathies, as chairman of that committee, were deeply stirred. But thus far we had instituted neither prayer meetings, bible classes, nor any other strictly religious agencies.

To these, rather than to public interests and to social evils, some of the local clergy now urged that we should give our attention. My motion was impugned by one of these as leading us "to invoke the arm of the law." The majority of our members were naturally influenced by the clergy and, therefore, nothing came of this move. But I was earnestly supported by the Hon. E. J. Phelps, then Second Comptroller of the Treasury, now United States Minister to England ; and when, subsequently, I had an opportunity of speaking of it to the President, he expressed his regret that the subject had not been brought to his notice as proposed.

Such then was the social and political atmosphere in which we young men were living and the effect of our relations with those who represented national rather than local interests. Such was the microcosmic character of the Washington Association, of which, at its organization, I was made the Corresponding Secretary. And if it was almost a matter of course that this Association should occupy itself generally with interests more or less common to the whole institution, it was scarcely less so, that I should come to be the person to give expression to such a tendency. I had only lately been appointed an Assistant Examiner in the United States Patent Office, from Kentucky; and my family ties, and the interests and associations of my boyhood and youth were divided between New England, the far South and the West. I was, therefore, far from being a mere local resident of Washington.

For some weeks after our organization, we were ourselves unaware that there was, in the United States, any other Association save only that of Boston; and these Associations were all equally unaware of each other. In Boston alone was it known that there had already been organized seven such societies. A visit to that city, early in August, brought the fact to my knowledge.

I wrote at once to the several Secretaries of all these societies; and, at a special meeting of our own Association, held September 14, 1852—a meeting referred to in my diary as “most interesting and animated”—I brought up a plan for uniting the Young Men’s Christian Associations of the different cities in a fraternity, making us mutually members of each other’s Association. This proposal caused “very much discussion, but was finally referred to a select committee to be appointed for that purpose and to revise the Constitution.” These last words show that the general tenor of the report to be made by this committee was regarded, at the time, as a foregone conclusion. Indeed, on this subject, the Association, sharply divided as it was on almost every other question which had thus far arisen, were, from the first, pretty cordially united. At least, the young laymen were so: the influence of the older ministers of the city was, in some instances, against me.

Pending action in this matter, I wrote unofficially to the Secretary of the New York Association, proposing that that society, as the larger and more important, should take the lead in it, but I received no reply.

At a meeting of the Association, called for the purpose, on October 18, 1852, the above Committee on my proposition “involving community of interest between ourselves and other Young Men’s Christian Associations,” made a report which was “submitted in the form of Section 5 to Article II,” of our constitution. This was adopted and formally incorporated into our organic law, to the effect that “the members of all other Young Men’s Christian Associations, while transiently among us, shall be entitled to all the privileges of this Association, eligibility to office and the right to vote only excepted." This action was formally communicated to other societies at once or as they became known to us; and it would seem that a provision, more or less to the same effect, was soon afterwards embodied in the constitutions of the Brooklyn, Portsmouth, N. H., and Lexington, Ky. societies; but I am informed that it has been only within two or three years past that the principle has been at all generally recognized.

At this October meeting, I resigned the Corresponding Secretaryship, apparently because I felt unable to carry out the policy which I was already convinced should be that of the Washington society. But, be that as it may, in the December election, which turned in part upon these very issues, I was put back in that position by a large majority; and the general and especially the external policy of the Association was thus determined for the year 1853.

I was now withdrawn from all work for some weeks by serious sickness. I next find a memorandum that at a committee meeting on February 21st, I suggested informally that we should request the Rev. Dr. Butler, then about to visit Europe, to represent the Association at the anniversary of the London society, in May, and also, that we should try to get a meeting of delegates from the American Associations in New York, in the same month. The first suggestion was shortly afterwards carried out and Dr. Butler was commissioned accordingly.

As for the other, I again wrote to the New York society, and this time officially, proposing that they should take the initiative in convening some gathering to consider the relations which should exist between the several Associations. To this letter again I received no reply.

In fact, without being as yet fully conscious of it, perhaps on either side, the two Associations were representative types of two distinctive principles. To the New York society, its work and purpose were all at hand; all its "efforts, attention and interest [were] concentrated upon the home work, save only so far as occasion, [might] from time to time, involve correspondence with some other body." The Washington Association, on the contrary, "whose membership was gathered from every portion of the Union, with thoughts and prayers divided between scenes and friends at home and those around," became, even more naturally, the exponent of very different interests.

Of these characteristics, moreover, circumstances brought forward, in either case, an individual representative,—Prof. Howard Crosby, the President, at the time, of the one Association ;—and the Corresponding Secretary of the other.

Prof. Crosby had clearly and strongly emphasized views of what the New York Association might be and should be, to the young men of that city ; and standing thus for intensive duty, he wished that body to turn its attention from that work, neither to the right hand nor to the left.

Standing equally for extensive and organic interests, I had but one dominant thought for the Associations—co-operation, mutual helpfulness and essential unity. I cared not who should lead, nor by what instrumentality that co-operation should be brought about, if only—in the early days of an institution, in whose future growth and power for good I had, from the first, an enthusiastic and an almost unlimited confidence,—all these mere germs or fragments of a possible future, could be but drawn together, made mutually subservient and welded into oneness.

Prof. Crosby and I regarded our aims and plans for the Associations as practically antagonistic. As is generally the case, under such circumstances, we were both right—we were really supplementary to each other.

At the Quarterly Meeting of the Washington Association, in April, 1853, I presented a report of my work as Corresponding Secretary, giving my earliest account of the Associations, of which so far as then known, there were eleven. This paper (which the Washington society has just republished) is now of interest only as a witness to the turbid imaginations which could be stirred up, even then by thoughts of what the Associations would ultimately become.

On the 28th of May, I received a letter from Mr. Shipton, the Secretary of the London Association, in reply to my own by Dr. Butler—and accompanied by the Eighth Annual Report of that society and by other documents.

These, and a report from Dr. Butler himself shortly afterwards, threw much light upon the subject of our aims and methods, and filled me, at once, with new ideas. Among these was a project for a publication, as the channel for the interchange of information between the societies, through which they might severally be profited by each other's experience. This project furnished me with a new point of departure.

The scheme of this journal was deliberately considered, elaborately wrought out, reported on and matured so far as the Washington society was concerned. In this document—my original draft of which now lies before me—the project is commended to the members of the several Associations on the explicit ground that it would “tend, by bringing each isolated society into one vast co-operating system, to add to the strength and efficiency of every branch of the united work.”

This report was, in July, unanimously adopted by our Association, but, in accordance with its own proposal, action on it was postponed until we should learn to what extent other societies would co-operate with us in sustaining it.

In the meantime, therefore, I sought opportunities of bringing both the scheme of this journal and the larger subject of a convention to consider the whole question of the interrelations of the Associations before some of these in person. Within a fortnight I was able to secure such an opportunity in Baltimore, in New York, and in Boston. In Boston and Baltimore nothing came of my visits or of my arguments; the subject was dropped without action of any kind. In New York, the President, Prof. Crosby, most courteously presented me to a meeting of the Association, where I had the fullest opportunity of presenting my plea, after which he presented as frankly his objections to any such plans, certainly to the project of a confederation. The New York Association, therefore, formally declined to give us the co-operation we asked, and no further steps were taken by the Washington society in respect to the journal. In fact, the report on the subject was not even published.

But, at the Quarterly Meeting of October 17, 1853, I tried another line of approach. This meeting seems to have been exceptionally large, divers ministers being present and taking part. On this occasion I read an unusually full report. I was now in correspondence with eighteen out of twenty-six American Associations, and, indeed, in consequence of the extent of this correspondence, I had printed a circular letter containing such matter as would be common to all such communications. In this report I gave some details of the work in the larger and older societies, and cited some lessons taught by their experience. I also gave some account of the working of our institution in Great Britain and on the European Continent, with some attempt to analyze the characteristics of its influence in different countries. The paper closed with an argument, alike from the needs of the American societies and from the example of those in Europe, for some definite relations—some alliance between the former.

It would seem from my diary that this report was published, probably in the columns of some newspaper, and "several papers paid" the Association "the compliment of copying portions or even the whole of it, and many letters prompted" by it were received by me. But my own manuscript copy of the report itself is all which now remains to me.

Stimulated by this welcome, I threw myself anew into my correspondence, with a view to the annual meeting of January 16, 1854. The hall of the Smithsonian Institution was crowded at that meeting, for Bishop Alonzo Potter, then of Pennsylvania, was to make the annual address. I laid before the Association at that time, and read at an adjourned meeting, at the same place, on the 23d, a greatly condensed summary of my Annual Report. This summary was printed in the National Intelligencer, for January 25th, but the report itself was the fullest and most detailed which, up to that date, had been anywhere prepared of the institution in all parts of both Europe and America. There were then 230 Associations in all known to me. As subsequently published in the Washington Annual Report for 1853, it was corrected up to May 8, 1854 and supplemented with long notes and quotations; and it now remains, I presume, a substantially reliable statement of what the Associations were at that early date.

In this paper I discussed anew the question of an American confederation; and encouraged by the reception with which the two reports, and especially this latter, met as well out of as within our own society, I, for the fourth time approached the Associations of New York and Boston, in the hope that, although unwilling either to act alone, they might consent—one or both of them—to act with the Washington Society, in inviting a convention. This proposal also the New York Society declined; and no reply was for some time received from Boston.

About the same time, i. e. February 4, 1854, the Washington Association first furnished its members with membership tickets, which should attest their character as such to any other societies who would honor such a claim.

I now addressed myself to Buffalo and Cincinnati; and had just decided to ask the Board of Managers for authority to act alone, when I received a reply from Buffalo, cordially authorizing the use of the name of their Secretary, and also inviting the proposed convention to be held in that city. A circular was in consequence issued at once under the signature of Mr. Oscar Cobb and myself; and it had scarcely been published, when I received authority from the Boston Society to make a like use of the name of their Secretary, Mr. Jenks.

The original circular was issued under date of February 28, 1854, and was addressed to thirty-two Associations. The supplemental circular, associating the Boston Society in this proposal with those of Buffalo and Washington, bore date March 2d. Soon after this I also heard from both Cincinnati and St. Louis, in cordial concurrence with this proposal, even before those societies could have received our circular. It was evident that, however indisposed the larger Eastern Associations, those of the West were entirely in accord with that of Washington upon this subject.

Early in this year I was able to give a practical illustration of the interest which our members took in the Associations generally, by forwarding to that of Glasgow, Scotland, the names and the payment of twenty subscribers for the Young Men's Magazine, published at that time on behalf of that society.

Shortly after the issuance of the above circular, a Providence minister called on me to explain the attitude of the society in that city, a conversation which very much enlightened me on this whole subject.

In fact, I now began, for the first time, clearly to understand, there were two classes of difficulties obstructing the scheme of a convention and a confederation.

The first were those which grew out of the question of the resultant relations of the Associations themselves. Some of the larger societies feared that any such relations would expose them to the control of a majority of the smaller Associations, which would seriously interfere with their local efficiency; or, if the English idea were adopted, and one Association was recognized as metropolitan, all the others being regarded as Branches of that one, that the Association at Washington would claim such a pre-eminence. Many of the smaller societies, on the contrary, had the fear that, under such a scheme, they would be reduced to the position of Branches, or at all events would be dominated by the greater societies, probably by that in New York.

There were also difficulties which grew directly out of the state, at that time, of the slavery question. Some of the Northern societies were not willing to enter into any relations with those of the South, at least not without making their protest on that subject, and others preferred to discourage any such relations or, certainly, to hold aloof themselves, in the assurance that it would be impossible to prevent trouble and angry disintegration from that cause. Upon this latter point, Prof. Crosby laid emphasis, and this was the ground of the objections felt in Baltimore.

The whole scheme was, at least in its outlines, already too clearly defined to me to leave me any anxiety on the part of these grounds. As for the slavery question, I saw no reason to think that the subject need give to the Associations unitedly any more trouble than it had already made for us in Washington, where we had been entirely able to control it.

By the 12th of April I had received twenty replies to our circular; of these, sixteen were in favor of holding a convention, while the other four, though not advising it, would, if it should be held, probably send delegates. The majority of the sixteen concurred in selecting Buffalo as the place of meeting.

On that day, therefore, another circular was issued, announcing these results, and inviting the Assembly of delegates from the Associations, "to confer relative to the formation of an Alliance, to secure such uniformity of organization and action as may be thought desirable, and to consider such other questions as may arise in connection therewith," at Buffalo, on the 7th of June.

The Washington Association at once elected five delegates, four of whom met to consider certain propositions, drawn up by me as, in my judgment, obviating all the difficulties and objections which had been urged against the plan of a confederation. Of these, they heartily approved, and it was agreed that they should be printed and submitted beforehand to the several Associations which would probably be represented at the convention, as a statement of the proposal which would there be made by the Washington delegation. This was done in a special circular, dated April 16th. With this step the Washington initiative was closed.

The Buffalo Convention met on the morning of Wednesday, June. 7, 1854. It was a small gathering as compared with later Conventions. Nineteen Associations were represented, in all, by thirty-seven delegates. No one was there from either New York or Baltimore : no one from south of the Potomac or from east of Louisiana. Boston, Cincinnati and Washington were each represented by three delegates. Portland, Maine, in one extreme of the country and San Francisco in the other, had each a representative ; and one Canadian society—that of Toronto—sent a delegate. Four Southern societies—those of New Orleans, St. Louis, Louisville, and Lexington, Ky.—had accepted the invitation ; and almost the first act of the Convention was to give to these, as it were, a tacit pledge of that political neutrality in which they had trusted and which was, at that time, so essential to any common relations between them, by the unanimous selection of Mr. George W. Helme, of New Orleans, as its President.

These thirty-seven delegates were really young men. Perhaps not one of them was over forty ; I think not many over thirty ; some of the more active being much below that age. Mr. Rhees, of Washington, for instance, was twenty-four, and I, not yet twenty-three.

Apart from the official report, by far the best account of this Convention is that contributed to the Young Men's Christian Reporter for May, 1881, by Mr. William H. Neff, of Cincinnati ; in connection with which, however, should also be read a graphic account of the spirit and the members of the gathering, furnished by Mr. Rhees to the New York Recorder, under date of June 9, 1854.

Without attempting myself, therefore, to review the proceedings in any details, I will only note certain things, which are, at this distance of time, of most interest :

1. The St. Louis Society, in a formal communication to the Convention, and with a view to guard the smaller societies against the domination of the larger Associations of the East, urged that no authority should be given to the Convention "over the separate Associations, nor any right of control or interference with their internal affairs."

Per contra, on the morning of the first day, and with a view to secure to the larger societies the very controlling influence against which others were on their guard, or to protect the few large against the many smaller societies, Mr. Smithett, of Boston, moved that when an appeal was taken, the Associations should cast votes numerically in proportion to their several local memberships.

The scheme submitted beforehand by the Washington delegation had provided against both of these anxieties; and this resolution was laid on the table once and again, being supported, in debate, only by the Boston delegates.

2. On the same morning, Mr. Holland, of Toronto, offered a resolution which illustrated the other ground of opposition to the convention. It was to the effect that "as in Christ Jesus there is neither bond nor free," therefore, that all young men "of whatever degree or condition in life" were invited to an equal participation in the advantages of the Associations.

This resolution was, without debate, referred to the Business Committee and not reported. It was, at that time, the only course which could possibly have been taken. As long as slavery existed, certain social results followed. The Young Men's Christian Associations neither could nor did they propose to deal with the institution itself. To what practical purpose were any resolutions of protest or non-recognition of those social results? At the adjournment, the President frankly admitted that "great fears [had been] entertained that the Convention would be the scene of wrangling and strife; that sectional questions would be agitated." Had the Holland resolution been admitted to debate these fears would have been realized; and that they were not, was the more remarkable in such a body of Northern young men.

3. Mr. Marshall, of Cincinnati, brought forward the experience of that society as ground for moving certain resolutions in reference to active missionary work, in consequence of which it was resolved that "the establishment of at least one Sunday school and, where practicable, of adult Bible classes"—should be recommended to the Associations.

This to not a few of the societies was the first impulse to active religious work with, as well as for young men—the first formal move in a direction in which the religious zeal of the Associations afterwards ran to very great extremes. It is to be noted that this impulse came from a society whose origin was essentially different from that of the Associations generally—an Association which was originally a function or agent of a single congregation.

4. It was claimed for the Associations, then and there—notably by Mr. Holland, of Toronto—that they resulted in “the annihilation of sectarian prejudices.” The Rev. Byron Sunderland spoke of the institution as giving “to the rising forces of the Protestant Church a new discipline and a new direction.” In a letter from Mr. T. H. Tarleton, Honorary Secretary of the London Association, to this Convention, he expressed the assurance “that some new development of the agency of Christian young men may be expected from such a meeting.” The Buffalo Christian Advocate, in an editorial reference to this Convention, declared it one of the benefits of these societies that they tended “to strengthen union among Christians of different names [who] working in concert for some great benevolent end, must necessarily feel more and more fellowship.”

Indeed, that such would be the local influence of even one of these societies,—and far, far more the ultimate results of institutionizing them,—was my own conviction from the very first; and in my diary and private letters, I gave this hope and faith as my own leading motive in all I did or endeavored to do.

At the Montreal Convention of 1856, I used these words, as reported in the Journal: “If Christian young men of a community grow up, with their sectarian feelings subordinated to broad Christian sympathies, more accustomed to dwell upon their unities than their differences—when their ranks have supplied the pulpits, control the religious press, wield the religious pen, and form the body of the church—will not the church, in that community, be a unity?”

Thus early was it clearly perceived that the Young Men’s Christian Associations, if maintained and extended in organic efficiency and spiritual earnestness, would have precisely the effect which an eminent Presbyterian divine recognized when he lately declared (Churchman, Feb. 11th, 1888, p. 153,) that, “for a whole generation, the Young Men’s Christian Association has been undermining denominationalism throughout the land.”

5. But the specific work for which the delegates had come together in convention was, of course, to consider the relations of the different Associations to each other and the expediency of uniting them in some common bond or alliance.

In consequence of the failure of my train to make connection with a Lake Erie steamer, I did not reach Buffalo until the morning of the second day. When I arrived, I went at once to the Association rooms, where I met Mr. Rhees, of Washington, and was, by him, introduced to Messrs. Neff and Lowry, of Cincinnati. From these I learned that the project of a confederation had, on the day before, been virtually defeated.

This project was opposed by the Boston delegates, especially after the defeat of the proposal to give the larger Associations a pro rata voting power; and, in the desire to conciliate this opposition, a majority of the Business Committee, to which communications on the subject from St. Louis and New Orleans, had been referred, had agreed to recommend only that annual conventions should be held and that the reports from the societies made at such conventions should be edited and published by a committee, to be charged also with maintaining correspondence with the several Associations.

This report had been, with but little comment and no earnest debate, adopted; and this apparently disposed of the subject.

But Mr. Neff, who was not a member of the Business Committee, nor even present in the Convention at the time of this decisive action, was, when he learned the result, greatly distressed, and spent much of the night following in a prayerful consideration of the possibility of successfully re-opening the question. On my arrival, therefore, he told me this, and that he proposed to move a reconsideration of the vote of the day before, and then to offer as a substitute for the resolutions then adopted certain others which he showed me. I assured him of my own hearty support in such a course.

As soon, therefore, as the convention reassembled and the minutes of the previous day had been adopted, Mr. Neff made the motion to reconsider. But twenty delegates were now in their seats—nearly one-half had already gone. The motion was fully and warmly debated, but finally carried by a vote of 14 to 6. Mr. Neff then offered his resolutions in substitute for those reported the day before, and he supported them in a strong and fervent plea—the ablest, without comparison, of the convention. I seconded him and, in so doing, reviewed the several objections which had been brought against the idea of a confederation, and answered them one by one.

The pending resolutions, with Mr. Neff's proposed substitute, were then referred back to the Business Committee, Mr. Neff and I being now added to it instead of two of its members who had left.

This change in the membership was in itself enough to give us a majority of the Committee, which had stood 3 to 4, and was now 5 to 2 in favor of a confederation. But Mr. Neff at once proposed that the Committee should report no action upon which it was not unanimous, and this disarmed the opposition of even this minority. The Committee then, under his lead, and with the hearty concurrence of Messrs. Helme and Lowry as with mine, took up for consideration together, the scheme which had been proposed by the Washington delegates, the resolutions reported the day before by the Business Committee and those offered as a substitute by Mr. Neff himself. Drawing something from each of these, the Committee now prepared a scheme which secured the essential features of the proposed confederation, while meeting the objections and guarding the Associations from the difficulties and dangers which it had been taken for granted were necessarily inherent in such an organization. This scheme embraced the principle of mutual recognition and co-working and, in a manner, inter-dependence ; it provided for an annual convention and for a Central Executive Committee, a working minority of whose members should be resident in one place, the remainder being distributed in various parts of the country, this Committee being not a controlling power but an agency, and it assured the authority of the several Associations by providing that neither the convention nor the Committee should "have authority to commit any local Association to any proposed plan of action until approved by such Association, nor to assess any pecuniary rate upon them without their consent."

This scheme, when reported in convention, was adopted almost nem con., the Boston delegation alone voting in the negative, and even this subsequently changing its vote and moving that the decision be declared unanimous. It was, however, expressly provided that it should take full effect only when the action of the convention should be ratified by twenty-two Associations, and then, of course, only so far as the Associations so ratifying were concerned.

The Central Committee, thus provided for, was then constituted for the ensuing year, of five members resident in Washington—of whom I was one—and one member each from the Boston, New York, Toronto, Cincinnati, St. Louis and New Orleans societies.

With this action the work of the Buffalo Convention was done—the purpose of its calling was accomplished. It remained now to secure the ratification of this action by the several Associations—to carry out that purpose.

The adjournment of the Buffalo Convention virtually remitted into the hands of the Central Committee—and, indeed, largely into my own, for I was at once chosen the General Secretary of that Committee—the task of securing the results of its work and of organizing the proposed Confederation. In this I was from the first earnestly sustained by Mr. Neff—to whose moral support as well as to whose active co-operation I was constantly indebted.

The Cincinnati Society was the first to ratify—on June 12th—the Buffalo resolutions. On the 19th of the same month, the Washington and St. Louis societies unanimously took the same action.

On June 26th, the Central Committee met, organized and authorized the issue of Circular No. 1, which I had already drafted, officially announcing to all the Associations of the United States and British Provinces, the results of the Buffalo Convention, and inviting action thereon.

This announcement was very variously received.

On the 18th of July, I wrote to Mr. Neff, that the Pittsburgh, Buffalo and Louisville Associations had taken favorable action, but that the society in Brooklyn had categorically declined to do so. About the same time, moreover, the Independent came out in distinct and formal condemnation of the whole scheme, and we learned, informally, that this utterance was quite in accordance with the feelings which prevailed in the New York society. Soon after this, moreover, the Boston Association disallowed the course of its own delegates at Buffalo, and refused participation in the Confederation, and, of course, by so doing, vacated the place of its representative on the Central Committee.

On the 14th of August the New York Board of Managers and, on the 21st, that Association itself, met and discussed the subject of the Confederation, but without taking any action. A few days later, Mr. Neff and I, meeting in New York, called together upon some of the leading members of that society, and discussed the subject with them, without, however, any immediate result. Referring to this conversation, Mr. Neff subsequently wrote me : (Oct. 10th.) "The Association occupies so very responsible a position, that all the efforts made to induce a ratification by it, would seem to me to be very well directed. In conversation with Mr. McCartee (the Corresponding Secretary) some weeks since in New York, I suggested to him that, if the Association would not ratify the plan of confederation in the language adopted by the Buffalo Convention—and to which they are inclined to object as clothing the Central Committee with too much power—that they should draw up a preamble and resolutions of their own, which, with a trifling difference of words, might bring them on the same platform. . . . They object, particularly, to the name of the Committee—'Central.' Now, if you and the other members of the Committee at Washington can remove this impression, perhaps our object can be attained."

By the latter part of August the report of the Buffalo Convention was published, thus placing in the hands of all the whole story of the debate on the confederation. Early in September, the Philadelphia Association, itself organized since the Buffalo Convention, ratified its action at the first constitutional meeting. On October 4th, I reported, in addition to those already named, the ratification of the societies in Toronto, New Orleans, and Peoria, Ill., making ten in all; but, although to these were, soon afterwards, added two or three more of the smaller societies, it was now evident that about all had been attained that was to be hoped for, as matters then stood.

A private letter had been received by me, some two months before, from Mr. C. R. Brooke, Corresponding Secretary of the Toronto Association, urging upon the Central Committee, of which he was the Canadian member, to incorporate into the organic law of the Confederation some provision equivalent to the resolution offered at Buffalo by Mr. Holland, with reference to the relation of Christian slaves to the Associations, "as a principle which, in our opinion, should be adopted as fundamental by any confederation of Young Men's Christian Associations." Indeed, Mr. Brooke said that the Toronto society had ratified the Buffalo scheme only by a small majority, and "in the hope that when the Central Committee adopt a constitution, some such principle will be proposed to the Associations as a test of their connection with one another."

At this day it would be very difficult for any one whose memory does not ante-date the war of 1861-'65 to enter understandingly into the views and feelings inevitably involved on either side in such an issue.

I instinctively felt that this was, perhaps, the true crisis of the Confederation. The causes which had obstructed the calling of a convention, even to consider the mutual relations of the Associations, and which made so many of them averse to recognize any formal relations at all, now presented themselves from different directions, and divested of all side issues. I have already stated those causes. The Canadian and probably some of the Northern Associations were now unwilling that the Confederation should place them in what they regarded as a false position in respect to the religious consequences of slavery—for instance, Toronto and Providence. The Southern Associations, on the other hand, were equally sensitive of anything which would reflect on the Christian principle with which they conformed to the social and political conditions under which they were constituted and under which alone, of course, they could do their work. Some of these, therefore, were unwilling to expose themselves to having those principles called in question, as for instance, Baltimore and Charleston, and, indeed, the Association in New Orleans also, whose ratification was based on their confidence in those who had selected Mr. Helme to preside at the Buffalo Convention and who had suppressed the Holland resolution. Still again, the New York and very possibly other Associations, shrunk from the Confederation as from an arena in which it would be impossible to escape from harm and controversy from this cause.

To decide either way, therefore, on the issue involved in the Toronto ratification, and brought before us by Mr. Brooke's letter, would be in all probability to shut out some important Associations on the one side or on the other. To decide at all would, irrespective of the character of that decision, be an act equally unacceptable to those societies which were jealous of any authority which should trespass upon their autonomy.

And yet it was necessary to dispose of this issue in some way which would be effectual and final.

In the Washington society I had successfully resisted the attempts of some of our Southern members to involve that body in this question and to commit it on one side. I felt little doubt that the same thing could be done again for the Confederation, now that the danger came from the opposite direction. But the first suggestions of a way out of the dilemma were made by Messrs. Brooke and McCartee. The former had proposed that we should publish "a circular defining our position," of course, on the relation of our Associations to slaves. The other, writing to me on October 18th with reference simply to the local jealousy of outside interference, expressed the belief that "a judicious friendly course on the part of the committee seconding the efforts of those in New York who favor the Confederation, might disarm those who seem over-prudent in the matter."

I wrote, therefore, to Mr. McCartee, asking for his suggestions. He promptly responded in a letter which is not now before me, but to which I replied at once that his suggestions were "good." A meeting of the local members of the Central Committee was held on November 9, when I laid before them a draft of a circular drawn up in accordance, doubtless, with Mr. McCartee's suggestions and, at the same time, with direct reference to the issue brought before us by the Toronto society and by Mr. Brooke's letter which Mr. McCartee did not have in mind.

I met the issue simply by showing that the Buffalo resolutions did not provide for any other constitution than the general principles which they themselves set forth; and that the Central Committee was not a governing function authorized to assume any control, but rather a creature of the confederated Associations for certain definite and limited purposes.

The draft being unanimously approved at this meeting, was printed, and, on the 14th, proof copies were forwarded to Messrs. McCartee, Helme and Neff, and by them instantly and equally approved. Mr. Neff wrote on the 16th: "Your inferences and deductions are admirable and exactly express the ideas expressed and the general feeling manifested at Buffalo, so far as I am able to form an opinion. * * * You have check-mated Toronto and saved us all trouble."

This circular was issued on Saturday, November 18, 1854. At a meeting, held on Monday, November 20th, the New York Association ratified the proceedings of the Buffalo Convention and identified itself, thenceforth, with the Confederation. The Concord Association did the same, the same evening.

This circular No. 2 and the consequent action of the New York Association had an early and a far-spread influence; and by the close of the year, twenty of the necessary twenty-two ratifications had been received. Still others followed in January; the Associations in Charleston, S. C., and San Francisco, both acting on the 15th of that month, more than completing the required number, and from that date bringing the Confederation into full operation. On the 27th of the same month the important society in Montreal, the first American scion of the London Association, united with the rest, and after some delay, on account of my sickness, on the 20th of February, 1855, Circular No. 3 was issued, announcing the complete organization of the Confederation by the action of twenty-five societies, which did not include San Francisco, from which we had not, then, had time to hear.

In this circular, moreover, the confederated Associations were geographically distributed in seven districts, in each of which the Central Committee was represented by one of its members.

In the meantime, the influence of the Buffalo Convention and of the better knowledge of each other consequent upon the mutual relations of the Associations, began early to be felt in many of them.

In Washington society, for example, that Convention was soon followed by more directly religious work and agencies. In July, there was instituted a Monthly Prayer Meeting among the members, at 6 o'clock A. M., on the second Sunday of each month. In October, a Mission Sunday School was started, the first, indeed, of what became, before long, a very efficient Sunday school system among the street children of the more destitute portions of the city—a field of duty in which I received some of my own best training for future pastoral usefulness.

In November, aroused now, with several other societies, to the very unnecessary and even obstructive machinery which characterized most of the American Associations, we determined to simplify our constitution. I drew from that of Belfast, Ireland, some valuable guidance in this reform, and, accordingly, drafted a revision which, having been adopted at our Annual Meeting in December, went into effect from January 1, 1855. I have the impression that in this, our society was only one of several which, about this time, very greatly modified and improved its constitutional machinery. This was the beginning of a radical revolution in the organic polity of the Associations which came slowly but ultimately to owe their controlling membership only to those who would take an active interest in their ends and aims.

In this December meeting, I declined re-election, proposing to give myself up wholly to the affairs of the Confederation; and at the Public Meeting of February 6, 1885, I presented my last annual report as Corresponding Secretary of the Washington Association. In this report, I sought to do little more than to call the attention of the society to its indebtedness to certain other Associations, and to the significance and the value to us of the knowledge of these which had come to us and of the relations to each other into which the Confederation was bringing us.

From the 15th of January, 1855, therefore, the "Young Men's Christian Confederation of the United States and British Provinces," was in full organic existence and its Central Committee in full official activity.

That it had been my privilege to take a leading part in bringing this about is, no doubt, true. Mr. Lowry, of Cincinnati, was so good as to say, in 1877, that "without (my) persistent efforts, the first convention would not have been called;" but it is, certainly, as true that but for Mr. Neff and his colleagues of the Cincinnati delegation, my scheme of a confederation would not have survived that convention. As Mr. McBurney says: "To overcome such prejudices and objections (as yet remained) was no easy task;" and I did indeed "conduct the negotiations;" yet the ultimate success of those negotiations and the first triumph of the plan matured at Buffalo, was largely due to the hearty co-operation of Messrs. Neff and Helme, and, so far as New York was concerned, of Mr. McCartee.

But, as our several Associations were, in my own conceptions from the first, but the local expressions of an inchoate national institution—so even this was to me but a part of a still larger scheme of international proportions.

The first suggestion of anything of the kind, of which I find any private record, was in connection with the proposal made in February, 1853, that the Rev. Dr. Butler should be requested to represent the Washington Association at the Annual Breakfast of the London Society—a suggestion which grew in definiteness, on the reception of Mr. Shipton's first letter in May, and the circulars from Geneva, in August of the same year.

To this thought, I gave the first public expression, in my first Annual Report to the Washington Association, or rather in the brief summary of that report, actually read at the meeting of January 23d, 1854. I there sketched, in slight outline, a scheme of international correspondence, in which there should be a centre of information for every national group of Associations, each such centre being in direct correspondence with all others, furnishing them, on the one hand, with the digested and compacted information from its own field; and distributing, in turn, to the Associations of its own national group, the information so received from abroad. I have a clear impression that I had already suggested something of this kind—and, I think, a general Conference as well—in my correspondence with London, Geneva and Germany; indeed, the language of this report, and subsequent reference in my letters from abroad, distinctly imply as much: but of this I cannot now be positive.

So long, however, as it was quite uncertain whether the American Associations were or would be disposed to adopt any such system of inter-relations among themselves, so long it would certainly be premature to propose to them anything like international relations.

Among those members of the New York Association who more nearly shared my views on this subject, was Mr. Richard C. McCormick, Jr., one of the Vice-Presidents of that body. In April, 1854, a few days after the issue of the call for the Buffalo Convention, being about to visit Europe, this gentleman called on me in Washington, as well for information of the foreign Associations as also for letters of introduction, both of which I was glad to give him, and I took advantage of the opportunity to talk with him very fully of my ideas concerning the relations which might exist between them and us.

Mr. McCormick made an extensive tour, visiting the Associations in all parts of Great Britain, and in France, Germany and Switzerland. He was, in fact, the first representative of our Associations among those of the European continent. During this tour he was so good as to charge himself for me with packages of Association reports and documents to a number of these Associations. He was everywhere called to give information, both privately and publicly, of the American societies; he wrote to me frequently and at length of his own observations, at the same time collecting for me documents of every kind, and prompting the foreign brethren to write to me.

In October I had the pleasure of meeting a member of the London Association, with whom I find it noted in my diary that "I had a long, long talk about international intercourse."

In November, I informed Mr. McCormick that since the Buffalo Convention I had written "letters to Upsala, Paris, Amsterdam, Ronsdorf, Geneva, Montauban and Turin," asking him to mark "the Committee's views about their foreign correspondence," and "to explain what may not be clear."

During this winter I received three long letters from M. Henri Dunant, Secretary of the Geneva Association,* welcoming my suggestions most cordially. "We think," wrote he, "that your idea of establishing a regular correspondence between certain points, as centers for our Associations, is excellent," and he suggested, in detail, what were the appropriate centers for such a correspondence in the European organizations.

In January, 1855, I wrote to Mr. Neff, "Our system of foreign correspondence is completed, so far as the European continent goes. I have heard from Amsterdam, Ronsdorf, Paris, Geneva, and Lausanne directly; and indirectly from Sweden, Italy and Algiers."

My Paris letter, received in November, was from M. le Pasteur Cook, the President of the Association in that city, and it was principally in reference to a general or Ecumenical Conference of all Young Men's Christian Associations, which the London Committee had proposed, to be held in Paris, in the summer following. For this Conference our Central Committee were asked to prepare a report on the American Associations; in fact, the whole plan, so far as these were concerned, was put into our hands.

The Washington members urged on Mr. Neff the preparation of this report. He, in response, insisted that I should write it ; and this matter rested undetermined, up to the time our of Circular No. 3—Feb. 20th, 1855—announcing the complete organization of the Confederation.

From this date, however, I resolved to withdraw from further official work. My motives in all that I had so far done and tried to do, had been severely characterized in certain societies—especially in those of New York and New Orleans. However decided in his dissent from my policy, Prof. Crosby had, of course, ever given expression to that dissent with entire Christian courtesy. But, by others, it had been publicly charged, at the very meeting at which the New York society had ratified the Buffalo resolutions, and since, that there was little real object in the scheme but my own personal aim to open an arena for my own ambition ; and this judgment accepted by some Southerners then present, was afterwards brought up against the plan and against me in New Orleans.

To Mr. Helme, in the same envelope with the above Circular No. 3, I therefore wrote : “ I have thought my continuance in my position as General Secretary was, perhaps, positively detrimental to our dear cause ; and that the removal of the Central Committee from Washington, and that the appointment of some one else as General Secretary would free the Confederation from many most disagreeable and serious drawbacks upon its unanimity and strength. Indeed, I desire to serve the cause I have taken in hand ; indeed, my dear brother, this is my only wish. If it is well, I will labor while I can stand the weight ; if it is best, let me withdraw from the active labor ; still praying for it ; most deeply regretting I have done so little ; but with all the heart to have done much more.”

At the distance of thirty-three years, this seems a very trifling incident. But I quote these words, even now, because they may help some one who has not yet learned, as I had not then, that such harsh misjudgments and personal attacks are the almost inevitable cost of a sincerely earnest attempt to accomplish any public result, however good it may be in itself, if it be at the time unpopular or unappreciated by those who oppose it.

My wish and purpose to retire from the Central Committee were, indeed, earnestly resisted. The Cincinnati Association elected me an honorary member, as a mark of confidence. I have now before me the affectionate letters of Messrs. Neff, Helme and Lowry combatting my intention. "I could not but consider it," wrote the latter; "fatal to the union of our Associations. No one has so clear an idea of the object to be gained by such a union, and no one connected with it is so well qualified to bring it into effective operation as yourself."

Almost concurrently with this, had also come a second letter from Pastor Cook, of Paris, in reference to the proposed general conference, in preparation for which, so far as the American Associations were concerned, the dependance had been placed on me.

At the same time Mr. Neff visited me; and while I was still convinced that the best interests of the Associations could now be more effectually promoted by other hands, yet I consented to write the report for the Paris Conference and to retain the General Secretaryship until the next Convention, on the understanding that the Central Committee should then be removed from Washington, and I be permitted to retire from official position and duty.

Indeed, in deference to the New York Association, it was proposed among ourselves that our next Convention should be held and the Central Committee be located in that city. I, therefore, in March, wrote informally to Prof. Crosby, to learn if this would be acceptable to them. My letter was, it seems, laid before the society itself, and Prof. Crosby replied officially that the New York Association had "unanimously decided, in full meeting, that we deem any Convention inexpedient and decline any connection with such." Prof. Crosby added: "We gave in our adhesion to the Central Committee, merely as to a Committee of Correspondence, to cement the Associations by that proper means."

The reasons for their position were thus stated in this connection:

1. "We believe Conventions draw off attention from local work, and our institution is emphatically local.
2. We believe they foster a centralizing spirit at war with independent action.
3. We believe they will tend to produce unpleasant scenes and ruptures on such subjects as slavery.
4. We believe the expense unauthorized by our main object.
5. We believe fraternal feelings between the Associations may be better cultivated by correspondence and chance visits."

That there was much truth and force in these "reasons for the position" of Prof. Crosby and the New York Association was and is unquestionable.

But yet I think the event has proved that I was then practically right. The New York, the Boston or the Cincinnati Association may have been and might have continued "sufficient to itself," but to the very large proportion of the early societies and to the institution, as a national whole, the confederation was, at least for the time being, a probably necessary condition of the permanent footing that they eventually secured. It is quite probable that, in Mr. McBurney's words, "had it not been for this organization," they would "have ceased to exist."

That the third of Prof. Crosby's reasons was, by no means, without grounds, I had indeed, already had some evidence and was to have yet more. We learned in April that the Toronto Association had rescinded their act of ratification and withdrawn from the Confederation, because of the decision of the Central Committee in reference to the Holland resolution, and to the relations of the Associations toward slaves. The unofficial correspondence which passed, in consequence, between Mr. Brooke, the Secretary, and me—which lies before me—would have a curious historic interest, now that the whole subject, out of which it grew, has happily become a thing of the past. And this was scarcely closed, when nearly the same issue was raised by certain members of the Pittsburgh Association, who made it a condition of attending the coming Convention, that they should be free to bear their conscientious testimony against what they believed to be a national sin.

But that isolation was no security against this danger the New York Association itself was brought to realize when, in 1857, the attempt was made to procure the passage of certain anti-slavery resolutions; and when some of its members were "outraged" because they were rejected as being incompatible with the character and purposes of the society.

In the cases just cited I was able, as the event proved, to bring the Confederation successfully through even this peril; the subject never involved any official correspondence or action, and it produced no "unpleasant scenes." It was with a view of guarding against the possibility of such a thing, and in the hope of strengthening confidence, that this language was used in Circular No. 5, of July 10, 1855, by which the next Convention was announced:

“It appears scarcely possible to make it plainer than it is, that the confederated existence is intended, in no way, at no time, under no circumstances, and in no relation, whether as a Convention or as a Central Committee, to advance upon the local character of any Association.” . . . “Upon this limitation of their functions [the Central Committee has] had occasion more than once to insist. [Its members,] as a Committee, have no authority to issue decrees, to assume positions, or to express opinions on any abstract questions.”

As the day of the Convention drew near it was well understood that the Washington Association would insist on the removal of the Central Committee to some other city, and that I would wholly withdraw from the active charge of any work for the Confederation. Not my immediate co-workers alone, but others prominent in the Associations, still deprecated in the warmest language this decision. Mr. McCormick of New York, for instance, was so kind as to write in such terms as these: “Your great intimacy with the Associations of this country, your wide correspondence with those of other lands, and your industrious and warm Christian spirit, combine to make you eminently fit for the important position which you have held in connection with the confederation from the day of its organization; and which, I sincerely trust, that you will by no means abandon.”

There are, however, some instances in which he who lays foundations cannot continue to build; in which the personal antagonism—whether deserved or undeserved—which is aroused in the earlier work, cannot but render it unwise for him to go on. This was precisely such an instance; and however gratifying to me such kind words as those I have just quoted, they did not alter my own judgment that I had now done all that, in the providence of God, had been given me to do in this matter.

The Convention met in Cincinnati on Wednesday, September 19, 1855. It was not much larger than the Buffalo Convention, little over fifty members being in attendance.

There were, by this time, in all, sixty Associations in the United States and Canada, of which thirty-six had united in the confederation. Seventeen Associations had taken as yet no action on the subject, while seven had formerly declined to do this, of which however, one at least—that of Brooklyn—afterwards united. Of the thirty-six confederated Associations, but twenty-two were represented ; the Convention being, indeed, very largely a Western gathering. There was no one present from New England; no one from either New York or Philadelphia. Capt. Noble of Kingston alone represented the Canadian brethren. The fact was clearly illustrated that the opposition to the confederation was almost wholly Eastern; in fact, the Washington, Buffalo and Cincinnati Associations alone were represented at every Convention from the first.

The Central Committee submitted to this body a formal report of their official course, accompanied and illustrated both by the report made to the Paris Conference and by the five official circulars which had been issued by them, and in which the principles of the Confederation, as understood by the Committee, had been wrought into precise statements and formally set forth as a polity. These documents, therefore, taken together, constituted an official exposition of the principles of the Confederation ; and in their acceptance by the Cincinnati Convention that work was done, and those principles recognized as constitutional.

Nor was even this all. Mr. Shipton, of London, wrote me, under date of September 7th : "I hope you are at Cincinnati, and that you have there learned that your long unanswered (but not neglected) letter to me had produced its result in the Paris Conference, and that your plan of correspondence was likely to be carried out." During the Convention there arrived, also, an official letter from Pastor Cook, of Paris, giving an account of the Ecumenical Conference held in that city on August 19th-24th ; of the reception of our report, and of the system of international correspondence brought before that body, as mine, by Pastor Cuenod, of Lausanne, then and there adopted, and proposed to the different national groups of Associations.

It was, undoubtedly, a kind and brotherly acceptance of this work and of these results ; but it was due also to the personal strictures to which I had been subjected that I was chosen to preside over this Convention. It was the warm and even the indignant ratification of my official course and an expression of personal regard and confidence. As such I deeply appreciated it then. As such, I gratefully recall now the circumstances under which I retired from the labor of over three years, whose earlier results I was, even then, permitted to see and of whose general acceptance by the whole body of the American Associations I was afterwards permitted to know.

The Cincinnati Convention transferred the Central Committee to Cincinnati; and it was afterwards organized by the appointment, instead of one General Secretary, of two: Mr. Neff, for Home, and Mr. Rhees, of Washington, for Foreign Correspondence. The system of geographical distribution between the several members of that Committee, which had been already adopted, was continued. This Committee was, furthermore, authorized to publish a quarterly journal as the organ of the Confederation; in consequence of which action the Quarterly Reporter was established from January, 1856, issued for two years in quarto form, and, for 1858, as a small octavo magazine; and, in 1859, as a twenty-four page monthly under the new title of Young Men's Christian Journal.

This Convention, moreover, virtually accepted a definition of the Associations set forth by the Paris Conference, as a species of dogmatic basis for a general confederation of Young Men's Christian Associations throughout the world. Indeed, it adopted also, a somewhat more definitely worded declaration, substantially to the same effect; but it was, after all, practically left to experience and time to determine precisely what such language should mean and how closely the local Associations would feel constrained to conform to it.

If the organic law and the principles of the confederation, as an agency for bringing the Associations into relation of mutual support and helpfulness were settled at the Cincinnati Convention, it yet remained for a new Central Committee to act upon or apply those principles. The period between this and the following Convention was then one of development.

For instance, the question arose at the Convention of 1855, whether that body could take any action inconsistent with the Buffalo Resolutions of Confederation. As President, I ruled that a motion to that effect was out of order. An appeal was taken from that ruling but not pressed.

The Central Committee, shortly afterwards, submitted to the Associations the question therein involved. I wrote a careful discussion of the point, maintaining that of the seven Buffalo resolutions, the 1st, 4th, 6th and 7th were either special in their purpose or of the nature of by-laws, and could, therefore, be modified by the Conventions, but that the 2d, 3d and 5th were of the nature of a constituent law, to amend which would be, virtually, to dissolve the confederation and to organize a new one on different principles. This argument was published in the Quarterly Reporter, for April, 1856, p. 14. Its conclusions were apparently accepted; at all events, no counter argument appeared, and the Conventions afterwards acted on the principles therein maintained.

The Cincinnati Convention adopted, indeed, the system of international correspondence originally suggested by me and set forth by the Paris Conference, and Mr. Rhees, as Foreign Secretary, furnished the Reporter with information from abroad, as far as in his power. But it was soon found that the details of the plans had not yet been sufficiently matured, so far, at least, as we were concerned, and they remained to be afterwards perfected.

To the story of the Confederation for fifteen months following the Cincinnati Convention, I can add nothing which will materially supplement the published record. Not that I by any means lost my interest, but that, in the providence of God, I was, by long sickness and otherwise, almost wholly withdrawn from it.

The Montreal Convention which was held in June, 1856, was, in some notable respects, a stride in advance of that which had preceded.

The total number of Young Men's Christian Associations had not greatly increased. There had been new ones organized, but almost as many of the old ones had disbanded. The number of those confederated was increased by only one.

But the Convention itself was much more numerously attended, by eighty-seven in all, and this included, for the first time, several who came informally on their own responsibility, from societies which either were not in the confederation, or, as in the case of New York, were not disposed to send official delegates. For instance, Mr. McCormick was present from this latter city, and there were eight from Boston, and two from Portland, Maine. These were not only cordially welcomed, but admitted, as corresponding members, to take part in the debates, and this wise precedent was followed afterwards until, at Chicago, in 1863, the distinction was wholly done away.

Of this Convention Mr. Neff, of Cincinnati, was President. Among its members, for the first time, appeared some who were afterwards among the very first in active interest and influence, during this period of Association history: e. g., George H. Stuart, of Philadelphia; Robert C. Gilchrist, of Charleston, Joel B. Watkins, of Richmond and Fred. A. Sheldon, of Troy. The Washington Association was represented by a delegation of nine members, among whom were Mr. Rhees and I.

The attention of this Convention was wholly taken up by plans of work and schemes of activity. It was specially characterized by its enthusiasm, and, in fact, the multiplicity of the subjects brought before it involved a serious loss of thoroughness—and, perhaps, by way of reaction—a period of comparative inaction after it.

The Central Committee was continued at Cincinnati, whence in 1857, it was removed to Buffalo. Three members were requested to act as a delegation to visit the European Associations on behalf of those in America. Of this delegation, I was one, and, apart from Capt. Noble's presence at a London meeting, I was the only one able to act upon the appointment.

I went to Europe in January, 1857, and returned in the June following.

There is the less occasion for dwelling now on the opportunities which I enjoyed of visiting the foreign Associations—of conferring with the leaders of the movement in Great Britain and on the Continent, or of profiting by the lessons taught us by this study—since all this was done pretty fully at the time and left on record.

The range of the institution itself, at this epoch, may be gathered from a very complete list published by Mr. Rhees, in the Quarterly Reporter, for July, 1856, p. 22. In the same journal for April, 1857, p. 44, will be found a letter of mine from Paris; and in that for July of the same year, p. 52, a very fairly complete report of my whole foreign experience, with a summary of the more important considerations suggested to me thereby. Moreover, in the Reporter, for October, 1857, p. 60, I dwelt upon the greater spirituality of the foreign Associations as compared with our own; in that for January, 1858, p. 8, on what was, at the time, the very serious topic of "the uncertain and short tenure of office" with us; and in that for April, 1858, p. 47, on the greater organic simplicity and homogeneity of the foreign societies. In few respects have the Associations of later days so greatly improved upon their earlier traditions than in rejecting the false principle of "rotation in office" on which many of us, at first, laid much stress.

Referring to these pages it will suffice to say, here, that in London, I attended a meeting of the Association Committee, the Sunday afternoon Bible Class and a devotional meeting; and I also represented our Associations at the Annual Breakfast of that society in May. In France, I attended a meeting of the "Conseil" of the National "Union," and saw much of the local members in Paris, as well as in Nismes; and I attended a meeting of the Marseilles Union. In Prussia and Germany, I was present at a large meeting in Berlin; spent an evening with the President, Pastor Hofmeyer; obtained a glimpse of the societies of Leipzig and Frankfort; learned something of that in Heidelberg from the Chevelier Bunsen, and passed an evening and night with Pastor Durselen, the President of the Rhenish Union at Ronsdorf, in company with several others who came to meet me. In Amsterdam, I attended meetings both of the main society and of a Branch among working men, in company with Messrs. Bruyn and Heyblom. In Geneva, I was most warmly received; an excursion was made for me to the Mt. Salève, where I addressed a meeting of some forty members, going on from thence to Lausanne, to do the same, with Messrs. Dunant, Cuenod and Renevier.

With each and all of these, I arranged, on behalf of our Central Committee the details of a working system of international correspondence.

Returning from the continent, I accepted a programme which had been kindly prepared for me by Mr. Shipton, the London Secretary, and by which I was enabled to see, in a fortnight, much more of the Associations of Great Britain than would have otherwise been possible. Beginning with Oxford, I visited Warwick and Leamington on my way North; I addressed a meeting of the Association and attended a breakfast with which I was honored in Edinburgh; from whence I went to Glasgow and Belfast. From this point, I attended and addressed a meeting of a society, called to welcome me, on every evening until I sailed, in Belfast, in Dublin, in Chester, in Manchester and in Liverpool. At every one of these—but perhaps, especially, in Edinburgh, in Chester and in Liverpool—was the greatest interest shown in the story and in the details of the working of our general organization, and the purpose expressed to aim at some similar plan for their own Associations.

But, possibly, the most resultful incident of this whole tour was one on which I laid, at the time, no special stress.

When in Berlin, in April, the American Minister, Gov. Vroom, of New Jersey, invited a few gentlemen to meet me at dinner. Among these was Mr. Peter Bayne, of Edinburgh, the successor of Hugh Miller in the editorship of the Edinburgh Witness, and since that time the eminent essayist. I sat near him at table, and both then and afterwards had, to quote my diary, "some talk on Christian Association affairs," and afterwards, at his request, I accompanied him to his rooms, and "continued the conversation till twelve." He was specially desirous of informing himself concerning the characteristics and working of the American Associations, and "questioned me closely about our plan of confederation."

Not long after this there appeared in the Witness an admirable editorial from the pen of Mr. Bayne, on the subject of these Associations, speaking of them as aiming to "establish a Christian freemasonry over Great Britain, America and the Continent," and frankly giving the preference to the American polity, which he thought, "might, with necessary modifications, be extended to Europe." This article attracted much notice, and was widely copied. (It can be found in the Quarterly Reporter for July, 1858, p. 77, and in large part, also in the Y. M. C. A. Reporter for May, 1880.)

It was largely in consequence of this article, though in part, doubtless, to my own visits just referred to, that steps were taken looking to some general organization of the Associations of Great Britain, of which Mr. Leyland thus wrote me: "Ever since you were here, Bro. Shrubsole [of Chester], Giles [of Edinburgh], and I, have been determined, with the Lord's help, to agitate, agitate, AGITATE the Conference question. When Giles was here, I took him up to Chester, and we had a meeting of the three of us, and prepared the outline of a circular to send to the Branches. . . . While these preliminaries were being gone through, I received a circular, on the same subject, from the Leeds Branch, inviting a conference there this Autumn. . . . I at once embraced the opportunity of strengthening the hands of Brother Holroyd,

. . . The sequel is that the Conference is to be held towards the end of September."

The first Conference of the British Young Men's Christian Associations was held accordingly at Leeds, Sept. 26-28, 1858. To this, at the request of the promoters, I addressed, on behalf of our own Central Committee, a letter of data, general information of the value of the confederation to us and suggestions, which letter, together with the reply of the Leeds Committee, was published with the journal of the Troy Convention, pp. 145-148.

The character, the proceedings, and the results of this Leeds Conference were reported and discussed by me in the Young Men's Christian Journal for May and June, 1859, pp. 107 and 134. Without going further into detail, suffice it here to add that the ultimate result was a general union of the British Associations about those of London, Edinburgh and Dublin upon principles analogous to those of the American Confederation. This union was definitely perfected at a Conference held in London July 10-13, 1859, at which Mr. Neff, of Cincinnati, was the American representative.

It was, says Mr. Lowry, during "a season of comparative inaction that the Richmond Convention [of 1857] was held." The machinery of the confederation had reached its "dead center." Those who had been drawn into the Associations by the interest of novelty were now cooling off, and even some Associations whose life was unreal dissolved. The work of this Convention—which scarce represented more societies than that of Buffalo and was numerically the weakest since that time—was therefore one of moral recovery and restoration. It was characterized by steady purpose; it revised and greatly improved the methods of the Convention itself; it re-aroused flagging interest and brought the institution down to calm and sober work; so that by the time of the Charleston Convention, the organization of the confederation, in all its parts and functions, had been about perfected. The only serious question which then remained undetermined was that of the exact sphere and purpose of those Associations.

"The Association men themselves," says Mr. McBurney, "with few exceptions, did not (during this period) have a clear understanding of the work of the Young Men's Christian Associations."

The Cincinnati Convention had provisionally accepted the Paris

Basis, which declared that these Associations sought to unite those young men, who desire to be the disciples of Christ, "in their doctrine and in their life, and to associate their efforts for the extension of His kingdom among young men." The Montreal Convention had formally declared this declaration "engrafted upon our basis of Confederation." But the Associations had not, as yet, any settled American traditions, and it is difficult now to realize how little effective meaning this language had to most of us, or how thoroughly at sea were the large proportion of our more active young men. Not only were the very conventions inconsistent with themselves in this matter, but this was quite as true of many of those who pressed the adoption of the most restrictive resolutions—no less true of me than of others.

It was under such circumstances that the Charleston Convention met in April, 1858. It was much larger than any such preceding gathering, and it was especially characterized by its devotional spirit. We were, in fact, then entering upon a period of revival in spiritual earnestness, for which that year has been remembered, and to which that Convention and our Associations not a little contributed.

The question, therefore, was asked with an emphasis at this Convention, what is "the true sphere of Young Men's Christian Associations?" and it was, after much discussion in Committee of the Whole, answered that it was "the formation and development of Christian character and activity in young men."

But even this language left the practical question, as the event proved, insufficiently answered. The issue still continued an open one, and one too for which the Associations were now ready to welcome the largest possible interpretation.

I had returned from Europe, for my part, with very clear conceptions of the Association as a body of Christian young men whose errand was to young men; of their true sphere as that of Christian work to be done by young men for young men. I had shortly before the Charleston Convention been ordained to the ministry in the Episcopal Church. I was present at that convention, and almost immediately afterwards I removed to Philadelphia, at the same time undertaking to serve the Central Committee, still located in Buffalo, as Foreign Secretary.

Of the Association in Philadelphia George H. Stuart was, at that time, the president, the representative man and the leading spirit. Not one of our organizations was ready to go further than this society in any and in every good work, and with what were now my own clear conceptions of the special objects of the institution and my strong convictions of both the duty and the necessity of restricting ourselves to the definite sphere of a specific work, nowhere could I have found myself more completely out of accord with the local Association. In fact I now, on the threshold of my own ministry, for the first time heard it freely claimed that our Associations were called to enter upon the whole work of preaching the gospel and of evangelizing the world, for which the church and the ministry had proven unequal. A leading member of this society, for instance, expressed (in the Y. M. C. Journal for February, 1859, p. 28) his astonishment at my language in the preceding number to the effect that the Association "was not an institution for the general promulgation of the gospel," protesting against any such restricting view of its "privilege and duty."

At a meeting of this Association, late in 1858, I endeavored to combat this tendency, but found the whole society against me, my position being utterly condemned by every one; until, at last, an elderly gentleman arose, apologized for speaking, as being by no means a young man, but added, that, as no one else did it, he must stand by me, for I was right. This was the Rev. Dr. Boardman, an eminent Philadelphia Presbyterian divine of that day. Very shortly afterwards, at a meeting of Philadelphia ministers, invited by the Association leaders, to ask their support in an appeal for the means to erect an Association building, the same issue was raised by the question what were the specific aims and purposes of the Association? For awhile, I alone maintained that it was not a general evangelizing agency, but a subordinate function and agency of the churches for a definite and a specific purpose. But though no other young man or representative of the Associations agreed with me, both Rev. Dr. Boardman and Rev. Dr. Bomberger declared that it was only on such a view of the Associations as I supported, that they could concur in any appeal to the public in its behalf.

Such was clearly the state of feeling among the young men of the Associations, not in Philadelphia only, but very generally, as the Troy Convention drew near. For this occasion, the Central Committee asked me to prepare an essay on "the duty of our Associations to young men." The topic bore only indirectly, it is true, upon the larger question whether the Associations had any duties save to young men. But I had already resigned my ministerial position, in Philadelphia ; I was soon to go abroad for an absence of indefinite duration ; it was possibly the last time that I should be able to meet my brethren in consultation upon such interests ; and thinking that, on such a general arena as one of our conventions, I should have some influence, I resolved to make an attempt, at least, to arrest this then widely spreading impulse which seemed to me to be utterly running away with our enthusiasm, dissipating our energies, distracting our counsels, nay, alienating the ministry and the older and more weighty lay Christians of the churches ; and thus, jeopardizing the power and future influence and usefulness of our institution.

The Troy Convention met on July 13th, 1859. It was the climax of the confederation period ; and far the most numerous attended of those conventions, being more than three times as large as that of Charleston. It was the first to which the New York Association sent official delegates : that of Providence was informally represented by some twenty of its members : that of Philadelphia by a delegation of nineteen, among whom, however, I was not privileged to be included. I was present only as the Foreign Secretary of the Central Committee. This Convention, of which Mr. George H. Stuart of Philadelphia was President, sat also for a longer period than ever before ; and its more important discussions, especially in the Committee of the Whole, were very full and free.

The Central Committee presented and the Convention adopted certain revised Articles of Confederation, incorporating and based upon those set forth by the Paris Conference of 1855—but not otherwise differing materially from the Buffalo resolutions. On Thursday morning was read an essay by Mr. Lowry, on "The System of the Confederation," in which the story and the privileges of this organization were admirably presented. Whereupon, the Convention adopted a declaration that "the experience of the past has fully demonstrated the wisdom and efficiency of the present system of confederation ; and that especial care should be taken to preserve inviolate the principles and essential form of the original organization."

On Thursday afternoon, Mr. Fox of Philadelphia read an essay on the Associations' duty of evangelizing. On Friday morning I read my essay; and the two were taken up for consideration together, in Committee of the Whole, that afternoon.

The position taken by Mr. Fox was comparatively conservative—that general evangelizing was to be undertaken as a means of developing the Christian activities of young men. My essay, as a constitutional and an historical argument, was perhaps unsuited to the occasion—but my positions were clear and explicit. They may be summed up in the language of one of the resolutions offered by me, viz.: that the Association “is not an institution for the general propagation of the Gospel; it is not here to enter upon the work of evangelization, nor upon the independent exercise of any of the functions of the visible Church of Christ; but it is rather a function of the Church, under its entire control, and auxiliary and subordinate to the same.”

Of this discussion the report in the Convention journal gives no real account, and it notes but a fraction of what was said. The Philadelphia Presbyterian was moderate in saying that “a warm debate ensued.”

Nothing could be kinder or more considerate than the personal treatment I received or than the language used of me. But not a voice was raised for the position which I defended. Some speakers went so far as to say that the churches had wholly failed; that their divisions had put it out of their power to evangelize the world, and that the Associations had, therefore, been raised up to do this work in their stead. Others were content with insisting that, as a Christian body, we were bound to do any Christian work that we could. As for my resolutions, the Presbyterian adds: “Every one spoke against them. . . . Mr. Langdon was like a lone sheep among three hundred ravenous wolves. All the speeches can be summed into a very few words; they were all against the resolutions.”

The excitement was great; the situation was really dramatic.

I felt that I was contending not merely for my own footing in the Associations—which was, of course, involved—but for the whole future of the Associations themselves; for their relations to those in the Old World, and for their place in respect to the Church of Christ. The rule, restricting a member to a single speech was suspended in my favor. Standing at bay, as it were, at the foot of the pulpit stair, I made nearly every other speech, contending for hours practically against the whole convention. I spoke with all the powers of my intellect, with all the energies of my soul. I was forced back, step by step and hope by hope, from the institution for which I had labored so long, which I loved so truly, and for which I had expected so much.

What this cost me, I am sure that many realized, for other voices than mine were choked in utterance. But my first allegiance was due to my Church. Even in the Association, it was due to duty and truth. When, therefore, with not a single dissentient voice save my own, my resolutions were utterly rejected, and one adopted declaring that the Associations "should be ready to enter upon any work which He shall open before us," I had but one thing to do. I had been virtually shut out.

I told the Convention so, and bade the Association farewell. On adjourning, the President, Mr. Stuart, called on me to pronounce the benediction.

A considerable number of the brethren crowded around me then; and three or four thanked me for the stand I had taken, assuring me that, after all, I was right. "The scene," said the Presbyterian, "was very affecting, nearly all the delegates being in tears at parting with their beloved brother."

I went to Italy, that Fall, for a prolonged residence abroad.

I heard of the New Orleans Convention in 1860—the last before the war.

It was, however, very many years before I knew that, at Chicago, in 1863, the distinction between the confederated and the other Associations was given up. The name of the Confederation itself was then relinquished; but the essential principles of the system were—if I understand the facts—preserved, and have since been only rendered more effective.

Annual Statements of the Secretaries of the International Committee to March 1, 1888.

ANNUAL STATEMENT OF RICHARD C. MORSE,

General Secretary.

1. During the year now closing the General Secretary has attended all the regular monthly meetings of the Committee and its sub-committees, besides the meetings of such special committees as have been from time to time appointed. In preparation for these meetings much preliminary personal conference has been necessary, especially with the Chairman at his residence and with the members of the sub-committees, as well as with the visiting Secretaries as they have returned to the office from time to time.

The usual annual dinner meeting of the Committee was arranged for, and held in New York, December 15th, 1887. All the Secretaries of the Committee were present and a large number of friends of the work accepted the Committee's invitation. The entire evening was spent in a full presentation of their work by the Secretaries, followed by remarks from members and friends of the Committee.

In response to an invitation of the Congregational Club of New York City, the Committee arranged for the presentation of the Association work at the regular meeting of that Club on January 16th, 1888, Messrs Charles L. Colby, Merrill E. Gates, and Henry M. Moore speaking for the Committee on that occasion.

2. All the work so fully reported by the various Secretaries of the Committee in their several statements was previously planned in conference with the Chairman or the sub-committees, and the General Secretary, and approved by the Committee. The plans thus formed were duly communicated to the Secretaries and to other gentlemen who had consented to co-operate with the Committee in its work. One important objective point in the arrangement of these plans, was to provide for the representation of the Committee at each of the following conventions :

8. To accomplish the work intrusted to it by the San Francisco Convention, the Committee has been obliged to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation and withdrawal of its experienced and valued Railroad Secretary, Edwin D. Ingersoll. It was fortunate in securing the services of Henry F. Williams for the Railroad Department. But so much work beyond the power of the Committee's Secretaries to accomplish has been called for, that it has been necessary to secure the help, as in previous years, of experienced workers for such periods as they could devote to this work. Joseph Hardie remained on the Pacific Coast after the San Francisco Convention and for six months rendered an invaluable service in attending conventions and visiting Associations, continuing his useful labors at Dallas and San Antonio on his way home to Selma, Ala. Frank K. Sanders of Yale University, has rendered an important service in the college and other departments of the work by occasional visitation in New England. James B. Reynolds also rendered valuable service in co-operating with Mr. Sanders, in making arrangements for the New England College Conference. D. A. Budge and W. E. Lewis completed on their journey homeward the work of visitation undertaken for the Committee in connection with their attendance upon the San Francisco Convention ; and Dr. Lucien C. Warner, returning from the same gathering, at the request of the Committee visited and assisted the Associations in Portland, Spokane Falls and Helena. For a month Fletcher Humphrey acted as the agent of the Committee in building up the work in Indiana, of which State he has since become the State Secretary. Theodore A. Harding gave several weeks to visitation among the Associations in North Carolina and Texas. E. A. Lawrence, formerly State Secretary of Connecticut, spent a month in organizing Association work at Portsmouth and Dover, N. H., and has since accepted a position as State Secretary of Maine. S. D. Gordon, State Secretary of Ohio, E. T. Dadmun, of Norfolk, Va., and George A. Sanford, of Newburgh, N. Y., have rendered occasional service in visitation ; and Luther Gulick has given valuable help in the gymnasium department of the work.

4. Year by year persons and letters come to the Committee's office with requests for information and counsel upon important problems relating to both local and State Association work. The consideration and settlement of such problems from year to year tend to accumulate in the office of the Committee the best experience of the Associations in the development of their work. The growth of the Associations in usefulness and importance is shown in the number and gravity of these requests. Often they relate to the securing of qualified secretaries for the work, often also to the planning of an Association building or building fund, involving the raising and the right use of large sums of money. In some instances building committees have come with architect and plans, to compare the latter with those of the best Association buildings, and in this way the Committee has been able to render important service in defining, shaping, and perfecting the conception of what a building should be in order to make it the best instrument for Association work.

5. In all correspondence, counsel, and effort required of the General Secretary in the particulars already reported, frequent conference with the Chairman of the Committee has been indispensable. A large part of the most important correspondence is conducted by him. To such correspondence and to personal conference with the General Secretary, and the other Secretaries as they come from time to time to the city, several evenings each week are given by the Chairman.

6. The call for the Day and Week of Prayer for Young Men was accompanied last November by an unusual amount of correspondence from the Committee's office and the circulation of useful documents giving information about the work. This promoted a wider observance of the season than ever. It is very encouraging to notice how this week in the early part of the working season of the year is becoming more and more a time of special spiritual activity on the part of the Associations, an activity which is rewarded by annually increasing spiritual results. In response to the request of the San Francisco Convention 420 Associations took up collections in aid of the International work.

7. The General Secretary has maintained and extended the Committee's intercourse with the friends of the Associations who manifest their interest in the International work by contributing the funds needed for its support. The generous responses of these friends enabled the Committee to close its fiscal year December 31, 1887, free of debt.

8. Correspondence with the Associations in foreign countries has been extended, especially in preparation for the next World's Conference to be held in Stockholm, August 15-19, 1888. Owing to the generous gifts and co-operation of Mr. James Stokes, and as a result of correspondence with friends in Paris, and a visit of the General Secretary to that city in 1886, the secretary of the Paris Association spent the winter of 1886-87 in studying the work of the American Associations. On his return and with the continued co-operation of Mr. Stokes, the work and usefulness of the Paris Association has been greatly developed, with the prospect of much greater enlargement.

9. The prolonged absence of the General Secretary from the central office continues to be impracticable, but he attended the Summer School for College Students last summer, took part in the preparation of the "Topics for Prayer Meetings" for 1888, and has been able to attend several of the conventions and to visit a number of the Associations. He was present at the San Francisco Convention, May, 1887, and, going and returning, visited six Associations.

ANNUAL STATEMENT OF ERSKINE UHL,

Office Secretary.

I have spent the past year in the office, even more closely than former ones.

The building movement among the Associations is steadily increasing. Suggestions have been made to nine Associations regarding building plans, by letter or by personal interviews with building committees.

There is a constant growth in the amount of our office work. These demands have been met, as far as possible, by Curtis M. Thorpe, Charles E. Corwin and Robert Johnston of the office force, with some clerical assistance.

On April 1, 1887, 12 names stood on our register as candidates for the secretaryship. 77 were added to this number during the year, making 89. Of this number 63 found places in the work,—6 through their own efforts or those of State Committees, and 57 through the suggestion of the Committee. 23 were dropped after a more thorough investigation, leaving 3 on the list.

Personal intercourse or correspondence (sometimes very extended) was held during the year with 246 others who did not seem qualified to undertake the work.

On April 1, 1887, 22 vacancies were recorded in our office as needing our help; 93 applications have been added to these, making 114 altogether, for State Secretaries and their assistants, for General Secretaries and their assistants, and for gymnasium superintendents. Of the 114 vacancies we assisted in filling 57; 31 were filled through the action of others; 11 were postponed for various reasons, and 15 now stand on our books. Among the 57 vacancies which we helped to fill 8 were in general work. And this year, for the first time, one of the Colored Associations has secured a General Secretary,—the movement being greatly aided by the Committee.

Of the vacancies aided, 12 were in New England; 20 in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania; 14 in states west of these; and 11 at the South.

In addition to the vacancies already referred to, advice has been sought from the Secretaries of the Committee regarding, probably, as many more, but not in so formal a manner as to warrant their entrance upon our register.

The United States census of 1880 gave 300 cities of 7,500 or more inhabitants. Of course this number has increased considerably in the last eight years, and still the fact that secretaries are now at work in 275 such cities, shows that the Associations have made great progress in the matter of securing secretaries, which seemed to be such a serious problem when it was first fully recognized. At that time it was hardly expected that smaller towns would support secretaries, but now 101 such towns in the United States, running down to five of 1,000 or less population, employ secretaries.

We are only beginning systematic efforts to secure suitable men as instructors in Association gymnasiums. Men who are active in Christian work and also trained in physical diagnosis, so that they can tell young men of their weak points and show them what exercise is best for their individual needs,—warning them at the same time of the effects of any bad habits,—are invaluable in our work. They have as yet been far more difficult to find than good secretaries, but the Association Training School at Springfield, Mass., (while it has from the beginning fitted its students to conduct gymnastic classes) established a year ago a department of physical culture, with competent instructors, which promises to be of great value in this direction. In the Committee's search for such men and investigation of their qualifications, very valuable aid has been rendered during the past year by Luther Gulick.

Another department of our work, the library, has not received proper attention in the past, and the Associations have not always been careful to obtain competent librarians. A librarian who is daily advising with young men about their reading has an opportunity to win their confidence and exert a personal influence over them which few men enjoy. Many secretaries, where librarians are not employed, have charge of the libraries of their Associations and add this method of approaching young men to the many others which they possess. It is hoped that in the future more attention may be paid to this important matter.

The following table shows the changes in the number of Associations (including Branches) which employ General Secretaries, also a gratifying net gain of seventy-nine secretarial points:

ANNUAL STATEMENT OF ROBERT WEIDENSALL,

Secretary.

The growth of the work in the Western States where there were no State Secretaries has been greatly stimulated by the progress of the work in the neighboring States where there were State Secretaries, and some of these in their turn were greatly benefited by the work in the better developed States which have the more experienced State Secretaries. The whole field has made a common and rapid advance. The work in Kansas has stimulated the work in Missouri and Nebraska; that in Tennessee has been sensibly felt in Kentucky; the work in Illinois and Wisconsin has been of great advantage to Indiana and Michigan; while the work in Iowa and Minnesota has made good progress.

It is very gratifying to myself and must be to all concerned, that the general growth of the work in this field has been so complete and permanent that of eleven States at the West eight—Michigan, Indiana, Tennessee, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa and Kansas—are now employing State Secretaries, and several of them two or three assistants, while the other States—Nebraska, Missouri and Kentucky—are about ready to employ Secretaries.

Three State Secretaries have resigned: H. F. Williams, of Minnesota, resigned on account of ill health, but was allowed experimentally to enter the service of the International Committee. C. G. Baldwin, of Iowa, resigned to devote himself to aiding Associations in important building enterprises, and F. W. Douglas, of Indiana, to accept the General Secretaryship of the Indianapolis Association. Two new State Secretaries have been added to the list; F. R. Hunker for Michigan, and Fletcher Humphrey for Indiana. At least five Assistant State Secretaries have left their positions: one to become a State Secretary, two to become General Secretaries, one to pursue a course of study, and one, our beloved brother W. E. Burford, was called to his reward.

The demand for competent State and local secretaries, gymnasium superintendents and librarians was never so pressing as now, a fact which shows the great need of the Springfield Training School and the Western Secretarial Institute.

Association buildings are now in course of erection or about completed in Kansas City and Independence, Mo., Wichita, Kas., Omaha, Neb., Minneapolis, Minn., Fort Wayne, Ind., and Nashville, Tenn. The raising of building funds is more general to-day than ever before and in localities where such a movement would have been next to impossible a few years ago.

The spiritual work of the Associations was never better than now, in the conversion of young men, in the Bible and Training classes, and in the influence it exerts over all the other departments.

On my way to and from the International Convention at San Francisco, I visited the following points: Albuquerque, N. M., Riverside, San Diego, Los Angeles, Santa Barbara, Fresno, Stockton and Sacramento, Cal., Salt Lake City, Utah, and Denver, Col. At each of these places I rendered such help as was needed. At one point I opened the way for a General Secretary, at several other points I advised and assisted with reference to building enterprises, met with boards of directors, addressed public meetings, counseled officials concerning various departments of the work, etc. At every point visited I received the most cordial treatment from the officials and members of the Association.

I helped the Lincoln, Neb., Association to secure a building lot, and arranged for J. E. Ensign to conduct a canvass for funds for a building. I was present and made an address at the laying of the corner stone of the new Association building at Omaha, Neb.; attended and took part in the dedication of the new Association building at St. Joseph, Mo.; and was present at the laying of the corner stone of the new Association building in Kansas City, Mo., by the President of the United States.

I spent a very pleasant and restful time at the Western Secretarial Institute, Geneva Lake, during the first two weeks in August, aiding in the work there as far as I could. I have also been able to furnish some assistance to the Secretarial Training School at Springfield, Mass.

At Covington, Ky., I assisted in raising the funds required to make the first attempt at a true Association a complete success.

It is needless to speak of Colorado, Dakota, and the Territories beyond. They are white to the harvest and are loudly calling upon the International Committee for organization and workmen to reach the thousands of young men within their borders.

Since April 1, 1887, I have travelled 22,993 miles in 17 different States and Territories, have visited 70 towns and cities, called upon 51 Associations and rendered special help to 16 of them.

I was present at the International Convention at San Francisco, at the International Secretaries Conference at Oakland, and at the annual dinner meeting of the International Committee in New York City.

I attended four State Conventions: Nebraska, at Nebraska City, Missouri, at Clinton, Kentucky, at Louisville, and Michigan at Kalamazoo. Was present at eight State Committee meetings at St. Louis, St. Joseph and Clinton, Mo., Nebraska City, Neb., Louisville, Ky., Des Moines, Ia., and Kalamazoo, Mich., and meetings of sub-committees frequently. I also attended the meeting of the General Synod of the Evangelical Lutheran Church, at Omaha.

I made 29 public addresses on Association work; held 12 conferences with Association workers in Albuquerque, N. M., Riverside, San Diego, Los Angeles, Santa Barbara, Fresno, Stockton and Sacramento, Cal., Denver, Col.; St. Joseph, Mo., Lincoln, Neb., and Council Bluffs, Iowa; attended three meetings of building committees; one in Omaha and two in Los Angeles, Cal.; I secured G. C. Jenner, of Kalamazoo, Mich., to solicit funds for the Omaha building, and had considerable to do with C. G. Baldwin's giving his whole time to raising funds for Association buildings.

I assisted five States: Nebraska, Iowa, Missouri, Kentucky and Michigan in raising money for State work, either in the State Conventions or otherwise, and helped to secure General Secretaries for Kansas City and St. Joseph, Mo., Omaha, Neb., Santa Barbara, Cal., and Chicago, Ill. Much more has been done than can be reported, because of its general character.

While my want of usual health has prevented me from doing what I would like to have done, yet the condition of the entire field was never so satisfactory nor the immediate outlook so promising as now. For this I am profoundly thankful to God.

ANNUAL STATEMENT OF THOMAS K. CREE,

Secretary.

I have to report for another year, that owing to continued ill health, my connection with the Committee has been little more than a nominal one.

I have assisted, so far as I could, in securing financial aid for the Committee; have done considerable office work when in New York; have maintained my connection with Associations and Association men by a vigorous correspondence; and have in a number of other ways assisted in furthering the interests of the Associations.

During the fall I gave a month to visiting some fifteen or twenty Associations and Branches, principally in the interest of the Railroad Department.

I had arranged to spend the winter in Texas and other parts of the South, but ill health compelled me to abandon this trip.

STATEMENT OF EDWIN D. INGERSOLL,

Secretary for the Railroad Department until November 1st.

My health was so seriously impaired by overwork that I was compelled to stop in March, 1887. I spent several months resting and in travel, in this country and in Europe, doing all I could under best medical advice to recover my health.

In August I attended the Convention of the Maritime Provinces at Summerside, Prince Edward's Island, and visited several Associations, going and returning.

In September I attended a district convention at Waltham, Mass.; the New Hampshire State Convention, at Newport, and the anniversary of the Association of Keene, N. H.

In October, I attended a meeting in the interest of the building of the B. & O. Railroad Branch of the Baltimore Association; the Connecticut State Convention at Norwich; and the Massachusetts State Convention at Southbridge.

The result of each of these attempts to resume my work was a return of the suffering brought on by it, and I was compelled to resign my secretaryship.

ANNUAL STATEMENT OF L. D. WISHARD,

College Secretary.

The college year 1887-'88 has been one of development rather than extension. No new methods of work have been introduced, but methods already well tried have been prosecuted with greater vigor than ever before. Among the chief characteristics of the year's work have been college conferences, intercollegiate visitation, or deputation work, as some College Associations term it; the promotion of building enterprises, the wide circulation of a volume entitled "A College of Colleges," containing a sketch of the intercollegiate movement and the leading addresses delivered at the Northfield Summer School of 1887; the enlistment of many athletic men as leaders in Christian work in colleges, and the increased interest in behalf of work for young men in heathen lands and of students' associations in foreign missionary schools.

1. COLLEGE CONFERENCES AND COLLEGE DELEGATIONS AT CONVENTIONS.—I have sought to increase these during the year, partly because this was my last year's work in the American colleges. These gatherings have been more largely attended than in any preceding year. Fully 1,275 students were present at twelve conferences and conventions which I attended. These men represented over 3,200 students in 160 colleges. There were also in attendance 1,800 students in eight colleges where the gatherings were held. I have never attended conferences whose discussions were more practical, where a more intelligent recognition of the work prevailed or a stronger determination to do the work with thoroughness.

The College Summer School at Northfield, Mass., convened by Dwight L. Moody, was attended by nearly five hundred students and young men, representing over eighty colleges and a number of city Associations, from June 30 to July 13. Visiting delegates from Cambridge University, England, and Glasgow University, Scotland, were present, this being the first time the American College Associations were privileged to entertain students from the universities of Great Britain. Bible instruction was given by Rev. Dr. Broadus, of Louisville, Ky.; Prof. Townsend, of Boston; Prof. Drummond, of Glasgow University; Henry Clay Trumbull; Dr. Chamberlain, of India; and William M. Oatts, General Secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association of Glasgow. The work of college and city Associations was considered under the leadership of experienced, International, State and city secretaries. The mornings and evenings were devoted to meetings and the afternoons to athletics. At Mr. Moody's invitation a similar gathering will be held at Northfield this year from June 30th to July 15th.

2. COLLEGE ASSOCIATION BUILDINGS.—The example set by Princeton, Hanover, Toronto and Yale is being followed in other colleges. Cornell University Association, after a vigorous canvass among students and professors, raised $10,000. This was liberally increased by a gift of $40,000 from the late A. S. Barnes, of Brooklyn. The building is now under way and promises to be the architectural ornament of the campus and an invaluable help in the equipment of the students for their social and Christian work. Hamilton College Association will soon erect a building through the liberality of Mr. H. B. Silliman, of Cohoes, New York. The University of Virginia Association has purchased a lot of seven acres adjoining the campus, which will be laid out in athletic grounds, in one corner of which a building will be erected containing social room, reading room, library, hall, and a well equipped gymnasium, bowling alley, bath room, etc. The man who gives the $50,000 needed for the erection and furnishing of the building will render a very great service to the young men of the entire South through this, the leading university of that section. I believe this is the ideal College Association building plan and hope it will be adopted by the Association in every college which is not already provided with a good gymnasium and athletic grounds. The State Universities of Iowa and Wisconsin, and McGill University, Montreal, are moving in building enterprises with vigor, and will succeed.

3. THE ENLISTMENT OF ATHLETIC MEN IN CHRISTIAN WORK has been emphasized more during the past year than ever before, and with good results. These men challenge the attention of a large class of students whom other men have failed to reach.

4. INTERCOLLEGIATE VISITATION.—The discussion of this subject at the Summer School by Professor Drummond and by the Edinburgh University delegation which visited several of our Eastern colleges early last autumn, has revived this old time method of College Association work which was employed at the beginning of the intercollegiate movement ten years ago. Students in a number of Eastern colleges have throughout the year made numerous visits to colleges and towns which have in all cases been productive of good results, and in some cases have been extremely helpful. This will continue to be urged next year.

5. WORK FOR YOUNG MEN IN HEATHEN LANDS.—The past nine year's advocacy of the missionary meeting, and its adoption by many of the College Associations as an essential feature of Association work, have been followed by the natural results: First, the decision of a large number of students to enter the foreign missionary work; Second, the formation of Associations in foreign missionary schools; Third, the recognition by the city, as well as College Associations, of the special claims of the young men in heathen lands upon their sympathy and efforts.

Leave of absence having been granted me by the Committee I expect to spend the months of April, May and June, visiting the leading Associations of Great Britain. After attending the Northfield Encampment in July, and making a tour among the colleges on the Pacific Coast, I hope to sail late in September or early in October for Japan, where I expect to begin a tour of the higher schools and cities of the Orient, which will consume several years. My purpose is to carefully study the condition and needs of those young men with reference to the adaptation of the Association to their circumstances; to acquaint missionaries and foreign resident business men with the nature and methods and scope of the Young Men's Christian Association, in order to enable them to judge of its adaptation to their present line of work; to strengthen the existing Associations in the schools, and the few already in operation in cities; and to build up at several strategic points a well defined work, with a General Secretary in charge, who I believe can be secured in America.

I expect to prosecute this work as the representative of the International Central Committee of the Associations located in Geneva, Switzerland, and for this purpose hope for an indefinite leave of absence from my present field. The mission before me is one of peculiar delicacy and difficulty. I can only hope to succeed through the help of Him who has all power in heaven and on earth. In attempting this work, which must separate me officially for a time from the Committee, I especially desire the united and frequent prayers of the men whose sympathy and counsel have cheered and guided me during the eleven years which have passed since I was called to the College Secretaryship. I cannot expect in this life to fully express my appreciation and gratitude for all that the Committee has done for the college work and my affection for the men who have stood by me in its prosecution. The sorrow with which I anticipate my separation from the Committee and its Secretaries is only equaled by that which is caused by my separation from my family and the college boys of America. I am nerved for this separation partly by the thought that eternity will be long enough to compensate for all the separation experienced here, and chiefly by the conviction that this work is demanded by Him who died for the young men, not only of our own land, but of the lands also which are adjacent to that in which the years of His young manhood were spent.

Summary of the Year's Work.—Have written 300 letters; attended 12 conventions and conferences, meeting 2,500 students from 161 different colleges; visited 36 colleges and 5 cities in 16 states, meeting 4,000 students.

ANNUAL STATEMENT OF HENRY E. BROWN, Secretary.

During the past year I have visited six places in California, eleven in Texas, six in Arkansas, three in Mississippi, three in Alabama, eight in the vicinity of Washington, and fifteen in other sections; some of which I have visited two or three times, spending usually from one to several days in a place.

I attended the International Convention at San Francisco, the Secretaries' Conference at Oakland, the Southern Secretaries' Conference at Rome, Ga. the State Conventions of Alabama and Arkansas, and the December meeting of the International Committee and its Secretaries, in New York.

I met the State Committees of Arkansas and Mississippi, and the chairman or other officers of the committees of several other States.

I co-operated in the organization of Associations in Redlands, Cal., Sherman, Tex., and the Central Institute of Altus, Arkansas.

I assisted in raising money for a building in Passadena, Cal., and for annual expenses in El Paso and Sherman, Texas, and Rome, Ga.

I visited the Association in Trinity University, at Tehuacana, Texas; about half of the colored college and general Associations; the Springfield Secretarial Training School; and also several Young Women's Christian Associations in female colleges.

For the first time since the beginning of the Committee's work among colored young men an Association has been established with a General Secretary. It is located at Norfolk, Va., and has a board of directors composed of leading colored business men and teachers. There is also an advisory committee of white men, composed chiefly of members of the board of directors of the white Association, and one pastor from each white denomination. Over $1,800 was pledged by the colored and white citizens of Norfolk for the first year's work. W. A. Hunton, a colored young man holding an excellent position in the government offices at Ottawa, Canada, and one of the most active and efficient members of the board of directors of the Association in that city, was called to the secretaryship, and consented to undertake this difficult pioneer work. A suite of rooms was secured and fitted up, and the work started with promise of abundant success. Already a committee is taking steps looking to the securing of a lot and the erection of a building. The white people and churches of Norfolk are in hearty sympathy with this movement and are generously aiding it by their counsel and money.

Other cities are asking when their turns will come for such a work. Several educated colored men have been found willing to become General Secretaries. Training classes have been organized at Howard University, Storer College and Lincoln University with special reference to colored young men to fill this position.

Most of my time on the field during the year has been spent in States where Association work is new, and in small places, so that in many cases my chief effort has been to prepare the way for organization on a wise and safe basis.

Opportunities for personal work are occasionally found and are much needed to keep my own heart properly enlisted, and to prevent me from relying upon methods and human agencies rather than upon the Holy Spirit.

ANNUAL STATEMENT OF E. W. WATKINS,

Secretary.

One of the closing sentences of my last report mentions a visit to Maine early in January. This visit led to the engagement of a temporary State Secretary. Through the experience of the value of such work together with further aid from the International Committee, Maine has since secured E. A. Lawrence as State Secretary, who has been doing excellent work in that State since January.

My last report was written up to March, 1887, and from the Pacific Coast, where I had been at the time of writing about two months. I remained there until after the International Convention, returning East in June. During my four months stay, in co-operation with the State Committee, I made 27 visits to 18 places, conferring with local committees about local work, addressing public meetings, etc.

Based upon the information hereby gained of local Association needs, after conferring with the California State Committee, information and suggestions were submitted to the International Committee as a result of which it sent five representatives to San Francisco by various routes a month in advance of the convention, stopping at all important points on the way. The efficient aid given to local work by these gentlemen is shown by the renewed zeal of the workers, the wider interest taken in the work at the points visited, and by the expressions of appreciation from our friends on the Pacific Coast.

Upon my return from the West, finding my health somewhat impaired by reason of several years of traveling, I retired from the service of the Committee to engage in business in New York City. Early in January I accepted an invitation to return to the Committee's service. During the few months of my absence I attended the Connecticut State Convention, a district conference in Jersey City, delivered addresses at various points, and gave the afternoons and evenings of a few weeks to co-operation with the Harlem friends in promoting their Association building enterprise.

Since my renewed engagement with the Committee, I have brought to the attention of several State and local organizations a plan to secure for State and International work the financial co-operation, through small subscriptions, of the active members of these local Associations. The plan has been thus far received with favor, and it is hoped that its adoption may be widely extended.

Early in February I attended the Virginia State Convention. H. O. Williams, whose way I prepared by frequent visits to local fields and State Conventions in that State, is doing a very satisfactory work as State Secretary. The large attendance upon the convention, the earnest interest manifested by the delegates concerning local and State work, and the prompt pledging of $2,500 for the use of the State Committee indicate in a measure the progress of the Virginia Associations. Their enlarged work demands the continuous service of an efficient secretary. It is very gratifying that they have the money and the proper man.

I have co-operated with the office Secretaries, as usual, in efforts to secure General Secretaries, and as in former years have given attention to railroad work in the way of supervision and work preliminary to organization on the Pacific Coast.

ANNUAL STATEMENT OF CLAUS OLANDT, JR.,

German Secretary.

The German work of which I have special charge has made progress during the past year. The Milwaukee Branch has a building fund; the St. Louis Branch has purchased a fine building lot; the Philadelphia Branch has $3,000 pledged for a permanent home; and the Branch in New York City is about to enlarge its quarters by the purchase of the adjoining building. There is a better understanding about our work among the German-speaking young men than ever before, and the committees are doing a much more effective service. Several of the Branches have Bible training classes for workers, the same as the English-speaking Associations have ; and our work is being raised to a higher and better plane in every direction. Most, if not all, of the failures in this work in the past have been due to the lack of competent and trained leaders. German laymen, as a rule, are not accustomed to work of this kind, so it is very necessary to have the proper leaders. What we need more than any other one thing besides the blessing of God, is more men fully qualified for the position of General Secretary, and I am glad to say that we are getting them.

The Secretarial Training School at Springfield, Mass., has helped, and is helping, us very much in this line. Through the generosity of a member of this Committee a promising young German was enabled to attend this school for six months, and now he is doing a most successful work in one of our German Branches. Through the generosity of a gentleman in Chicago another promising young man was enabled to enter the school last November.

Last spring, in response to an urgent call that came to the Committee for help, I was sent to Alabama, where I spent several months in State work, organizing Associations at a number of new points and helping to strengthen those already existing. While there, some four young men were placed as secretaries, something like $60,000 in pledges were secured for building funds, and it was my privilege to deal successfully with a large number of very promising young men who were inquiring the way of life.

The month of February of this year was spent in work in the Province of Ontario, Canada, in doing very much the same kind of work as was done in Alabama last summer.

ANNUAL STATEMENT OF C. K. OBER,

College Secretary.

Since my last report I have visited colleges in Maine, Massachusetts, New York, Pennsylvania, Indiana, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Nebraska. These visits, with two exceptions, have been to College Associations already organized, and with reference to strengthening and developing the work and working force of these organizations. In fact, the policy for the year has been, not to extend but to develop. The new points visited have been in response to urgent demands for advice and assistance. Emphasis has been laid on Bible study, personal work, evangelistic meetings, the cultivation of the missionary spirit, and the importance of raising the standard of Christian living among students.

In the direction of new work, the most important step has been the organizing of a metropolitan student Association work in Boston. The presence of nearly 600 students of the different collegiate and professional institutions in Boston, at a reception given them early in November by the Boston Young Men's Christian Association, awakened in the minds of the students themselves, a desire for some form of mutual organized Christian effort among the students resident in and about Boston. At their invitation, I met with representative students, advised them concerning organization and plan of work, and assisted in securing the $1,200 needed for its successful prosecution. The students organized under the name of the Boston Intercollegiate Young Men's Christian Association ; rented and furnished as their headquarters a very desirable room in the Boston Association building, and are doing a good work. Their membership numbers (March 1st) about 120 and is constantly increasing.

Considerable time was given to co-operating with Mr. D. L. Moody in the arrangements preliminary to his College Student's Summer School for Bible Study, held at Northfield, Mass., from June 30th to July 12th, under his leadership. This intercollegiate meeting was very numerously attended, and was in the highest degree successful.

I have attended, during the year, the Nebraska College Conference, and the Medical Student's Missionary Conference in New York City ; and have also met a large number of college students at the State Conventions of New Hampshire, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Indiana. I have visited during the college year about forty colleges.

Two and one-half months of the year have been given to the Indiana State work, in which most encouraging progress has been made. F. W. Douglas, the acting State Secretary, has been called to the General Secretaryship of the Indianapolis Association and F. Humphrey, of South Bend, has been elected State Secretary. Besides these, four General Secretaries, one Railroad Secretary, three assistant secretaries and three gymnasium superintendents have been located, making an addition of twelve new men to the working force in the State during the year.

I have also rendered some assistance to a number of city Associations, as I had opportunity. In connection with my oversight of the State work of Indiana, I have aided the local work in Indianapolis, South Bend, Richmond, New Albany and Crawfordsville, and the railroad work at Elkhart ; have given some attention also to local work in St. Paul, Minn., Omaha, Neb., Ithaca and Albany, N. Y., and Salem, Mass.

The outlook in the college work has never seemed so bright as at present, and we are looking forward to the coming year as one of great fruitage and substantial development.

ANNUAL STATEMENT OF P. AUGUSTUS WIETING,

Secretary.

My work the past year has been confined almost exclusively to the Committee's central office in New York City, where I have been engaged principally with correspondence, and preparation and revision of matter for publication. The multitudinous details connected with the office work, the extent of which is appreciated by very few, are the result of the close connection which the office sustains to all departments of the Committee's effort and every section of its wide field.

It would be impracticable, and well-nigh impossible, to give a full report of this work ; a brief summary must, therefore, suffice.

Correspondence has, as usual, formed one of the larger items of the office work. Letters of inquiry concerning Association work have come from all parts of North America, and also from many foreign countries. Considerably over 100,000 written and printed letters have been mailed during the year.

Statistics concerning the work in all its departments have been gathered and carefully collated, published and circulated. The annual report from each Association has been asked for as usual.

Publications now form an important department of our work. The demand for Association literature of a suggestive and helpful kind which has been steadily growing, is now met in part by the sixty standard pamphlet and leaflet publications of the Committee. Several new pamphlets have been added during the year, and one or two others carefully revised. Not less than 100,000 copies of these pamphlets have been disposed of at cost, since last spring. "The Year Book," the "Prayer Meeting Topics" and "The Inter-collegian" have been issued as usual.

The books and accounts of the Treasurer are kept at this office.

During the year, in addition to my office duties, I have visited and assisted in various ways the newly organized Associations in Jersey City and Paterson, N. J.; took part in the first anniversary exercises of the Danbury (Conn.) Association; attended a conference of the Associations of the first district of New Jersey; visited the Secretarial Training School at Springfield, Mass.; attended an Association parlor conference in Jersey City; was present at the conference of International Secretaries, and the International Committee's annual dinner meeting, in December; and attended and assisted in the New York State Convention.

STATEMENT OF WALTER C. DOUGLASS,

Secretary until September 1.

I severed my official connection with the Committee September 1, to accept the secretaryship of the Boston Association. The time intervening between my last report and the date of my leaving the Committee's service was spent principally in work at the West and in Philadelphia.

I gave two weeks to organizing a canvass for an Association building fund in Cincinnati.

Nearly three months were spent in Philadelphia assisting the Association there in raising the large sum of money needed to remove the mortgage upon its building.

Considerable time and attention were given to the Railroad Department. One or more visits in the interest of this work were made to St. Louis, Peoria, Elkhart, Bloomington, Chicago and Philadelphia.

In addition to the above, I attended and addressed in the interests of the local work, conferences of business men at Jersey City, Paterson, Bridgeton and New Brunswick, N. J.; and assisted the work at various other points.

STATEMENT OF H. F. WILLIAMS,

Secretary for the Railroad Department.

My work with the Committee as Secretary of its Railroad Department covers a period of three months. The report will necessarily be brief, both as to number of places visited and work accomplished.

No attempt has been made to introduce new methods or to rapidly organize new points, but the plan has been to take up the work as left by Edwin D. Ingersoll, former Railroad Secretary, whose faithful service is well remembered. Constant effort has been made to co-operate with the various State Committees, and the valuable assistance of the chairmen of these Committees and the State Secretaries, is gratefully acknowledged.

Several visits were made to Peoria, Ill., resulting in removing some of the difficulties which had hindered the growth of the Railroad work there, and opening the way for a secretary. Considerable attention has been given to Elkhart, Ind., where, through a generous gift of Cornelius Vanderbilt, together with contributions from the citizens and Railroad men, a burdensome debt upon the Association building, which had stood in the way of the progress of the work at that point, was removed, a General Secretary called, and the work greatly helped. A visit to Fort Wayne, Ind., was followed by the securing of a General Secretary for the department at that point to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of the former secretary to accept the position of secretary of the city Association.

From the time of the organization of the Association at Brainerd, Minn., the necessity for a building has been strongly felt. A presentation of this need to Robert Harris, President of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company, secured from him a generous gift toward a building fund. There has since been raised in the town, about $2,000 additional, and this is to be increased until the total subscription reaches about $5,000. Plans for a very attractive and convenient building have been adopted and its erection is to be commenced in April. The work at this point is carried on by a joint Association of the city and railroad men.

The Association at Fargo, Dakota, organized on the same basis as the Brainerd Association, has a good building, well adapted to the needs of its work.

I assisted in the reorganization of the department at Louisville, Ky. The work among Railroad men at that large centre has evidently entered upon a new era of activity.

In addition to the above, visits in the interest of the Railroad Department have been made to St. Paul, Minneapolis, Milwaukee, La Crosse, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, St. Louis and Chicago; I have co-operated with the board of directors of the St. Paul Association in important matters, and given some special assistance to the State Committee of Minnesota; attended the Illinois College Conference, and Provincial Convention of Ontario and Quebec at Toronto. An extensive correspondence, incidental to commencing my work and getting familiar with the field, was conducted.

Great encouragement has been received from the warm reception and hearty co-operation of the Railroad Secretaries in all parts of the field.

The co-operation of the various International Secretaries has been indispensable to the development and progress of the Railroad Department.

The encouragements in this special field are found, in part, in the deep consecration and faithful work of the Railroad Secretaries, and the strong men that are being added to the force each year; the increasing desire among Railroad men for the organization of Railroad Branches; the growing interest among officials as manifested in proposals to erect buildings, calls for the Secretary of the Railroad Department to visit specific points with a view to organization, and a readiness to grant corporate support.

The way seems open, and work will soon be undertaken, for the establishment of departments at points in the South and on the Pacific Coast.

That which gives occasion for the most profound gratitude and thankfulness is the great spiritual blessing enjoyed by many of the Railroad departments during the past winter.

In addition to what is reported above, I visited during the year, as a special agent of the Committee, the following important points in the North-west : Miles City and Helena, Montana ; Spokane Falls, Walla Walla, Tacoma and Seattle, Washington Territory ; and Portland and The Dalles, Oregon. My work at these points was that of general visitation, including special conferences with committees, suggesting plans for enlarging the usefulness of the Associations, assisting in financial matters, and opening the way for and securing General Secretaries.

ANNUAL REPORTS OF CORRESPONDING MEMBERS.

TO MARCH 1, 1888.

FRANCE.

The number of Associations at present in France is about eighty, with a membership of perhaps 1,500.

The Associations are divided into six groups, each group having a relative importance midway between the State and district organizations in the United States. With the exception of Paris, Lyons and a few other centres, the French Associations are comparatively weak, lacking the courage and force to begin aggressive work. It must be remembered, however, that France is a Roman Catholic country and that Protestantism has been obliged to pass through terrible persecution in the past, and has now to contend against a very strong irreligious spirit. Under the circumstances it is encouraging to know that so many Associations have maintained their existence.

One of the hopeful features of the situation is the progressive spirit manifested by the present Central National Committee located at Lyons. Through the "Esperance," the official journal, it is doing its utmost to rouse the different Associations in France to greater activity.

The efforts of the central Association in Paris are also worthy of notice. It has succeeded in attracting the attention of Paris Protestants to its work to a much greater extent than ever before. Should this interest be maintained it will, without doubt, prove the dawning of a brighter day for Association work in France.

F. A. GAYLORD, Cor. Mem.

GERMANY.

The last year has been an eventful one in Association work in Germany. The Second National Convention was held in August, at Dessau—the capital of the Duchy of Anhalt—followed by a Secretaries' Conference, which was the first of its kind in our country. We had the great pleasure of having several foreign delegates and friends with us: the Rev. F. Von Schluembach, of Perry, Texas; the secretaries of the German Associations in New York and London, George R. Witte and William Mueller; the newly called secretary of the Zürich, Switzerland, Association, Mr. Hofer; and the representative of the Central Committee at Geneva, Secretary Charles Fermand.

A National Committee for Germany was formed by the presidents of the seven German Bunds, Pastor Krummacher, of Elberfeld being elected chairman of the same until the next convention, which is to take place in 1892. The committee will issue a yearly almanac (year book) for all the German Associations.

It was resolved that the secretaries, traveling and local, should have an annual conference for the discussion of their work. This is a great step forward. Another important resolution was unanimously passed, viz.: that the Associations after the new style—Christlicher Verein Junger Maenner—which have been organized in various cities since the last convention in 1882, “be officially recognized as doing a necessary and legitimate, though somewhat different work from the older ones.”

The Associations in the Provinces of Silesia and Posen have been separated from the East Bund and formed into a special “South-east Bund,” with headquarters at Breslau. We hope this division of a large field will prove to be a healthful and helpful one. There are consequently now seven Bunds in existence, viz.: the West Bund (centre: Elberfeld), the East (Berlin), the North (Hamburg); the South (Stuttgart), the South-east (Breslau), the Saxon (Bautzen), and the Alsace-Lorraine (Muenster). Count Bernstorff, the President of the last World’s Convention at Berlin in 1884, has become president of the East Bund.

Two additional traveling secretaries have during the past year entered the work, one in the East and the other in the South Bund. The number of traveling secretaries has thereby increased to six. Of local secretaries who give their whole time to the work, there are at present nine.

The total number of Associations, according to the last official report, is now 675.

JAPAN.

The Osaka Association with its fine lecture hall, the gift of three nations or continents, viz: Great Britain, Australia, and America, is the most prosperous of all the Associations in Japan. Its situation in the ancient commercial metropolis of the nation, may exert an influence on its financial prospects, but Tokio, as the political centre, and Yokohama, as the foreign port, should be more favorable points for influence of an extended character. At neither of these centres have great Associations yet arisen, which is due partly to lack of buildings and concentration of effort on the part of Christian young men. There are numerous church or small Associations which are doing good service in securing public lectures in theatres, and in doing considerable evangelistic work among all classes. But as Associations for young men they need better organization and direction. This has hardly been possible for missionary and clerical laborers to accomplish. It is, therefore, with no small joy the advent of trained Association workers from America is hailed as giving new encouragement for the concentration and efficiency of the work, especially for young men.

In all the two hundred churches of Japan, I presume there are Young Men’s Associations working in evangelistic and church lines. In the three great mission colleges of the Doshisha, at Saikyo, and of the Awoyama and Meiji-Gaku-In, at Tokio, there must be efficient Associations. The youth of Japan are comparatively more precocious than the youth of America, so whatever of power the young enjoy over their elders should be consecrated for God. Night schools and English classes could be made of great service in all commercial centres and indeed anywhere, so great is the desire for an English education. Between the young men of the churches and colleges and the community in Japan, and the young men of the colleges and Associations in America, when they come into extensive and intimate contact, as we hope they soon will, we look for a marked advance of the whole cause of Christ in Japan. Indeed, it may be as of old, that the great multitude is to be conquered "by the young men of the princes of the provinces."

The whole advance thus far has mostly been through the schools and the young men of Japan. This is true both of the national and religious progress of Japan. Our young men seem to realize they have come to the throne of public influence for such a time as this. Their present earnest desire is that when the national parliament is opened in the 23d year of Meiji, 1890, it may be largely composed of Christian men, rather than of heathens, or men of atheistic tendencies. How desirable for the nation's advancement this must be can be easily discerned, and how important, in consequence, is the brief time yet intervening for the promotion of so great, and, to the human vision, so impossible an end. Their national parliament theistic and Christian, and their whole land won for Christ, is the burning desire of all Japanese Christian young men.

TURKEY.

As far as I have been able to learn there seems to be a steady improvement in Association work in this country.

There are now Associations in all of our Protestant centres. While it must be said that these societies are weak, and as yet unable to fully fill the place which Associations should, still there is in them the germ of future growth and power. The great need seems to be a better understanding of Association methods. To this end I look with great hopefulness to the fact that so many of the young men of promise in this land seek an education abroad. The contact with Christian people and institutions cannot but have in the long run a happy effect upon society here. America and England are thus doing a noble missionary work on their own soil, as well as abroad, and I think the two are mutually helpful.

The Association in Constantinople has taken a new lease of life during the past year, and is now doing good work. The Sunday afternoon meetings for young men have been excellent, and the lecture course has been well conducted, and has contributed toward raising the standard of the Association in the community. There is great reason to hope that the Lord has now in training in this Association a band of young men who will a few years later make themselves felt in this country. This Association also has a small building fund.

MANITOBA.

The Associations in this Province—four in number—are in a prosperous condition and doing a good work.

Winnipeg employs a general secretary and an assistant. The spiritual life of the membership is deeper and more active than ever before, and there are inquirers at almost every gospel meeting.

The work at Brandon is a successful and growing one, and the Association in Manitoba College is accomplishing excellent results among the students. The other Association is located at Beulah and is composed of Indian young men.

ROBERT D. RICHARDSON, Cor. Mem.

NEW BRUNSWICK.

The Associations remain about the same in number as last year, but there is more activity than hitherto, especially in definite work for young men.

The union of the railroad work at Moncton with the Association is working satisfactorily, and during this year it is expected that railroad work will be undertaken at several other centres. St. John is moving into line and will likely have a railroad department before many weeks.

The College Associations at Sackville and Frederickton are doing good work.

Moncton and St. John each employs a General Secretary, and the latter also a gymnasium instructor.

J. E. IRVINE, Cor. Mem.

NOVA SCOTIA.

The work in this Province has made some advance during the past year. The number of Associations now in existence is twenty-four, of which two are College Associations. Two have been formed since my last report. Nearly all of these are in good working order and sharing a fair measure of success.

The Traveling Secretary for the Maritime Provinces has, by the direction of the Executive Committee, devoted his attention more to the consolidation and improvement of the Associations already formed than to the effort to establish new ones.

The twentieth annual Convention of the Maritime Provinces met at Summerside, P. E. I., in August, 1887. There were in attendance 112 delegates and seventeen corresponding members, representing twenty-eight Associations, including three Railroad and one College Associations. As in the Convention immediately preceding, a larger number of the delegates than usual were young men, and the sessions were very enthusiastic. The International Committee was represented by Edwin D. Ingersoll, who was heartily welcomed, and rendered valuable assistance. The thanks of the Associations in this section are certainly due the International Committee for so frequently sending us such acceptable representatives.

W. B. McNUTT, Cor. Mem.

ONTARIO.

The work in Ontario never was more encouraging. Few new Associations have been organized, but those now in existence are doing good service.

In several cities and towns arrangements are about completed for erecting suitable buildings for work among young men, with good prospect of success. We have had no Traveling Secretary for over a year, which has been a great drawback to the extension of the work, but a good deal has been accomplished by the district committees; and representatives of the International Committee have greatly aided us on several occasions.

JOHN J. GARTSHORE, Cor. Mem.

PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND.

The past year has been marked by an increased interest and great activity in connection with Association work in Charlottetown. The beneficial effects of the revival of religion in our midst, the year before, have been felt throughout this year. The great need of this Association is an efficient General Secretary.

The only other Association in the Island is at Summerside, which is in a good, progressive state. The twentieth Convention of the Maritime Provinces was held with the Summerside Association in August, 1887. A marked feature of the gathering was the number of young men present and the active part taken by them in the proceedings. Edwin D. Ingersoll, of the International Committee, and Dr. W. F. Kelly, of Montreal, were also present and greatly aided in making the Convention an eminently successful one.

Shortly after the Convention the Summerside Association procured a building of its own, and has since been doing a better work than ever.

J. D. SEAMAN, Cor. Mem.

QUEBEC.

The Montreal Association, finding its present location and building too far out of the way for reaching the young men at night, and not equal to the pressing requirements of its rapidly extending work, has secured a magnificent site on Dominion Square, facing on one front the new Roman Catholic Cathedral and on the other commanding the two great railway stations, Canadian Pacific and Grand Trunk, the Windsor Hotel and no less than six leading churches. The building will be commenced as soon as practicable, and provision made specially for a first-class gymnasium, baths and large halls.

A new departure has been made in Provincial work by the appointment, in each town and village where no Association exists, of a correspondent, whose duties are to keep track of the young men in his town, and when one leaves to give him a letter of introduction to the secretary of the Association at the place he may remove to, and if the place be already known, to write, informing the secretary of the Association of the stranger's coming.

We are still without any railway organization, which, considering the thousands of railway men, is a serious loss.

CHARLES CUSHING, Cor. Mem.

ALABAMA.

Association work in this State is in a very encouraging condition.

The Association at Marion is active and about to enlarge its building, funds for a gymnasium having already been partially secured. The Birmingham Association has a building fund of $40,000. At Mobile the Association has been reorganized, new rooms fitted up, a General Secretary secured and a building fund of $15,000 pledged.

An Association has been organized at Montgomery, which now has a building fund of $12,000. Anniston has an Association and a lot for a building pledged. At Decatur an Association has been organized, rooms opened, a building lot secured and a building fund of $5,000 in the bank. The Association at Greensboro is at work on a building fund, part of which is secured.

There are seven General Secretaries employed in the State; at Selma, Montgomery, Mobile, Huntsville, Opelika, Birmingham and Anniston.

Claus Olandt, Jr., one of the Secretaries of the International Committee, spent several months in the State, during the year as acting State Secretary, assisting the work materially in many places.

CHARLES W. LOVELACE, Cor. Mem.

ARKANSAS.

There has been much activity in this field during the year. Associations have been organized at Clarksville, Conway, Van Buren, Fort Smith, and Altus.

The first State Convention was held at Little Rock in November, and resulted in the appointment of a State Committee, which is now diligently guiding and pushing the work throughout the State.

There are eleven Associations in the State (including two colored), all doing fairly well.

P. K. ROOTS, Cor. Mem.

CALIFORNIA.

The number of Associations in the State are thirty, ten of which are in colleges, an increase of six over last year. They are thoroughly and systematically organized and a most aggressive work is being accomplished.

Five buildings are now in process of erection; at San Diego, Los Angeles, Pasadena, Riverside, and Woodland; the aggregate cost of these buildings will be about $300,000. Two-thirds of this sum have already been subscribed.

C. S. Mason continues his work as State Secretary, and in September, 1887, J. Spencer Voorhees was elected as Associate State Secretary, giving us two traveling men in the State.

Nearly $5,000 was raised at the seventh annual State Convention for the State work. The State Association has been incorporated under the State laws of California, with eleven trustees. And in all particulars the work was never in a more healthy and flourishing condition than to-day.

The first annual conference of college students was held at the building of the San Francisco Association, March 9-11, 1888. It was addressed by prominent college men and largely attended by college students.

Our work has a strong hold on the citizens of the State and it is liberally supported. Every Association, I think, without a single exception, is doing definite work for young men in the line of Bible classes, religious services, reading rooms, libraries, medical lectures, business talks, employment department, physical department, etc. The total membership of the Associations in the State is nearly four thousand.

The International Convention, which was held at San Francisco, May 11-16, 1887, proved a great benefit to the work in this State. The visits of seven secretaries and agents of the International Committee to various points in the State prior to the Convention, proved exceedingly helpful, and many of the Associations took a new lease of life because of their timely visits and assistance.

COLORADO.

During the past year the work in Colorado has been vigorously pushed at the two leading points.

The Denver Association, employing three secretaries, has a membership of over 1,100, nearly one-third of whom are associate. It is doing a specific work for young men in all its departments, and has become popular with the business men who subscribed over $6,000 for its maintenance last year. The spacious rooms were handsomely furnished last March by the Ladies' Auxillary at an expense of $1,500. It is expected that the building project which has been quietly agitated during the past year, will be pushed this spring.

The Leadville Association has done a good year's work under the leadership of its competent and popular General Secretary, Wildman Murphy. Its mixed gospel meeting has been changed to a meeting for young men only. A good lecture course has been given with very satisfactory results, and its whole work is in very good condition.

Colorado Springs Association is in the same condition as last year, resting quietly, with $1,000 in the bank for a building in the future. The new Associations in Denver University and Colorado College are progressing very nicely.

Through the liberality of H. B. Chamberlin, one of the Denver pastors, Rev. R. Cameron, was enabled to spend several weeks preaching to the miners last summer. John Currie has recently been secured to continue this work for the balance of this year.

We sadly need a State Secretary, and hope we may have such an officer in the near future.

W. T. SUNLEY, Cor. Mem.

CONNECTICUT.

A survey of Association work in this State affords strong encouragement. Several of the older Associations report the year 1887 the most successful in their history, while those of a more recent date are in a prosperous and growing condition.

The most important secretarial change of the year has been the removal to another field of our efficient State Secretary, E. A. Lawrence. His work has been successful to a marked degree. Coming into the State when there were only four salaried officers who gave their whole time to the work, he left it with sixteen Associations doing an aggressive work for young men, and employing the entire time of twenty-five men.

Since the last report Secretaries have been called to Ansonia, Norwalk, Yale College and New London to fill vacancies. The New Britain Association looks forward with rejoicing to the speedy occupancy of its beautiful new building, referred to in our last report. The Association at Bristol has secured pledges of several thousand dollars toward a building. The State Convention at Norwich, October 18-16, 1887, was probably the largest ever held. The sessions were largely attended and the reports unusually good.

The total membership of the Associations is 5,513; the average daily attendance at the reading rooms 1,133; average attendance at young men's meetings 651; number of conversions 211; number uniting with churches 99; value of building property $89,600; value of furniture $20,506; total annual expense $89,204.

During the year the State has been divided into three districts, viz.: eastern, northern and southern. District conventions have been held with good results. An act incorporating the State Young Men's Christian Association has been secured from the Legislature. A State Boys' Camp, with over fifty in attendance, was a new feature of our summer work.

The report of the State Committee for the year shows much effective work done, and the treasurer reports all bills paid and a cash balance on hand. Many calls have been made on the International Committee and its responses have been generous and exceedingly helpful.

There are seven Associations in this State; two General Secretaries and one assistant. These Associations are all young but they display a good deal of energy, and with God's blessing, are bound to do a good work.

The State Convention, held at Gainesville, last December, was a very helpful gathering. A State Committee was appointed and we hope thereby to help and extend the work throughout the State.

The International Committee was represented at our State Convention, and has helped us in various other ways during the year.

ILLINOIS.

The Association work in this State is in a prosperous condition as the following brief summary will show:

There are now eighty-one Associations and departments; seventy report a total membership of 11,302; thirty-five, annual current expenses amounting to $76,885; five own six buildings, valued at $248,000, and eleven have building funds, amounting to $29,350; forty-seven report forty-eight young men's religious meetings, and twenty-three report thirty-seven Bible classes for young men; fifty report 1,491 professed conversions, ninety-six of whom, young men and boys, have united with the church; forty-eight Associations observed the Week of Prayer in November, twenty-four of which took collections for the International work amounting to $196.06.

The total money received by the State Committee last year amounted to $7,842.09; and the expenses for the year were all paid, leaving a balance of $4.05 in the treasury.

Considering the well organized condition of the Associations, it is to be hoped that the work during the coming year will, with the blessing of God, be the means of leading thousands of young men, now unsaved, to accept of Christ.

A. T. HEMINGWAY, Cor. Mem.

INDIANA.

Association work in this State is on a better footing and of a more solid character than ever before.

Our Associations have been greatly strengthened during the year and are now, we believe, firmly established. Crawfordsville Association—the child of the State Convention—has already outgrown its nursery, and has its eye on a certain corner lot and a building. Brazil is greatly enlarging its borders and will call a secretary. Fort Wayne is about completing a beautiful building. Elkhart has the last hundred dollars of her debt in sight. Since our last report we have gained five secretaries, four gymnasium superintendents, one city and one College Association. We now have fourteen paid secretaries and four gymnasium superintendents; nine city, three Railroad and twelve College Associations. Each Association is doing definite work for young men.

Our State work is being thoroughly organized, souls are being saved, believers built up in the faith, workers developed, and we are expecting still greater things of the Lord.

With gratitude we acknowledge the valuable and timely assistance received from the International Committee through its very efficient secretaries.

EDWIN D. WHEELLOCK, Cor. Mem.

IOWA.

Eleven Associations in this State employ eighteen General Secretaries and assistants. Eight smaller Associations have reading-rooms open every night. The other fourteen general Associations carry on religious work only. There are sixteen College Associations. All of the Associations hold young men's gospel meetings; five have gymnasiums, with baths, and there are four gymnasium instructors; five are working on building funds; one erected a building this year.

Our State Secretary has resigned, and we are anxiously waiting for the right man to take his place.

The State Committee, numbering thirteen, seven of whom must be residents of Des Moines, holds two full meetings each year. The Des Moines members constitute an executive committee and hold meetings as often as necessary. The Assistant State Secretary gives his attention to the State finances, to Associations temporarily without a general secretary, and to such other work as his time will allow.

The State Convention was held at Sioux City, October 19-23, attended by one hundred and forty delegates from thirty-four Associations.

One of the College Associations has received a neat building adapted to its use—a present from a lady interested in its work. Another has raised nearly one-half of a fund to erect a building. Still another has erected a chapel for a mission carried on conjointly with the Young Women's Christian Association. The College Conference held at Cedar Rapids January 13-15 was attended by over one hundred delegates, and nearly fifty more were snow-bound and failed to reach the place. The International Committee was represented by Secretary Wishard and F. K. Sanders, of Yale, who rendered invaluable assistance.

Iowa appreciates the relation of International work to State work, and is grateful for the exceedingly valuable help rendered by the International Committee through its Secretary, Mr. Weidensall. M. H. SMITH, Cor. Mem.

KANSAS.

Kansas has now thirty-nine local, eleven College and one Railroad Associations. At twenty-two points General Secretaries are employed. The Associations are all at work for young men, with the religious work kept prominent. As a result of much personal work, there has been an unusually large number of professed conversions, many of whom have found a home in the church.

The State Convention at Wichita, October 27-30, was attended by 450 delegates, representing thirty-nine Associations. Over $10,000 was pledged for State work.

Two Association buildings are in course of erection, one at Marion, costing $18,000, and one at Wichita, costing $75,000. Ten Associations report building lots.

The State is now divided into eight districts, each in charge of a committee. Two district conferences have been held with good results.

The State secretarial force consists at present of the State Secretary and five assistants as follows: stenographer, office secretary, secretary for special Bible class and spiritual work, secretary for the southern part of the State, and secretary (Indian) for the Indian Territory. The committee hopes to soon secure two additional assistants, one for the northern part of the State, and one for the college department.

Valuable aid has been rendered by the International Committee through its College Secretary, L. D. Wishard. AUGUSTUS NASH, Cor. Mem.

KENTUCKY.

We have now a larger number of Associations in Kentucky than at any previous time, several new ones having been organized during the past year.

Our great need for the success of the work in the State is a State Secretary.

At our recent State Convention the larger part of the necessary amount to pay a Secretary was secured, and it is confidently expected that the remainder will be raised at an early day.

The advance during the past year is largely due to the visits and labors with us of representatives of the International Committee.

The cause has recently lost one of the most devoted friends and successful workers it has had in Kentucky, in the removal by death of James F. Huber, who was for years Secretary of the State Committee and General Secretary at Louisville. J. EDWARD HARDY, Cor. Mem.

LOUISIANA.

We have no new organizations to report this year, and have reason to believe that some of those that were started last year have ceased to exist, owing doubtless to the fact that we have no State organization or systematic visitation.

The New Orleans Association has done good work during the past year and with encouraging results. More meetings have been held, and ninety-four persons have professed conversion. CHARLES H. SHUTE, *Cor. Mem.

MAINE.

There has been decided progress in Association work in our State during the past year. There never was a greater interest manifested in the work by the people generally than at the present time. This is due to the very efficient work that E. A. Lawrence has done for many of our Associations since he became our State Secretary, the first of this year.

The number of Associations in this State remains the same as last year. The Association at Monson, has died, and that at Ellsworth has been revived. With one or two exceptions, the Associations are very actively at work.

There are General Secretaries at Auburn, Bangor, Gardiner, Lewiston, Portland, Rockland and Waterville, and the vacancy at Augusta will soon be filled. Portland also employs an assistant secretary.

Our State Committee numbers fifteen, and is doing a better State work at present than ever before in its history. We were very fortunate in securing as State Secretary, E. A. Lawrence, formerly the State Secretary of Connecticut, who has proved himself a valuable man in our work.

The State Convention was held in Rockland, November 4-6, 1887. There was a large delegation present and much interest was manifested. Many of the delegates were quickened, particularly was this so with the students from Bowdoin College, who, upon their return, entered upon a work which resulted in the professed conversion of over thirty of their fellow students. Oliver C. Morse represented the International Committee and, with State Secretary Armstrong of Massachusetts, who was also present, rendered valuable assistance.

Bates, Bowdoin, and the State College at Orono, Colby University, and Bucksport Seminary have each a very flourishing Association. Several of these Associations were represented at the Summer School for Bible Study at Northfield.

The spiritual work of the Associations is good, and many of them have reported a large number of conversions among young men.

Some of the Associations are working for buildings of their own, with good prospects of success soon.

L. W. Messer of Cambridge, Mass., rendered valuable assistance to several of our Associations, and also to the State Committee, during the past year.

W. S. COREY, Cor. Mem.

MARYLAND, WEST VIRGINIA AND DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

Under the auspices of our joint committee, H. O. Williams, State Secretary of Virginia, gave six weeks' time to State work in this district during the year. Great benefit was afforded the several Associations he visited.

At Frederick, Maryland, and Martinsburg, West Virginia, the Associations were reorganized, funds secured for the year's work, and a General Secretary placed at each point.

The Associations at Baltimore, Md., and Washington, D. C., have both enjoyed a year of great prosperity. Every branch of their work has made a decided advance over any previous year's record, and their large buildings are the daily resort of hundreds of young men.

Our annual Convention was held in Baltimore, January 12-15, 1888. There were forty-two delegates and corresponding members present, representing eleven Associations. The International Committee was represented by Claus Olandt, Jr., and H. O. Williams.

There are now ten Associations in this district that are active, and several that exist in name only. The presence of a State Secretary might stir them to renewed life. Funds have been pledged for such an officer and the Executive Committee expects to find the right man and place him at work for the coming year.

T. A. HARDING, Cor. Mem.

MASSACHUSETTS.

There are in this State, at present, fifty-five Associations, forty-six being general, seven college, and two railroad; total membership about 17,000, being an increase of 2,000 during the year. There are 33 General Secretaries, 20 assistants, and 17 gymnasium instructors.

During the past year, Associations have been organized at Watertown and Lanesville. Three Associations have employed secretaries for the first time. Ten vacancies in the secretaryship have been filled, and nine new reading rooms have been opened.

The State Convention held in Southbridge, October 27-30, 1887, was a gathering of much interest and practical value. There were 186 delegates present. The subscriptions for the State work were more than double those of any previous year, amounting to $5,000. This has enabled the State Committee to place an Assistant Secretary in the field, and on Jan. 1, 1888, Wm. P. Taylor, formerly General Secretary of the Fitchburg Association, entered upon his duties in that position.

During the year there have been nine district conventions, and one conference of the General Secretaries with the State Committee, in Boston.

Two notable secretarial changes have occurred during the year. Rev. M. R. Demming, for many years General Secretary of the Boston Association, resigned to accept the pastorate of the Tabernacle Church in that city. He was succeeded by Walter C. Douglass, one of the secretaries of the International Committee. L. W. Messer, who had been the General Secretary of the Cambridge Association since its organization, resigned to accept a similar position with the Association in Chicago.

The State Committee has held regular monthly meetings in Boston, excepting during the summer months. It has been divided into sub-committees for different branches of the work, and has leased a room for permanent headquarters in the Boston Association building.

The reports from the Associations indicate a marked increase in the number of professed conversions, and in the number of young men who have been led into the churches by their instrumentality.

The International Committee was represented at our State Convention, and has kindly assisted in other ways in the work in this State.

The results of the past year have been specially satisfactory in many ways, and the outlook for the coming year is very encouraging.

S. B. CARTER, Cor. Mem.

MICHIGAN.

There are at present in this State twenty-four Associations in good working order, and mostly on a basis that seems permanent.

During the year new Associations have been organized at Buchanan, Owasso and Alma College. Three of those mentioned in our last report as having been organized during the year have become extinct—viz: Niles, Cadillac and Hillsdale.

There are now twenty-three paid secretaries and assistants.

Since our last report, the State Committee has appointed F. R. Bunker, of Olivet, State Secretary, and his earnest work is bearing good fruit. The calls for his services are becoming so frequent that an assistant secretary will be engaged as soon as the right man can be found.

The present condition, both spiritually and financially, of most of the Associations, is very encouraging and hopeful.

In several towns where it has not seemed wise to organize Associations, "Gospel Bands" have been organized, and corresponding members appointed, who report to the State Secretary. There are at present sixteen such corresponding members.

The railroad and college work hold their own, but the latter especially should be extended.

The Association building at Detroit has been completed, and is one of the best equipped in the country. The entire cost of site and building, was about one hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars. It is wholly paid for, and the Detroit Association will, in future, not only be freed from the burden of paying rent, but will have quite a revenue from its rentals.

Building projects are being pushed at Kalamazoo, Coldwater, Grand Rapids and East Saginaw.

The State Convention, held at Kalamazoo, Feb. 2-5, 1888, was, in every respect, a success. Two hundred and thirty five delegates and corresponding members were present. The International Committee was represented by Secretaries Weidensall and Wishard. Twenty-eight hundred dollars of the thirty-five hundred dollars asked for State work was pledged.

J. R. DUTTON, Cor. Mem.

MINNESOTA AND DAKOTA.

During the year 1887, thirteen new Associations were organized in Minnesota and Dakota. Of these, six were in cities, one railroad, four in colleges and two among the Indians. Two Associations have disbanded since the last report. The total number of organizations, including Branches, is now forty-seven, a net gain of five.

The building fund of the Minneapolis Association has been raised to over $80,000. A lot has been purchased and plans for the building are now being considered with the expectation that work will be commenced during the summer. At Brainerd, Minn., plans have been adopted for an attractive building to cost about $5,000. Nearly $3,000 have been pledged and it is expected the building will be erected in time for fall and winter work. The building fund of the St. Paul Association has been increased. A building secretary has been recently employed, and the prospects for securing the requisite amount are excellent.

The number of General Secretaries and other paid agents is twenty, employed at twelve different points.

The annual State Convention held in Faribault, Minn., in October, was an occasion of great blessing. Of the 158 delegates in attendance, 139 were from Associations and 120 were under thirty years of age.

The railroad work in the State and Territory has made a decided progress. Through the generous aid of the railroad companies, work is being done at Minneapolis, Brainerd and Fargo, while plans are on foot to make at least a commencement at several other points.

There has been an extraordinary religious interest in a number of the Associations which have resulted in the quickening of Christian young men, the conversion of many others, and increased Bible study.

There has been a decided advance made in the general work in this field during the last year; but with all our encouragements and net gains in many directions, we have not been without our losses. The losses most marked have been of both our State Secretary and his assistant; the latter leaving us in August, 1887, to accept the General Secretaryship at Helena, Mon., and the former, in December, was compelled to resign because the strain of the work was overtaxing his health and strength. He has since been able to enter the service of the International Committee, where we trust he may be able to remain. The faithful and efficient service of both these brethren had gained them a very strong hold upon the confidence of the Christian men of the State. No one has yet been found to fill the places, and some of the Associations in the more remote districts have suffered for want of oversight and care. There is a most urgent demand and splendid opportunity for an efficient State Secretary. The State Committee is making earnest effort to fill the position.

The College Associations held one convention during the last year and have been greatly aided and encouraged by the visits of L. D. Wishard and C. K. Ober, from the International Committee.

At the State Convention, Oliver C. Morse of the School for Christian Workers was present, and his aid is gratefully acknowledged.

MISSOURI.

During the past year several new Associations have been organized in small towns in our State, while others have been disbanded, the number at present existing being forty, or two more than a year ago. The policy of our State Committee has been to discourage the multiplication of Associations and to make strong those already in existence, particularly in the cities and centres of influence.

In October a large and enthusiastic State Convention was held in Clinton, at which the International Committee rendered valuable assistance by the presence of its representatives, Messrs. George A. Hall and Robert Weidensall. The sum of $2,900 was subscribed with which to employ a State Secretary, and ever since diligent search has been made for such an officer, though without result, thus far.

The present secretarial force is 22, employed by 11 Associations and Branches, no vacancies existing.

In September last the beautiful building of the St. Joseph Association, costing over $80,000, was dedicated with appropriate ceremonies; and in October the corner stone of the new building of the Kansas City Association was laid by the President of the United States, being the first time, we believe, in the history of our work that this service has been performed by one in such exalted position.

The Independence Association has the foundation for its new building in, and expect to erect the super-structure this year. The St. Louis Association still occupies rented quarters, but hopes soon to sell its property and with the proceeds, erect a suitable building.

We have much cause for gratitude to God for the way in which he has blessed us, and our prayer now is that he will raise up a State Secretary for us that the work may be extended and made more efficient.

T. S. MCPHEETERS, Cor. Mem.

NEBRASKA.

The number of Associations in Nebraska remains about the same as reported last year. The State Convention, held at Nebraska City, Oct. 20-23, 1887, was attended by fifty-six delegates. Robert Weidensall represented the International Committee.

We are still without a State Secretary, but one will probably soon be put in the field, as the fund pledged for that purpose is nearly sufficient.

A State College Conference was held at Crete, in February last, attended by twenty delegates. College Secretary Ober's presence at this meeting and his visit of a week among the colleges, proved very helpful to this department of our work.

Lincoln, Hastings and Omaha are the only Associations with General Secretaries.

The new building of the Omaha Association will be ready for occupancy about midsummer.

J. C. DENISE, Cor. Mem.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

The number of Associations in our State remains about the same as last reported. Associations have been organized in Nashua and Newport; one or two have relapsed into apathy, we hope only temporarily. A large proportion are in small places with scattered populations. Seven have reading rooms; thirteen hold young men's religious meetings; seven report conversions and ten especial religious interest; eleven observed the Day of Prayer.

The State Committee consists of thirty-three members. There are two sub-committees, one of six on general work, and one of seven on local Association work. The fifteenth annual series of gospel meetings, conducted by the State Secretary and assistant, is now in progress, with the usual satisfactory results.

The State Secretaries, while devoting much of their time to gospel meetings, are in readiness to answer all calls made upon them for local Association work, by correspondence, visitation or otherwise.

The twentieth annual State Convention, held in Newport, September 22-25, 1887, was the largest with one exception, ever held in the State. More than three hundred delegates were in attendance from outside. Practical topics were fully discussed and able papers presented. The results that have followed, prove the Convention to have been the best among our many excellent conventions. We were greatly aided by H. M. Moore, C. K. Ober and E. D. Ingersoll, of the International Committee. We also had the valuable assistance of G. H. Shaw and E. P. Woods, of the Massachusetts State Committee, and E. A. Lawrence, State Secretary of Connecticut. Ira D. Sankey assisted in the singing to the great enjoyment of all.

Since the Convention, Mr. Moore and Mr. Lawrence, have visited Nashua and Dover, awakening great interest in the work of the Associations in those places. Mr. Lawrence, under the direction of the International Committee, assisted our sub-committee on local work in securing over $2,000, in each of these cities, to provide rooms and General Secretaries.

There are now General Secretaries in Concord, Keene and Nashua, and one has just been called to Dover.

The question of buildings is being agitated by several of our Associations.

Altogether we can report a very favorable outlook for Association work in New Hampshire.

The International Committee has freely rendered all assistance requested.

ALLEN FOLGER, Cor. Mem.

NEW JERSEY.

The condition of the work in this State has never been better than at present, nor promised more for future growth and usefulness. The general financial condition of the Associations has improved, their membership has increased, and more definite, positive results have been obtained.

In August, 1887, the State Committee secured the services of a State Secretary, D. F. More, formerly Assistant State Secretary of Wisconsin. His coming was very timely and he has done much to develop and strengthen the work.

The number of Associations remains the same as at the last report, thirty-five. Two Associations have been organized, and two have ceased to exist, both of which were in villages having less than five hundred inhabitants.

The work of organization has not been pressed, it being deemed best for the Secretary to devote his time, for the present, to the upbuilding of existing Associations. In several of the larger towns, however, an interest in the work is growing which will soon result in organizations.

The State Convention at New Brunswick in April, 1887, was the largest and, in many respects, the best ever held. Its results have been manifest throughout the year.

The State is divided into seven districts, in nearly all of which, two-day-conferences have been held with an average attendance of thirty-five delegates. The College Conference in January was attended by fifty delegates representing the seven College Associations. It was deeply spiritual; several professed conversion, and twelve pledged themselves to foreign mission work.

While in three of the Associations mixed meetings are still held, the aim of the Associations is becoming more direct and definite. The training classes have multiplied. Boys' work is receiving more consideration.

The question of buildings is being discussed by nearly all Associations, and several have building funds already in hand. Fifteen hundred dollars have been expended in State work, and it is expected that hereafter a State Secretary will be permanently employed.

The International Committee, through several of its members and secretaries, has rendered valuable assistance to a number of Associations in our State, and also assisted the State Committee in securing its present Traveling Secretary.

EDWARD S. HOLDEN, Cor. Mem.

NEW YORK.

The past year has been a prosperous one in the Association work in this State. Never was there a better work done, nor more of it.

Association buildings have been completed during the year at Albany and Hopewell Junction. The Yorkville Branch of the New York City Association, has purchased and thoroughly remodeled a convenient house on 86th Street, and the $125,000 building of the Harlem Branch of the New York Association will be finished about May 1st. The Railroad Branch at the Grand Central Depot in New York, has taken possession of the handsome structure erected for it through the generosity of Cornelius Vanderbilt. Building funds have been secured at several points; Rochester leads with $75,000, and Utica follows with $61,000.

Through the munificence of the late A. S. Barnes, of Brooklyn, a building is in process of erection for the Association at Cornell University, costing not less than $40,000.

Sixteen Associations have been added to the list during the year, making in all 180 organizations in this State.

There are 141 General Secretaries and assistants engaged at 84 points, which is an increase of nearly forty since the State Convention in February, 1887. There are as many paid officers in the work in this State to-day as were reported in the United States and Canada, in June, 1879.

District conventions have been held in nine of the ten districts with gratifying results.

A profitable College Conference was held with Union, at which eleven College Associations were represented.

Work in the Railroad and College Department has been attended with marked blessing. There are 25 Railroad and 18 College Associations now in existence; one of the former at Oswego, and two of the latter, at Starkey and Cazenovia Seminaries, were organized during the year.

There are 38 Boys' Branches, two of which are each in charge of a special secretary, who devotes his entire time to this particular department.

More attention has been paid to Bible study than ever before, and with excellent spiritual results.

The Week of Prayer in November was generally observed. Forty-eight Associations reported 748 professed conversions; and collections amounting to nearly $700, were taken for the International work.

The State Committee maintained with much satisfaction, a temporary Branch at the State Camp near Peekskill, from June 18th to August 6th. Tents were erected and supplied with reading matter, writing material and games, and was well patronized by the members of the different regiments. The various entertainments and religious meetings held were also appreciated.

The State Committee expended in its work the past year the sum of $7,023.78.

The twenty-second State Convention was held in Harlem, February 16-19, 1888. Six hundred and forty delegates were present. Seventy-three hundred dollars were raised for the State work for the coming year. It proved one of the best of the many excellent annual gatherings of the Associations of this State. The International Committee was well represented at this meeting, and has helped our work in other ways during the year.

The Convention was preceded by a two days conference of the General Secretaries in Brooklyn. Eighty-six secretaries and a large number of young men looking toward the secretaryship were in attendance.

The State Committee has done a most excellent work during the last year through its efficient State Secretary and his two assistants.

HENRY DALLEY, Jr., Cor. Mem.

NORTH CAROLINA.

There has been a great advance in Association work in this State during the past year. This has been partly due to the fact that the State Committee has organized the work more systematically, and its official members especially have been actively corresponding with the local Associations and with young men who are interested in forming Associations.

Several important centres have new organizations in a very promising condition: Selma, Kingston, Laurinburg, Wilmington, Fayetteville and Durham. The latter place is ready for a General Secretary, and we hope Fayetteville and Wilmington will be soon.

A fine Association building is in process of construction at Charlotte. The new Association there is doing an excellent work. The work at Raleigh is moving along nicely under the leadership of a competent General Secretary, the only such officer in the State at present. Both Raleigh and Charlotte have very efficient ladies auxiliaries. Several Associations have gymnasiums, reading rooms and libraries.

The College Associations are prospering. The State University at Chapel Hill, Davidson College, Rutherford College and Bingham School, all have devout students who are doing a good work for the Master among their associates.

Our annual State Convention was held in Raleigh, April 1-3, 1887, attended by twenty-five delegates, representing eight Associations. This year's convention will be held in Charlotte, April 19-22.

It is to be hoped that some arrangement may be made with the brethren of a neighboring State for the joint employment of a traveling secretary.

We are indebted to the International Committee for the helpful services of its special visiting agents, T. A. Harding and E. T. Dadmun, who spent some time in our State work during the year.

THOMAS HUME, JR., Cor. Mem.

OHIO.

Our twenty-first annual State Convention was held at Canton, February 9-12, 1888. It was the largest gathering of the kind ever held in this State; forty Associations were represented by 353 delegates and corresponding members, 174 of whom were from the colleges. It was very representative in character, and had a good spiritual effect. Special emphasis was given the railroad and college work. The presence and aid of L. D. Wishard, on behalf of the International Committee and Robert A. Orr, General Secretary of the Pittsburgh Association, were highly appreciated. The effect of the Convention upon the community was gratifying. Eight thousand dollars had been previously secured by the young men of Canton for the purchase of a lot for an Association building; this was supplemented by an effort on the part of the business men to raise $40,000 for the erection of the building. One-half of this amount was subscribed, with good prospects of the full sum being secured soon. Another result of the Convention was the securing of an Assistant State Secretary, L. L. Doggett, of Oberlin College.

A number of local conferences have been held in different sections of the State with satisfactory results.

The State Secretary, S. D. Gordon, has done a very satisfactory year's work. An Association with 345 members has been organized at Springfield; $5,700 have been raised for the first year's expenses, and a General Secretary secured. An Association has also been formed at Findlay College, and at several other points the way has been opened for organization. The new Association at Covington, Kentucky, with $5,000 for the necessary expenses for the first year, is the result of work done at the district conference at Cincinnati, together with the previous labor of those active in that Association.

There are eighteen College Associations in the State. Eight of them have reading rooms; sixteen have 1,450 members and 284 committee men; thirteen have young men's meetings, seventeen have young men's Bible classes; and six report 112 conversions.

The Railroad Associations are in excellent condition and doing good work. There are thirty-one general and Railroad Associations. Four of them own buildings valued at $265,000; eight own other real estate valued at $12,925; five have building funds amounting to $60,250; two have endowment funds amounting to $15,000; eighteen own libraries valued at $8,623; twenty-five reported annual current expenses at $58,859; twenty-eight have a total membership of 6,124; twenty-six have 928 committeemen; twenty-one report young men's meetings, with an aggregate weekly attendance of 887; fifteen report young men's Bible classes with aggregate weekly attendance of 201; eight have 27 educational classes; and nine provide the means of physical culture.

The expenditures for State work during the year amounted to $2,520; the receipts from the Associations were, general and railroad $774; college $428; from individuals $1,142.

There are now thirty-one General Secretaries and other paid officers in the State as against twenty-seven one year ago.

A deep religious interest has prevailed in many Associations, especially following the State Convention and Week of Prayer.

WILLIAM McALPIN, Cor. Mem.

OREGON, WASHINGTON TERRITORY AND BRITISH COLUMBIA.

The fourth Convention of the Associations of the Pacific North-west, which met at The Dalles, September 22-25, 1887, was the most encouraging and helpful gathering the Associations in this district have held. Fourteen general and six College Associations sent in reports. $1,227 was pledged toward the support of a Traveling Secretary, and the Executive Committee is anxiously looking for such an officer.

The total number of Associations in the district is twenty, seven of which are in colleges. Six Associations have General Secretaries, and two are waiting for such officers.

In May, 1887, College Secretary Wishard made a tour of the colleges of this district, organizing the present Associations in those institutions. In the same month the International Committee, through W. E. Lewis, State Secretary of Wisconsin, rendered the Portland Association valuable assistance in its building project, which, though not abandoned, is not in active progress at the present time. The Committee also rendered efficient service to the Associations in this district through D. A. Budge, of Montreal; H. F. Williams, of Minnesota; Joseph Hardie, of Selma, Alabama; and Lucien C. Warner, of New York.

The Executive Committee secured, previous to our Convention, the services of C. S. Mason, State Secretary of California, who rendered a valuable assistance to our work. The first building in the district has been completed in Vancouver, B. C. Building projects are on foot in Tacoma and Seattle, W. T., and a lot has already been secured in Spokane Falls, W. T.

The work throughout the district is most encouraging.

PENNSYLVANIA.

1. The twentieth annual State Convention was held at Lancaster, September 22-25, 1887. Three hundred delegates representing sixty-eight Associations, were in attendance. The International Committee was represented by Robert R. McBurney.

2. District conventions have been held at Chester, Marietta, Macungie, Bellefonte, Mount Pleasant, Greenville and Hazleton. Two others are yet to be held, thus making one in each of the nine districts in the State. These have been well attended and more uniformly interesting and helpful than in any previous year.

8. The State Secretary and his two assistants have been constantly engaged in the usual lines of work.

4. The Philadelphia Association has raised $214,000 which will remove its entire debt. In this effort effective service was rendered by one of the secretaries of the International Committee, W. C. Douglass. The Chester Association has purchased a building for $20,000 and will expend about $5,000 more in refitting and adding a gymnasium. At Reading, a lot has been bought for $10,000, and a canvass for a building is being prosecuted. The Williamsport Association will take possession of its new building in April. At Wilkes Barre, a lot has been bought for $18,000.

5. There are 105 Associations in the State reporting. At a few other points organizations are in process of formation. The whole number of General Secretaries and other employed agents is seventy. The net value of buildings and building and endowment funds is $980,000. New fields are being opened for the employment of General Secretaries, and the demand for such officers is beyond the supply.

6. The growth of our cause has been marked in the greater attendance on and interest in the religious meetings. The increased and wise use of social and secular agencies has brought to our building a greatly increased number of non-christian young men.

There is reason for gratitude at the evidence of substantial progress.

S. A. TAGGART, Cor. Mem.

RHODE ISLAND.

The number of Associations in this State remains the same as in my last report, viz: four; at Providence, Newport, Bristol and Brown University. The greatest change has taken place in the Newport Association, where new rooms have been opened and an almost entirely new organization effected, H. A. Townsend, formerly of New Brunswick, N. J., having been secured as General Secretary. The rapid, successful change was brought about largely through the work of the district committee, which arranged for and held a conference in that city.

The Providence Association has grown steadily. The sum of $150,000 asked for its new building has been secured. Plans have been adopted and work will be in progress soon upon the structure.

Union services in the interest of the International work, were held on the Day of Prayer, November 13th, in two of the largest churches in Providence and in one in Newport, all of which resulted in a handsome collection for that work.

C. A. HOPKINS, Cor. Mem.

SOUTH CAROLINA.

There are two Associations in this State employing secretaries, Charleston and Columbia. The work at each place has been a definite work, and the results are gratifying.

The Charleston Association is now in the midst of a canvass for a forty thousand dollar building fund, assisted by M. B. Williams, State Secretary of Georgia. Over $10,000 had been subscribed up to Feb. 25th, 1888. As a result of our last State Convention, held in Newberry, the sum of $2,200 was raised for erecting an Association building in that town.

H. O. Williams, State Secretary of Virginia, is now in the State for six weeks' work as acting State Secretary.

A plan is on foot to consolidate North and South Carolina into one Association field, and place a State Secretary in charge who will devote his full time to the development of the work. Should this plan be perfected it is to be hoped a much more encouraging report can be made next year.

ATHA T. JAMISON, Cor. Mem.

TENNESSEE.

The progress during the year in Association work in Tennessee has been in the direction of an increase of our secretarial force, and a more definite work for young men.

The Associations at Maryville, Cleveland, Greeneville and Brownsville, which had ceased to meet, have been reorganized on the basis of definite young men's work.

Although the number of Associations (sixty) is no larger than last year, there has been a marked increase in their membership and efficiency.

Secretaries are employed at Knoxville, Chattanooga, Bristol, Nashville, Jackson, Union City and Memphis. R. C. Coldwell divides his time between the Associations at Gallatin and Franklin, Ky., the latter being also under the care of our State Committee. E. M. Cook was during a portion of the year in charge of the work at Bristol, Morristown, Sweetwater and Athens. Chattanooga and Knoxville have each recently employed assistant secretaries. There are now twelve secretaries employed in the State.

The State Convention at Memphis was attended by 112 delegates from twenty-nine Associations. The International Committee was represented by Claus Olandt, Jr., who rendered a good service.

While only one-half of our Associations were represented at the State Convention the delegations at the recent district conventions have been much larger than ever before at such meetings. At the East Tennessee convention twenty-two of the twenty-five Associations were represented by eighty-seven delegates.

The Nashville Association building is nearing completion, and is the handsomest public building in the city.

One new College Association has been organized, making seventeen such Associations in this State.

JAMES H. COWAN, Cor. Mem.

TEXAS.

The Associations of Texas experience many difficulties on account of the long distances between them, which prevent frequent communications and intercourse. During the past year the severe drought which seriously affected business proved another obstacle to their growth. Seventeen Associations are in existence, five of which employ secretaries. I believe that Association work is coming to be better understood in this State, and that their organizations are considered too important, in the estimation of the communities where they have been established, to be allowed to go under.

Messrs Joseph Hardie and T. A. Harding, as representatives of the International Committee, have visited all the important Associations during the year and have rendered them valuable help.

W. J. B. PATTESON, Cor. Mem.

VERMONT.

The Association work in Vermont the past year has not been marked by any features of special interest, but there has been a steady growth in usefulness. The number of Associations is about the same as a year ago.

The Burlington Association has been doing a good work in its temporary quarters. Its handsome and commodious building will soon be completed and will be one of the finest in the country.

A good work is also being done by the Associations at Middlebury, St. Johnsbury, Brattleboro and other places in the State, and the outlook everywhere is encouraging.

F. W. SMITH, Cor. Mem.

VIRGINIA.

There has been a steady progress in our work in Virginia during the past year.

Fourteen new Associations have been organized. Five additional men have been employed, four of them in fields hitherto without secretaries, and there are several other places now ready for such officers. Six new reading rooms have been opened. One college, one district, and one secretaries' conference have been held. Three new buildings, costing $87,000, have been erected, one building remodeled at a cost of nearly $4,000, and three building lots secured. The membership of the Associations has increased about 1000; and a large number of young men have been led to confess Christ as their Lord and Saviour.

We are indebted to the International Committee for our State Secretary, who has rendered a very efficient service this year, and also for assistance at our College Conference and State Conventions.

The outlook for this year is encouraging.

WISCONSIN.

There are now in the State thirty-four Associations, a gain of three during the year. The secretarial force numbers twenty-eight, composed as follows: One State Secretary and two assistants, fifteen General Secretaries and four assistants, four gymnasium instructors, one Railroad Secretary and one German Secretary. This is a gain of four men. Every field in the State open for a General Secretary is now filled, and the work shows progress accordingly.

The thirteenth annual State Convention held at Madison, in October, was largely attended and gave great impulse to the work. Being in the university town of our State, the colleges were well represented, and their work had quite a part of the programme, under direction of International Secretary C. K. Ober, and on this account there has been no College Conference this year. It seems to the State Committee more desirable to make the regular State Convention strong in every phase of Association work, rather than to divide by holding two annual meetings.

In addition to the buildings occupied last year in Milwaukee, Oshkosh and Racine, Ashland has also occupied a small but attractive building; Baraboo has laid the foundation and will begin to build in the spring; and LaCrosse and Eau Claire are taking active steps toward securing sites. The Milwaukee building was dedicated during the year, free of debt, and the work there has shown marked growth. A new secretary has come to the German Department, and new rooms are occupied; and to the Railroad Department also has come a new secretary and renewed interest.

District conferences have been a specialty with the State Committee, a larger number having been held than ever before, and in every case with good results.

Work among the lumbermen has progressed under the same leader as during the past five years.

The field among the iron miners of the Gogebic Range was also occupied and the work zealously prosecuted until the sudden death of Secretary W. E. Burford. Another secretary has been secured, and the work there put on what is thought to be a permanent basis.

The State Committee has done good service and has expended $7,779.34 in all departments of the field during the year ending last October.

C. B. WILLIS, Cor. Mem.

AUSTRALASIA.

The past year has seen the closer drawing together of the Associations scattered over this wide area. The Intercolonial Council formed on the Paris Basis at the Hobart, (Tasmania) Conference in 1886, held a successful conference in Adelaide, (South Australia) in July, 1887. Twelve out of the eighteen Associations in Australia reported to this meeting. Their gross membership was 4,000, the gross associateship 1,500, and their annual expenditures £10,275. The value of buildings owned by nine Associations was £92,500. At 20 weekly meetings for men only the attendance was 1,800, and at 24 weekly meetings for men and women it was 2,400. There were 88 educational classes with 250 members; six had lectures and three had gymnasia. Eleven had libraries with a total of 17,000 volumes.

The Melbourne (Victoria) Association, which erected the first Association building in these colonies, is projecting new premises to accommodate its growing work. Ballarat (Victoria) has launched out into branch work in neighboring townships.

Sydney is doing a fine work, and Adelaide is slowly retrieving the disasters which so nearly wrecked her. Brisbane is also doing well. New Zealand shows retrogression in the provinces, but Auckland and Christ Church are thriving. Tasmania, too, is holding her ground against many hindrances.

The Intercolonial Conference for 1888 will be held in Melbourne in October. Closer relations have been established between the Australian and British Associations, and the same is hoped for with the American Associations.

YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATIONS

OF THE

United States and Dominion of Canada,

EXCEPT THE RAILROAD, GERMAN, COLLEGE, COLORED AND INDIAN ASSOCIATIONS OR BRANCHES, WHICH ARE GIVEN IN TABLES V, VI, VII, VIII AND IX.

BETWEEN JANUARY 15 AND MARCH 15, 1888.

The names of officers are the most recent that have come to the knowledge of the Committee, as far as convenience of printing permits their insertion. Some later changes among the paid officers of the Associations may be found in the List of General Secretaries, etc. The Secretaries' names in SMALL CAPITALS denote General Secretaries; those in italics, Executive Secretaries.

As many Associations prefer to report for their official years, closing at various dates, it is impossible to secure reports to any one date. But the reports are, for the most part for the calendar year, 1887.

Further reports from many of these Associations appear in Tables II, III, IV and X.

Reports received after March 15 are printed in a supplementary table.

A few reports, from Associations recently organized, cover a period less than a year.

646 Associations report an Active Membership of 70,554.

611 Associations report Working Committees with a Membership of 23,226.

589 Associations report Annual Current Expenses at $1,057,026.

YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATIONS

OF THE

United States and Dominion of Canada,

EXCEPT THE RAILROAD, GERMAN, COLLEGE, COLORED AND INDIAN
ASSOCIATIONS OR BRANCHES, WHICH ARE GIVEN
IN TABLES V, VI, VII, VIII AND IX.

COMPILED FROM OFFICIAL REPORTS RECEIVED BY THE INTERNATIONAL COMMITTEE.
BETWEEN JANUARY 15 AND MARCH 15, 1888.

As many Associations prefer to report for their official years, closing at various dates, it is impossible to secure reports to any one date. But the reports are, for the most part, for the calendar year 1887.

Further reports from many of these Associations appear in Tables I, III, IV, and X.

Report of Associations received after March 15 are printed in a supplementary table.

A few reports, from Associations recently organized, cover a period of less than a year.

YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATIONS

OF THE

United States and Dominion of Canada,

EXCEPT THE RAILROAD, GERMAN, COLLEGE, COLORED AND INDIAN ASSOCIATIONS AND BRANCHES, WHICH ARE GIVEN IN TABLES V, VI, VII, VIII, AND IX.

BETWEEN JANUARY 15 AND MARCH 15, 1888.

As many Associations prefer to report for their official years, closing at various dates, it is impossible to secure reports to any one date. But the reports are, for the most part, for the calendar year 1887.

Further reports from many of these Associations appear in tables I, II, IV and X.

A few reports, from Associations recently organized, cover a period of less than a year.

ANDREWS MANUFACTURING CO.,

76 FIFTH AVENUE, New York.

Manufacturers of Improved Seating for Halls, Chapels, Sunday Schools, Churches, &c.

ASSEMBLY FOLDING CHAIRS.

The extreme comfort afforded by the Chairs with their Tilting Backs, noiseless Folding Seats, Foot Rests Hat, Coat, Cane and Umbrella Rack, has led to their adoption in hundreds of the best buildings in the country.

The handsome Y. M. C. A. Buildings of Brooklyn and Harlem, N. Y., recently completed, are furnished with our Chairs. The new buildings of Utica and Ithaca, N. Y., are to be seated with our Chairs.

We have also furnished the Y. M. C. A. Halls of New Haven, Buffalo, Syracuse, Albany, Newburgh, N. Y., Baltimore Md., Richmond and Norfolk, Va., and many other places with similar chairs.

FOR CHURCHES, this style of seating is now becoming very popular in replacing Pews.
Send for descriptive Catalogue.

ANDREWS MANUFACTURING CO.

THE NEOSTYLE.

(PERFECTED CYCLOSTYLE.)

USED AND ENDORSED BY ALL THE PRINCIPAL OFFICES AND BRANCHES OF THE Y. M. C. A.

Annual Reports of the Secretaries of the International Committee, to March 1, 1889.

ANNUAL REPORT OF RICHARD C. MORSE, General Secretary.

I. The routine work of the General Secretary has during the past year involved as usual:

1. The arrangements for and attendance upon the regular monthly meetings of the Committee and its sub-committees, as well as the meetings of such special committees as have, from time to time, been appointed. In preparation for these meetings much preliminary conference has been necessary, especially with the chairman at his residence and with the members of the sub-committees, as well as with the visiting secretaries as they have come to the office from time to time.

2. The annual dinner meeting of the Committee was held in New York, November 20, 1888, all the secretaries, and a large number of friends of the work, being present. The various secretaries were heard in brief reports covering the work of the Committee in all its departments. These reports were followed by remarks from members and friends present.

By invitation of the Brooklyn Association, a similar gathering was held at the Hamilton Club house in that city, April 26, 1888, and the third dinner meeting, invited by Philadelphia friends, was held at the Union League Club house of that city, May 8. At both of these meetings members of the Committee were joined by friends of our work for young men in each city, and the work of the Committee was fully presented by the International Secretaries. All the correspondence and arrangements in connection with these gatherings it has been a part of the General Secretary's work to attend to.

3. The work as prosecuted by the office and visiting secretaries was previously planned in conference with the chairman and sub-committees and the General Secretary, and approved by the Committee. These plans were duly communicated to the secretaries and other gentlemen who had consented to co-operate with the Committee in its work. One objective point in the arrangement of the plans, was to provide for the representation of the Committee at each of the 38 State Conventions held during the year ending March 1, 1889. [A list of these conventions is given among the tables in this pamphlet.]

4. The regular force of the Committee's secretaries has been inadequate to accomplish the work intrusted to it by the San Francisco Convention, and, pursuing the course adopted in former years, the following friends experienced in the work have acted as its special agents in various fields :

(1). JOSEPH HARDIE's visit to the Pacific Coast last spring and summer made it possible for him to again render, as a member of the Committee, very efficient service to the cause in that section of the country. Besides aiding the local work at various points in California he made a special trip to Oregon in the interest of both state and local work. He also represented the Committee at the California Convention held at Fresno.

(2). F. K. SANDERS has, in connection with his post-graduate course at Yale, aided the Committee in its college department. In addition to editing The Intercollegian, he has visited during the year the following New England institutions: Brown University, Maine Wesleyan Seminary, Bowdoin College, Worcester School of Technology, Bates College, Colby University, Maine State Agricultural College, Amherst Agricultural College, Vermont Academy, and Phillips Academy. He also visited in the interest of the work, Ansonia Bridgeport, and Middletown, Conn.; Richmond, Va.; Boston, Springfield, New York, Philadelphia, and Chicago. He represented the Committee at the Massachusetts, Connecticut, and Vermont State Conventions; the Virginia College Conference, at Ashland; the Medical Students' Missionary Conference, in New York; and the New England College Conference, at Worcester, Mass.

(3). T. A. HARDING represented the Committee at the convention of the Maritime Provinces, held at Amherst, N. S., in July. In connection with this trip he visited the Associations at St. John and Moncton, N. B.; Halifax, New Glasgow, Westville and Pictou, N. S.; and Charlottetown and Summerside, P. E. I., meeting and conferring with the officers and members at each place.

In August he made a journey to the Pacific Northwest to attend the annual convention of the Associations of that section, held at Seattle. On this trip he visited in the interest of both the state and local work the following points: Helena, Spokane Falls, Tacoma, Portland, The Dalles, Walla Walla, Astoria, Seattle, Victoria, Vancouver, New Westminster and Port Townsend. He was also present at the California State Convention, at Fresno, and visited the Associations at San Francisco, Los Angeles and Sacramento while in that state. This trip consumed two months.

(4). E. L. LOUDON has, as far as his regular duties would permit while upon business trips, rendered a very helpful service in connection with work for commercial travelers, interesting local Associations and committees in special effort in behalf of this important class of young men.

(5). J. V. READ spent February in Texas. After full conference with the State Committee at Dallas, he assisted the local work at Dallas, Corsicana, Waco, Temple, San Antonio, Gainesville, and Marshall.

(6). J. B. REYNOLDS and A. A. STAGG visited in December, in the interest of the college department, the Associations in the following institutions in Canada: McGill University, at Montreal, Queen's College, at Kingston, Albert College at Belleville, and Toronto University, at Toronto. In January they made a similar visit to the University of Vermont, at Burlington.

(7). A. N. WYLIE spent some time in Louisville, aiding in the reorganization of the railroad department of the Association of that city. He also visited Union City, Ind., and Galion, O., in the interest of the railroad work.

(8). E. A. LAWRENCE devoted several weeks in aiding the local work at a number of points in New Hampshire. The new organization at Portsmouth, with its general secretary and money for a year's work, is one result of his efforts.

5. In all the more important correspondence, counsel, and effort required of the General Secretary, frequent conference has been necessary with the chairman, and a large part of the most important correspondence has been conducted by him. To such correspondence, and to personal conference with the General Secretary and with the other secretaries as they have come from time to time to the city, many hours each week are given by the chairman.

6. The call for the day and week of prayer for young men in November, issued, as usual, by the Committee, was responded to by unprecedented observance on the part of the Associations. The useful and practical improvement of this season by the Associations has steadily increased ever since its first appointment in 1866. This growth has been due in no small measure to the extended correspondence from the Committee's office, with which the annual issue of the call has been accompanied. With this effort on the part of the Committee, the various State Committees and and State Secretaries have cordially co-operated. As a result this week, in the earlier part of the working season of the present year, was a time of special spiritual activity on the part of the Associations. It has now become an occasion when the activity of the local secretaries and of the various committees is quite generally concentrated upon the spiritual department of the work. Last November a strong influence in this direction was exerted which has been felt in many of the Associations throughout the year. In response to the recommendation of the San Francisco Convention, 515 Associations took up collections in aid of the international work.

7. The General Secretary has maintained and extended the Committee's intercourse with the friends of the Associations who manifested their interest in the international work by contributing the funds needed for its support. The generous responses of these friends enabled the Committee to close its fiscal year December 31, 1888, free of debt, having accomplished a wider and more useful work than in any previous year.

II. The last World's Conference of the Associations was held in Stockholm, August 15-20, 1888. In accordance with the instructions of the San Francisco Convention, the Committee duly accredited fifty-four American delegates.

At the request of the Committee, the paper upon the physical department of the work was prepared by Luther Gulick, and a second paper, on "The American Associations, their forms of organization and the progress of their work since 1884," was presented by the General Secretary. Both these papers were translated and printed in the Swedish, German and French languages, for circulation at the conference, so that at the time of their presentation they were intelligible to all the delegates in a language each could understand.

Over three hundred delegates were in attendance. The number of English-speaking delegates was 167. The Central International Committee reported decided progress in its work, and was instructed to continue it.

The conference was cordially welcomed in the name of the king, by the bishop of the national church of Sweden, who presided at the sessions. The delegates were given a reception at the royal palace, being welcomed and greeted there by the crown prince, in the name of his father. No previous World's Conference made so deep and favorable impression upon the city entertaining it and the Association work of the surrounding country. In this and all other respects the conference seemed to be a decided advance on any of its predecessors, and its influence upon the Association work on the continent of Europe is very encouraging.

On his return from Stockholm, the General Secretary, visited the Associations at Berlin, Amsterdam, London and Paris. In Paris he co-operated, at the request of Mr. Stokes, with Mr. Cree in the admirable enlargement of the work of the Paris Association, an account of which is given in Mr. Cree's report.

III. The foreign correspondence conducted by the General Secretary, has been enlarged not only by what was incidental to the Stockholm Conference but in the following directions :

1. Early in 1885, the Young Men's Christian Association of Osaka, Japan, composed of native Christian young men, sent a petition to the Committee, a similar request going from them to the London Association, asking from American friends $1,500, and from English friends a like amount toward the erection of an Association building in Osaka. This petition was seconded by missionaries of various evangelical churches in Japan. At the request of the Committee, the General Secretary brought this petition to the attention of several friends of the work in this country. They responded favorably, and in the following year the amount asked for was transmitted to the Association in Osaka. Meantime the English contribution had been forwarded, and a member of the International Committee, Elbert B. Monroe, had visited Japan during the autumn of 1885, and made a generous contribution towards the same fund. During the latter part of 1886, the Osaka building was completed and dedicated.

The correspondence of Mr. Monroe and the General Secretary, growing out of this incident, together with the recent wide interest awakened among college students in the work of foreign missions, led John T. Swift, secretary of the Association in Orange, New Jersey, to leave this country, in January, 1888, to take the position of a teacher in one of the schools in Tokyo, Japan. Giving his leisure time to work for young men, he soon organized in that city, Associations among the students. A deep interest was taken in this work by the missionaries of the various evangelical churches. Last spring, Rev. James H. Ballagh, corresponding member of the committee in Japan, resigned his office, and at his suggestion, Mr. Swift was appointed to fill the vacancy. An American friend, interested in this work for young men in Japan, has offered through Mr. Swift, twenty-five thousand dollars towards the erection of an Association building in Tokyo. Owing to the remarkable growth of the work, and in response to the desire of the missionaries and friends in Tokyo, the way has been opened for Mr. Swift to give his undivided attention to work for young men, his friends in the New York City Association having provided the funds needed for this purpose.

2. In the summer of 1887, Rev. Dr. Jacob Chamberlain, one of the American missionaries in India, during a visit to this country was deeply impressed with the Association work and its adaptation to the young men of India. On his return to his field, the committee received last year from its corresponding member for India, Rev. W. I. Chamberlain, a missionary at Madras, and formerly a member of the Brooklyn Young Men's Christian Association, assurance that all the evangelical missionaries on that field would gratefully welcome an experienced Association worker from America to labor in India.

8. Students from the English and Scotch Universities were present at the Northfield summer school for college students in July, 1888. As a result of subsequent correspondence with these visitors, a request came from Christian students in these universities for counsel and conference with those engaged in the college department of the American Associations. A desire for similar help had been expressed by the students in Paris, especially by those living in the Latin quarter of that city. In response to these calls and correspondence, James B. Reynolds, who has been for many years actively connected with the college department of the Association work specially at Yale University and in New England, consented to undertake the visitation. His support was generously provided by a friend of the Associations, and members of the Brooklyn Association offered to pay the expenses of travel involved. Mr. Reynolds left New York upon this errand February 18, 1889.

IV. Though many calls have come for personal visitation by the General Secretary, his absence from the central office becomes each year more difficult. He attended the summer school for college students last year, was absent several days with the committee having in charge the preparation of topics for prayer meetings for 1889, and was able to attend the Ohio and New York State Conventions, and to respond favorably to a few of the many calls upon him for personal visitation.

ANNUAL REPORT OF ERSKINE UHL,

Office Secretary.

1. The steady growth of the Associations increases every year the work which must be done in the Committee's office. Curtis M. Thorpe continues the faithful, patient direction of many details which he has rendered for five years. Since the last report Charles E. Corwin and Robert Johnston have left the office force, and John Glover and W. H. Schofield have joined it. Clerical help is also constantly required.

2. The secretarial work has been prosecuted along the lines fully described in former Year Books. The following figures cover this branch of the work of all the International Secretaries, so far as reported to the office. Most of the cases involved correspondence directly from the office, and often much consultation among International and State Secretaries.

On April 1, 1888, 8 names stood on our register as candidates for the secretaryship. 85 were added to this number during the year, making 88. Of this number 65 found places in the work—12 through their own efforts or those of State Committees, and 53 through the suggestion of the Committee. 15 were dropped after a more thorough investigation, leaving 8 on the list.

At the office personal intercourse or correspondence, sometimes very extended, was held during the year with 195 others who did not seem qualified to undertake the work. The visiting secretaries of the Committee frequently confer on the same subject with young men who do not come into any communication with the office.

On April 1, 1888, 15 vacancies were recorded in our office as needing our help; 90 applications have been added to these, making 105 altogether, for State Secretaries and their assistants, for general secretaries and their assistants, and for gymnasium superintendents. Of the 105 vacancies, we assisted in filling 58; 26 were filled through the action of others; 8 were postponed for various reasons ; and 18 now stand on our books. Among the 53 vacancies which we helped to fill 7 were in general work.

Of the vacancies just mentioned, 1 was in Canada ; 6 in New England ; 14 in New York, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania ; 16 in states west of these ; and 16 at the South. In addition to the vacancies already referred to, advice has been sought from the secretaries of the Committee regarding perhaps double the number mentioned above, but not so definitely as to warrant their entrance upon our register. And, of course, a very large amount of secretarial work is done by the State Committees and their secretaries, independently of the International Committee.

In 1885, 278 Associations and branches employed secretaries ; now 540 do so. The growth during the first two years of this period was 118, during the last two years 149.

The details of this progress in the different divisions of the continent are shown in a table at the close of the list of general secretaries.

8. My duties, as in former years, have included—in addition to much of the secretarial work—general oversight of the office, a varied correspondence, the reception of numerous visitors, considerable attention to Association buildings (including visits to seven important ones to study their arrangement, and the making of detailed suggestions regarding the plans of eleven proposed buildings), and preparation of matter for publication. Much time was devoted to editing the “Hand Book,” in co-operation with H. S. Ninde and J. T. Bowne.

I attended the General Secretaries' Conference at Grand Rapids in June.

ANNUAL REPORT OF ROBERT WEIDENSALL, Secretary.

I desire once more to make a statement including a summary of the work in the eleven states of the western field, viz.: Michigan, Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee, Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa, Missouri, Minnesota, Nebraska and Kansas, besides the work done in the other states and territories.

I have been permitted in the past twenty years to organize every one of these states. I was a personal helper to all their State Committees for many years in their days of weakness, and aided in securing almost every one of their State Secretaries, as well as many of the local secretaries.

All of these secretaries, state, local and assistants ever had my heartfelt sympathy and co-operation as far as I could give them, the weaker ones especially. My attachment to these states as my field of work has been stronger than to any of my personal possessions. I have known all their cities and towns. I have canvassed almost all of them when they were much smaller, and have witnessed their rapid growth with much concern for their moral welfare, particularly as related to their young men.

My most effective work has not been what I have reported from year to year, but rather the oft-repeated personal assistance rendered to officers of State Committees and of individual Associations as well as to state and general secretaries, in such manner that public mention of the same would be to destroy what I had done. In fact this work was designed to magnify each worker helped in his own field and not the International Secretary, who could for the work's sake well afford to keep in the background.

To ascertain the growth of the Association work in this western field since the

ASSOCIATION BUILDING TORONTO, ONT.,

CORNER OF YONGE AND MCGILL STREETS.—DEDICATED NOVEMBER 3, 1887.

Dimensions, 70x200 feet. Wing, 80x130 feet. Cost, $90,000. Population in 1887, 120,000.

San Francisco Convention, I have written to the State Secretaries and Committees to give me as nearly as possible the increase for two years in (1), Associations; (2), general secretaries; (3), state working force; (4), value of buildings, lots, funds, etc.; (5), money for state work; (6), the general advance in the spirit and scope of the work.

The statements received were the best that could be furnished at the time of writing. The report from Illinois extended only to Oct. 1, 1888. From the statements made I discover that the total increase in (1) Associations has been 63, or 17 per cent; (2), in general secretaries, 78, or 52 per cent.; (3), in state working force, 18, or 78 per cent.; (4), in building funds, etc., $817,848; (5), in money for state work, $34,500, or 113 per cent.

To particularize somewhat, the increase in the number of Associations in Kansas is 82 per cent.; and in Nebraska 81 per cent.; of general secretaries in Nebraska is 266 per cent.; in Kansas, 244 per cent.; in Indiana, 200 per cent.; in Illinois, 55 per cent.; in Wisconsin, 47 per cent.; and in Tennessee, 42 per cent.; of state working force in Kansas, 166 per cent.; and in Wisconsin, 138 per cent.; of state funds in Nebraska, 527 per cent.; in Kansas, 240 per cent.; in Illinois, 99 per cent.; in Tennessee, 84 per cent.; in Michigan, 81 per cent.; Indiana, 66 per cent.; and in Missouri, 54 per cent.

In Illinois there were 150 corresponding members of the State Committee in 1888, against 132 in 1887; and in Iowa the corresponding members' list, which was begun in 1887, numbered 103 at the close of 1888.

Cheering reports were also made of a higher grade of organization, more success in devoting all efforts to work for young men, better quarters for Associations, less difficulty in securing money, multiplication of training classes, more extended gospel work, greater numbers of conversions, more added to the churches, a growing use of the Bible, and a more fervent spirit of prayer in all the work.

Ten of the eleven states have State Secretaries, and the other state is seeking one.

The spiritual work has become more general and effective, because there was never before so much prayer, and so extensive a use of God's word, both personally and publicly. This is due, in large measure, to the general direction and personal efforts of the State Secretaries and to the faithful instruction given to the workers by the general secretaries in their training classes.

Several remarkable features in the Association work of the western field surpass those specified in my last report.

(1.) All these states will soon be manned by State Secretaries.

(2.) Kansas employs seven state workers, Wisconsin six, Illinois five, Nebraska three by April 1, Minnesota and Indiana two each, while Michigan and Iowa are ready to employ two each, and Kentucky is prepared to employ one.

(3.) Kansas has raised for state work $15,000; Illinois is raising this year $12,000; Wisconsin, $10,000; Nebraska, $7,000; Missouri, Minnesota, Indiana, Iowa, and Michigan from $4,000 to $5,000 each.

(4.) The growth of the Western Secretarial Institute at Lake Geneva.

(5.) The success of C. G. Baldwin in raising $55,000 for the Association building in Des Moines, Iowa. Considering the untoward circumstances, this is the most complete triumph of financial ability and perseverance that I know of in Association history.

I was present at the laying of the corner-stones of the new Association buildings at Kansas City, Mo., Omaha, Neb., Utica, N. Y., and Fresno, Cal., and made addresses at the last three of them.

By invitation I made addresses at the dedication of the new Association building in St. Joseph, Mo., and also at the anniversary exercises of the Association in Galveston, Texas.

On my way to the San Francisco Convention I visited the Associations at Albuquerque, Riverside, San Diego, Los Angeles, Santa Barbara, Fresno, and Stockton. I recently visited and rendered more or less assistance to the Associations at Galveston, Houston, San Antonio, and El Paso, Texas; also at Riverside, San Diego, Los Angeles, Pasadena and Fresno, Cal.

After full consultation with the State Committee I have given my chief efforts the past few weeks to a plan of financial relief in aid of the Associations in Southern California, which are laboring under serious financial embarrassment.

In the two years ending March 1, 1889, I have traveled 44,194 miles in thirty different states and territories. I stopped in 119 cities and towns—visited 96 Associations and rendered assistance to 82 of them.

I was present at the International Convention at San Francisco, Cal. Attended two International Secretaries' Conferences at Oakland, Cal., and at Grand Rapids, Mich.; four International Committee Conferences, two in New York City, one in Brooklyn, and one in Philadelphia; eight State Conventions, Nebraska, (twice) Missouri, Kentucky and Michigan, New Jersey, Iowa and Wisconsin; thirteen State Committee meetings at St. Louis, St. Joseph and Clinton, Mo., Omaha, (twice) Nebraska City, Beatrice, Neb., Louisville, (twice) and Des Moines and Marshalltown, Iowa, Kalamazoo, Mich., and Eau Claire, Wis. Also met with state sub-committees frequently.

I made 40 public addresses on Association work; attended 27 conferences with Association workers; met 26 times with boards of directors; attended 5 committee meetings on Association lots, buildings, etc., at Lincoln and Omaha, Nebraska, Los Angeles, Riverside and San Diego, Cal., helping also to solicit the funds at Lincoln and Riverside.

I also assisted eight states in raising money for state work. I was successful in securing G. C. Jenner and C. G. Baldwin to raise funds for the Association buildings in Omaha, Neb., and Des Moines, Iowa.

Needing rest, I came to the Pacific coast in February to find it, but the condition of the Associations in Texas along my way hither and in Southern California, wherever I met them, was of such a character as to demand help. I have done for them the best I could under the circumstances, and hope that they will be enabled to do a greater and better work for young men in their localities.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THOMAS K. CREE,

Secretary.

My connection with the International Committee during 1888 was simply nominal, as was that of the three previous years owing to impaired health.

Early in May, at the request of Mr. Stokes, of the International Committee, I visited Paris, and spent three months in the interest of the Association there. The work was re-organized, a new constitution adopted, the board of directors enlarged so as to include all the French evangelical denominations of Paris, the number of members and workers increased, new and commodious rooms in a good location engaged and handsomely furnished, and an income of 40,000 francs a year, secured for the coming three years. The local secretaries, Mr. Vander Beken and Mr. Gaylord, and the officers and directors of the Association heartily co-operated in this work. The Anglo-American Association was also assisted and a re-organization recommended. I arranged for Mr. Theis, Assistant Secretary of the Paris Association to come to America for a year at the Springfield training school, securing the money necessary for this purpose. At Lyons I held a conference with the Association and recommended the employment of a general secretary. I visited Geneva for conference with the Association, and with members of the Central International Committee. I also visited Associations in Great Britain, Germany, Sweden and Norway; attended the World's Conferences at Stockholm; and was present at a conference in the interest of the Association building in Berlin, now in process of erection.

Returning to America, by direction of the Committee I co-operated with Mr. Stokes in organizing a branch of the New York City Association for French speaking young men. Money to sustain it for a year was secured, an organization effected, rooms rented and a French-speaking general secretary secured from the Springfield training school.

I attended the Provincial Convention and secretaries' conference of the Associations of Ontario and Quebec, held at Ottawa, Jan. 31-Feb. 4, and visited Montreal for a meeting with the Dominion Committee. I visited Albany, Rochester, Clifton Springs, and the Springfield training school; attended the Virginia State Convention, at Danville; visited the Associations at Norfolk and Alexandria, Va., and Washington, D. C.; attended a parlor conference at Wilmington, Del., and made visits to a number of other Associations in the interest of their local work.

I arranged for an exhibition of Association buildings and printed matter at the World's Exposition in Paris, the coming summer. Over twenty-five pictures of our best Association buildings, some of them being handsome pen and ink sketches, will be on exhibition.

ANNUAL REPORT OF L. D. WISHARD,

College Secretary.

Since the San Francisco Convention, I have spent only thirteen months in America, and fully half of the last three months was devoted to work preparatory to my tour in the Orient, so that a little more than eleven months have been spent in the service of the Committee since May, 1887.

During those eleven months, I visited forty nine colleges, attended the International Conference of General Secretaries at Oakland, Cal., six State Conventions, eight college conferences, and the college students' summer school for Bible study at Northfield, Mass., in July 1887. This work carried me into sixteen states and one territory from Massachusetts to California.

In addition to editorial work on "The Intercollegian," I revised two pamphlets, one, "The Intercollegiate Young Men's Christian Movement," a historical sketch of the College Associations from 1858 to 1888; the other, "An Outline of the Work of College Young Men's Christian Associations," a manual of suggestions concerning the work of the several departments of the College Associations, intended for the guidance of committees and members.

While my work, as usual, has involved the discussion of the entire range of Association enterprise, I have, during the past two years laid special emphasis upon the following points: evangelistic meetings, the Bible training class, intercollegiate visitation by students, the enlistment of the most influential students as leaders in the work, Association buildings, the claims of the general secretaryship upon the best men in our colleges, and work for young men in foreign lands.

Leave of absence, without salary from the Committee, being granted me, I went to Europe in March 1888 and spent five months. I visited the universities at Cambridge, Oxford, Edinburgh, Glasgow, Berlin, and Bonn. From the first three, also from Utrecht University, Holland, I secured a delegation of eleven students who attended the college students' summer school in July. I also visited the leading Associations of England and Scotland, and those of Paris, Geneva, Zurich, and Berlin, my special object being to explain my proposed tour in Asia, and thus ensure the intelligent sympathy and co-operation of the Associations of Europe with those of America in the work of planting and maintaining our work among the young men in the colleges and cities of the East. I rendered some service in Paris preliminary to the successful work of Mr. Cree. I also studied life in Germany and France, and consulted with prominent men concerning the adaptation of our methods of Christian work to the students of the European universities. This European tour closed with my attendance at the World's Conference, in Stockholm, August 15-20.

Having obtained indefinite leave of absence, without salary from the International Committee, and having been elected college secretary of the Central International Committee, I sailed from San Francisco, December 18, and landed in Yokohama, January 8, 1889.

Although but six weeks have elapsed since my arrival, am fully satisfied of the wisdom of my decision to enter upon this new and difficult work.

John T. Swift, the Committee's corresponding member for Japan, met me on my arrival. Of the good work he had accomplished during the year he has spent in Japan, his report to the Committee gives account.

In company with Mr. Swift, I have spent three weeks in the leading Christian college of Japan, where seven hundred young men are gathered, only one-half of whom were professing Christians when we began our work. We conducted the work just as we would in an American college, excepting that we had to use an interpreter almost constantly, as less than one hundred students understood English. Our meetings were largely attended and over one hundred students professed to accept Christ before we left. I also conducted one meeting in Hikone, where twelve students from the government school expressed a desire to become Christians. They will be wisely followed up by an earnest Christian teacher in their school formerly one of the leading Christian men in an American college. It was my privilege to lead several meetings in the commodious Association building in Osaka. It has the largest Christian auditorium in Japan, seating twelve hundred comfortably, and capable of accommodating several hundred more when crowded. Fully six hundred students were in my meetings, many of them from government schools. A large number promised to investigate carefully the claims of Christ. I was deeply touched by an incident which occurred on my way to the train late at night, after the last meeting in Osaka. A student had strolled into the meeting and heard of Christ for the first time. The story was so strange that he could scarcely understand it, and he followed after my party to ask more about that wonderful person. He gladly promised to attend a Bible class which a member of the party conducts every week. I felt that the erection of that building and the journey to Japan would be justified if his conversion was the only result.

The one thing which seems to most deeply impress the student audiences which I am meeting, is the fact that Christianity has gained such a stronghold upon educated men of the West. Skeptical teachers from England and America have shamefully misstated the facts in this regard. The same men tell us in America and England that Christianity is a failure in Japan. I feel that my mission here will be a success if only to enable me to refute such outrageous falsehoods.

While thus temporarily separated from the work in America and deprived of the counsel of the Committee and my fellow-secretaries, I most earnestly request your prayers for myself and those who shall co-operate with me in giving to the students and young men of the far East the agency which has proved such a blessing to the young men of the far West.

ANNUAL REPORT OF HENRY E. BROWN,

Secretary.

My work the past year has been chiefly in the South, specially in Arkansas, Mississippi, Georgia and Virginia. I have also visited several points in New England and Canada. I have spent from one to ten days in a place

I have made twenty-one visits to local Associations; have had seven conferences with local boards of directors; visited seven white and nine colored colleges, and five Colored Associations; assisted in locating four general secretaries and one State Secretary; had private conferences with seven other candidates for the secretaryship; attended four State Conventions, five State Committee meetings, two railroad meetings, two conferences, two institutes; have aided in securing funds for four Associations and two State Committees, and visited individuals in eight eastern cities in behalf of a lot for the contemplated building for Norfolk Colored Association.

My most profitable work has been: (1) enlisting leading business men in the management of the local and state work, spending ample time with them, individually and in meetings, in explaining the work in its detail and pointing out certain dangers likely to be encountered; (2) aiding the Southern Secretaries' Institute, which has already promoted a closer relation and more efficient service among the secretaries; (3) discussing different phases of Association work with individual secretaries on the trains, in Association rooms, and at their homes—the oft-repeated inquiry, “When can I have an hour with you alone?” usually opens the way to a list of questions and answers, and to a free talk over all sorts of difficulties, which culminates in prayer for wisdom from above; (4) meetings with college students, which have been specially interesting, and have opened the way for an appeal to college graduates to enter the secretaryship.

The Colored Association at Norfolk, Va., has just closed its first year of active work, with a general secretary. This experiment has demonstrated the feasibility of such a work, and has also revealed some of the serious difficulties in the way of its support and development.

No large classes of young men in our great cities need help in all departments of our work more than do the colored young men. Fully nine-tenths of them are away from home or have no home worthy of the name. Fashionable saloons are beginning to offer every such man a comfortable seat, jolly companions and attractive music. The ways "going down to the chamber of death" are made easy. Few of his neighbors expect any good of him, or are surprised at his fall. How shall he be drawn from these places of evil, and interested in better things; and how shall the expense of the work be met?

The two factors needed to warrant the organization of a similar work among colored young men in other cities are trained men to take up the secretaryship, and financial support. About one-third of the latter may be expected from the colored people, the remainder must, for some years, at least, be secured from friends of this work.

The Associations in colored colleges are interesting young men in behalf of other young men, and are beginning to prepare some of them for the secretaryship. Something is done in the same direction in connection with the Norfolk Association.

ANNUAL REPORT OF E. W. WATKINS,

Secretary.

During the year I made 75 visits to 50 places, 12 places in New England, 14 in the middle states, 17 in the southern states, and 7 in the western states.

My time has been occupied about as follows: one-fifth with the finance of the Committee, two-fifths in promoting new building enterprises, and two-fifths in general work.

Early in the year I introduced to a few Associations a plan to secure small contributions from young men, to be equally divided between the State and International Committees. It met with general favor, but did not yield much money. It obtained but little local supervision. With the supervision of State Committees it would doubtless produce better results.

While I have sought to assist the Committee by calling upon its contributing friends as opportunity offered during the year, my main work on the finances was rendered while Mr. Morse was abroad during the summer. At this time several former subscribers renewed, and a few new ones were secured.

Assistance was rendered new building enterprises in the following places: Norfolk, Va. (building occupied), Charlotte, N. C. (building now occupied), Charleston (lots secured and work begun), Columbia, S. C., Bridgeport, Conn., Greenpoint, N. Y., and Denver. A hopeful canvass is now being prosecuted in each of the last five places. Bridgeport and Denver contemplate erecting buildings of unusually attractive proportion and design. In connection with this service, I have attended conferences and addressed numerous public meetings, several of these visits being to places where the Association is considering the building question for the first time.

The general work done includes attendance upon State Conventions in New York, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Texas, Massachusetts, and Connecticut, also the Secretaries' Conference at Grand Rapids, two district conferences in New York, the Southern Secretaries' Conference at Columbia, S. C., three anniversary meetings, two dedicatory services of buildings, and numerous conferences with boards of directors and local committees. My conclusions, based upon the large attendance at these gatherings, the earnestness that characterized the committee men in local work, and the liberal contributions made by business men, are that the Associations North, South and West have rendered an efficient and effective service during the year about to close, by reason of which they have strengthened their position, and secured the confidence of their respective communities to a degree that promises unusually good results during the year to come.

ANNUAL REPORT OF CLAUS OLANDT, JR.,

German Secretary.

Immediately after submitting my report to the Committee last year, in response to an urgent call, I went to North Carolina to assist the State Committee for four weeks prior to the State Convention at Charlotte, April 19-22. All the larger towns and cities of the state were visited, and one or two Associations were organized. The importance of the secular agencies in our work was emphasized, thorough organization was insisted upon, and many young men made a start in the Christian life. The convention was largely attended, and money was raised to employ a State Secretary.

From time to time during my visits to New York, I have assisted Mr. Stokes in work preparatory to an organization among French speaking young men.

It was my privilege to attend the World's Conference held at Stockholm last August. On my way to the conference and back, I had the opportunity of conferring personally with English, Norwegian, Swedish, Danish and German friends about work among young men.

I have been called upon to take part in the anniversary exercises of several English speaking Associations. I have attended the Missouri and Maryland State Conventions, and the General Secretaries' Conference at Grand Rapids, and have also spent some time in securing contributions to the work of the Committee.

At least four-fifths of my time has been devoted to the work among German speaking young men in the larger centres. Last May, a German branch was organized at Buffalo under more promising circumstances than any previous branch. In June, a young man from the Springfield school was called as secretary. Ten weeks have been spent in St. Louis assisting to secure funds for a building. Over one-half of the sum required has been pledged, and a large part of it has already been paid in. Considerable time has also been spent in Baltimore assisting the friends there to re-organize the branch and to secure a Secretary. Short visits have been paid to the German branches in New York, Philadelphia, and Milwaukee. The branch in the former city has just purchased a building adjoining its present one, and has paid upon it over one-third of the $24,000 which it cost. The branch in Philadelphia has secured a fine building site at a low figure, but has not, as yet, raised the money to pay for it.

At Toledo, Ohio, July 12-15, a conference of Association workers from the German speaking centres west of Pittsburgh was held. At Baltimore, Nov. 29-Dec. 3, a conference was held by representatives of the centres east of Pittsburgh. The beneficial influence of these conferences has already been felt in the work. At each there was an attendance of thirty men, clergymen as well as laymen.

Besides your secretary, there are now six young men devoting their lives to this work at as many different points. The blessings accompanying their labors indicate that they are indeed leaders among young men. There are now three German speaking young men at the Springfield school preparing for the secretaryship.

The work of this department has made a decided step forward. The membership has increased, and the work is on a more systematic basis. The spiritual results have been greater than during any previous year.

The managing committees of the branches find it difficult to secure contributions enough to pay current expenses where help is not rendered by the parent or central Association. In one of the branches a deficit of more than the secretary's salary occurred during the last year. It has received no aid whatever from the central Association. In one or two other branches there is a deficit of several hundred dollars.

ANNUAL REPORT OF C. K. OBER.

College Secretary.

The special features of the college work during the past year have been the following :

1. Bible Study has been emphasized in visitation, in conventions and conferences, in "The Intercollegian," and by a special course of study and pamphlets for the use of leaders, prepared by Mr. Mott and myself and published by the Committee.

2. The work of the missionary committees in the College Associations has received special attention. In several important colleges there was a noticeable tendency to organize separate missionary societies, but this has given place to a recognition of the fact that these interests are fully provided for within the College Association, with its missionary committee, missionary meeting, and abundant opportunity for special meetings of the missionary volunteers. The recent visits of R. P. Wilder to the colleges have helped to promote this recognition, and have greatly strengthened and developed this department of our work. Several medical students' missionary conferences have been held, and in quite a number of colleges the students have subscribed sufficient money to support one of their own graduates in the foreign mission field under their respective missionary boards.

3. Intercollegiate deputation work has been encouraged and directed, and promises great results in the future. This will be true especially as the students who visit other colleges in this work intelligently inform themselves concerning the best Association experience in the various lines of college Christian work, and aim to improve methods and organization as well as impart stimulus and enthusiasm.

The most helpful work of this kind during the past year has been done by J. B. Reynolds and A. A. Stagg of Yale University, in visiting, under the auspices and direction of the International Committee, the leading colleges and universities in Canada. At Toronto, fully nine hundred university men turned out to greet them, and recent correspondence indicates that the Association work in the Canadian colleges has received a decided impetus from these visits.

4. "The Intercollegian," which has been placed under the editorial management of F. K. Sanders, has greatly improved, and has become seemingly indispensable to the best development of the work. It can exert a great educational influence, can be made especially helpful in promoting systematic Bible study in the College Associations.

5. The Northfield conference for Bible study and methods of College Association work, was conducted by D. L. Moody during July, 1888. Over ninety colleges were represented by nearly four hundred students, including twelve from the universities of Oxford, Cambridge, Edinburgh, and Utrecht. Prominent representative men from this and other lands assisted Mr. Moody in the conduct of the meeting, and leading representatives of the Associations aided in the presentation and discussion of phases of the practical work and of the general secretaryship. A book, "College Students at Northfield," has been published by F. H. Revell, giving an account of this meeting, and the principal addresses. Preparations are being made for a fourth conference, to be held at Northfield, June 29-July 10, 1889.

6. In March, 1888, Mr. Wishard, after eleven years continuous service as College Secretary of the Committee, sailed for Europe, to complete arrangements for his contemplated work in the Orient, and, after returning to this country, sailed in December, for Japan. Encouraging reports have already reached us, indicating that the same principles, and practically the same methods, of intercollegiate co-operation pursued in the American College Associations are welcomed and adopted by the Christian students of Japan.

Special work in the colleges, outside of our own organization and yet in harmony with and tributary to the College Association work, has been carried on with good results during the past year. Several students in one of the New England colleges, who had been personally benefited by the visit and work there of S. M. Sayford, raised over $2,000 to meet the necessary expenses of a similar work in other colleges, and, at the request of the students and of Mr. Sayford, the Committee authorized me to facilitate his work by counsel and correspondence concerning the route and visits among the colleges.

Since September last he has visited leading colleges and universities in Virginia, North and South Carolina, Alabama, Mississippi and Tennessee, remaining from five to seven days at each point. He spent January 26 and 27 with the Atlanta Association, and March 10 with the Montgomery Association, assisting the local work very acceptably. He is now making another visit of four days to Atlanta. Many students have confessed Christ, and many nominal Christians, who had been trifling with the Christian profession, have taken higher ground as the result of this work. It will be impossible for Mr. Sayford to respond before another college year to the many calls that have come to him from important colleges, though he is devoting the present year entirely to this work.

R. P. Wilder was earnestly requested by the students at Northfield last summer, to devote another year to visiting the colleges with a special reference to helping the missionary department of the College Association work, developing the interest awakened by Mr. Forman and himself two years before. The discussion on the missionary department, and the reports from the colleges represented at Northfield, indicated a need of such attention. A gentleman present offered to pay the expenses, and at great personal sacrifice Mr. Wilder consented, and is giving this college year to work among the colleges and seminaries in this country and Canada. Mr. Mott and myself have facilitated this work in the colleges, and Mr. Wilder has conferred with us in developing missionary interest in harmony with the Association work.

My own work during the past year has been largely included in the foregoing statement.

Since my last report I have represented the Committee in eight State Conventions, two college conferences, one medical students' missionary conference and one district convention, and have attended the conference of general secretaries, and the students' conference at Northfield.

I have visited thirty colleges and held meetings with metropolitan students in two large cities. In connection with these visits I have endeavored not only to strengthen and develop the organized and individual Christian work of the students, but have called their attention to the great opportunities for Christian service afforded them after graduation in the work of the city Associations. I have emphasized the claims of the general secretaryship on men who seem to be fitted for that work. I have also visited and assisted ten city Associations, attending conferences of business men and meetings of boards of directors and of important committees. I have advised concerning city Association finances and plans of work, plans of Association buildings and building finances, work among railroad men, and methods of Bible study.

I have given time to a personal canvass for funds for Association buildings both for college and city work, and have given advice and assistance to the state work in Indiana and Kentucky. I have also paid considerable attention to the finances of the international work. In prosecuting all this work I have visited eighteen states and provinces, namely: Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa, Nebraska, Missouri, Kentucky, Alabama, Georgia, South Carolina, Virginia and Ontario.

ANNUAL REPORT OF P. AUGUSTUS WIETING, Secretary.

My work for the Committee during the past year has been confined almost entirely to the central office.

The work at this point has kept pace with the increase in other departments. In fact every part of the field-work is so closely connected with the office, and in many ways so dependent upon the aid there rendered, that the growth of the latter must always accompany the growth of the former, and, very often, precedes it. If this fact is kept in mind the importance and value of the work done at the office will be more clearly appreciated.

The usual amount of correspondence has been conducted. Questions of all kinds bearing upon every department and phase of the work have been received from all parts of our own field, and from across the sea. The effort has been to reply to these inquiries as far as possible. Over one hundred thousand letters have been mailed.

The preparation, publication, and distribution of literature bearing upon Association work has been carried on with an increased energy. The Committee now has upon its list of publications over fifty standard documents and papers. The principal new publication of the year has been the first volume of the "Young Men's Christian Association Hand Book," a cloth bound book of 200 pages. This is a work which has long been needed, and its favorable reception has demonstrated the wisdom of its publication. A "Manual of Systematic Measurements in Gymnasiums," and "Gymnasium Record Blanks," are two recent valuable publications. The "Year Book," the "Prayer Meeting Topics," and "The Intercollegian" have been issued as usual during the year.

The gathering of statistical and other information from the Associations has required considerable time and effort, but has been necessary, and of advantage to the whole work. Many of these facts have been carefully collated, and printed in the "Year Book."

During the year the office has been removed from No. 52 to No. 40 East Twenty-third Street. The change has afforded the larger accommodation and better facilities urgently called for by the growth of the work. In addition to the secretaries and assistants stationed at the office, the usual number of clerks has been kept busy the whole year.

My office duties have been supplemented by attendance upon the New Jersey State Convention, at Plainfield, the New Hampshire State Convention, at Portsmouth, and a district conference at Bloomfield, N. J.

ANNUAL REPORT OF H. F. WILLIAMS,

Secretary Railroad Department.

The development of the work during the past year has been such as to give great encouragement both as to present and future results.

The field of the Railroad Department of the Young Men's Christian Associations is not only extensive, because of the large railroad interests of the country, but also on account of the diversified agencies that may be employed, and, as heretofore, much time has been given toward securing more efficient work on the part of the organizations already established.

Assistance has been given in securing an improved financial condition. This has been accomplished not so much by securing increased appropriations from the railroad companies as by assisting the secretaries and finance committees in enlarging the membership and increasing the amount subscribed by those who are specially active in the railroad work.

In connection with other general work pertaining to the development of organized fields, special effort has been made to bring the secretaries of the different departments into close relation with each other, that the experience of all might be within the reach of each one. A further efficiency in the work has been brought about by the reorganization of a number of railroad departments. In some cases this has consisted simply in defining more clearly the relation of the department to the central Association. At several points the railroad work has been reorganized as a regular department, with its duly appointed committee of management. The result of the reorganization has been to more clearly define and make more nearly uniform the work of the railroad department, to unify Association effort at each point, and to prevent friction liable to arise from having two organizations in the same city.

The full effect of the organization of the Association among railroad men cannot be realized on any railroad system until railroad branches are established at all terminal points on the line. During the year special attention has been given to filling out the system of railroad branches on railroads where the work has been begun. This feature has received the hearty endorsement of railroad officials, it being apparent that the influences of the work should be within the reach of the men at the end of every division. In the presentation of the work to officials of lines on which it has not yet been introduced, this policy has been emphasized.

The permanency secured to the general work by the erection of buildings is to be obtained by the railroad department in the same way. In the beginning of this work rooms were sought in union depots. This, at the time, was undoubtedly the best location for rooms. In recent years, however, the tendency at large railroad centres is to locate yards and shops at different points, and it has been found, in a number of places, that the depots are not located so as to reach the largest number of men. Beside this fact, the increasing business of the companies has required more room in the stations, and a number of railroad departments have been crowded into quarters inadequate for their work. For these reasons, as well as to secure permanency for the work, the erection of buildings has been encouraged. The results during the year have been most gratifying. The interest in the building movement in city Associations does not exceed that in the railroad department. At several points new buildings have been erected and occupied, and at a larger number an interest has been aroused on this subject, and building funds have been started.

A study of the map showing the location of railroad departments of the country reveals the fact that they are located, largely, north of the Ohio river and east of the Missouri river. The time has fully come for the enlargement of the field covered by our railroad work and much has been done during the year toward systematic extension. During the early part of the year visitation was made in the South, specially in the vicinity of Atlanta, Ga., and steps were taken to secure appropriations from railroads at several points. A change in the management of one of the large systems of the South has hindered the consummation of this movement. It is hoped, however, that the work will be ultimately successful, and that we shall soon add to the railroad branches in the South several well supported organizations. Similar preparatory work has been done in New England and New Jersey.

To secure the uniform development of the work throughout the entire country, the necessity of establishing a system of railroad departments on, at least, one trans-continental railroad is apparent. Conferences have been held with a number of leading officials of lines west of the Missouri river during the year. In nearly all cases deep interest has been expressed in the movement, but it has not seemed possible to begin work until quite recently. At the time of the writing of this report negotiations are in progress with the management of one of the through western lines, and at the request of the vice-president of the company a systematic tour of the entire system is being made. There is every probability that the work will be introduced on this road.

During the year personal interviews have been held with sixty-nine (69) presidents, vice-presidents and general managers of railroads in the United States and Canada. In every case an attentive hearing was given, and in nearly all the details and methods of the railroad department were carefully considered. This has opened up a large field, and it will be necessary to select the lines upon which organizations can secure the most uniform development, and which can be most easily handled.

The growth of the work during the year has been such that the Committee has added to its force in this particular field the occasional service of several assistants. C. L. Gates has given a large part of his time to the railroad department and has rendered valuable aid at all points which he has visited. Occasional service has been given by different railroad secretaries, the time of all amounting to the service of one man for the year. Acknowledgment is made of the very efficient service rendered by these assistants.

Among the encouragements of the past year is the fact that very few of the appropriations have been discontinued, and very few reductions in the amounts given have been made. This is especially encouraging when it is remembered that it has been one of the most trying years in the history of railroads. Reductions in the force and in the time and pay of employes have been rigidly enforced on many lines. The fact that on such roads appropriations have not been discontinued, and rarely reduced, is a testimony not only to the strength of our work in itself, but that this fact is recognized by the management of railroads. Another source of great encouragement is found in the increased proportion of railroad men who take advantage of the facilities offered by the railroad department. This has been manifest in the large increase of membership, and by an increased attendance at the rooms.

The greatest source of encouragement, and that which causes the most profound gratitude has been the blessing that a number of the departments have enjoyed in the spiritual work. In some cases extended revivals are reported, but, in the main, the results have followed the persistent personal work of the secretaries and Christian railroad men.

This report would be incomplete without mention of the faithful services of the railroad secretaries throughout the country. Their devotion has not only been evident in the work performed, but, in some cases, in sacrifices made in the reduction of already small salaries that their departments might be continued. Grateful acknowledgement is also made of the uniformly cordial and helpful co-operation of state and local secretaries.

In connection with special work as Secretary of the Railroad Department, considerable time has been given to the general work, while traveling in different portions of the country. Brief visits have been made to local Associations and a number of State Conventions have been attended.

For details and summary of reports of the railroad department reference is made to the railroad table in the Year Book.

The past year has been one of signal encouragement and to Him for whose glory the work is done is due all thanksgiving and praise.

REPORT OF J. R. MOTT,

Secretary.

I have been in the service of the International Committee for six months. During that time my work has been confined almost entirely to the colleges. It may be outlined under the following heads: 1. Visitation; 2. Conventions; 3. Matters which have received special attention.

I. VISITATION—I have visited forty-three colleges in fourteen states and two provinces, necessitating over 10,000 miles of travel. In two of these colleges I organized Associations. In the others my work consisted in developing existing organizations, many of which had not received much attention. The general effect of this visitation has been to broaden the scope of the work of these Associations and to bring it more closely into harmony with that of other Associations, both in colleges and cities.

It is a cause of special thankfulness to God that in connection with this visitation of the colleges, many young men have made a personal surrender to Christ.

I have rendered assistance to some city Associations in Nova Scotia, Maine and Mississippi.

II. CONVENTIONS.—At the Maine, New York, and Wisconsin State Conventions, I presented the College Association work, and conducted conferences with delegates from 26 colleges. In the South, I conducted special college conferences at Lebanon and Knoxville, Tenn., attended by students from six and eight colleges respectively. I also participated in the New England College Conference.

III. MATTERS WHICH HAVE RECEIVED SPECIAL ATTENTION — 1. College Association buildings.—Several days were spent in organizing the building canvasses of the Associations in the Universities of Iowa and Wisconsin. As a result each now has a fund of over $5,000.

By means of correspondence, I have helped to stimulate similar action in other colleges. We have fairly entered the building era of the College Associations. The Cornell and Hamilton Associations will open their new buildings within a few weeks. This will make six College Association buildings. Possibly a dozen other colleges have started building funds. Wise direction and encouragement will more than double the number of buildings within the next three years.

2. Bible Study.—I spent two weeks with Mr. Ober in the preparation of a new system of Bible study for training classes, especially designed for use in colleges. We also prepared pamphlets for the leaders of these classes. Although prepared primarily for College Associations, this plan of study is being adopted and heartily approved by other Associations.

3. General Secretaryship.—I have presented the claims of the general secretaryship upon college men on several occasions, and know a few who are giving the matter careful consideration. It is to be earnestly hoped that more of our college men, who possess the proper qualifications, will give themselves to this for young men which is calling so loudly for trained leaders.

4. Missionary Department.—To this department of our College Association work, the Committee desired me to give special attention in view of the new demands made upon it in connection with the present vigorous student movement in aid of foreign missions. Several days were spent in Michigan and Maine in showing how this department of the College Association could meet the present need far better than such new or additional student organizations as had been projected for the purpose.

In connection with my work, in this department, I have also facilitated by counsel and correspondence the tour of R. P. Wilder among our College Associations.

5. Metropolitan College Organizations.—I have given considerable time to the study of this organization in Boston, New York, Chicago and New Orleans; and in two of these cities, I have helped to outline plans of action for the coming year. It is gratifying to know that this difficult problem in the college work is much nearer solution than it was a year ago.

The two most encouraging features of the work during the last year have been: (1) the building up of strong Associations at pivotal colleges which are serving as models for the colleges in their respective sections of the country, and (2) the marked spiritual results which have attended the work in so many places).

REPORT OF JOHN R. HAGUE,

Secretary.

Entering the service of the Committee Sept. 4th, I was sent, in Mr. Weldensall's absence, to his old field, and have assisted the work in Iowa, Michigan, Minnesota, Dakota, Ohio and Illinois.

I visited 34 city and town Associations as follows: Davenport, Muscatine, Burlington, Marshalltown, Des Moines, Cedar Rapids and Grinnell, Iowa; Kalamazoo, Grand Rapids, Lansing, Jackson, East Saginaw, Detroit and Bay City, Mich.; Northfield, Faribault, Winona, St. Paul, St. Cloud, Minneapolis (Central and 26th St.), Minn.; Rock Island, Chicago, and Moline, Ill.; Toledo, Ohio; Boston, Mass.; New Haven, Conn.; New York (23d St, Harlem and Institute Branches); Brooklyn, Buffalo, Poughkeepsie, and Rochester, N. Y.

I also visited the following seven Railroad Associations: Brainerd and Minneapolis, Minn.; Fargo, Dak.; Ionia, Mich.; Elkhardt, Ind., New York, and Buffalo, N. Y. Also eight college Associations, viz.: Carleton (Northfield), Macalester, Hamline and State University, Minn.; Yale, Conn.; Hope (Holland), Kalamazoo and Ionia, Mich.

Of the general Associations, I assisted 18 in various ways: at East Saginaw, Mich., in 8 building meetings and preparation for parlor conference; at Kalamazoo and Grand Rapids, Mich., Des Moines and Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and Rock Island, Ill., in consultation as to building plans and canvass; at Burlington, Iowa, in canvass for current expenses and debt; at Kalamazoo and Grand Rapids in raising money for State Committee; at Muscatine, Iowa, in organization of new Association and canvass for current expenses and rooms; at Davenport, Iowa, in reorganization of Association and canvass for debt and current expenses; at 9 others in board of directors, religious or committee meetings, and in consultation.

Of the seven Railroad Associations, I assisted at Brainerd, Minn., in a canvass for building funds; at Fargo, Dak., in a canvass for current expenses and in consultation; at Brainerd, Fargo and Minneapolis in addresses at one business and two religious meetings; at Ionia, Mich., and Fort Madison, Iowa, by consultation and correspondence.

Of the eight College Associations, I held or arranged for conferences, met for consultation or addressed meetings in all but Yale.

I attended the State Conventions of Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota and Dakota, Michigan, and Ohio; also the secretaries' conferences of Illinois, Iowa, and Ohio; have addressed over twenty religious meetings in Association work, attended over a dozen board of directors meetings, three State Committee meetings, one parlor conference, and numerous local committee meetings. Have also assisted Iowa in securing a State Secretary, and Michigan in raising funds for the state work.

I cannot close without gratefully testifying to having received from God such a spiritual blessing as I have never before known.

REPORT OF C. L. GATES,
Assistant Secretary.

I was first employed by the Committee in February of 1888, for a six weeks' tour among the Associations of Alabama, preparatory to the annual State Convention. I visited nearly every Association in the state, holding meetings and conferences with each, and aiding in the financial work at Mobile, Montgomery, Birmingham and Opelika. Later, I visited Birmingham with H. F. Williams, with special reference to the possible establishment of railroad work at that point.

In October, I was again employed by the Committee to assist in railroad work, beginning at Louisville. A short visit to the railroad branches in Chicago was followed by a trip to Trenton, Mo., to decide upon the feasibility of establishing a railroad work at that railroad centre in connection with the local Association.

The Association at Brainerd, Minn., requiring more money to complete its building, then partially constructed, I spent some time at that place in helping to secure the amount needed.

At the request of members of the State Committee of Minnesota, I gave several days to the West Side Branch of the St. Paul Association, assisting the general secretary, and raising money for the current expenses. I also visited Minneapolis in the interest of the railroad department.

The situation in Ionia, Mich., demanding attention, I was employed there in aiding to secure needed funds, and in devising plans for improving the condition of the work.

Returning to the South, I again visited the railroad branch at Louisville, finishing my trip December 1.

Since January 15, I have been engaged in the railroad department of the Committee's service, and have visited the Associations and railroad branches at Atlanta, Louisville, Richmond, Charlottesville, and New York City. In Atlanta and Richmond the railroad work has been re-organized and is now in good condition with the prospect of increasing usefulness.

I have attended two State Conventions, viz.: Alabama and Virginia. At each I presented the claims and needs of railroad men and advocated a definite work in their interests.

This report covers a period of five months, in which I have visited twenty-six Associations and branches in nine different states.

The frequent opportunities for personal work have been gladly improved, and I have received a blessing through my connection with this department of the Master's service.

REPORT OF LUTHER GULICK.

I have endeavored since October, 1887, under the direction of the Committee, to help the Associations in the physical department of their work. The service during this period has been partial, as I have also been prosecuting medical studies, and have during four months been engaged in work at the Association training school.

Correspondence has been carried on with seventy Associations that were desirous of securing physical directors, and thirty-two of them were put in correspondence with men who subsequently entered their service in this capacity. One hundred and five men, who were desirous of entering this department, have been communicated with.

In a number of instances I have been able to aid some local gymnasium director by advice regarding the treatment of difficult cases under his charge. By request of a number of Associations that were putting up buildings, or fitting out gymnasiums, I have made suggestions as to location, arrangement, expense, apparatus, bath-rooms, etc.

Perhaps of more permanent value than this work, is the anthropometric blank. Our Associations have great opportunities for the securing of accurate statistical information regarding gymnastic and athletic work, the effects of exercise, the form and proportions of the human figure, and other matters of great practical as well as scientific value; but it has been impossible to utilize these opportunities in the past, as there has been no uniform basis for study and comparison of results. Accordingly it was thought wise to offer those Associations that wished to do this work a carefully digested plan for the securing and tabulating of statistics on these subjects.

During the winter of 1887-88 an outline was prepared, and presented for criticism to Prof. Edward Hitchcock, M.D., of Amherst College; J. W. Seaver, M.D., of Yale; Wm. Blaikie; Prof. D. A. Sargent, M.D., of Harvard; Prof. W. W. Ranney, of Williams College; J. Gardner Smith, M.D., and W. S. Sheldon, physical directors of the Young Men's Institute of New York City, and of the Cleveland Association, and others.

These gentlemen discussed every item in detail, suggesting alterations and additions which would render it more valuable. After this preparatory criticism, a meeting was held in May, 1898, for a final revision. There were present at this meeting, Prof. Hitchcock, Wm. Blaikie, Dr. Seaver, Prof. Ranney, Dr. Smith, T. M. Bull, M. D., of New York, R. R. McBurney, R. C. Morse and Rev. D. A. Reed, O. C. Morse, J. T. Bowne and R. J. Roberts, of the Association training school. At this meeting the blank was finally revised and recommended for adoption to the Associations. It was presented to the International Conference of General Secretaries, at Grand Rapids, Mich., and after an animated discussion it was unanimously recommended for adoption. It is being introduced gradually by the Associations, and is already proving of great value.

During the last year and a half, owing to the course taken by your Committee in this department, the Associations have come to regard this work as very much more important than they formerly did. The number of Associations giving attention to it, and the number of men employed has rapidly increased.

Formerly there were very few spiritually aggressive men in this department of the work, and in many cases the gymnasium proved to be a hindrance rather than a help to the spiritual work; now it is regarded by many as one of the most effectual agencies that the Association has in reaching young men.

The character of the work done has been changing very rapidly; the majority of the Associations to-day are working largely in the right line, that is, that the gymnasium is for the purpose of developing health and strength, of vigor of body and mind; while formerly most of our gymnasiums were given up to the acquirement of feats of skill, strength or endurance. An entirely new element has been added in the line of scientific work; problems connected with exercise are being investigated which have never been studied before to any large extent. The Associations have unparalleled opportunities for this work in that their gymnasiums are the most numerous, and the most intelligently directed in the country, and are the only ones that have a uniform basis for work.

A new spirit has developed among the gymnasium instructors ; they now regard themselves as a part of the great Association movement for the uplifting of young men, and are active in sympathy with the other aims of the Association ; as a consequence they act together heartily, thus securing results that would be impossible were each to work alone.

These changes are largely an outcome of the steps which the Committee has taken in relation to this department.

FRANCE.

The condition of the Associations, in general, in France is about the same as last year. In Paris, however, much progress has been made. The moral and financial aid received from America has stimulated the Association to greater activity in its own behalf and induced the French Protestants to contribute most generously to its support.

Of the 40,000 francs ($8,000) necessary to meet the annual expenses nearly three-fourths have come from Paris. The Association has, in consequence, moved into large and handsomely-furnished rooms at No. 4 Faubourg Montmartre, near the Boulevards, and has been entirely reorganized.

Much of this result has been due to the presence of Thomas K. Cree, Secretary of the American International Committee, who has recently spent four months here, without expense to that Committee and by the generous provision of an American friend of the work. Many of the French pastors are in thorough sympathy with the Association and aid it greatly.

The work in Lyons is in as satisfactory a state as could be expected without a general secretary, and it is hoped that one may be provided before many months.

HAWAII.

The Association among the foreign community of Honolulu has had a year of average success and usefulness. The reading rooms are well patronized. A prayer meeting is held every Sunday evening, and a Bible class, conducted by the general secretary, on Sunday mornings. The present membership is about 150. The expenses the past year were over $8,906 and were fully met by the Association and its friends.

"Queen Emma Hall," which is mainly devoted to Christian and temperance work among the Hawaiians is a tax upon our Association of about $1,000 a year. In this hall, besides a weekly temperance meeting for Hawaiians and other religious meetings, are now held evening classes for instruction of the Portuguese. Christian work among the Japanese began here, but the work has grown to such dimensions that the Lyceum, in another part of Honolulu, has been secured for them. It is under the auspices of the Methodist Church of California. Almost a constant revival has been going on among the Japanese for several months past and their converts now number about 50, and 1,000 have taken the temperance pledge.

The "Y. M. C. A. Boys" hold monthly meetings in our hall, and many instructive lectures have been given them the past year. They support a Hawaiian lad at Kamshamsha Industrial School.

Under the leadership of the general secretary, S. D. Fuller, our Association is an important centre of Christian work in Honolulu, and much good is being done in a quiet way. But the gospel does not reach the young men who are here away from home influences, and who are in the greatest need of help.

Young peoples' associations among the Hawaiians, upon a plan similar to our Associations, exist throughout the kingdom, now numbering about twenty. Women are admitted to these societies.

The Chinese Association is flourishing, and the Japanese have formed one in connection with the mission.

INDIA.

During the past year no distinct progress in Association work has been made in India. A year ago you received from me, too late for insertion in the Year Book of 1888, a communication from the missionaries of the Madras Presidency, giving an account of their conference of March 12, 1888, when my father, Dr. Jacob Chamberlain, recently returned from America, addressed them concerning the favorable impressions he had received of the work of the American Young Men's Christian Associations, and the appeal he had made to them on behalf of a similar work for the young men of India. After full consideration of Dr. Chamberlain's statement the conference unanimously resolved that it "will gratefully welcome such well qualified, thoroughly trained agents as the American Young Men's Christian Associations may propose to send, and will give them its cordial sympathy and co-operation." The missionaries of the Madras Presidency are still hoping for the coming of such an agent. There is as yet very little Association work done in India. The Bombay Association is probably the strongest in this country, but it has no affiliation whatever in India or England, and does not yet feel itself strong enough to enter upon work for the Hindoos—confining itself largely to sailors. There is also an independent Association in Calcutta, and a few others organized by the missionaries in other stations. They will welcome a well-considered movement to unite them in one strong, compact organization, all working together for the young men of India.

JAPAN.

I arrived in Japan, February 20, 1888, and proceeded at once to devote as much time as was possible, in connection with my other duties, to study the character of the Associations then existing in different parts of the empire. I found that almost every church of the evangelical denominations had its Kirisutokio-Sei-Nen-Kwai; that these so-called Young Men's Christian Associations were organized merely as a part of the working machinery of the churches with which they are connected; that their membership was, except in rare instances, co-extensive with the male membership of their respective churches; that their chief work consisted in maintaining a monthly lecture, and sometimes a prayer-meeting—in short, that they subserved the same purposes in the church life of Japan that the "Young People's Societies" do in the churches of America. Of such "Sei-Nen-Kwai" there are probably more than one hundred and fifty in the empire. Their presence, and their nominal connection with the Young Men's Christian Association, has made it difficult to arouse an intelligent interest in true Association methods or an appreciation of the existing need of them. Happily, however, this general rule had a few exceptions. In Tokyo an Association called the "Central" Association, or the Association "Club," undenominational in its character, had rented a small building centrally located in the city, with a room devoted to the preservation of a valuable reference library of six hundred volumes, received from the Foreigners' Young Men's Christian Association of Tokyo, which disbanded about eight years ago ; the Association also maintained a reading room. The membership of this central club was composed of leading members and pastors of the Tokyo churches—about forty in all ; it has now increased to one hundred and fifty, the evangelical test of active membership has been adopted, and the Association reorganized has attempted Bible studies, and such evening class work as its small rooms will allow. This Association owes its continued existence and much of its life to the faithful, self-denying labors of Rev. K. Kimura, a graduate of Hope College, Michigan, and the New Brunswick (N. J.) Seminary.

At the close of my school in June I visited Kobe and Osaka. In Kobe I was told that the Association had done good work in sustaining a night school by which many unbelievers were being brought under Christian influences. They were greatly helped in this work by the ladies of the Congregational mission. At Osaka I visited the building so well known throughout the Association world and conversed with the leading men interested in the work in that city. The building, it seems, was erected to meet the felt need of a hall for Christian apologetics, and that immediately decided the architecture of the structure and gave to the city simply a large hall with brick walls and tile roof, with a plainly finished interior capable of holding seventeen hundred Japanese. Of course little Association work can be done in a large, bare hall ; but in accordance with the design adopted the utmost that could be done with the money given was done, and probably until such time as the Osaka Association shall be able to employ a trained general secretary the large hall will render to the cause of Christ a greater service than a smaller building planned more strictly in accordance with Association styles of architecture, but with no one to intelligently direct its use. In my experience I have not found a Christian worker in Japan who has referred to the work done by the Osaka building in other than the most glowing terms. I have been told that it has caused great and rapid advances in Christian work in that city, has united the Christians and given them the courage of their numbers, has attracted audiences to gospel preaching that would not enter a church, and, through the influence of the conventions held in it, it has really influenced the whole nation. The Association organized in connection with this building is undenominational, and its chief work as an Association has been done in the prisons of the city. A number of the prisoners have been led to accept Christ, and their changed lives and the effect of Christian teaching upon others of the prisoners excited the lively interest and approval of the officers in charge. Within the last few months a small building for reading-room and library purposes has been erected on one corner of the lot on which the Association hall stands.

In connection with several of the mission schools the Sei-Nen-Kwai has supplied a simple form of organization to the Christian students, but their methods of work have been largely determined by the Sei-Nen-Kwai idea. I found that the students of the Tokyo Ei-Wa Gakkô (college of the M. E. mission) had printed a modified translation of the constitution for College Associations published by the International Committee.

A mere reference to the past work of the Association in Japan would be very incomplete without particular notice of the work done at Sappora by the Christian professors and students of the Agricultural College, organized as an Association. I hope soon to visit them and learn more particularly of their work. They are well known throughout Japan as a body of earnest Christian men, who, without a pastor to direct or help them, have for years carried on a substantial and aggressive gospel work amongst the people of that region of the northern island.

In April and May of 1888 it was my privilege to gain the acquaintance of several of the Christian students of the government colleges of Tokyo. To them, and to other Christian workers who were consulted, it seemed a good idea to form an Association among the students of those institutions, but it was felt that little could be done on account of the very small number of Christian students supposed to be in attendance. The university has its various colleges, and the Kótó Chû Gakkô (higher preparatory college) and the Commercial College have their various departments, and thus the Christian students were separated, were not aware of their numerical strength, and felt powerless to strive against the pronounced atheism of their surroundings. The future of the Association work among them, its power and helpfulness, was prophesied by the surprise and joy evident on the faces of the twenty-three men who responded to the first call for a meeting. Instead of one Association we formed three, on the basis of the evangelical test of active membership, and the University Association elected as its president H. Onishi, who stands preëminent as a scholar among the students of that great institution. In this connection I desire to notice the earnest and untiring efforts of N. Murakami, of Kótó Chû Gakkô, and M. Tsuda, of the Commercial College, to whose faithful work the successful organization of these Associations was largely due. During the autumn term two public meetings for students under the auspices of these Associations were held in the largest church in Tokyo (distant three miles from the university), and it was both times filled to overflowing with students who listened with evident interest to the preaching of the gospel. These Associations have all sustained regular meetings for prayer and Bible study, and the members have been earnest in their efforts to interest non-Christian students. At present their respective memberships are,—in the university, 27, in the Kótó Chû Gakkô, 47, and in the commercial college, 89. Of this number ten are associate members who are seeking Christ.

In September, 1888, we received the glad news that God had given us—through the hand of a faithful steward of his in the United States—the sum of $25,000 for the furtherance of our work in Tokyo, and surely no place or time ever so clearly warranted such an investment. The centre of a strongly centralized nation straining every nerve to acquire the highest degree of civilization, the seat of a university, the sole head of a vast educational system, the abode of 80,000 students gathered from every province of the empire—what other city offers greater opportunity or has a greater need than Tokyo! We feel confident that He who has so richly blessed the work during the past year will supply the remaining sum necessary for the building and its lot.

The arrival of L. D. Wishard in January of this year, has brought to us increased inspiration, and has created greater interest in the work, and his presence and efforts have already been greatly blessed.

I trust that in closing you will allow me to express my grateful appreciation of that lively sympathy on the part of your Committee which has brought about my release from teaching and has made possible the devotion of my entire time to this work. I feel as I review the work of the year that its success has been from the Lord, and is not in the least due to the work of any man. To him most evidently belongs the praise, and we offer it all to him with glad hearts, thankful that he is calling the young men of Japan to join us in this world wide work for the glory of his Son.

JOHN T. SWIFT, Cor. Mem.

TURKEY.

There is such a determined hostility, a hostility which seems to increase year by year, to all forms of evangelical work as to make progress along such lines exceedingly slow. The advance of a year is often so slight as to be hardly discernable; and yet, in spite of this, each year seems to bring something of cheer and promise of future victory.

Last year I called attention to the forward stand taken by the Association in the capital, a position which it has well maintained and which has in it much of promise—many of its meetings having an attendance of 150 to 200 young men.

This year the bright record which the Association in Central Turkey College at Aintab has made is especially prominent. Work is carried on in several districts in the city, with aggregate audiences of six hundred and more.

As stated in my last report, there are now Associations in all of our Protestant centres, some, of course, more efficient than others, but all seeming to have the germ in them of future usefulness.

A young man (native) located at Constantinople, acting as general secretary for both the city work and the work at large in the empire, would have a most promising field in leading these Associations into larger usefulness, and in shaping their growth.

W. W. PEET, Cor. Mem.

MANITOBA.

In Manitoba we have now six Associations, two employing general secretaries and one of these an assistant secretary, also.

There are several towns where Associations could be formed at once if we could only have the long wished for visit of a secretary of the International Committee.

Winnipeg and Brandon are agitating for buildings.

The spiritual work at all points is good, and the main object of Association work is kept prominently before the members.

ROBERT D. RICHARDSON, Cor. Mem.

NEW BRUNSWICK.

The number of Associations has not increased, but those in existence continue to engage in definite work for young men.

St. John and Moncton still employ general secretaries; the former also a gymnasium instructor. St. John, through the kindly assistance of the ladies, has spent considerable in beautifying its rooms, which now present greater attractions to young men than formerly. Special features of work by this Association have been its educational classes, young men's meetings, training classes, and physical culture.

The College Associations at Sackville and Fredericton still continue active in their lines of work. The latter has been able to fit up and furnish very commodious rooms in the college building.

Our Associations were well represented at the Maritime Convention held at Amherst last August, which was largely attended from the sister provinces as well, and proved a season of rich blessing. J. E. IRVINE, Cor. Mem.

NOVA SCOTIA.

The Associations in this province number the same as last year, and are, most of them, doing their work quietly, but efficiently. Since July last, when Mr. McLeod severed his connection with our Executive Committee, we have been without a traveling secretary. In order in some degree to make up for the loss thus sustained, the plan of systematic intervisitation among the Associations was tried. What the result has been remains yet to be proved.

A feature which has been introduced on portions of the field during the year has been that of district conventions. Three of these have been held, and have proved a benefit to the Associations represented.

The twenty-first convention of the Maritime Provinces was held in July last at Amherst, N. S., when there were present 118 delegates and corresponding members, representing 23 Associations. The International Committee was efficiently represented by T. A. Harding. The convention was regarded by those who attended as one of the best held.

W. B. McNUTT, Cor. Mem.

ONTARIO.

We are glad to report marked progress in the work during the past year. Quite a number of Associations have been formed, several new buildings occupied, and the work generally is of a permanent character.

Special attention is being given to Bible study and training-class work.

The interest among college students is very encouraging, and this branch of the work is growing.

A Provincial Secretary has been fully occupied for seven months, and in the earlier part of the year a representative of the International Committee gave very valuable assistance at several important points.

JOHN J. GARTSHORE, Cor. Mem.

PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND.

The Association in Charlottetown has refitted and refurnished its reading-room. It is now a most attractive resort, and well furnished with papers and magazines. A permanent secretary has been engaged during the year.

Our other Association—at Summerside—holds its own. It has a comfortable room for its meetings, which are well sustained.

J. D. SEAMAN, Cor. Mem.

QUEBEC.

There have been no new Associations the past year. Those now in existence are located at Danville, Montreal, McGill University, Quebec, Sherbrooke, and Stanbridge East.

The Executive Committee proposes to do district visitation work during the current year in conjunction with the College Association.

The Montreal Association is putting its force and energy into the movement for its proposed building, the erection of which will be begun this year.

CHARLES CUSHING, Cor. Mem.

ALABAMA.

There is no material change to report in the work of the Associations in this state during the past year. Another College Association was organized by the State Secretary at the Marion Military Institute, with promise of much usefulness.

The yellow fever epidemic last summer and fall suspended travel in many parts of the state and caused some interruption in the work of the State Secretary, and some of the towns and Associations were, on this account, neglected.

The College Associations at Tuscaloosa, Auburn, Greensboro, and Marion were recently visited by S. M. Sayford, who did an effective work at each place.

The work of the Associations at Selma, Mobile, Montgomery, Birmingham, Tuscaloosa, Anniston, Huntsville, Opelika, Decatur and Marion is going on as usual.

CHARLES W. LOVELACE, Cor. Mem.

ARKANSAS.

The most important event in the Association movement in this state during the past year has been the advent of a State Secretary—the first ever employed in Arkansas. A. S. Caldwell, recently general secretary of the Charlotte, (N. C.) Association was called to this position, and entered upon his duties January 1, 1889.

There are now twelve Associations in the state, three of them having been organized since my last report.

General secretaries are employed at Fort Smith, Little Rock and Pine Bluff, a gain of one such officer during the year.

The State Convention was held April 12–15, 1888, at Fayetteville. 58 delegates representing 8 Associations were in attendance. The International Committee was represented by Secretary Henry E. Brown and Selden P. Spencer. Mr. Brown also aided our work in various other ways during the year, and helped to make it possible for the employment of a State Secretary.

P. K. ROOTS, Cor. Mem.

CALIFORNIA.

The Association cause in our state remains about the same as reported a year ago.

At our State Convention at Fresno last October, both the State Secretaries, C. S. Mason and J. Spencer Voorhees, resigned; Mr. Mason to enter special evangelistic work for young men, and Mr. Voorhees to return to the ministry

We have not yet been able to fill these vacancies, and our work has consequently suffered to some extent. Another serious drawback has been our inability to secure competent local secretaries at several points where they have been greatly needed.

The eighth annual State Convention at Fresno, October 10-14, 1888, was one of the largest and most successful ever held in the state. The International Committee was represented at this gathering by Joseph Hardie and T. A. Harding. Nearly two thousand conversions of young men were reported as part of the results of the year's work.

A successful conference of college students was held at San Jose, November 14-16, conducted by L. D. Wishard, en route to the Orient. The second annual state conference of college students will be held in Berkeley, March 7-10, 1889.

California is one of the most promising fields for Association work in the country, and there are constant demands for new organizations at various points; but the policy of the State Committee is to discourage such movements until competent men can be secured for secretaries. We are constantly in correspondence with the International Committee relative to the situation, and valuable aid has been received from that source.

The San Francisco Association is now making an effort to secure a new building. Several liberal contributions have been made for this purpose.

Robert Weidensall, who is now in California recuperating his health, has rendered very efficient service to the State Committee in advising, planning, etc.

HENRY J. MCCOY, Cor. Mem.

COLORADO.

Association work in Colorado, during 1888, has been limited to Denver and Leadville.

The former Association, with a membership of over 1,200, has done an aggressive work, and the spacious rented quarters have become entirely too small. By invitation of the board of directors, E. W. Watkins, of the International Committee, came to Denver in November, and his visit of a few days resulted in the organization of a building canvass. The subscription list headed by the president, H. B. Chamberlin, with $25,000, has since been increased to over $50,000. It is confidently expected that this year will see, at least, $150,000 subscribed and a building under way.

The Leadville Association has made good progress under the leadership of Wildman Murphy, the efficient general secretary. Four weekly meetings for young men have been well attended, and the results have been greater than ever before. Active members of the Association working in the mines, have held gospel meetings in the camps where there are no other services, and many conversions have resulted.

Through the generous aid given by Mr. Chamberlin, John Currie, the evangelist, was kept at work during the year, giving much of his time to the young men in the mining camps and places in the state where no regular services were held.

An Association has just been organized at Pueblo, with over two hundred members and $1,300 pledged for furnishing rooms and paying the first year's expenses. At several other points organization is being considered.

CONNECTICUT.

The encouraging condition of work in this field as reported a year ago, gave strong hope of excellent results for the year just closed. That hope has been, in many respects, more than realized.

Early in the year, James L. Gordon was chosen to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of our former State Secretary. The success which has attended his efforts in this position has demonstrated the wisdom of the choice.

This has been a year of building enterprise among the Associations. Hartford and Bridgeport have both been presented by single individuals with lots valued at $30,000 each; the canvass for funds for the building in the former place is in a very encouraging condition, and in the latter it is nearly completed. Winsted has purchased a building at moderate cost, which by alteration has been made a comfortable home for its work; Norwich is about ready to begin a canvass for funds for its contemplated building; New Britain has just dedicated its beautiful $50,000 building.

Evangelistic meetings for young men have been conducted by the State Secretary in several cities with excellent results.

The physical department has received more attention than in former years.

The State Convention held in Bridgeport, Oct. 11-14, 1888, was largely attended, enthusiastic and profitable. The International Committee was represented by Messrs. Watkins and Sanders. W. R. BURNHAM, Cor. Mem.

Owing to the yellow fever epidemic the Association work in this state has made little progress the past year.

During the plague the Association at Jacksonville under the brave leadership of its president, W. B. Owen, rendered a very efficient service among the sick young men in that city, many of whom were away from home and kindred. It was enabled to make this service the more effectual through the financial aid generously rendered by Associations and other friends of young men in different parts of the country, in response to an appeal made by the International Committee.

GEORGIA.

The work of the Associations in Georgia is improving. There are seven general secretaries, one assistant, one gymnasium superintendent and one railroad secretary, all giving their entire time to the work.

Several changes have taken place during the year in general secretaryships; we have lost three men and gained two. Definite work for young men is pretty generally adhered to by all the Associations.

M. B. Williams, our State Secretary for nearly three years, has entered the evangelistic field. The State Committee is now without a traveling secretary.

Henry E. Brown, of the International Committee, has rendered us valuable aid during the year, and C. L. Gates, another agent of that Committee, has assisted in the reorganization of the railroad work at Atlanta, with very satisfactory results.

The Atlanta Association in its new building is well officered and gives promise of a great work. Athens has a building fund sufficient to complete its building. Augusta has purchased a site for a proposed building.

It would have been very difficult for our work in Georgia to have succeeded without the aid of the International Committee during the year past.

ILLINOIS.

The year has been in all substantial respects the best in the history of our Association work.

A marked feature, and one which indicates that the work is no longer considered by the public as experimental, is the general interest and success in securing buildings. Over $120,000 has been pledged within the year for lots and buildings. This is more in one year than in the preceding ten years. Four cities—Rockford, Moline, Peoria and Joliet—have each over $20,000 for building purposes.

There has also been marked growth in the number of secretaries employed, improvements at the militia camp at Springfield, in the development of the corresponding membership in unorganized towns, and in the direct religious work.

There are now seventy-five Associations and departments in the state; fifty-eight men are now employed at thirty-five points as against forty-four at thirty-one points in 1887; sixty-six Associations report a total membership of 10,516; thirty-nine report reading rooms with an average daily attendance of 1,669; forty-six report sixty-eight meetings for young men only; thirty report forty-eight Bible classes for young men only; nineteen report work for boys; fifty-five report 1,493 professed conversions among young men and boys, of whom 563 are known to have united with the churches. Bible classes for young men only have been held in six unorganized towns.

The financial condition of most of the Associations is good. Forty-two report current expenses of $88,847. Public support has never been so general and cordial as at present.

The work in Chicago has taken on a new life with the coming of L. Wilbur Messer as general secretary. A new feature of great promise is the Bridgeport department, called the Workingmen's Institute, chiefly for the benefit of the employes of the Union Steel Company and the Chicago City Railway Company, each of which corporations contribute $1,200 annually for its support.

The State Committee has employed the services of five secretaries during the year; the corresponding membership in unorganized towns has increased to 150; the State Committee received $8,085 and expended $8,083; it is proposed to raise $12,000 for the ensuing year; of this, $6,000 was raised in the State Convention, being nearly twice the amount so raised in 1887.

The outlook for the coming year is full of promise of a larger blessing than we have before received.

INDIANA.

There has been steady progress and success all along the line among the Associations of Indiana. During the year our state work has been thoroughly organized ; a State Association has been formed and a constitution adopted which provides for a per capita support of the State Association by the Associations of the state, 20 per cent. of the receipts from such sources to be given to the International Committee by the State Association.

A very successful system of corresponding members of the State Committee has been organized. In ninety-five of the one hundred and forty-nine towns of one thousand inhabitants and upward, a man has been secured to represent the State Committee and to keep it informed as to the movements of the young men. In many places not yet organized, a systematic effort for the conversion of the young men has been established.

Two men are now employed in state work and we are looking for a third. The quarterly meetings of the State Committee are held with the various Associations in turn, and with manifest results for good.

Fort Wayne has dedicated its new building, and the railroad branch in that city has greatly improved and refitted its apartments ; Elkhart has freed its building from debt, and is doing efficient work ; Crawfordsville dedicates March 1st its $25,000 building ; Evansville and New Albany are each showing an interest in securing an Association building.

Our city Associations are reporting conversions and additions to the Church almost every month.

No Association in the state is doing a mixed work.

EDWIN D. WHEELOCK, Cor. Mem.

IOWA.

We can report decided progress during the past twelve months. Greater interest is manifested by the people than at any previous time.

There are now fifty-three Associations in the state, fifteen of which are in colleges. Thirteen city Associations employ twenty-one general secretaries and assistants, three of these this year for the first time.

Among the older Associations there are several building projects on foot. Cedar Rapids leads with a building nearly completed ; Des Moines follows with subscriptions of $55,000, the estimated cost of the building it intends to erect ; Sioux City has bought a lot and begun a canvass for funds ; the College Association at the State University, Iowa City, has raised over $5,000 among its own members towards a building to cost $40,000.

The nineteenth annual State Convention, held at Marshalltown, October 10-14, 1888, was attended by one hundred more delegates than were present at any previous meeting. Among the number were ninety-five college men, representing fifteen College Associations, who reported 148 conversions in their work during the year. The college men voted unanimously for a union of the usual State College Conference with the annual State Convention.

During the year $5,886 was raised by the State Committee to meet its indebtedness and current expenses. This enabled it to go to the convention with all bills paid, and a small balance in the treasury. The committee is now free of debt, and has, within six hundred dollars, subscriptions sufficient to carry the state work to October 1, the close of the present fiscal year.

Correspondents of the State Committee for towns without Associations have been appointed in 108 of our smaller places. They have rendered good service.

A new system of secretarial correspondence by which each local secretary writes to the State Secretary the first of each week and receives in return a circular letter with news from other secretaries, has proved very helpful.

The International Committee has rendered valuable assistance during the year, both to the local and state work. M. H. SMITH, Cor. Mem.

KANSAS.

Kansas this year reports 66 Associations, 58 of which are general, 12 college, and 1 railroad. Thirty-one general secretaries are now in the field, making, together with their assistants, the State Secretary, and the seven secretaries of the State Committee, a force of forty-six men employed in the work in this state. For the last fiscal year the Associations report 380 committees, with 1,177 members; average attendance at Bible classes, 548; average attendance at young men's meetings, 2,595; number of professed conversions, 844; number uniting with churches, 397.

The State Convention held at Abilene, October 17-21, 1888, was attended by 602 delegates, and the large amount of $14,408 was subscribed for the state work for the ensuing year. The amount expended for past year was $10,355.

The building of the Marion Association has been finished and occupied during the year; the Wichita building is nearing completion.

FRED. W. PARROTT, Cor. Mem.

KENTUCKY.

Very little progress has been made since my last report.

At our State Convention, held in November, 1887, an effort was made to raise money and place a State Secretary in the field. Not having a proper person in view for the position, the effort was not followed up and failed of success. The loss of the secretary of our State Committee, who resigned to enter evangelistic work, has also curtailed effort throughout the state.

We can report one new Association, in Covington. Elegant rooms, including a gymnasium, have been fitted up, and funds sufficient to meet this expense and support the work for a year have been subscribed. The members show great interest and zeal.

We have now in this state 18 Associations.

Our next State Convention will be held at Georgetown, February 28-March 8, 1889.

Aid has been rendered the work at several points by representatives of the International Committee. JAMES EDWARD HARDY, Cor. Mem.

LOUISIANA.

The New Orleans Association is progressing as favorably as can be expected, considering its present limited accommodations. Over $4,300 was expended in its work during the past year, and the year was closed without debt.

There are no new organizations to report, nor has there been any state work done during the past year. CHARLES H. SHUTE, Cor. Mem.

MAINE.

Considerable progress has been made in Association work in this state the past year, and there is promise of still further progress during the present year.

Two general Associations have been organized during the year, one at Bath and the other at Lisbon Falls. At the former place a general secretary will soon be engaged.

General secretaries are now employed by the Associations at Auburn, Augusta, Bangor, Gardiner, Lewiston, Portland, Rockland and Waterville.

The state has been divided into three districts known as the eastern, central, and western. Committees have been formed in each of these districts, and corresponding members appointed in many towns where there are no Associations.

The State Convention was held at Brunswick with the Bowdoin College Association, October 25-28, 1888. It was very largely attended, and was one of the best gatherings of its kind ever held in this state. H. F. Williams and J. R. Mott represented the International Committee and rendered valuable aid. State Secretary Armstrong, of Massachusetts, Secretary Douglas, of the Boston Association and George C. Stebbins and R. P. Wilder, of New York, were also present and added much to the profit of the meeting.

Since my last report an Association has been formed in Maine Wesleyan Seminary, at Kent's Hill. There are now six flourishing College Associations in the state. Several of them were represented at the summer school for Bible study, at Northfield.

The reports of the different Associations at the State Convention showed a marked spiritual interest, and a large number of conversions.

The Bangor Association has secured pledges to the amount of $25,000 for a building.

The New England Secretaries' Conference was held in Portland, March 7-10, 1889. There was a large attendance and much interest.

Much credit for the success of the past year is due to the untiring effort of the State Secretary, E. A. Lawrence. W. S. COREY, Cor. Mem.

MARYLAND, WEST VIRGINIA, AND DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

For the first time in the history of this field a State Secretary has been employed for the entire year, and the result shows satisfactory progress throughout the entire territory covered by the two states and the District of Columbia.

By visitation and constant communication the State Secretary, W. E. Wayte, has succeeded in strengthening the existing Association and in effecting new ones as the way opened. The following statistics will give some idea of the work accomplished :

Two new buildings erected ; general secretaries employed at two new points ; three new libraries started ; four more men employed ; six new reading rooms opened ; eight Associations organized ; eight places without Associations visited in the interest of work for young men ; twenty-eight Associations now enrolled ; seventy-four visits made to twenty-eight Associations ; one thousand new members added ; seven thousand dollars in new subscriptions for organizing Associations, opening reading-rooms and employing general secretaries ; twenty-one thousand dollars in new buildings.

Delaware was represented at the annual convention held at Cumberland, Jan. 24-27, and asked of the Executive Committee such aid as the State Secretary might be able to render through visitation at two or three important points in that state.

Mr. Wayte has visited Wilmington, Del., several times, and steps have been taken toward an organization there. Many of the prominent business men of that city are heartily interested in the movement.

The finances for the past year show all expenses paid, with a small balance in the treasury, and pledges to guarantee the Executive Committee in pushing forward the work the ensuing year.

The most gratifying result of the year is the large number of young men who have been brought to Christ and united with the Church.

THEODORE A. HARDING, Cor. Mem.

MASSACHUSETTS, AND RHODE ISLAND.

There are at present sixty-six Associations in the two states organized under the direction of the State Committee of Massachusetts and Rhode Island; sixty-one in Massachusetts, and five in Rhode Island, with a total membership of about 1,900. Forty-four of these have reading rooms, with an average daily attendance of 2,326; twenty-two are doing work for boys; thirty-eight report meetings for young men; and seventeen report Bible classes and training classes for young men. Thirty-six general secretaries are employed, against thirty-three a year ago. There are in all seventy-one men giving their entire time to Association work.

Nine Associations were organized during the year—Merrimac, Millbury, Westboro, Holbrook, Greenfield, Westfield, Fall River, and an Intercollegiate Association in Boston. Six of these employ general secretaries.

The State Convention was held at Holyoke, October 11-14, 1888, and was attended by 291 delegates, being the largest gathering of its kind held in this state since the adoption of the present constitution and the present basis of Association representation.

The district conventions have been well attended, and much improvement has been made in the district work.

During the year a building has been erected and dedicated at Everett. The corner stone of a new building for the Attleboro Association was laid March 23, and the corner stone of a new building at Providence, R. I., is soon to be laid.

The Charlestown Association, which has been on the decline for several years, and without a general secretary since last October, has been thoroughly renovated and re-organized; $4,000 has been pledged, which is sufficient to pay off the floating debt and to carry forward the work for one year, and legitimate Association work will be done by this organization in the future.

As provided for at the last State Convention, G. S. Avery has been employed by the State Committee to do evangelistic work for young men, and has conducted profitable and successful services among many of the Associations.

J. W. Cook, secretary of the Armory Hill Association at Springfield, has accepted a call to the position of assistant State Secretary.

The International Committee was represented at our State Convention, and has very kindly assisted us whenever called upon.

ASSOCIATION BUILDING, SCRANTON, PA.,

WYOMING AVENUE.

DEDICATED FEBRUARY 3, 1887.

Dimensions, 80x90 feet.—Gymnasium 50x80 feet.
Cost, $71,000.

Population in 1887, 80,000.

The past year has been characterized by many conversions among the young men brought under the influence of our Associations, and has been one of marked progress in every department of our work.

S. B. CARTER, Cor. Mem.

MICHIGAN.

During the past year no new Associations have been organized in this state, and one has been discontinued. It has been the policy of the State Committee to strengthen and build up the Associations already organized rather than to establish new ones. We now have twenty-three Associations in good working order. They are all free from debt, and most of them show a healthy growth, and are doing good work for the Master.

We regret not to be able to report any new buildings completed during the year, but prospects are encouraging for the beginning, at least, of buildings at Grand Rapids, Kalamazoo, Bay City, and East Saginaw during the coming year.

The College Associations have increased their membership and improved in organization.

The railroad department is in about the same condition as last year, and while its needs are increasing by the multiplication of new roads, little is being done to meet the demand for its extension, on account of lack of funds for prosecuting the work.

Our State Secretary, F. R. Bunker, resigned in October, after doing good work, and his successor has not yet been selected, although an effort is now being made to secure the right man.

The State Convention was held at East Saginaw, February 7-10, 1889, and attended by about 200 delegates. The State Committee was instructed to place a secretary in the field at once, and funds were secured for the purpose. Deep spiritual interest was manifested, and good results must follow. The International Committee was represented by C. K. Ober and J. R. Hagne, whose presence added interest to the occasion.

J. R. DUTTON, Cor. Mem.

MINNESOTA, AND DAKOTA.

There were but three Associations organized in this field during 1888—Deadwood, Dak., West Side Branch, St. Paul, and Twenty-sixth Street Branch, Minneapolis.

The total number of Associations and departments, including eight College Associations, at the close of the year was forty-two; twenty-seven reported a membership of 4,223; seventeen annual expenses amounting to $41,045; six buildings to the aggregate value of $40,100; and three building funds pledged of $146,638. The number of general secretaries, and assistants, was twenty-three.

There has been marked progress in the railroad department at three points: Minneapolis held its own nobly, despite some discouraging obstacles; Brainerd has erected a building which is nearly ready for occupancy; Fargo has made decided improvement along certain lines.

A college conference was held at Merriam Park, in November, attended principally by delegates from the colleges in the immediate vicinity.

The annual State Convention held at St. Cloud in November, 1888, was largely attended and proved an occasion of very great spiritual blessing, particularly so in connection with the raising of money for state work; the peculiarity of this part of the convention was, that the money was practically raised in a little prayer meeting the night previous to calling for the subscriptions, so that when the opportunity was given in the convention no pressure was needed: the money came at once and in such liberal amounts as to far exceed the expectation of the committee. It was hoped by some members of the committee, more sanguine than others, that pledges might be secured in the convention for $2,500 or $3,000; to their great surprise the contributions footed up $4,700. Much of the success of the convention was also due to the presence of H. F. Williams and John R. Hagne, representing the International Committee, W. H. Marquess, D.D., of Fulton, Mo., who gave Bible readings, and George C. Stebbins, who had charge of the music.

The state work labored under the serious difficulty of being without a State Secretary until the first of November, when the services of T. A. Hildreth, formerly general secretary at Winona, were secured.

The missionary interest in the state, aroused by a visit of R. P. Wilder to the Minneapolis Association nearly two years ago, is still bearing fruit in missionary meetings at that point, and in St. Paul.

The International Committee has rendered special assistance to our work during the year.

JOHN H. ELLIOTT, Cor. Mem.

MISSISSIPPI.

Association work in Mississippi may be said to have held its own during the past year. Some of the organizations have grown in strength and usefulness, while others have languished, and a few have died.

The Associations at Jackson and Natchez are the only ones employing general secretaries.

Our last State Convention was held at Greenville, at which ten Associations were represented by twenty-six delegates. The convention for this year will be held at Meridian, in April.

Secretary Henry E. Brown, of the International Committee, has visited us during the year and aided the work at various points in the state.

MISSOURI.

Since my last report a State Secretary has been secured in the person of F. H. Jacobs, of Joliet, Ill. He entered upon his work September 1, and his efforts, thus far, have been mainly directed to the strengthening of the existing Associations rather than to the organizing of new ones. We now have thirty-eight Associations in the state, two less than a year ago. A few of the smaller and unimportant ones have disbanded, while those remaining are, with a very few exceptions, better organized, better equipped, and doing a more fruitful work than ever.

In building matters, as much progress has not been made as was anticipated. The Kansas City building has been greatly delayed for various reasons, but is now rapidly nearing completion. The Association has been occupying it in its unfinished state for several months, and hopes soon to dedicate it. For a variety of causes the Independence Association failed last year to erect its proposed building, but is now considering plans and hopes by fall to occupy it.

The German branch of the St. Louis Association is engaged in a building canvass, and expects to break ground for a $22,000 building this spring. It was greatly assisted by Claus Olandt, Jr., who spent several weeks organizing and directing the canvass.

The largest State Convention ever held in our state convened in Lexington last October. Two hundred and thirty-three delegates were present, and over $4,500 was pledged for state work. The International Committee was represented by Claus Olandt, Jr., who rendered good service. The day following the convention, over $1,700 was subscribed in Lexington for the local work.

Two district conferences, the first in ten years, were held at Holden and Gallatin. The attendance was large and the interest good.

C. K. Ober spent ten days with the colleges of our state, holding very successful meetings in the leading institutions.

The outlook is bright, and with a State Secretary in the field, and by the blessing of God, we hope to keep our work in the front rank in the states.

T. S. MCPHEETERS, Cor. Mem.

NEBRASKA.

We are glad to be able to report a very healthy condition of the Associations in Nebraska at the close of this year.

The State Committee, now numbering nineteen members, has pushed the work wisely and vigorously. Its selection of Augustus Nash, of Topeka, Kansas, as State Secretary, was a wise one. He entered upon his duties July 1, and the blessing of God has attended his efforts.

There are now 20 Associations in the state, 5 of which are connected with the colleges. Twelve secretaries are employed in nine different localities. Only two cities of a population of 5,000 and upwards are without Associations and general secretaries.

The State Convention held at Beatrice, October 25-28, 1888, was the best in our history. Over 200 delegates were present. An all-night prayer meeting was held, honored by the presence of the Holy Ghost in great power. About $5,000 was pledged for state work, of which $1,000 was set apart as a special fund for the support of a foreign missionary. It is now proposed to raise another $1,000 for the support of a home missionary, making the whole state fund $6,000. Secretaries Weidensall and Ober, of the International Committee, and State Secretary Fisher, of Kansas, were very helpful in the convention.

Five districts have been formed, each under the care of a special committee. Two district conventions have been held, at one of which 117 delegates were present.

The Omaha Association dedicated its new building December 4th, 1888.

While the financial condition of the Associations is satisfactory, it is more pleasing to note the fact that the spiritual condition of many of them is more so, and that at least 150 conversions, through the direct agency of Association young men, have been brought to our notice.

J. C. DENISE, Cor. Mem.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

In some respects, Association work in this state is on a higher plane than it has been for years.

Since our last report an Association has been organized in Portsmouth. A building, which by a little alteration has been adapted to the work, has been purchased by a syndicate of business men, with a view of final ownership by the Association. Two thousand dollars have been pledged for the first year, and a general secretary has been secured.

The State Committee consists of thirty-one members. There are two sub-committees—one on the general work, the other on the development of strictly local work.

The sixteenth annual series of gospel meetings now in progress has been one of the most successful canvasses ever conducted in the state. As in previous years, the meetings are under direction of the State Secretary and assistant.

The twenty-first annual State Convention was held in Portsmouth, September 20-23, 1888. It was attended by two hundred and thirty-one delegates. Many topics bearing on Association work were ably considered. Portsmouth received a permanent impulse for definite work among young men. We were aided in the convention by H. F. Williams and P. A. Wieting, of the International Committee; E. A. Lawrence, State Secretary of Maine; E. B. Dillingham, of Connecticut; George H. Shaw and A. C. Russell, of Massachusetts. The singing by G. C. Stebbins, of Brooklyn, was a marked feature of interest to all. Able men from our own state also participated in the proceedings.

Since the convention, E. A. Lawrence assisted in organizing the Portsmouth Association and raising the amount pledged, and has also secured funds to warrant placing a general secretary in Laconia.

We have now general secretaries in Concord, Keene, Nashua, Dover and Portsmouth. The smaller Associations are about as they were at last report, most of them doing good work in their line.

The International Committee has freely rendered all aid called for, especially making it practicable for Mr. Lawrence to give the valuable co-operation mentioned in this report.

Altogether, the prospect is bright for Association work in New Hampshire.

ALLEN FOLGER, Cor. Mem.

NEW JERSEY.

The work in this state for the year past has been marked for improvement in facilities and definiteness of aim rather than for numerical growth.

Four Associations have been organized and one has disbanded, making the total number at this time thirty-eight. The general membership has increased ten per cent., the active membership thirty per cent.

General secretaries have been located at two new points, and six assistants and gymnasium instructors have been added to the list of paid officers. Five reading rooms and six gymnasiums have been opened.

The Associations at Morristown, Summit and New Durham have taken possession of their new buildings.

Building funds have been pledged, amounting at Plainfield to $27,000, and at Trenton to $17,000.

The district work has been thoroughly organized, and conventions held in all but one of the districts. These were well attended and showed practical results.

The State Convention at Plainfield, the largest on record, was attended by 302 delegates representing all but four of the Associations.

The influence of the convention has been felt in the increase of young men's meetings and worker's training classes.

A State Association has been formed, and State Secretary, D. F. More, employed for the full year.

The amount raised for state work was $2,500.

The International Committee was represented at the State Convention, and has aided during the year in local conferences, and the securing of secretaries.

NEW YORK.

The twenty-third State Convention, at Watertown, February 21-24, closed another year of progress in Association work in this state. There were 457 delegates present at this gathering—a very large number, considering that the place of meeting was in the extreme northern end of the state. Over $8,500 was pledged for state work for the coming year. Altogether, it was one of the most successful and profitable conventions ever held.

During the past year, 16 new Associations have been added to the list, making a total now in the state of 143. Seventeen new secretarial points have been opened, and there are now 162 men giving their entire time to the work, as general secretaries, assistants, etc.

Buildings have been completed or begun during the year for the Associations at Harlem, Utica, Mount Vernon, East Buffalo, West Albany, New Durham, Cornell University and Hamilton College. Besides these, the New York Association has purchased a home for its Bowery Branch; the Rochester Association has secured a site for its proposed $125,000 building; Schenectady has paid off the long standing debt of $26,000 on its building; and several other Associations have started building funds.

The religious work has grown in power. Meetings for Bible study have increased nineteen; over 1,300 men have professed conversion in the various religious services, 460 of whom have united with the Church.

The railroad department shows an increase of two branches—at Binghamton and East Buffalo. Over $22,000 was contributed by the railroad companies of the state to the support of the work for the year, which has been one of advance.

In the college department progress has been made. The first general secretary in this department entered the work during the year, at Cornell University. The Hamilton and Cornell Associations are rejoicing in handsome buildings erected expressly for their work, the former the gift of H. B. Silliman, of Cohoes, the latter the gift of the late A. S. Barnes, of Brooklyn.

Work for boys is being prosecuted by fifty-eight Associations, six of which have salaried officers employed with special reference to this department.

The State Committee again maintained with success a branch at the State Military Camp at Peekskill. This effort has received the hearty indorsement of both the officers and members of the National Guard.

Nine district conventions have been held and attended by 543 delegates.

The State Committee has had the services of the State Secretary and two assistants, and much of the progress made is due to their faithful efforts.

The International Committee was represented at our State Convention and at some of our district conventions, and has aided our work in various other ways.

HENRY DALLEY, JR., Cor. Mem.

NORTH CAROLINA.

The work in this state has grown rapidly and healthfully during the past two years, after having suffered from lack of interest and organization. Twelve dollars were contributed during 1883-86 to the convention treasury; nearly one thousand during 1888-89. Twenty new Associations have sprung into useful activity since 1881. There are now forty-one Associations in all. The following have been organized during the last year: Kittrell's, Red Springs, Winston, Wake Forest College, Lumberton, Dunn, Shelby.

The chairman and the treasurer of the State Committee have visited a number of important points, and aided the State Secretary in developing the methods and the spirit of several Associations. The work was well begun by the efforts of Claus Olandt, Jr., who was spared from the German department of the International Committee for a brief season of work in our state.

At the State Convention last year it was resolved to unite with South Carolina in the support of a State Secretary who would divide his time equally between the two fields. L. A. Coulter of Memphis, Tenn., was called to that position, and began his labors last fall. He has rendered most effective service.

The Associations at Charlotte, Wilmington, Durham, Goldsboro, and Winston employ general secretaries. Charlotte has a beautiful and commodious building, costing nearly $30,000; Maxton has the nucleus for a building fund; and Wilmington has in good subscriptions nearly $14,000, with prospects of obtaining enough more to secure an attractive home. Several of the town Associations have good rooms, gymnasiums, social parlors, and seven or more have libraries.

The College Associations have been greatly revived. Especially has the missionary spirit risen to a high point in some of them, notably in the State University at Chapel Hill, where five young men have pledged themselves to the foreign field; forty-six students confessed Christ in meetings held by representative men amongst their fellows. The visits of S. M. Sayford and R. P. Wilder to this university were very beneficial to the students.

A very useful history of the Associations of North Carolina, prepared for the last convention by S. D. Weeks, late secretary of the State Committee, has been published.

THOS. HUME, Cor. Mem.

OHIO.

The twenty-second State Convention held at Toledo, February 14-17, 1889, was attended by the 841 delegates from 43 Associations. This was the largest ever held in the state. The International Committee was represented by its chairman and general secretary. Connecticut, New York, Pennsylvania,

ASSOCIATION BUILDING, RICHMOND, VA.,
CORNER OF SIXTH AND MAIN STREETS.—DEDICATED MAY 19, 1887.

Michigan, Indiana, Illinois and the Sandwich Islands were represented among the corresponding members. The treasurer's report showed every subscription made at the preceding convention paid in full, and $1,000 more. This was said to be without precedent. $3,700 was pledged for the new year's work and the committee authorized to secure $1,300 additional, and to engage two assistant secretaries.

At Canton, Cleveland and Cincinnati building funds have been secured which, with funds and negotiable real estate before acquired, amount to $388,000 available for new buildings. At Canton and Cleveland work is in progress on the new structures.

Special effort by the State Committee resulted in a very general observance of the week of prayer in November. Consecration meetings and special gospel meetings were held in nearly every Association. Everywhere Christian young men were greatly awakened and led to renewed consecration. The presentation of the international work resulted in larger collections than usual. Last year 14 Associations gave $286.61; this year, as far as heard from, 17 Associations have sent $386.81 to the International Committee.

A decided advance is noticeable in all lines of action. Through gymnasiums, educational and social agencies more young men than ever have been brought under the Christian influences of the Associations.

The number of Associations have increased during the year from 22 to 33; secretaries and other paid agents from 17 to 35; membership from 3,890 to 7,209; reading rooms from 14 to 28; young men's meetings from 12 to 29; gymnasiums from 4 to 15; and there has been a corresponding growth along other lines.

The reports for the past year show marked progress among the College Associations. The rare spiritual atmosphere to be found in many of these Associations: the attention to Bible study; the earnestness and tact with which personal work is done; and the delightful enthusiasm permeating all action here, indicate the rich blessing which is attending this department.

New organizations were completed at Lima, Zanesville, Sandusky, Findlay, Hamilton and Martin's Ferry. At these six points over 2,000 new men were enlisted as members and contributors; and $20,000 subscribed for current expenses, of which the young men gave $9,000.

H. P. LLOYD, Cor. Mem.

OREGON, WASHINGTON, AND BRITISH COLUMBIA.

There are in this field at present twenty-three Associations—fifteen general and eight college; nine general secretaries and three assistants are stationed at important points.

The fifth annual convention was held at Seattle, September 20-23, 1888. Ninety delegates from seventeen points were present. $1,840 was pledged for the support of a traveling secretary. Noel H. Jacks, of San Francisco, was called to that position and is doing excellent service. Remarkable growth in all lines of work was noticeable in the reports submitted to the convention. It was the largest and most helpful gathering that has been held. T. A. Harding represented the International Committee, and rendered valuable service in awakening interest among the Associations previous to the convention. C. S. Mason, State Secretary of California, represented that state.

The Association at Seattle owns a lot clear of indebtedness, valued at over $12,000, and has $1,500 pledged towards a building, with an active canvass being carried on. At Spokane Falls, the Association owns a fine lot, and is beginning a canvass for a building. The Association at Tacoma is looking for a site for a building. The Association at Vancouver occupies its own building, but already finds it inadequate for the growing needs of its work, and is seriously considering a new building project.

The Portland Association is rejoicing in freedom from its heavy indebtedness of nine years standing, pledges for the payment of which were received in an effort made in the spring of 1888, and the entire amount with recent accumulations finally removed by an effort of D. L. Moody while holding evangelistic services in Portland. E. C. Frost, the pioneer general secretary on the upper Coast, resigned his position as secretary of this Association last June, having held it for five years; C. W. Beers, of Santa Barbara, Cal., is his successor. The building project of this Association has not been abandoned, and in the near future will be revived.

The work in general is of the most encouraging nature, and it is confidently expected that the present year will be one of largely increased usefulness.

PENNSYLVANIA.

The annual State Convention was held at Allentown, October 11-14, 1888. Seventy-three Associations were represented by 282 delegates and 20 corresponding members. The International Committee was represented by its chairman, Cephas Brainerd.

Five district conventions have been held during the year.

The resignation of the State Secretary, to accept the editorship of "The Watchman," took effect January 1, 1889. Charles E. Hurlburt, assistant State Secretary of Kansas, has been chosen to fill the vacancy, and is expected to enter upon his work about May 1.

S. K. McKee, assistant State Secretary, resigned that position in October, 1888, to become general secretary at McKeesport, Pa.

The work in this state has suffered a loss in the death of W. R. Davenport, of Erie, who for years was a member of the State Committee.

Since the report of a year ago, the Associations at Chester, Williamsport, Danville and West Philadelphia have entered new buildings. The building at Danville, costing over $40,000, was the gift of Thomas Beaver, who conveyed the same in the form of a lease for nine hundred and ninety-nine years.

The Association at Wilkes Barre intends building this summer, the building, with lot, to cost about $95,000. The Allentown building fund started at the State Convention, now amounts to about $7,000. The fund at Reading is about $30,000.

There are now 110 Associations in the state; eighty general secretaries and other agents are employed.

A state camp for young men was maintained last summer, and there were also several local camps in different parts of the state.

The International Committee has rendered efficient aid to the work in this state, particularly in the railroad and college departments.

SOUTH CAROLINA.

Through the efforts of H. O. Williams, who labored as our temporary State Secretary during February and March, 1888, two new points were opened for general secretaries, Greenville and Newberry, and efficient men are now in charge of the work in these places. South Carolina has at present four secretarial points.

In my last report I mentioned the probability of North and South Carolina uniting their financial strength for the purpose of employing between them a State Secretary. This scheme has been happily consummated, and Lee A. Coulter, of Memphis, Tenn., has assumed the secretaryship of the two states.

Upon adjournment of the southern secretaries conference at Columbia last December, the interest in a building movement in that city seemed to be so great that the managers thought it expedient to begin a canvass for a building fund. E. W. Watkins of the International Committee assisted for several days in this work. Up to the present time $7,000 have been secured toward the desired amount of $20,000. In Charleston ground is just being broken for a building to cost $30,000.

Nearly all the Associations in the state are adhering to definite work for young men, and especial mention should be made of the valuable influence the College Associations are exerting on the lives of our students.

The State Convention will be held in Greenville, April 11-14 next.

ATHA T. JAMISON, Cor. Mem.

TENNESSEE.

There has been marked progress all along the line in this state during the past year. Associations have been organized at Covington, Greenfield, Gleason, and Lenoirs. Two new secretarial points have been opened and men employed, viz. : Clarksville and Shelbyville. Bristol, which employed a secretary for part of his time last year, is now supporting one his entire time. Six general secretaries have been furnished other states from Tennessee workers during the year, in addition to the State Secretary of the Carolinas. Three have also entered the work in this state.

The State Convention at Clarksville was attended by ninety-two delegates, representing twenty-seven Associations. A state constitution was adopted, and the state divided into ten districts. The International Committee was represented by H. E. Brown, whose presence added much to the interest of the convention.

Two college conferences have recently been held ; one at Cumberland University, Lebanon, and the other at the State University, Knoxville. Fourteen colleges were represented at these conferences by nearly one hundred delegates. Both meetings were attended by Messrs. J. R. Mott, Secretary of the International Committee, and R. P. Wilder, of the Union Theological Seminary, who rendered excellent service. Deep spiritual power marked the session of each conference.

Two interesting district conventions have already been held and others are now being arranged for.

The Nashville Association is now occupying rooms in its new building, and the Bristol building will soon be ready for occupancy.

JAMES H. COWAN, Cor. Mem.

TEXAS.

The work in this state has made progress during the past year notwithstanding that several of the smaller Associations have died. The work in the leading cities is in better condition than it was a year ago, and the number of general secretaries has been doubled, making eight such officers now employed.

The State Convention at Houston, May 24-27, was attended by 49 delegates from 10 Associations. It was a profitable meeting. The International Committee was represented by E. W. Watkins and S. P. Spencer.

In response to a request from our State Committee, the International Committee sent Henry E. Brown and J. V. Read to our help. They spent several weeks in the state, and aided the work very materially at a number of important centres.

W. J. B. PATTERSON, Cor. Mem.

VERMONT.

The work of the Young Men's Christian Associations of Vermont for the past year has been, on the whole, encouraging. While some of the smaller Associations have practically ceased to exist, several of the larger ones have enlarged and extended their work. The Association at Barre has engaged a general secretary in the person of T. C. Schutt, from the School for Christian Workers at Springfield, and a new impulse is given to the work of that thriving Association.

A Railroad Association is being organized at Bellows Falls, which promises a good work, and the same result is likely soon to be effected at St. Albans, where an Association is very much needed.

Encouraging reports come from all the larger Associations; good work is being done, and several conversions are reported.

The Burlington Association is looking forward anxiously for the time when it will dedicate and occupy its beautiful new building now nearing completion.

E. A. Lawrence, under the auspices of the State Committee, spent two or three months in effective work among the Associations of this state last year, and is engaged for a similar service this year. F. W. SMITH, Cor. Mem.

VIRGINIA.

During the past year our work in Virginia has developed and strengthened. Fifteen Associations have been organized, making a total number of 55 now enrolled. Two Colored Associations have been organized in the state by the International Committee. Two additional general secretaries have entered our field this year. Twenty-three men are now employed in the work as general or assistant secretaries, gymnasium superintendents and librarians.

One college, one secretaries', and three district conferences have been held.

The new building at Norfolk, costing $36,000, was completed and occupied during the year. The building at Staunton is nearing completion, and when finished will, together with the lot, have cost $84,000. Four Associations have purchased lots, now valued at $34,000, and are preparing to erect buildings. A number of Associations have fitted up new rooms, all neat and attractive.

The membership of the Associations shows a good, healthy increase for the year; and through the influence of our work over 800 young men have been led to Christ.

We were exceedingly fortunate in having the services of H. O. Williams as State Secretary. We rejoice that the work will again be in his hands this year.

We have received valuable assistance from the International Committee at our college conference, State Convention, and in reorganizing the railroad work at Richmond.

WISCONSIN.

The number of Associations in this state has increased four during the year, thirty-eight being the number now enrolled. Eight of these are in colleges and schools. Of the thirty-two men now devoting all their time to the work one is State Secretary, five are assistant State Secretaries, seventeen are general secretaries, three are assistants, four are gymnasium instructors, one is a German-speaking, and one a railroad secretary.

At seven different points work for boys is reported, but in some cases it is very feeble. The value of buildings and building funds is $172,126—all a gain in six years. The annual current expenses of all the Associations in the state aggregated $46,556.

The Milwaukee Association, with its building free of debt, has found it easier to raise money for its current expenses than at any previous time in its history. The Ashland Association is the possessor of a fine lot, 50 x 140 feet, for its proposed building. The erection of the Association building at Baraboo has been begun.

During the year a College Secretary was placed in the field as assistant State Secretary. His work has been largely that of preparing the way for a building at the State University.

For the year ending October 1, 1888, $6,147 was expended for state work. $10,000 was asked for the current year, and $6,200 of this amount was pledged at the State Convention.

Sixteen district conferences have been held—a greater number than ever before, and with much greater results. At the last meeting of each conference, a brief presentation of the state work was made, followed by a collection in its behalf.

The State Convention was held at Eau Claire, November 15-18, a month later than usual. Though the place of meeting was so far from the centre of the state as to prevent a very large attendance of delegates, still the convention was one of unusual value, and more than twice as much as ever before was pledged for state work. The International Committee was represented by Secretaries Weidensall and Mott.

The work among the woodsmen has been growing steadily in favor and in power. The gospel tent in summer admirably supplements the work in the woods in winter. The "miners' work," with headquarters at Hurley, is a difficult problem. Work has been steadily maintained by Secretary John Graham and his wife, all along the range, and we hope brighter days are near at hand.

The Western Secretarial Institute (located on Lake Geneva, in this state) is now an established fact, having property of its own, and with each season doing a more valuable work.

The State Committee has done faithful and efficient service. A plan has been adopted whereby each of its quarterly meetings will hereafter be held in a different section of the state, and a public meeting held in the evening for the benefit of the local Association.

On the whole, the work has grown in the right direction, and we feel like "thanking God and taking courage."

YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATIONS

OF THE

United States and Dominion of Canada,

EXCEPT THE RAILROAD, GERMAN, COLLEGE, COLORED AND INDIAN ASSOCIATIONS OR BRANCHES, WHICH ARE GIVEN IN TABLES V, VI, VII, VIII AND IX.

BETWEEN JANUARY 15 AND MARCH 15, 1889.

The names of officers are the most recent that have come to the knowledge of the Committee, as far as convenience of printing permits their insertion. Some later changes among the paid officers of the Associations may be found in the List of General Secretaries, etc. The Secretaries' names in SMALL CAPITALS denote General Secretaries.

As many Associations prefer to report for their official years, closing at various dates, it is impossible to secure reports to any one date. But the reports are, for the most part, for the calendar year, 1888.

Further reports from many of these Associations appear in Tables II, III, IV and X.

Reports received after March 15 are printed in a supplementary table.

A few reports, from Associations recently organized, cover a period less than a year.

756 Associations report a Total Membership of 159,319.

727 Associations report an Active Membership of 76,546.

641 Associations report Working Committees with a Membership of 27,809.

648 Associations report $1,813,540 paid out last year for Current Expenses.

YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATIONS

OF THE

United States and Dominion of Canada,

EXCEPT THE RAILROAD, GERMAN, COLLEGE, COLORED AND INDIAN
ASSOCIATIONS OR BRANCHES, WHICH ARE GIVEN
IN TABLES, V, VI, VII, VIII AND IX.

BETWEEN JANUARY 15 AND MARCH 15, 1889.

As many Associations prefer to report for their official years, closing at various dates, it is impossible to secure reports to any one date. But the reports are, for the most part, for the calendar year 1888.

Further reports from many of these Associations appear in Tables I, III, IV and X.

Reports of Associations received after March 15 are printed in a supplementary table.

A few Reports from Associations recently organized, cover a period of less than a year.

YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATIONS

OF THE

United States and Dominion of Canada,

EXCEPT THE RAILROAD, GERMAN, COLLEGE, COLORED AND INDIAN ASSOCIATIONS AND BRANCHES, WHICH ARE GIVEN IN TABLES V, VI, VII, VIII, AND IX.

COMPILED FROM OFFICIAL REPORTS RECEIVED BY THE INTERNATIONAL COMMITTEE BETWEEN JANUARY 15 AND MARCH 15, 1889.

As many Associations prefer to report for their official years, closing at various dates, it is impossible to secure reports to any one date. But the reports are, for the most part, for the calendar year 1888.

Further reports from many of these Associations appear in tables I, II, IV and X.

A few reports, from Associations recently organized, cover a period of less than a year.

TOTAL ABSTAINERS SHOULD INSURE WITH OUR TOTAL ABSTINENCE ASSOCIATION.

BECAUSE You will have no Losses to pay from the drinking habits of Members.

BECAUSE It gives you a Reliable Insurance one-third cheaper than other assessment associations, and pays losses promptly and in full.

BECAUSE It has a better business plan than any other association. The safeguards for the mortuary and guarantee funds are perfect.

BECAUSE It has an adequate guarantee fund.

BECAUSE Its many advantages give assurance of permanency which no other association can offer.

BECAUSE It gives safe and permanent insurance at less than one-half the charge of the Level Premium Companies.

IMPROVED SEATING FOR HALLS, CHAPELS, SUNDAY SCHOOLS, CHURCHES, &c. OUR ASSEMBLY FOLDING CHAIRS

With Tilting Backs, noiseless Folding Seats, Foot Rests, Hat, Coat, Case and Umbrella Rack, have been adopted in hundreds of the best buildings in the country.

The handsome Y. M. C. A. Buildings of Brooklyn, Harlem, Utica and Ithaca, N. Y., are seated with them.

We have also furnished the Y. M. C. A. Halls of New Haven, Buffalo, Syracuse, Albany, Newburgh, N. Y., Baltimore, Md., Richmond and Norfolk, Va., and many other places with similar chairs.

For Churches, this style of seating is now becoming very popular in replacing Pews.

Annual Reports of the Agents of the International Committee, to March 1, 1890.

THE HISTORICAL LIBRARY OF THE YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATIONS.

REPORT OF J. T. BOWNE, Custodian.

This Library, which has been the property of the International Committee since 1885, is made up entirely of publications for young men, with the exception of the transactions and periodicals of a few organizations kindred to the Young Men's Christian Association. It has been thoroughly classified during the year, in harmony with Dewey's Decimal System, and is now being catalogued. It contained January 1, 1890, 1247 volumes; divided for convenience in reporting as follows :

I.—Young Men's Christian Associations.

4.—Young Women's Christian Associations.

Periodicals..... 52
 Reports, etc., 152 pamphlets..... 11—63

5.—Kindred Societies—religious, including The Evangelical Alliance of U.S.,

 The U. S. Christian Commission, Young People's Societies, etc..... 17

Total..... 1,247

6.—Framed Photographs and Engravings, including pictures of prominent Association workers,

 American and foreign conference groups, buildings, etc., in all 181.

Few persons in glancing over this brief statement can form any just conception of the value of this unique collection, covering, as it does, efforts for the welfare of young men for nearly three centuries; and including publications in thirteen languages.

Section 1, b contains many rare sets of periodicals, the earliest being "The Companion" of the New Orleans Association, issued in 1854-55. There are also complete sets of "The Quarterly Reporter" and "The Young Men's Christian Journal," published by the Central Committee of the Confederated Associations, 1856-60; "The Young Men's Magazine," edited by Mr. Richard C. McCormick, 1857-59; "The Y. M. C. A. Quarterly," 1866-69, and "The Association Monthly," 1870-73, both published by the International Committee. "The Illustrated Christian Weekly," 1873-76, into which "The Association Monthly" was merged in 1873; the "New York Weekly Mail," 1874-76, containing numerous Association items; and the only complete set in existence of "The Watchman" (now "Young Men's Era"), 1874 to date.

There are many files of local papers extending over periods of from twelve to fifteen years. The European Association papers have generally been longer lived than the American; in a few instances French, German, and Swiss papers have existed for upwards of thirty years. To this section there were added last year, besides 212 American papers, 37 files of foreign Association journals, as follows: England 18, Ireland 1, Scotland 1, Denmark 1, France 1, Germany 2, Holland 1, Italy 1, Switzerland 3, Spain 1, Sweden 1, Australia 3, Hawaii 1, India 1, Ceylon 1.

Two valuable indexes were also completed: one covering all references to local Associations which appeared in the periodicals of a general character, from 1852 to 1877; and a classified index to all articles having a reference value in the fifteen volumes of "The Watchman." To the latter will soon be added an index to all papers, resolutions, etc., in the International and State reports.

Section 1, c contains complete sets of the reports of the American International Conventions and the Year Books of the International Committee from 1854; and, with few exceptions, the reports of the Provincial and State Conventions from 1867, and the International Secretaries' Conferences from 1871. The reports of American local work begin with 1852, the Boston and New York Associations having published annually since then. There are included also a variety of other local pamphlets of value. The foreign files contain proceedings of the World's Conferences from 1855, and British and other National Conferences from 1859. The foreign locals begin with those of London, in 1844, and contain some rare documents, among them the five "Occasional Papers" of the London Association, published between 1853 and 1862. The sets of reports of the Australasian Associations are, many of them, complete.

Section 1, d contains "The Exeter Hall Lectures" from 1845 to 1864, and various other similar collections.

Section 2, a contains some of the rarest books and manuscripts in the library. They furnish quite full information concerning the Church of England Young Men's Societies, which had their origin in London about 1678; "The Godly Club" at Oxford in 1729, and "Young Men Associated" in New England from 1710 to 1737. There are extracts from sermons and other information concerning the last named societies, in Boston, Newtown, Cambridge, Ipswich, Rumney Marsh, Sudbury and Marblehead, Mass., and in New London, Conn. Some of the sermons by Dr. Cotton Mather and other eminent ministers were given before private meetings of young men and indicate earnest effort in the direction of personal and social purity more than 150 years ago. The collection of books and papers regarding the "Young Men's Societies," originated by David Nasmith in Scotland in 1824 and in America in 1830-31, is probably the largest in existence, containing, besides the publications of several societies, many original minutes, letters and other manuscripts, which fully illustrate their work.

There are also full files of the "St. Andrew's Cross" and other organs of recent denominational societies of young men.

Section 2, b has very full files of the annual reports of young men's mutual improvement, mechanics', apprentices, and other library societies, several of which have of late years developed into widely known public library corporations. Prominent among these publications may be mentioned those of the "Detroit Young Men's Society," 1832-71 (now the Detroit Public Library), "Young Men's Association of Buffalo (now the Buffalo Library), 1841-52; "Young Men's Association" of Albany, 1834-78; "Young Men's Institute" of Hartford (now the Hartford Library Association), 1840-88; the Mercantile Library of New York City, 1821-88, and the Mercantile Library of Boston, 1838-54.

Section 3 contains books and pamphlets of all kinds not included in the foregoing lists. It begins with Sir Christopher Wandesford's "Book of Instructions to His Son and Heir in Order to the Regulating the Conduct of His Whole Life," written in Ireland in 1636. Five hundred and sixty-four pamphlets bearing upon the higher education of young men in American colleges were added during the past year, among them the publications of a number of the religious societies which preceded the College Young Men's Christian Associations; also 22 volumes on personal and social purity. Among the latter are the transactions of a number of "Moral Societies" in New England and in New York State, 1810-1815, and the publications of the more recent "Societies for the Suppression of Vice."

Section 4 includes a set of reports of the International Conferences of "Women's Christian Associations," 1871 to date, and a variety of local reports; also sets of the International and State reports of the more recently organized "Young Women's Christian Associations."

Section 5 contains six volumes of papers illustrating fully the work of the U. S. Christian Commission during the war of 1861-65, and the reports and other publications of the Evangelical Alliance of the U. S., from 1867 to date.

In Section 6 are 89 photographs of the exterior and interior of leading Association buildings in all lands, beginning with that erected in Chicago in 1867. Also 10 World's, 13 British, and 13 American Conference groups, and pictures of many prominent Association workers during the last forty years. Mr. R. R. McBurney has placed us under special obligations for a copy of his very rare photograph of 1855, showing a small group of the delegates to the Paris Conference that year.

A small collection of Association badges, medals, and seals, has also been made.

There were received during 1889 by gift, exchange, and purchase, 238 books, upward of 1,700 pamphlets, and 268 files of periodicals, besides a large number of duplicates, which were turned to good account on the exchange list.

Two special donations were made during the year for the purchase of books: the first from Mr. H. B. Chamberlin, of Denver, of $500; and the second from Mr. Wm. E. Dodge, of New York City, of $100.

There is no evidence that the original records of the Central Committee of the American Associations from 1854 to 1860 were ever removed from Richmond to Philadelphia, and it is not improbable that they were lost during the war. Many valuable manuscripts were destroyed by the fire in the Smithsonian Institution in 1865, so that originals of the ante-war period are becoming scarce. After the Rev. Wm. Chauncy Langdon, D. D. had finished his interesting "Early Story of the Confederation of the Young Men's Christian Associations," which was published in the Year Book for 1888, he very generously gave to the Library, after carefully arranging them in scrap books, all the original letters and manuscripts remaining in his hands. They cover his connection with the work of the Central Committee from 1854 to 1859, and are probably the most valuable collection of original Association papers now in existence, throwing much light upon the struggles of Dr. Langdon and his associates to unite the American Associations. He also presented his bound copies of the International Convention Reports, and the reports of the Washington Association from 1854 to 1859, some of the latter being original manuscripts.

Several good exchanges were made with other libraries during the year, the most important being one with the Boston Association by which were received 7 bound volumes containing 136 home and foreign Association reports, all prior to 1863. This made it possible to complete several sets of local reports as well as to fill a large number of gaps.

The increasing demand from college and public libraries for the International and State Year Books leads me to urge all State Committees and the Associations in the larger cities to send their annual reports regularly to the leading libraries of the States, as well as to carry over a few—say fifty—copies each year to meet future demand. Had attention been given to this in other years, much that is now irrecoverably lost would have been preserved.

In a few instances Associations have failed to place the Library upon their mailing lists, and it has been a great disappointment, in response to applications for recently issued publications, to receive only: "Sorry we cannot, as our stock is entirely exhausted." Such breaks greatly lessen the value of our files for historical reference.

We have been glad to receive several times during the year packages of duplicates, all of which have been classified so as to be readily accessible. This stock now numbers upwards of 5,000 reports and 60,000 bulletins, any of which we are ready to exchange. At the request of Mr. William J. Rhees, of the Smithsonian Institution, we have made liberal grants towards the collection now in the Library of Congress, Washington, and we are now assisting several of the State Committees in making up reference libraries. Considerable additions have also been made to the collection in the library of the American Antiquarian Society, Worcester, Mass.

It is always a satisfaction to put valuable books and papers where they will be fully appreciated and turned to the best account, and the attention of pioneers in Association work, or the families of such, who may have Association books, pamphlets, manuscripts or pictures which they are willing to dispose of, is called to the importance of sending them to an international depository like this Library. Information as to the whereabouts of such papers will always be gratefully received.

The large number of secretaries and other Association workers and students that have used the Library during the year shows that it is appreciated.

Several State Secretaries have made up tables of conventions and historical sketches, finding much valuable material not elsewhere accessible. One paid us a visit shortly after his appointment to his first field in State work and went carefully over the reports of the State Committee for twenty-two years, and was thus enabled to enter upon his duties with a fund of information that has since been invaluable.

Two secretaries now in the Orient secured much information concerning fields that were entirely new to them by visiting the Library; one of them being so fortunate as to find a file of Association papers extending over thirteen years from the place to which he had been appointed. The secretary of an Association in one of the leading cities of Europe recently came seeking information concerning its early work which he could not find at home, and found not only what he sought but much more that was of value to him.

Several years since, the records of a Pennsylvania Association were destroyed by fire; recently, when about to dedicate their new building, they obtained from us the materials for an historical sketch covering a period of fourteen years.

When information is sought by any who cannot personally examine for themselves, we shall be glad to direct a search and, if desired, to have copies made.

We shall be glad to have the Library placed upon the mailing list of every society of young men publishing a periodical and to receive back volumes and numbers whenever possible; also at least five copies of all reports issued. Address communications and parcels to "The Historical Library of Young Men's Christian Associations, Springfield, Mass."

ANNUAL REPORT OF RICHARD C. MORSE,
General Secretary.

During the past year

1. The General Secretary has attended all the regular monthly meetings of the Committee and its sub-committees, as well as the meetings of such special committees as have, from time to time, been appointed, and has conducted much of the correspondence connected with these meetings and with the administration of the Committee's work.

2. The annual dinner meeting of the Committee and its secretaries was held in New York, November 21, all the secretaries, and a large number of the friends of the work, being present. By invitation of the Brooklyn Association, a similar gathering was held at the Hamilton Club house in that city, December 17.

3. Conference with the Chairman and sub-committees, and with the various secretaries of the Committee, concerning the work and visitation of these secretaries, has involved much previous correspondence, and the results reached by the Committee have been duly communicated to the secretaries and to other gentlemen who have co-operated in the work. Provision has also been made for the representation of the Committee at each of the thirty-four State Conventions held during the year ending March 1, 1890. (A list of these conventions is given in another place in this pamphlet).

4. In addition to the regular force of the Committee's secretaries, it has been necessary, in order to accomplish the work of the year, to seek the help of experienced Association friends; and the following gentlemen have acted efficiently as the Committee's special agents in various fields:

F. K. SANDERS, besides editing The Intercollegian, (changed during the year from a bi-monthly to a monthly), has co-operated in the college work, particularly in New England, in various other ways. He also represented the Committee at the Maine and New Hampshire State Conventions, and rendered aid in the New England College Conference, and in the local work in New Haven.

E. L. LOUDON has again rendered very efficient service in the commercial traveler department of our work. In connection with his regular business trips he has visited a large number of Associations along his routes, and advised with their secretaries and commercial travelers' committees; he also conferred with several State Secretaries; and at a number of State Conventions and Secretaries' Conferences presented this department of the work. He represented the Committee also at the annual convention of commercial travelers of New York, held in Syracuse, in January.

T. A. HARDING represented the Committee at the convention of the Maritime Provinces, at Moncton, N. B., in August, and aided the Association in that city in its building project.

WILLIAM M. GRIFFITH spent two weeks in January in the Maritime Provinces helping the Moncton Association in its building canvass, and the Provincial Committee in securing the funds necessary for the employment of a Traveling Secretary. In both of these cases his efforts proved very satisfactory, a Provincial Secretary having been secured already, as a result of his work. He also rendered service to the local work at St. John and Amherst.

GEORGE A. HALL represented the Committee at the South Carolina, Georgia and Alabama Conventions, and visited several Associations in those States.

F. W. PICKARD was employed for several weeks in January and February in aiding building canvasses at Savannah, Ga., and Columbia, S. C. At the latter point his efforts, in connection with those of State Secretary Coulter, resulted in securing the balance needed to insure the success of the building project.

E. H. FOOT, while spending a vacation in Texas, visited and conferred with several important Associations, without expense to the Committee.

W. A. HUNTON spent February, under direction of the Committee, in work among colored young men. He was present at the first conference of the Colored College Associations of Nashville, and afterwards visited the Associations in leading colored schools in Mississippi, Louisiana, Alabama and Georgia.

H. E. RHODES, and A. N. WYLIE, for some weeks co-operated in the railroad department—the former at several points in Illinois and Massachusetts, and the latter in his present field (Scranton, Pa.) before he became secretary at that point.

L. A. HORLACHER spent the month of June at the Committee's expense, in assisting in the organization of the German Department in Chicago.

The Committee assisted in negotiating for C. G. Baldwin's going, though not at all under its direction or control, to the Pacific Coast to aid building enterprises, and defrayed the expense of his journey to Los Angeles.

5. Many hours each week, as in previous years, have been devoted by the Chairman to careful consideration of all the more important correspondence and work already referred to—the most important part of the correspondence being undertaken by him, in addition to personal conference with the General Secretary, and with the other secretaries, as they have come from time to time to the city. The General Secretary has had similar conference with the chairmen and members of the various sub-committees.

6. The usual call for the day and week of prayer for young men in November was widely issued, and accompanied by correspondence that promoted a very general observance of that season by the Associations. As a result, the religious work of the Associations received a decided impulse. Encouraging reports concerning the work were received from a very large number of Associations. In response to the recommendation of the Philadelphia Convention, 522 Associations took up collections in aid of the international work.

7. The calamities which overtook the Associations at Johnstown, Seattle, and Spokane Falls elicited hearty sympathy from the Associations throughout the country. In response to appeals sent out by the Committee, $2,634.09 was received and transmitted to Johnstown, $123.77 to Seattle, and $144.96 to Spokane Falls. Still larger sums came to each of these points directly from the Associations, or through the State Committees.

8. Correspondence with the friends contributing to the support of the work entrusted to the Committee has been maintained and extended during the year, and resulted in enabling the Committee to close the fiscal year, December 31, 1889, free of debt.

9. In connection with the departure, last October, of David McConaughy, Jr., to act as secretary of the Committee, for India, and the return of J. Trumbull Swift to Japan, as the Committee's secretary for that country, correspondence has been undertaken with friends and Associations sustaining the work on the foreign field.

Mr. Swift was not able, before he returned, to complete the fund of $60,000 needed for the Association buildings in Tokyo—one for the city Association and the other for the Association in the Imperial University. Of the $12,000 still needed, friends at the Illinois Convention pledged $5,000; the Nebraska and Minnesota State Committees became responsible each for $500; the Maryland and Virginia Conventions each for $100; friends at the Ohio Convention for $1,100; and at the New York Convention for over $2,000; and the balance was provided for from other sources.

10. Correspondence has been maintained with J. B. Reynolds during his visitation of the universities of Great Britain and the continent of Europe, which has been continued during the entire year. This visitation, undertaken entirely without expense to the Committee, and not under its supervision, has extended beyond the universities of Great Britain, to Upsala, Copenhagen, Berlin, Prague, Bonn, Leyden, Amsterdam and Paris. In the city last named Mr. Reynolds spent some weeks. At all the points visited information concerning the work of the college department of the American Associations was most gladly received and appreciated. It is expected that Mr. Reynolds will continue another year in this work on the continent of Europe.

11. To only a few of the many calls upon the General Secretary for personal visitation has it been possible to respond favorably. He planned a canvass which enabled the Mt. Vernon, N. Y., Association to complete and enter its building; attended the summer school for college students at Northfield; spent several days with the committee on framing the topics for young men's meetings for 1890; and attended the International Convention at Philadelphia, the International Conference of General Secretaries at Orange, N.J., and the State Conventions of Kansas, Nebraska, New York, New Jersey and Vermont; and a few anniversaries and other meetings of local Associations.

In response to the invitation of the Lincoln (Neb.) Association, he laid the corner stone of its new Association building, October 28th, 1889. He has also continued his service upon the graduate committee of the Yale University Association; and has aided the School for Christian Workers on its board of trustees; and co-operated with the National Council of Great Britain as its corresponding member for America; and with the International Central Committee as its American honorary secretary.

ANNUAL REPORT OF ERSKINE UHL, Office Secretary.

1. The growth of the Associations steadily increases the work which must be done in the Committee's office. Curtis M. Thorpe continues the excellent work which he has done for six years in the supervision of office details. John Glover renders valuable aid in general office work and in the secretarial correspondence. W. H. Schofield is bookkeeper. Since the last report Clarence H. Lee has been added to the office force, and is occupied with correspondence relating to the college department. Clerical help is also constantly required.

2. The secretarial work has been prosecuted along the lines fully described in former Year Books. The following figures cover this branch of the work of all the International Secretaries, so far as reported to the office. Most of the cases involved correspondence directly from the office, and often much consultation among International and State Secretaries.

On April 1, 1889, 8 names stood on our register as candidates for the secretaryship. 46 were added to this number during the year, making 54. Of this number 44 found places in the work—8 through their own efforts or those of State Committees, and 41 through the suggestion of the Committee. 10 were dropped after a more thorough investigation.

At the office personal intercourse or correspondence, sometimes very extended, was held during the year with 130 others who did not seem qualified to undertake the work. The visiting secretaries of the Committee frequently confer on the same subject with young men who do not come into any communication with the office.

On April 1, 1889, 18 vacancies were recorded in our office as needing our help; 57 applications have been added to these, making 75 altogether, for State Secretaries and their assistants, for general secretaries and their assistants, and for physical directors. Of the 75 vacancies, we assisted in filling 41; 21 were filled through the action of others; 1 was postponed; and 12 now stand on our books. Among the 41 vacancies which we helped to fill 4 were in general work.

Of the vacancies just mentioned, 1 was in New England; 15 in New York, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania; 11 in States west of these, and 14 at the South.

ASSOCIATION BUILDING, DETROIT, MICH.,
CORNER GRISWOLD STREET AND GRAND RIVER AVENUE.

DEDICATED NOVEMBER 6, 1887.

Dimensions, 90x90 feet. Cost, $114,000. Population in 1887, 200,000.

In addition to the vacancies already referred to, advice has been sought from the secretaries of the Committee regarding at least double the number mentioned above, but not so definitely as to warrant their entrance upon our register. And, of course, a very much larger amount of secretarial work in the aggregate is done by the State Committees and their secretaries, independently of the International Committee, than is done by representatives of the International Committee.

In 1885, 273 Associations and branches employed secretaries; now 619 do so. The details of this progress in the different divisions of the continent are shown in a table at the close of the list of general secretaries.

8. My duties, as in former years, have included—in addition to much of the secretarial work—general oversight of the office, a varied correspondence, the reception of numerous visitors, considerable attention to Association buildings (including visits to five to study their arrangement, and the making of detailed suggestions regarding the plans of nine proposed buildings), and preparation of matter for publication. Much time was devoted to editing the second volume of the "Hand Book," in co-operation with H. S. Ninde and J. T. Bowne. I attended the International Secretaries' Conference and Convention.

ANNUAL REPORT OF ROBERT WEIDENSALL,

Secretary.

The condition of my health prevented me from performing active work for the Committee much of the year, but I have traveled 17,003 miles in 16 States and 4 Territories including the District of Columbia. I visited thirty-five towns and cities, called upon twenty-six Associations, and rendered assistance to ten of them personally and to many more by correspondence.

I attended the International Convention and the International Conference of General Secretaries, also two meetings of the directors of the Western Secretarial Institute. I made a number of Association addresses, among which was one at the dedication of the new Association building at Santa Cruz, California, and another in South Philadelphia, to help prepare the way to establish a branch Association there.

At the urgent request of parties connected with the Association county work in Pawnee county, Nebraska, I visited Pawnee City with Mr. Nash, State Secretary; met part of the Committee and the County Secretary, D. W. Montgomery, and was pleased with what I saw. Although the county is small and this attempt the first one, the experiment is satisfactory. It has already demonstrated to all that have given it sufficient attention that the county work can not only be maintained, but that the county secretaryship will be a most important factor in Association work.

I have met with the boards of directors of the Omaha and Lincoln, Neb., Associations, and have rendered special help to the Philadelphia and Washington, D. C., Associations.

One feature of the year's work that gives me much pleasure is my share in arranging for C. G. Baldwin's going to Southern California to enter the service of the Associations there in connection with their building enterprises. His efforts have proved very successful.

I also conducted considerable correspondence.

I thank God for the many good things I have received at his hands during the past year, for the work he has enabled me to do, and for the outlook so bright before me for further service along the lines of our Association work.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THOMAS K. CREE,
Secretary.

At the opening of the last year I spent two weeks in the New York office arranging for an exhibit of pictures of American Association buildings at the Paris Exposition. As a result some forty pictures, many of them large, and some of them very finely executed, were exhibited. They gave a good idea of the work done in an Association building, and attracted much attention. A large amount of space was given to the exhibit in the American department, but not enough to receive all the pictures, and a number of them were placed in the exhibit of the Central International Committee, in the French department. A gold medal was awarded for the American exhibit, and also one for the exhibit in the French department, the award being based not only upon the display of pictures, but upon the excellency of the work they represented.

In the middle of March I made a trip to the South, visiting Nashville, Chattanooga, Atlanta, Augusta, Rome, Macon, Thomasville, Albany, Charleston and Columbia. At a number of these points I gave stereopticon exhibitions of Association buildings. I also conferred with the local boards of directors, and the Tennessee and Georgia State Committees. In April I attended the Georgia Convention at Savannah, where some $2,000 was subscribed to carry on an active State work. At Charleston a new and well arranged building was in progress of erection, and has since been completed. The Charleston Association was organized, money was secured for a secretary, and for some years careful oversight was given to the work, by agents of the International Committee. After the earthquake the money to carry the work for a year was secured through the same Committee, and thus the work was perpetuated.

At Greenville I attended the South Carolina Convention, where money to continue a very good State work was secured. At Huntsville I attended the Alabama Convention. Over a thousand dollars was raised for State work, and during a large part of the year a State Secretary has been, and is now, in the field. En route to New York I visited Knoxville, Tenn., and Chambersburg, Pa., and conferred with the local boards of directors.

I attended the Secretaries' Conference at Orange, and the International Convention at Philadelphia; visited Frederick, Md., and Mount Vernon, N. Y., in the interest of the local work; spent some three weeks in Hamilton, Ont., where enough funds were secured to complete the new and handsome building free of debt; and was at the Northfield summer school.

The last of June I sailed for Paris and was abroad three months. During this time I retained only a nominal connection with the Committee, and was not in its employ. While abroad the work of the Paris Association was put in good shape. This Association is doing an admirable work in very good and centrally located rooms. $100,000 is pledged for a building, $70,000 of the amount being given by American friends. I attended the French National Convention, visited Lyons and arranged for a secretary that should give eight months of the year to the local work at Lyons and four months to the national work in France, two thousand francs being given by American friends for this work. At St. Fortunat a nice little building has been erected for the Association, and with the the help of American friends I hope to clear it of debt. Marseilles is now asking for a secretary.

After my return from abroad I visited Rochester and Chicago en route to Kansas City, where I spent some two weeks. The result of this visit was to arrange for the visit of Mr. Hague, and initiate plans for the placing of the finances of the Association in good shape. Returning to New York I gave several weeks to office work in connection with the finances and other interest of the Committee; and continued my efforts in behalf of the Kansas City Association, by correspondence, and replacing the loan upon its building at a lower rate of interest.

Having devoted much time in past years to Association work in the South, I am glad to report the work in that section as being in very good condition. There are now State Committees in every Southern State except Louisiana and Florida. There are State Secretaries in Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Kentucky, Tennessee and Arkansas. Eighty-six secretaries and assistants are employed at fifty-eight points, making, with State Secretaries, ninety-five men employed in the Southern States, exclusive of Delaware, Maryland, West Virginia and Missouri. There are good buildings at Richmond, Norfolk, Staunton, Lynchburg, Charlotte, Charleston, Atlanta, Decatur, Selma, Marion, Louisville, and Nashville, and funds for buildings at Petersburg, Knoxville, the University of Virginia, the University of Tennessee, Columbia and other points.

STATEMENT OF L. D. WISHARD,

Secretary.

During the year I have continued my tour as a secretary of the Central International Committee, retaining only a nominal connection with the American Committee. I remained in Japan until the first of October, when I sailed for Ceylon, arriving in Colombo the middle of November. I spent six weeks in that island, and reached India the last day of December, where I expect to remain until the middle of March, and then return to China for a five or six months tour. Full reports of my work appear in The Intercollegian and the Young Men's Era, also in pamphlets and circulars that I am sending out as widely as possible, thus hoping to keep the American Associations acquainted with the opening work in Asia.

ANNUAL REPORT OF HENRY E. BROWN,

Secretary.

My work during the past year has been chiefly in Texas, Arkansas, Mississippi, Tennessee, Louisiana, Florida, North Carolina, Virginia, Pennsylvania, Minnesota, Montana, Washington, Oregon, California, Manitoba and British Columbia.

It may be briefly summarized under the following heads:

1. International Committee.—Five visits for conference with the Chairman and secretaries of the Committee. These opportunities for consultation seem more and more important as the years go by, involving, as they do, the outlines and much of the details of the whole work.

2. State Committees.—Have met, once or twice each, the Executive Committees of eight States and Provinces, conferring with them concerning modifications and enlargement of their work, and calling attention to methods and plans that had proved successful in other States. These conferences have afforded the best possible opportunities for promoting definite work for young men only, and for utilizing the experience of others in avoiding dangers, and securing all available helps.

3. Conventions.—Have attended one International and five State Conventions. These meetings afford splendid opportunities for usefulness, which I endeavor to improve. The Southern Secretarial Institute which held its second annual meeting on the Cumberland Mountains, near Chattanooga, called for many letters and conferences, also for much study in preparation for the parts assigned to me, and afforded a few days of valuable social and class room relations to many of the best workers of the South. I am conferring with the Bible Schools of Minnesota and the Dakotas, and with the Institute Committee of the Pacific Northwest, with reference to their meetings during the coming season. I have attended two Secretaries' Conferences; and have enjoyed many meetings with secretaries in which a few of us encouraged each other, and prayed together for God's blessing upon our work.

4. College.—I visited one college at Spokane Falls, Washington, and two at Winnipeg; and conducted the college conference at the Winnipeg Convention. I also visited one colored college at New Orleans, and attended a conference at Nashville, composed of the three colored schools of that city, the first of its kind ever held. It was arranged for and conducted almost entirely by students, and was a complete success.

5. Secretarial Candidates and Vacancies.—It is impossible to fully report the work done under this head. One candidate seems to need more knowledge of men, another of books, another a deeper consecration. Some are advised against entering the work; to others an attendance at the School for Christian Workers is suggested. Occasionally one is found who seems ready for the work at once, but it is taking a large responsibility to commend him to an Association, whose future for many years he may decide.

While I have studied with some care more than a score of cases, and half as many positions, I have usually been able to avoid the responsibility of recommending positively in regard to a candidate, confining myself to a careful statement of facts and arguments, pro and con, as they appeared in each case.

6. Local Conferences, Finances, Etc.—I have improved twenty-five opportunities of conferring with local boards of directors concerning their work, which have resulted sometimes in important and desirable changes, and always in such personal relations as have given to future correspondence the characteristics of friendship as well as business. The one thing that impresses me more and more in my contact with local boards is the high character and position of men that are available for Association work in all our cities, and the considerable time that they are willing to devote to it. In half a dozen cities the subject of local finances has received my attention. Meetings with finance committees that result in their personal attention to finances, with improved methods and larger hope, have seemed more profitable in the long run than any canvass for money that I could make. Eight cities have asked and received help in selecting lots, studying plans, or securing money for building. New Associations have been promoted at Asheville, N. C. ; Port Townsend, Washington ; a colored Branch at Philadelphia, and a colored Association at Nashville. All but the last have secured general secretaries.

7. Mechanics.—Part of the time not employed in visitation has been given to a study of the condition and wants of mechanics, and what is being done for them, matters in which I take a deep personal interest.

I have secured printed reports, and written answers to questions, from most of the commissioners of National and State labor bureaus, State superintendents of education, prison wardens, and leading schools of technology, and also have received many answers to different lists of questions sent to nearly all our mission boards and to many pastors, presidents of colleges, manufacturers and general secretaries.

There are in the United States over five million mechanics, including all classes of workmen in shop and factory. They are increasing at the rate of four per cent. a year : one per cent. faster than the general population. The one per cent. increase is almost wholly from immigration. This foreign element includes already 20 to 80 per cent. of the operatives in some of the older shops and factories.

It becomes a serious question whether this vast body of mechanics shall be permeated by the gospel, assimilated into society, and add strength to Church and State ; or become infidels and anarchists, and a menace to all our institutions. The Association, it seems to me, is better adapted to reach these men than any other agency. A large increase of its efforts for mechanics will surely find favor with God and man.

ANNUAL REPORT OF CLAUS OLANDT, JR.,

Secretary of the German Department.

Most of my time the past year has been given to work in the larger German-speaking centres, such as St. Louis, Milwaukee, Chicago, Buffalo, Philadelphia and Baltimore.

I spent twelve weeks, during three visits, in St. Louis in the interest of the new building for the German Branch in that city. This building was dedicated December 28th, and is a fine structure, valued at $80,000. I made several visits to Milwaukee and assisted the German building canvass there.

After months of earnest endeavor I was enabled to organize a German Branch in Chicago, and to secure a general secretary and the money sufficient to meet the expenses of the work to January 1, 1890. I also have assisted the financial work there for this year.

Visits were made to Baltimore, Buffalo and Philadelphia also, and conferences held with the officers and secretaries at those points.

A two days conference for German-speaking men was held in Philadelphia immediately after the International Convention. Thirty-five delegates, representing all the German branches, were in attendance. The meeting has resulted in good to the work.

The German Department has made considerable progress during the year.

The following figures are from the annual reports recently received: Ten organizations report a total membership of 1832; six report educational classes held last year, with over 200 students; eight report weekly Bible classes last year with a total average attendance of 71; six report gymnasiums; seven employ nine men as secretaries and assistants; ten report a total property, including four buildings, of $124,000, with $38,000 incumbrances. The current finances are in a far better condition this year than they were last year. The growth in spiritual results has been even more satisfactory than the material prosperity.

As in former years, some of my time was devoted to work outside of the German Department. In the early part of September five days were spent in Maine in the interest of the State work. I attended the New Hampshire, Wisconsin, Missouri, Indiana and New York State Conventions, and the secretaries' conference of the latter State. I spent ten days in December in Norfolk, in the interest of the local work for colored young men.

I was present at the Secretaries' Conference, at Orange, and at the International Convention, at Philadelphia. A few days were spent also at Northfield during the students gathering there in July. During a visit to Germany last summer I addressed the members of the Hamburg Association on our work in America.

A portion of my time was spent in helping to secure the money needed to meet the expenses of the Committee's work.

REPORT OF C. K. OBER, College Secretary.

Since my last report I have devoted my time and effort chiefly to the work in the colleges.

State Work.—Aside from attendance at conventions, I have given 28 days to State, local and railroad work in Indiana, Kentucky and the South. In Indiana I have advised with the State Committee, and the State Secretaries, and have assisted in arranging for the State Convention, and in solving some difficult problems in local and State work. In company with Secretary H. F. Williams, I spent three days at Fort Wayne, in the reorganization of the local and Railroad Associations, by which seemingly conflicting interests were harmonized. In Kentucky I advised and assisted the State Committee in securing for the first time a State Secretary. In Georgia and Tennessee I met with the State Committees and State Secretaries, and advised concerning their work, giving also whatever assistance seemed necessary.

Conventions and Conferences.—I have attended fourteen of these during the past year, aggregating 61 days, not including the time spent in incidental travel. These have included the International Convention at Philadelphia, the Conference of General Secretaries at Orange, N. J., the College Students' Conference at Northfield, Mass.; the College Conferences in Virginia and East and West Tennessee; the State Conventions of New Jersey, Michigan, Illinois, Minnesota, Indiana, and Ontario and Quebec; a district conference at Albany, N. Y.; and the National Convention of the Young Women's Christian Associations, at Bloomington, Ill. I have also attended two meetings of the members and friends of the International Committee in New York and Brooklyn, and meetings of the International Committee and college committees in New York.

ASSOCIATION BUILDING, CHARLOTTE, N. C.,

Population in 1888, 12,000.

The Northfield Students' Conference and other Summer Gatherings.—The fourth Northfield Conference for College Students was conducted by D. L. Moody from June 29 to July 10. There were present over 430 students from 126 colleges and universities in America and Europe, including representatives from the six leading universities of Great Britain. There were also in attendance, by special invitation, twenty Japanese students from American colleges. Prominent speakers, Bible teachers and Association representatives assisted Mr. Moody in the conduct of this meeting. As in previous years, I cooperated with Mr. Moody in the preparation, organization and other work incident to these meetings. This occupied 53 days of my time, much more than will be necessary for any other year. A book, "College of Colleges '89," giving a very good report of this conference, including many of the addresses, has been published. Arrangements have been made for a similar conference at Northfield, June 28 to July 9, 1890, for another on the grounds of the Western Secretarial Institute, at Lake Geneva, Wis., August 23 to September 3, and for a third at Chautauqua, N. Y., July 19 to August 1. These summer conferences have probably accomplished more than any other single agency in extending and developing the work of the College Associations, and we are expecting even greater results from them in the future.

A Special Religious Work in the Colleges.—With the consent of the Committee, I have endeavored to facilitate this important work for another year. A committee of students in Amherst College secured the money for necessary expenses, and, as chairman of that committee, I have aided in planning Mr. Sayford's programme, and in making the necessary arrangements for his tour among the colleges. He has made very successful visits to Princeton, Cornell, Dartmouth, University of Michigan, and other important colleges in the East, and since January has been visiting the colleges on the Pacific Coast. Many letters have been received from college faculties and from students, expressing hearty appreciation of the work done by Mr. Sayford, and the Associations in these colleges have received great and permanent benefit. I have given about ten days during the year to the interests of this special work.

Editorial Work, and Finances of the International Committee, have required attention, and have consumed a little over two weeks of my time. I have also rendered assistance in raising money for College Association buildings, for State work, and for special enterprises like the special expenses incident to the Northfield conference, Mr. Sayford's work, the Students' Association building in Tokyo, Japan, etc.

Visitation of Colleges.—I have visited 24 colleges in 11 States and Provinces, giving from one to four days to each place. In these visits, as well as in attendance at the various conventions, I have noticed a gratifying improvement in the work of the College Associations.

Correspondence during the year has been very large, and, while much of it has been done on trains, yet, with other phases of office work, it has claimed considerable time. I have traveled, since my last report, over twenty-seven thousand miles.

ANNUAL REPORT OF P. AUGUSTUS WIETING,

Secretary.

There has been a larger work accomplished at the general office the past year than in any previous period of the same length. This increase has been both the cause and the result of a corresponding growth of the work out upon the field. The relation that the former sustains to the latter is much more vital than the average Association man supposes.

My work at the office, where as usual I have spent nearly my entire time, has been, principally, in attending to correspondence, and in the preparation and revision of matter for publication.

The correspondence, which, of course, forms a very important item of the work at the office, seems to require and receive more and more attention every year. Over 200,000 letters and circulars were received and mailed during the year.

The Year Book for 1889, and the Report of the International Convention (Philadelphia, May 1889), were published as usual, only in separate volumes. The change made it possible to bring out the Year Book two months earlier than when the two were issued together. In accordance with the recommendation of the Philadelphia Convention, the Committee issued for 1890 "Topics for Young Men's Meetings and Bible Classes" as a substitute for the little pamphlet of "Daily Prayer Meeting Topics" published by the Committee annually from 1877. The Intercollegian, changed during the year from a bi-monthly to a monthly publication, has been issued regularly.

Besides the periodical publications just mentioned, several additions have been made to the list of the Committee's standard pamphlets and papers on various phases of Association work, and a few of those that already were on the list have been carefully revised. The preparation, revision and publication of these pamphlets and papers, together with supplying the demands that are made for them in all parts of the land, constitute in itself a department of office work, and a department that requires no little amount of time and careful thought.

The collection and collation of Association statistics have gone on as usual during the year, and much of the result of this work is seen in the present Year Book.

The office has been visited as usual by Association men from all parts of the country, and their various wants in the shape of advice, documents, etc., have been supplied as far as possible.

I attended the International Convention at Philadelphia, and the Secretaries' Conference at Orange; was present at a district convention at Peekskill, N. Y., and read a paper at the State conference of general secretaries, at Ithaca, N. Y.

ANNUAL REPORT OF H. F. WILLIAMS,

Secretary of the Railroad Department.

The hopeful outlook mentioned in the annual report of last year has been more than realized. The number of Railroad Departments has been increased and the general efficiency of the work improved.

Upon the line of the Union Pacific Railroad careful visitation was made early in the year, and at Pocatello in Idaho, Rawlins in Wyoming, and Ogden in Utah, the best initial points for trial of the work, Railroad Departments were established. The hearty interest of the men was manifested by the large number of members received at all three points. The success of this work has led to a call from both the men and the management for the establishment of Departments at many more points upon that system.

This extension of the work in the far West has required very careful supervision, and several long trips have been made in person, and very much valuable service has been rendered by C. L. Gates. The work has also created a call for the establishment of Departments at points west of Chicago, toward Omaha, and one of the encouraging developments of the year has been the establishment of the Railroad Association at Marshalltown, Ia., which is now in full operation, with a secretary in charge, and is doing a good work. There are indications that at other railroad centres in Iowa the desire for the work will meet with favorable response. On the lines of the Chicago and Alton Railroad considerable attention has been required at points already organized, and, as a result, the condition of the work on this system is greatly improved. In the East, along the line of the Pennsylvania Railroad, there is greatly increased interest among the men. Plans are in progress for the establishment of the work at Baltimore and at several other places.

At Cincinnati, through the agency of C. J. Hicks, with the co-operation of the local Association and of the railroad management, a Department of the work has been organized and a secretary called. At several places in New Jersey a movement is being made in a similar direction, and one result of the recent New Jersey State Convention is the beginning of a very encouraging movement toward permanent organization at Communipaw (Jersey City). The Department in Springfield, Mass., also has received attention and a good reorganization with better work has resulted.

In Canada, the Railroad Department at Toronto is now erecting a building to be dedicated in the near future, and co-operation by the railroad management at this point seems assured. At Winnipeg, Manitoba, through the efforts of H. E. Brown, considerable interest exists and some preliminary steps have been taken toward a Railroad Department, which will be the first in that region.

In November of last year a very successful Railroad Conference was held at Scranton, Pa. Special effort was made to secure delegates from all Railroad Departments east of Ohio. Over 140 delegates attended and the sessions were remarkable for the practical discussion of topics and for the deep spiritual interest that prevailed. Preparations are in progress for a similar conference to be held in the West.

The correspondence and reports received from all parts of the field show a good internal development of the railroad work in all the various branches of its activity. This is due to the patient, faithful activity of the various committees and the local secretaries in the daily routine of their home work. The local secretaries also have rendered invaluable services to the general work.

A careful examination of the work of the past year shows that there has been steady progress in the better understanding of the scope of our railroad work and the agencies by which it can be most effectively performed. As a result of this better understanding and the careful adjustment of the relations of the Railroad Department to the central Associations, our work among railroad men seems to be entering upon a period of wider extension under very encouraging circumstances.

No attempt is made in this report to give details of the work done. The correspondence has been very large and attention to the various fields and the attendance upon State Conventions and conferences have required almost incessant travel. The frequent changes in official management have rendered necessary, as usual, many calls upon the railroad officials in order to give them full information regarding our work. The report of C. L. Gates, without whose efficient service the results of the year would not have been possible, will give details of his work. Statistical reports of the various local branches are printed among the tables of Associations on another page.

ANNUAL REPORT OF J. R. MOTT,
Secretary.

Distribution of Time.—During the past year my time has been devoted almost entirely to work among the colleges. Nearly seven months have been spent in actual visitation of colleges. Over two months have been occupied in attendance upon conventions and conferences. A solid month and more has been consumed in traveling. Several days have been given to helping local Associations. A constantly increasing correspondence has been attended to in connection with my other work; although Mr. Lee, at the office, has greatly relieved me in this respect from time to time. Frequent conferences have been held with Mr. Ober regarding the many problems of the college work. A number of days have been spent, with the consent of the Committee, as in previous years, in facilitating the Student Volunteer Movement in our colleges.

Visitation of Colleges.—My tours of visitation have taken me principally among the colleges of New England, Pennsylvania and the South. Work has been done in fifteen States. I have visited fifty-four institutions, giving from one to five days to each. I organized new Associations at Johns Hopkins University, Guilford College, Emory College, Georgia Institute of Technology, and the University of Georgia. In a majority of the institutions, however, my work consisted in developing existing organizations. This was greatly needed, especially in the South and in Pennsylvania, where fully one-third of the Associations touched had not been visited within the time of the students then in college. During the year a decided advance has been made by all the Associations visited.

Conventions and Conferences.—I have attended the State Conventions of North Carolina, Georgia, South Carolina, Alabama, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, Vermont, Maryland and Ohio. I attended the New England College Conference, where twenty-one institutions were represented, and the Virginia College Conference; also the Conference of General Secretaries at Orange and the International Convention at Philadelphia. With consent of the Committee, I attended the Inter-Seminary Alliance Convention held in Chicago, where 800 theological students were in attendance; assisted at the Northfield summer school; and spent several days in laying plan sfor the student gatherings to be held at Lake Geneva and Chautauqua during the coming summer.

The Metropolitan Student Problem.—Special time and study has been given to this problem. A careful inspection of the higher educational institutions of Chicago was made in company with L. W. Measer, and a policy outlined for the coming year. A day was given to conference with the general secretary of the Boston Intercollegiate Association regarding the work in that city. Two visits were made to Philadelphia in the interest of the Students' Movement there. Correspondence has been carried on with reference to a similar work in Cincinnati. Steps were also taken, during my recent visit at Johns Hopkins University, toward organizing a work among the medical students of Baltimore. Nearly a week was devoted to making a special study of the student problem in New York. It involved an inspection of eighteen institutions, the holding of meetings at five of them, and two public meetings; also a parlor conference with representatives from all the institutions of the city. A policy was outlined at this meeting which promises far more effective work during the coming year. In these six cities alone there are over 15,000 young men in the colleges and professional schools.

College Association Buildings.—Since I rendered my last report, Association buildings have been dedicated at Cornell University, Hamilton College and Johns Hopkins University. I have visited each of these institutions and given definite counsel regarding the use of the building. Five days were spent at the University of Iowa reorganizing and directing the building canvass. The subscriptions were increased from $4,000 to over $9,000 during this time. Mr. Parsons, the assistant State Secretary, who was with me, has been pushing the canvass since then. They now have $21,000 of the $25,000 required. To a very limited extent I assisted Mr. Hicks in the canvass for a building at the University of Wisconsin. A preliminary visit was made in January to the University of Virginia, and a new policy outlined in the direction of securing a building for that institution. I have assisted in raising several thousand dollars for the Tokyo building. Much has been done by correspondence to promote the building movement in the colleges. In upwards of twenty institutions active measures are being taken toward securing buildings costing from $1,000 to $50,000 each.

Workers' Bible Training Class.—Mr. Ober and I have prepared and published two courses of practical Bible study. The courses were designed primarily to promote aggressive personal work among students. The object of each course is to band together young men not only to prepare themselves for doing personal work, but, more than that, to actually do it. We have received reports from all parts of the country, showing that these classes are being used in the conversion of many students. Bible study is perhaps the weakest, yet most important, point in the college work. I therefore gave it special emphasis in all my visits, and have organized over 400 students during the past six months in little groups to pursue practical Bible study.

Students' Volunteer Movement.—Under a vote of the Committee, and as a representative of our College Associations, I have acted as a member of the executive committee of the Student Volunteer Movement for foreign missions, attending ten meetings of that committee, the most important one being recently held at Cleveland, where the work and tendencies of the movement were carefully examined and its purpose outlined as three-fold: (1) To conserve by wise counsel the movement as it now stands, with the names of over 4,500 volunteers; (2) to extend it judiciously among the higher educational institutions of America; (3) to act as a helper to the churches and regular missionary boards in leading these volunteers into the field.

R. P. Wilder and R. E. Speer, as agents of this movement, have done a good work among our College Associations, not only securing 1,000 new volunteers during the year, and influencing many of the two hundred who have applied to the church missionary boards during that time, and adding many thousand dollars to the amount raised for foreign missions in support of those boards, but greatly quickening the religious life and activity of over one hundred college and city Associations on other than missionary lines. They have done good service at State Conventions, and in securing money for the Tokyo Association building fund, and have prevented any new and unnecessary student organization.

I have also personally laid the principles and work of the movement before the secretaries of prominent church missionary societies, securing their counsel as to how the movement can be made a more and more efficient helper of the churches in hastening the evangelization of the world.

ANNUAL REPORT OF JOHN R. HAGUE,

Secretary.

During the past year my time has been given principally to reorganization of both city and Railroad Associations; financial canvasses for buildings, current expenses, debts, and State work; and to visitation and consultation. This service, though rendered in 14 States, has been chiefly in Missouri, Illinois, Iowa and Indiana.

Fort Wayne, Ind., and Bloomington, Ill., both having city and railroad departments, have been aided to reorganize on the metropolitan plan, with a central board of directors, and a committee of management for each department.

New Associations have been organized at Lafayette, Ind., and Slater, Mo., the latter for railroad men.

The Railroad Association at Roodhouse, Ill., has been aided in reorganization; and at Kansas City, Mo., several weeks were spent in assisting the Association to place the loan upon its building at a lower rate of interest, and in raising money to cover the floating indebtedness and current expenses.

The following Associations and States have been assisted in raising over $87,500: Ottumwa (building fund), Oskaloosa, Davenport and Burlington, Iowa; Bloomington, Ill.; Lafayette and Elkhart, Ind., and Indiana State work; and Sedalia, Slater and Kansas City, Mo.

Six Associations have been helped in securing general secretaries. 26 men's and one boys' gospel meetings, and 2 Bible classes, have been conducted; and religious addresses made at 24 other meetings for men, and 2 for boys. 11 addresses on Association work, and 8 gospel addresses, have been made to mixed audiences.

Personal counsel has been given at 27 meetings of local boards of directors; 20 local committee meetings; and 3 State Committee meetings. Attendance has been made, and aid afforded, at the State Conventions of Iowa, Kansas, and Indiana; a district conference, at Slater, Mo.; railroad conferences, at Scranton, Pa., and Topeka, Kan.; the General Secretaries' Conference at Orange, N. J.; the International Convention, at Philadelphia, Pa.; and 3 parlor conferences. The International Committee dinner, at New York, also was attended, and a verbal report made.

ASSOCIATION BUILDING, NORFOLK, VA.

DEDICATED APRIL 3, 1888.

Dimensions, 55x134x33½x128 feet.

Cost, $34,215.

Population in 1888, 30,000.

17 conferences on Association work have been held with State Secretaries; 14 with International Secretaries; one with the general secretaries of Iowa; and over 50 with local secretaries and business men. A college conference in Iowa, was conducted in connection with the State Convention.

44 city and 18 Railroad Associations have been visited one or more times each; and advice has been given in preparing plans for several new buildings. God has blessed me in leading over 70 young men and boys to a confession of Christ, during the year, both in meetings conducted and in personal work while traveling; and in helping Christian workers to a closer walk with Christ.

ANNUAL REPORT OF C. L. GATES,

Secretary.

During the past year my time has been given to the work of the Railroad Department, with the exception of a few weeks spent in the South in the interest of State and local work.

The first visit of the year was made to Elkhart, Ind., where assistance was rendered in securing funds for current expenses. A few days were then given to the building canvass of the 55th Street Railroad Department in Chicago, followed by a visit to Alabama and Mississippi.

A tour of the Associations of Alabama was made, in preparation for the State Convention, which I attended. This convention, largely composed of young men, showed a great advancement made along the line of genuine Association work. A severe illness prevented my attendance at the Mississippi Convention after the first session.

At the close of the International Convention, at a few sessions of which I was able to be present, visits were made to several points upon the Union Pacific Railroad, where railroad department work was contemplated. Arriving in Wyoming May 24th, I visited in succession Rawlins and Green River, in that Territory; Ogden, Utah, and Pocatello, Idaho.

Few fields, if any, ever presented a more urgent demand for work among young men, or promised to be more fruitful in practical results. Careful estimates placed the proportion of young men at 90 per cent of the railroad employes. Salutary associations, available religious privileges, desirable places of public resort, or facilities for intellectual culture and enjoyment, did not exist; and under the conditions the Association seemed to be the only agency that could supply and maintain them.

Departments were opened at Rawlins and Pocatello, and secretaries placed in charge. Personal supervision was necessarily given to every step of the work, from the renting of rooms to the introduction of the general secretary. A number of other points along the Union Pacific were investigated with reference to future work, and reports prepared.

Returning to the East it was my privilege to attend the yearly meeting of the members and secretaries of the International Committee.

In September I attended the conference of general secretaries and the State Convention of New Hampshire. These gatherings marked a new era in the work of that State, giving evidence of material progress upon definite lines of work for young men.

At the close of that convention I made a second journey to the far West.

At Ogden, Utah, in the heart of the Mormon country, a strong railroad department was organized and a secretary secured. Visits were made to the Bawlin and Pocatello Associations and to Montpelier, Idaho, and Laramie, Wyoming. The last two places are among those that have been selected for future work.

At the close of my western work short visits were made to Springfield, West Springfield and Salem, Mass.; Rutland, Vt., and Port Henry, Plattsburgh, Elmira, West Albany, Buffalo, Oswego and Mechanicsville, N. Y.

A recent call for further aid at Elkhart, Ind., has been responded to. While there I attended a conference of the Indiana general secretaries and State Committee. Most of the past month has been given to railroad work in Iowa. I was present at the opening of the department of the Marshalltown Association, and visited Clinton, Belle Plaine, Boone, and Eagle Grove, to establish railroad work at some of those points.

During the year I have made 80 special visits to 49 towns and cities in 16 States and Territories; have been present at 43 conferences of committees, railroad officials and workers, mostly by appointment; have addressed 42 public Association and religious meetings; and have given nearly one month to canvassing for State, local, and building funds.

There is much in the work of the year that cannot be embodied in any report, figures and statements giving but a slight hint of the connecting details. As I reflect upon my work I am deeply thankful that in many situations darkness has been made light before me, and that in so far as I have committed my way unto the Lord, he has "brought it to pass."

REPORT OF C. J. HICKS,

Secretary.

During the four months that I have been in the service of the International Committee, my work has been principally along the following lines:

1. State Work. The month of December was spent in Indiana, working with the State Secretary, under direction of the State Committee, visiting the Associations at points where help was needed, and giving some time to securing financial support for the State work. Two days were spent at Evansville, aiding in a building canvass, and some time at Indianapolis, in conference with members of the State Committee, outlining the work of the year.

2. Railroad Work. While in New York the latter part of January, I took occasion to visit the Railroad Branches in and about that city, and make a study of their work. The points learned have already been very helpful, as seventeen days of the month of February were spent at Cincinnati in work preparatory to establishing a Railroad Branch of the Association there. The co-operation and support of the railroad companies have been secured, and the outlook is very encouraging. I have also visited the Railroad Associations at Chicago, Cleveland, and Springfield, Mass.

3. Conventions. I attended the State Conventions of Missouri and Kentucky, taking special charge at each of the college work; and attended also the State Convention at Hagerstown, Md., and the Railroad Conference at Scranton Pa.

4. College Work. In addition to college work at conventions, I spent some time at the University of Wisconsin, aiding in a canvass for funds for a College Association building. $8,000 of the $50,000 needed has thus far been secured, largely from the students.

A full report of the past four months would show that in addition to the work thus outlined, I have visited a number of other Associations, met with several boards of directors, delivered addresses on Association work, and rendered such other service as these visits gave me an opportunity to perform—and no visit is unaccompanied by opportunity.

REPORT OF S. A. TAGGART,

Secretary.

At the invitation of the Committee, and the suggestion of various members of State Committees, I entered upon an investigation of the feasibility of a plan, having for its object the union of the Associations on this continent in a further work of extension. It might be denominated an Extension Movement, with a threefold purpose:

1. The familiarizing and educating of the members of the local Associations in those departments of their work that they have placed under the supervision of the International and State Committees, together with the broad work of extension such as has been authorized by International and State Conventions;

2. The cultivation of the spirit of benevolence and the grace of giving, among the members, particularly non-givers, and as far as possible introducing a system in the making of gifts;

3. The creation of a fund to be known as the Extension Fund, to which such gifts could be contributed, the same to be applied by the authority of the board of directors in each Association, in such proportions as may be deemed best, to the foregoing agencies of extension.

Early in January of the present year this work was begun. Thus far it has consisted chiefly in laying the matter before boards of directors for adoption, securing co-operation from State Committees, and addressing special gatherings of members of Associations.

The State Committees of Ohio, Kentucky and Pennsylvania, the only ones with which direct communication has been entered upon, have signified a willingness to co-operate. Assurances of like action to be taken as soon as practicable, have been received from members of the committees of New York, Connecticut and Massachusetts.

Special visits have been made to the Associations in Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Wheeling, Brooklyn and Boston. Invitations for similar visits have been received from Detroit, Chicago, Cincinnati, Dayton, Buffalo, Erie, Baltimore and Providence. The results of the visits already made, are of a most gratifying kind. They would seem to indicate that the plan will meet with hearty approval on the part of the members of the Associations; an unexpected interest has been shown. As an educational process tending to familiarize and even popularize the extension work of the International and State Committees, and to develop the grace of giving in the young men composing the membership of the Associations, it may be justly deemed by actual results both timely and successful, even if the encouraging aggregate of weekly, monthly or yearly subscriptions made were not taken into consideration.

No attempt has been made to introduce this movement simultaneously among the Associations in all parts of the country. It has been thought best to gather the most helpful experience by not only a slower process, but also by one where the calls for visitation could be readily responded to. A further experience will no doubt help to formulate a better system and suggest valuable ways of commending this extension movement to the entire body of Associations on this continent.

It should be stated that this plan has not been introduced to take the place of existing methods, but, as the name indicates, to bring the general work to the intelligence and sympathy of the very large body of members in our Associations that as yet have known little about it, and given little or nothing to its support.

It has been most gratifying to meet with so many young men that have proved so responsive to such a call, and that regard themselves as put in trust with whatever means they may possess as stewards of the Lord, and cheerfully give a portion of such means to the extension of the Redeemer's kingdom among young men.

ANNUAL REPORT OF LUTHER GULICK, M. D.

During the past year I have devoted much more time than during the two preceding years to the Association Training School, and less to work directly for the International Committee. The lines of work for the school and the Committee are so intermingled that it is difficult to report that which has been done exclusively for the latter; but eleven of the numerous applications for physical directors that have come to me, have been through the office of the Committee. Two of these I aided in filling.

The demand for men for this department of the work is increasing rapidly, and at the same time is becoming more intelligent. Men of greater ability and better training, are sought and secured.

Considerable correspondence has been carried on for the Committee, which may be divided into six classes:

First, In investigating the qualifications of men who desired to enter the physical department of Association work, and in correspondence as to positions for them;

Second, Concerning the fitting out of gymnasiums, apparatus, bathing facilities, etc.;

Third, Concerning athletic sports, field days, etc.;

Fourth, In regard to the organization of religious work in the gymnasium;

Fifth, Concerning the scientific work, in securing statistics on anthropometry, in giving advice as to the prescription of exercise, etc. There has been a large correspondence concerning the anthropometric measurement blanks published by the Committee. This blank is meeting with a favorable reception, and although the request for duplicates for tabulation has been but recently made, two thousand five hundred blanks have been sent for on which these measurements are to be copied and returned to the Committee. This is very gratifying, as it indicates that results which will be of value to the Associations may be reached sooner than had been anticipated;

Sixth, In recommending courses of reading to those who wish to inform themselves as to the field as a whole, or as to special phases of it.

WORK IN FOREIGN MISSION LANDS.

In pursuance of the action of the International Convention, at Philadelphia, May 10, 1889, concerning the establishing of Associations and the placing of secretaries upon the foreign mission field, the International Committee, after consultation with all its members throughout the country, took the following action :

" 1. The Convention did not contemplate the sending out of general missionaries, and therefore any such course of procedure by the International Committee, the State Committees or local Associations is unauthorized."

" 2. Where the way is open for Association work in any nation, and a competent Association worker is ready to go, the Committee will gladly send such worker, provided funds needed for the purpose of sending and maintaining him upon the foreign mission field are specially contributed—the Treasurer of the Committee being instructed to keep a separate account of such funds."

" 3. The chief aim of such American representative upon the foreign mission field should be to train and develop native Christian young men in the principles and methods of the Association work, and to plant native, self-sustaining Young Men's Christian Associations, rather than to lay the basis for the call and coming of American associates in that work."

" 4. All the work of such American representative should be carried on in harmony with, and in conformity to, the deliverances and instructions of the International Conventions."

" 5. The work of such representative should also be carried on, not only in harmony with the evangelical missionaries and pastors of churches on his field, and with the various foreign mission boards they represent, but most earnest effort must be made by him to secure their approval, sympathy and co-operation."

" 6. This American representative shall be known as Secretary of the International Committee for the field to which he is sent."

" 7. While the International Committee is the agent of the International Convention and is a medium for the transmission of such money as it may receive from Associations and individuals for the support of these representatives on the foreign field, it cannot assume for the salary and other expenses of these representatives, a financial responsibility beyond the contributions offered and pledged in the manner alluded to, nor can such expenses be made a charge upon the Committee's general treasury."

" 8. Such representatives shall report, at least every month, to the Committee, and through it to the financial constituency sustaining their work."

" 9. This work upon the foreign mission field shall be placed under the direction of a special sub-committee of the International Committee."

Upon the adoption of this memorandum at its meeting September 26th, 1889, the Committee appointed as its Secretary for Japan, its present corresponding member for that country, J. Trumbull Swift, and as its Secretary for India, David McConaughy, Jr., lately Secretary of the Philadelphia Association.

This action was taken by the Committee, provision already having been made by friends for the salaries and expenses of Messrs. Swift and McConaughy, independent of the Committee's treasury.

ANNUAL REPORT OF J. TRUMBULL SWIFT,
Secretary for Japan.

Mr. Wishard's visit was the most noteworthy feature of the year's work in Japan. His work as an evangelist to college students was attended everywhere with manifestations of the power of the Holy Spirit. It was indeed remarkable that his addresses to young men whom he so little understood should have been so free from mistakes and have exerted so wide an influence. The conversions, of which there were a large number, occurred as was natural in the colleges of the various Christian missions. Students from the non-Christian schools assembled in large numbers to hear him and at the close of his addresses many of them expressed a desire to inquire more particularly into the truths of the gospel. It was my privilege to spend January in arranging for the introduction and prosecution of his work, and in February and March to work with him at Kyoto and Tokyo.

During the succeeding months he made a careful and laborious tour of the empire, visiting most of the principal points and speaking where he could. One of the most prominent events of the year was the students' summer school for Bible study, which he organized and presided over. It was held at Kyoto early in July and was attended by about five hundred students from different parts of the empire. Addresses were delivered by the leading Japanese pastors and by several foreign missionaries. At the close of the school a committee of seven students was appointed to arrange for a like school to be held in Tokyo, in July, 1890.

The plain lessons which we now draw from Mr. Wishard's visit are : First, that much good can be accomplished in Japan by brief visits from men who are fitted to do effective evangelistic work among the college students of America, and it is earnestly urged by some leading missionaries that such men be sent yearly to Japan ; and, second, that for the development and sustentation of the systematic work of the Associations, whether amongst the college students or in the general field, the same slow and careful education is necessary which has been given to other departments of the Christian Church in this land, and that such development should be founded and proceed upon substantially the same principles of organization and work which have been approved by the past experience of the Associations in other lands.

Any account of the first half of the year would be incomplete without a reference to the earnest and self-sacrificing efforts of Viscount Yataro Mishima. His warm welcome to Mr. Wishard, the social reception which he gave to introduce him to the college students, and his efforts to secure the lot for the College Association building are but a few of many acts done in support of the Association cause at a time of peculiar personal affliction and trial.

In my report for 1888, reference was made to the first contribution of $25,000 toward the erection of Association buildings in Tokyo. The months from April to October, both included, were spent by me in canvassing in the United States for the remainder of the fund of $60,000, which amount was made necessary by a condition attached to one of the first large gifts. I was obliged to return to Japan before the entire sum was secured, but the balance has since been pledged. For this great blessing we are deeply grateful to those friends who have given so liberally, and especially are we grateful to Him who gave alike to those who asked and to those who gave, the faith which made success possible.

During my stay in America I attended the International Convention and the Secretaries' Conference, and was present at the Northfield summer school. The last mentioned gathering was attended by a delegation of twenty Japanese students, who organized under Viscount Mishima for the purpose of securing the attendance of larger delegations of Japanese for future sessions of the school.

On the way to Japan I spent a few days with the Minneapolis Association which, together with the New York City Association, is contributing so nobly to the current expenses of the Japan work. My time since returning here has been spent in organizing Bible classes, conferring with prominent workers in reference to the reorganization of the existing central Association of Tokyo, and in search for a suitable site for the central building.

The Associations in the three higher government colleges have done good, steady work during the year, and their respective memberships are larger than last year. The Association in the Imperial University closes the year with thirty-five members, that in the Higher Preparatory College with fifty-five, and that in the Higher Commercial College with forty three. The last mentioned Association reports four conversions as the result of personal work done by its members, and a decided influence exerted over its college in discouraging the custom of holding athletic sports on Sundays. These three Associations, in addition to their regular meetings, have jointly held three large students' meetings for evangelistic purposes, which have had an average attendance of six hundred and twenty.

It is worthy of notice that the Christian Sei Nen Kai (young men's societies) throughout the country have this year attracted much attention to themselves by a vigorous campaign against licensed prostitution. Thus far they have met with complete success in one of the principal provinces.

The year nationally has been marked by great excitement and disquietude incident to the attempt at treaty revision and the pending change of the government from its present form to that of a constitutional monarchy. The assassination of Viscount Mori, the minister of education, and the attempted assassination of Count Okuma, minister of foreign affairs, the one on account of religious and the other on account of political prejudice, stand out in sharp contrast with the joyful promulgation of the national constitution. The Buddhists have taken advantage of the character of the times and were never so active as at present. Buddhist colleges, a Buddhist foreign mission board, Buddhist young men's associations and a Buddhist political party have been formed for the purpose of opposing Christianity. The magazine that was their principal organ, has been suspended by the Government; and it is but reasonable to suppose that under the constitution which grants freedom of conscience and liberty of worship the nation, after the present excitement shall have subsided, will advance in Christian faith as earnestly and as rapidly as in the past. But our dependence is not on earthly governments or powers.

Our work has attracted much attention both abroad and in Japan, during the past year. Its progress has been only rendered possible by gracious answers to countless prayers with which the American Associations have followed it. The year to come must necessarily be characterized by quieter but no less important work, and for it we earnestly beseech the Associations of America to unite in earnest and incessant prayer that it may be so carried on as best to glorify our Saviour and our God.

REPORT OF DAVID McCONAUGHY, JR.,

Secretary for India.

I resigned my connection with the Philadelphia Association on the first of September, 1889, and spent that month in preparations for my journey to India, and in visiting and addressing on missionary subjects fifteen Associations, colleges and churches.

Arriving at Cork, Ireland, October 9th, the following month was spent in visiting leading Associations and universities in Great Britain, and in conference with many persons connected with various missionary societies, from whom very valuable suggestions regarding the new work in India were obtained. Some twenty-five public addresses were given during this month. Among the points visited were Dublin, Belfast, London, Liverpool, Glasgow, Aberdeen and Edinburgh.

At Geneva, Switzerland, I was very cordially received by the Central International Committee, a letter of introduction from which, as well as one from the British National Committee, proved to be of the highest value, on reaching my field of labor.

I also met and addressed the Associations at Paris, Geneva, Turin and Rome.

After a brief visit, en route, to the Holy Land, I arrived at Bombay, December 29, where I spent a week looking into the work of the Association and getting acquainted with the workers. I was cordially received and took an active part in their various services.

The Association was organized in April, 1875, and occupies a building of its own, which cost $8,000, and is free of debt. It is well located for strangers arriving by sea (on the Apollo Bunder), but is distant from the homes of the members. All street cars pass the door. The building is of wood, with verandahs on all sides, and in the ground surrounding it are trees and vines, giving an attractive effect. It contains a restaurant (which is let to a native upon a stipulated tariff and under proper restrictions), a good reading room, a library of 800 volumes, a meeting room, and a toilet and dressing room, with baths.

There are 820 members, mainly English, some Eurasians (of mixed European and Asiatic parentage), some ladies and no natives, as effort has not yet been made to reach the last named class. It maintains a young men's Bible class, gospel meetings for sailors, and union prayer meetings. Branch meetings are carried on at Bandora, a seaside suburb twenty miles distant, and branch rooms have recently been opened in the Grant Road District. There is a growing disposition to undertake more aggressive work, and I believe that if an acceptable man were found he would be employed as secretary.

At Poona, 150 miles east of Bombay, on G. I. P. Railway, where I stopped en route, there is a similar organization with rooms and working along the same general lines, and for the same class as in Bombay.

Believing, as I did in advance, that providential indications were pointing out Madras as the open door at which to enter upon the field, I nevertheless left it an open question to be determined after making a careful survey of the situation. Every indication since my arrival in that city has confirmed my previous impressions. I was warmly welcomed at the railway station in Madras, January 9, by Rev. Jacob Chamberlain, D. D., and Rev. I. Colville Peattie, secretary of the Madras Missionary Conference, the body in response to whose request I came to India, and by Mr. Wishard. That afternoon a meeting of the Missionary Conference was held, to consult as to the first steps to be taken. It was determined to arrange for a gathering of Christian young men on Saturday evening, 18th inst. Meanwhile Mr. Wishard and I were to meet with the existing organizations of young men, with a view of affording information, arousing interest and making acquaintances in those smaller circles. Four such meetings were held, in which we met 125 young men. At the union meeting there were 275 present, nearly all native Christian young men, and most of the pastors of the city were on the platform. It being in the midst of a college vacation, corresponding to that of July and August at home, many students were not in the city. Mr. Wishard and I made addresses descriptive of the Association movement.

We soon learned that the most desirable building in the city for our purposes could be rented by us. It is situated on the esplanade near the sea, between the Christian and Hindu colleges, and within ten minutes walk of the medical college. It is 80 feet long by 16 feet deep, two stories high, with a verandah the entire length. It has accommodations for reading-room and bath-room down stairs, and social and meeting-room (in one) and secretary's office, above. The rent is sixty rupees ($20) a month, having been reduced from seventy-five rupees. A provisional board of directors, of seven strong men, from seven different churches and four denominations, Church of England, Church of Scotland (established and free), Methodist, and Lutheran, was soon secured. The chairman is the junior partner of one of the oldest and most honorable firms of bankers here and in England. The treasurer is also treasurer of the Madras bank, and is a member of the Scotch Kirk. Among the other members of the board are one of the editors of the leading native Christian paper, and the architect in charge of the new government (High Court) buildings, an Eurasian. Three other valuable men have since been added to the number.

The need of an assistant from among the educated natives became at once apparent, and we have been able to secure for that position the son of a native pastor, just graduated from the University of Madras.

The building was occupied February first, and the work of thoroughly renovating and ventilating it was pushed as rapidly as possible. Difficulties of various sorts, which seemed to some insuperable, were at length overcome, and the change in the temperature of our meeting-room and office is more than ample reward for the work and worry involved in accomplishing it.

There has been a steady increase of attendance from the first, the daily average rising from 15 the first week to 106 the seventh.

The membership now numbers 75 who have paid their annual fees, not including our more than 50 sustaining members. Over two-thirds of the 75 are under 30 years of age. Twenty-two are engaged in business pursuits, 22 are students and 15 are teachers. Fifty-one per cent. are natives (of Indian races pure and simple), 29 per cent. are Eurasian, and 20 per cent. are European.

We have a force of 88 at work on committees, membership, reception and religious meetings, and the executive, finance, literary and social committees of the management—all well organized. The personnel of the workers compares favorably with the average American Association.

Friday evenings are devoted to literary and social features alternately. The first was our "opening," March 7, which challenged public attention to the formal inauguration of our work. The Lord Bishop of Madras presided. Dr. Miller, principal of the Christian College, and others took part in the exercises. The first hour was of a social character in our rooms, which were decorated by a committee of ladies who also assisted in the musical programme. Evangelistic Hall, adjoining, in which the more formal exercises were held, was crowded, most of the 850 people present being young men.

A week later an "Evening with Browning" opened the series of literary evenings.

Saturday evenings are spent in a song service and Bible class, which had an average attendance of 65 young men during February, including many non-Christians.

The first number of an eight-page paper, "The Young Men of India," appeared March 1 and will give fuller details of development.

We are aiming to make the Association self-supporting as far as possible. The difficulty is two-fold. On the one hand the young men are very poor and we are obliged to make the membership fee small (50 cents). On the other hand those who are able and willing to contribute to the support of the Association are already burdened with the support of numerous existing agencies. We are asking for 8 000 rupees (about $1,000), and have secured 1,700 of the amount, with good prospects of raising the remainder.

ANNUAL REPORTS OF CORRESPONDING MEMBERS.

TO MARCH 1, 1890.

AUSTRALASIA.

The great distances separating the Australasian Associations are a serious difficulty in the way of largely realizing the co-operation so earnestly desired. Nevertheless the Intercolonial Conference, held at Sydney in May, 1889, was a successful and well attended gathering. Reports were sent in from ten Associations, showing a membership of 8,700, an income of £18,000, and buildings valued at £100,000. The weekly meetings held were eight Bible classes (men), with an attendance of 500, and 82 fellowship and gospel meetings (mixed) with an attendance of 8,200. Eight libraries with 11,500 volumes, three gymnasiums, and chess, draughts, cricket, foot-ball, swimming, social and rambling clubs were reported also.

A handsome building has been erected by the Goulburn (N. S. W.) Association; Launceston (Tas.) has laid the foundation stone of new premises, and Melbourne is now erecting a large building to cost, with site, $275,000. In Brisbane (Queensland) the old Association, after much failure, was disbanded, and a new one formed, which is progressing favorably in new premises. A new building is projected there, and also at Newcastle (N. S. W.)

In the capital cities of Sydney, Adelaide and Melbourne the Associations are in vigorous working condition, and much spiritual blessing is realized.

It is proposed to hold a secretaries' conference in Melbourne, in April, 1890, and some months later, a general conference in Brisbane, in connection with which the Associations en route will be visited. The New Zealand and Tasmanian Associations are doing an earnest work, to a great extent in the face of serious difficulties, but with substantial encouragement.

W. A. SOUTHWELL, Cor. Mem.

FRANCE.

The National French Conference was held at Paris, August 15-18, 1889. The delegates, from different parts of France, were not only brought into contact with the men and new methods of work in Paris, but also had the privilege of meeting and conferring with George Williams, W. H. Mills and W. Hind Smith, of the English National Council, and Thomas K. Cree, of the American International Committee. Among the good results of this conference is a largely increased work in Marseilles, where the way has been opened for a general secretary. The Associations in Montpellier, Nimes and St. Jean du Gard, have also been inspired to fresh activity.

The work in this country has been greatly helped by the efforts of James Hughes, who spends four months in the year in visiting the different Associations, as general secretary of the National Committee. He is, at the same time, general secretary of the Lyons Association. His services were secured through the active efforts of Mr. Cree and friends of the work in England.

The work in Lyons is developing in a most satisfactory manner. The ground having been previously studied with care by Mr. Cree, I was able, during a recent visit, to be of some aid in securing funds for a broader and more aggressive work.

The Paris Association continues to enlist a more general support from the public, and its influence for good is constantly increasing.

F. A. GAYLORD, Cor. Mem.

GERMANY.

Since my last report, two years ago, the Association movement has made a large step in advance in our country, the number of Associations having increased about twenty-five per cent., viz.: from 675 to 836. Never before have so many new Associations been organized in Germany in the same length of time. This fact is a proof of the growing interest in the work for young men by our clergy, as well as by the Christian public in general.

A new branch has been formed in the centre of Germany, called the "Thuringia Branch," with headquarters at Halle. The Associations have not only grown in number, but in strength, this being brought about especially by the formation of district committees in the various branches. By this means the oversight of the large field to be controlled can be more easily accomplished, and closer attention given to the weaker points.

The building question also is more and more being considered. The Associations in Berlin, Elberfeld, Bremen and Stuttgart have lately entered appropriate buildings, the one in Hamburg to follow in April of this year. In some other cities the putting up of buildings is seriously contemplated. It may be mentioned that, at the consecration meeting of the Berlin building, costing about $250,000, in November last, Her Majesty the Empress, who is a sustaining member of the said Association, was present.

The burning question in German Association work, however, which still awaits solution, is the calling of qualified secretaries. In this point we are still far behind, and this is not only the case in our own country but on the whole continent of Europe. Whilst America and Great Britain employ over 1000 secretaries and assistants, there are on the European continent only thirty-five (fifteen traveling and twenty local secretaries). These are located as follows: Fifteen in Germany, seven in Switzerland, four in France, two in Holland, and in Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Russia, Spain, each one. Two are on the International Central Committee, in Geneva. There is not a single secretary as yet, either traveling or local, in Belgium, Italy, Portugal, Austria, Hungary, Roumania, Servia, &c. The result is that the 1883 Anglo-American Associations have a membership of 285,456, whilst the Continental Associations, nearly as large in number, viz., 1,809, have only 53,058 members, that is, 230,000 less.

Looking at the appalling number of young men who are drawn at the present time into the ranks of the Social Democrats, Nihilists, Communists and Anarchists in the various countries and states of continental Europe, Association work, led by competent secretaries, seems to be more needful than ever.

As there are so few secretaries on the whole European continent, it has been thought best, instead of holding separate gatherings in their respective countries, to unite them in one annual "Continental Secretaries' Conference," to pray for and speak about the common work. The first of these conferences was held last June for three days in Interlaken (Switzerland), attended by seven secretaries, viz.: Two from the International Committee, Geneva, three from Switzerland, one from France and one from Germany. Although the deliberations had to be carried on in three languages (English, French and German), yet there was "one spirit." This conference has clearly shown that we need on this continent, more than buildings or anything else, trained and qualified workers, who give their whole time to this sacred cause of winning young men for our Lord Jesus Christ. The second conference has been invited to meet this summer in Berlin. "The harvest truly is plenteous, but the laborers are few; pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he will send forth laborers into his harvest."

HAWAII.

The Honolulu Association has had a quiet, uneventful year. The reading room, well stocked with papers and periodicals, has been patronized by a large number of our floating population. The usual religious meetings have been continued during the year, and there have been occasional lectures and socials; and also several educational classes have been conducted. The present membership is 175, and the current expenses last year were about $3,600.

The "Y. M. C. A. Boys" meet monthly while the schools of the city are in session.

"Queen Emma Hall" is supported by the Honolulu Association, and is mainly devoted to moral and religious work among the native Hawaiians. The Portuguese evening school held here is well patronized.

The Chinese Association, chartered in 1877, has 100 resident members at present. Its building, now clear of debt, contains reading room, hall and lodging rooms. The hall is used for a day school for about 60 Chinese boys. It owns a cemetery from which all heathen burials and rites are excluded. Business meetings are held monthly and a Bible class on Sunday.

The Japanese Association has about 40 resident members. It meets in a room devoted to its use in Queen Emma Hall. The business and religious meetings are conducted generally in the Japanese language, but in the social gatherings both English and Japanese is used.

The young people's societies among the Hawaiians still continue with not much apparent life

Money is not wanting with which to increase Christian progress among our mixed population. What we need is laborers. Cannot America spare us some?

INDIA.

Last year it was not our privilege to report any marked progress along the line of Association work in India, but the message we send this year is one of good cheer and progress of a most decided nature.

India is conservative, the world knows; centuries in time and generations in ancestry stand to the support of ancient institutions and to the defeat of new movements. It is not, therefore, altogether surprising if foreigners become possessed in a measure of this prevailing conservatism. The missionaries in Madras constitute a strong body of men who exercise a large influence throughout the presidency because of their character and judgment in the management of important interests. Their attitude toward the movement at its commencement was, therefore, anticipated with some concern, for it meant much in its relation to the inauguration of an Association in Madras.

The reception of Messrs. Wisard and McConaughy, in January, by the missionary body and the entire Christian community, and indeed by some members of the non-Christian community, was so cordial and practical as to warrant them in settling upon Madras as the first centre in India whence to extend a helping hand to the regions round about. A building well adapted to Association purposes and finely located was providentially available and secured at once, Saturday evening Bible classes established forthwith by the General Secretary, and a monthly publication, "The Young Men of India," issued. The best and most influential men in the European, native, and business communities have cordially accepted invitations to serve on the provisional committee of ten, and a large public meeting was held on March 7th, presided over by the Lord Bishop of Madras, when there was formally introduced to the presidency and to India, the "Young Men's Christian Association of Madras."

Some ten or twelve Associations are believed to exist in India, but as yet they have attempted little work for native young men.

MANITOBA.

The first Association convention of the Canadian Northwest was held in Winnipeg, February 18-16, 1890. Eighty delegates were in attendance, including Henry E. Brown, who represented the International Committee, and T. A. Hildreth, the State Secretary of Minnesota. The presence of these visitors was very helpful. A result of the convention was the appointment of an executive committee to engage a Provincial Secretary and conduct an aggressive Provincial work.

Three of the six Associations in this district employ general secretaries. Bible study and evangelistic meetings for young men are strong in all the Associations, resulting in a deep spirituality and many conversions.

The Association at Brandon owns a small building, and the Winnipeg Association has $5,000 subscribed towards a building fund.

ROBERT D. RICHARDSON, Cor. Mem.

NEW BRUNSWICK.

Association work in New Brunswick is in a much more encouraging condition than it was a year ago. The number of Associations remains the same, but there is a greater activity among those interested, and more concentration of effort on behalf of young men.

During the past year the St. John Association has increased largely its membership, and more zeal has been manifested along the various lines of work. In January the general secretary resigned to accept a secretaryship in the West. Since then the duties of that office have been faithfully discharged by one of the active members; but another secretary has just been secured.

The Moncton Association is in a most flourishing condition, and doing a noble work. Over six thousand dollars have been subscribed toward a building, which, it is expected, will be erected during the present year.

At Fredericton and Sackville the College Associations are active and efficient.

The Maritime Provinces Convention, held at Moncton, last Summer, was well attended, and was a most enthusiastic and profitable meeting. Benjamin C. Wetmore and Theodore A. Harding represented the International Committee. The Committee also rendered special aid to the Moncton Association in its building canvass, through its agent, Wm. M. Griffith, who spent several weeks in the Provinces during the Winter.

W. S. MORRISON, Cor. Mem.

NOVA SCOTIA.

The number of Associations in this Province has been increased by one during the year. The most encouraging feature has been the employing of general secretaries by several of the Associations that had not previously had such officers. The work is already showing the benefit of their labors. Several district conferences have been held during the year, with good results.

In common with the other Maritime Provinces we have felt the need of that general supervision of the work that can only be obtained from the frequent visitation of a suitable Provincial Secretary. This want seems now in a fair way of being supplied, and we trust that next year may show beneficial results.

The twenty-second annual convention of the Maritime Provinces met in August last, in Moncton, N. B., and was attended by sixty-seven delegates and corresponding members, representing seventeen Associations; thirty-one of the delegates, coming from twelve Associations, belonged to Nova Scotia. The International Committee was represented by B. C. Wetmore and T. A. Harding, who rendered very acceptable service.

We also are indebted to the International Committee for a visit from W. M. Griffith, who rendered good service in preparing the way for obtaining a Provincial Secretary, and also aided the Association at Moncton, N. B., in procuring funds for its proposed new building.

On the whole the prospect for the coming year is hopeful, and we are encouraged to believe that greater good than ever before will be accomplished.

W. B. McNUTT, Cor. Mem.

ONTARIO.

Much real progress has been made during the past year. We have been enabled to keep our Provincial Secretary, T. S. Cole, employed during twelve months, most of this time in Ontario.

A leading feature of his work, which we note with much pleasure, has been the securing of some very promising young men, college graduates, for the general secretaryship, and they are now giving their whole time in fitting themselves for this position.

The work of the Provincial Committee is known better than formerly, and is valued as it never has been hitherto. The Provincial Convention was held at Brantford, February 6-9, 1890, and was attended by 123 delegates.

The visit of C. K. Ober to our recent convention, and among the college men was very helpful.

JOHN J. GARTSHORE, Cor. Mem.

PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND.

There are only two Associations in this Province, each in a fair state of prosperity. Charlottetown employs a general secretary. Bible classes and literary societies are successfully conducted; and good reading rooms are provided and well patronized. The Sunday afternoon meetings are not as well attended as they ought to be. There are no special results to report.

No effort has been made to organize new Associations, although there are several points where they should be formed. A great need in this field is a traveling secretary.

J. D. SEAMAN, Cor. Mem.

QUEBEC.

This field does not present any new features for the past year. The Montreal Association has been fully employed in pushing its new building. Advice and assistance have been asked frequently from the International Committee, and always freely given; and indeed an epitome of the work of that Committee in this Province would furnish the best idea of what has been done in Quebec the past year in this way of general work.

Another year I trust we shall have something noteworthy to chronicle.

CHARLES CUSHING, Cor. Mem.

ALABAMA.

There are now 21 Associations in Alabama. Two Associations have been organized during the year, one at Fort Payne, the other in the Marion Military Institute.

The Birmingham Association is laying plans for a building; and the Marion Association has money and pledges nearly sufficient for a gymnasium addition to its building.

Four Associations are now employing general secretaries. E. M. Cook is in the field as State Secretary and is doing good work. Mobile and Montgomery have put in gymnasiums, and good results are following. The college work is prospering.

The field as a whole gives record of a good work for young men, but as so much remains to be done there is nothing of which to boast.

CHARLES W. LOVELACE, Cor. Mem.

ARKANSAS.

The public sentiment in favor of our work has been wonderfully developed, and the work itself has made decided progress.

Five years ago our first Association was organized, and only a little over a year ago our State work was begun, under the leadership of our State Secretary, A. S. Caldwell, yet there have been employed during the year nine general secretaries and one gymnasium instructor, a gain of seven over previous years. Associations have been organized at seven new points, and young men's meetings started at four other points.

$6,950 has been subscribed in support of State and local work in excess of previous years.

A building fund has been started at Hot Springs, and now amounts to $1,700. A building, costing $25,000, has been erected by Joseph Merrill, at Pine Bluff, and our Association put in charge. Mr. Merrill also will endow the lecture course. The Little Rock Association has acquired control of the Marquand Library, containing four thousand volumes, and will receive the income from an endowment fund of $4,000.

Henry E. Brown, of the International Committee, has rendered valuable assistance, as have the office force of the Committee, in New York.

P. K. ROOTS, Cor. Mem.

CALIFORNIA.

The Association work in California has continued throughout the year with unabated interest.

Our ninth annual State Convention, held in Santa Cruz, October 9-13, 1889, was large and representative, and a pronounced success in every particular. Secretary Henry E. Brown, of the International Committee, was present and rendered valuable assistance. C. G. Baldwin, who was sent to the Coast in the financial interest of the Los Angeles Association building, was also present, and through his aid the floating debt of $8,000 on the Santa Cruz building was raised. We were also favored with a visit during the year from the Railroad Secretary of the International Committee.

William H. Mead, formerly general secretary of the Los Angeles Association, was secured as State Secretary of California last October, and is meeting with good success in his work.

The depression of business in some parts of California has affected the building enterprises. At several localities where buildings are now partially completed, strong efforts are being made to finish the same free of debt. Through the efforts of Mr. Baldwin, the debt upon the Los Angeles building has been provided for, and the Association is now in possession of its hand-some new home.

The buildings at Riverside and Fresno also have been occupied during the year, though they are not yet completed and only portions are being used. A very fine structure is in process of erection at Oakland, and the Association hopes to occupy some part of it within the next few months. The San Francisco Association has begun the prosecution of a vigorous canvass for funds for a new building; $87,000 of the $150,000 needed has already been secured. When the full amount has been raised the present property will be sold and a larger and more commodious building erected. There is every encouragement to expect ultimate success in this great undertaking. The membership has largely increased during the year and the Association has completely outgrown its present quarters.

The district work has been prosecuted with the usual success, district conventions having been held in both the southern and northern parts of the State.

Although we have struggled against great odds in this State for the past twelve months, we can report progress in all departments of Association work, and a bright future.

H. J. MCCOY, Cor. Mem.

COLORADO.

Association work has made considerable gain in this State the past year.

The Denver Association is making steady advancement. A strong effort has been made during the year to secure the amount necessary for the erection of the proposed $200,000 building. It hopes to secure the balance in a short time.

The Leadville Association is doing good work, which is being felt and acknowledged throughout the city and the entire camp.

The Pueblo Association, organized a year ago, is in a flourishing condition, and has accomplished a remarkable work in all departments during the year.

A strong evangelistic spirit was infused at the beginning, and has been active ever since, resulting in a large number of conversions among young men. The first year closed with a balance in the treasury, and $6,000 subscribed for this year.

An Association, with a general secretary, has been organized at Colorado Springs, and also one at Aspen. At several other points the subject of organizing is being agitated.

W. L. GRAHAM, Cor. Mem.

CONNECTICUT.

Association work in this State for the past year has been progressive, and the outlook for increasing efficiency in the future is encouraging.

The State Committee is composed of aggressive men and is thoroughly organized. Two men are devoting their entire time to extending and strengthening the work throughout the State. More money was raised last year for State work than in any previous year. Especial effort is being made this year to stimulate building enterprises, district work, and evangelistic services for young men. A new Association was organized during the year at Birmingham. Six Associations have completed buildings valued at $164,000, and ten other Associations have real estate, and funds pledged for buildings, worth $180,000. Thus sixteen of the eighteen Associations either have buildings erected, or have taken steps towards securing them. Fifteen of the Associations have general secretaries.

Our State Convention at Waterbury, last October, was the largest and one of the most helpful ever held. The presence and Bible addresses of L. W. Munhall contributed greatly to the interest of the occasion. Nearly two hundred delegates were present from 18 Associations, representing a constituency of 6,447 members, and Association property valued at over $880,000.

James L. Gordon, who, as State Secretary, rendered most efficient service, has recently accepted a call to become the general secretary of the Boston Association. He has been succeeded by W. E. Colley, who is earnestly engaged in developing the work.

We cannot report any progress in Association work the past year. Our State has hardly recovered from the effects of the yellow fever epidemic. The Associations that are in existence are holding their own, and seeking to do aggressive work.

FRANK A. CURTIS, Cor. Mem.

GEORGIA.

The work of the State Committee in Georgia during the past year has been embarrassed a great part of the time by a vacancy in the office of State Secretary. Notwithstanding this fact a general supervision has been given to the work and it is fair to state that its present condition is a decided advance.

There are ten paid officers in Georgia including the new State Secretary, G. C. Jenner, with four other places ready to employ men. In every place definite work for young men is being done.

Savannah has a handsome sum in hand for a building. It has just completed a commodious gymnasium. The new building at Athens is under cover with fair prospects of being completed shortly, and will cost about $25,000. The Atlanta work shows marked progress, an interesting feature being a number of young men in training for the secretaryship. A new secretary has just been secured for Macon.

A most gratifying feature of the year's work is the great increase of interest in the College Associations, both on the part of the students and the faculties. The trustees of Emory College have allotted to the Association there a large building, which is being handsomely fitted up with baths, bowling alley and gymnasium. They have also set apart grounds for athletics, which will be under the control of the Association. The Association is now looking for a general secretary. These improvements will have a good effect upon other colleges in this State.

The visits of C. K. Ober and J. R. Mott have been very helpful to the college work, and the International Committee has wisely helped us in many other ways during the past year.

W. WOODS WHITE, Cor. Mem.

ILLINOIS.

The past year has been decidedly the best so far in Association work in Illinois.

One of the most striking features of advance has been in the line of buildings. Five new ones have been dedicated, one additional gymnasium occupied, another building partially completed and put to use, and two others begun.

The district work has been more vigorously prosecuted than in any previous year. Eleven district conferences were held, attended by 491 delegates and visitors, representing seventy-five Associations and a number of unorganized towns. A large number of local conferences also were held.

One of the striking features of the year was the work carried on by nine students of Knox College, who, during the summer season, gave their services and held twenty-eight local conferences, at which more than fifty young men expressed their determination to follow Christ.

The financial condition of the local Associations generally is better than in any previous year. Several of them have all necessary funds pledged for the year 1890. Fifty-five report their current expenses for the year 1888-89 to have been $89,607.

Chicago has added three new departments during the year, and new Associations have also been organized at nine other points. There are now eighty-five Associations and departments in the State; sixty-eight men are now employed; there are now thirty-nine secretarial points, against thirty-five last year. Sixty-seven Associations report a membership of 11,859; forty-one have reading rooms; thirty-eight report libraries. Including young men's meetings in unorganized towns, there are 108 such meetings where ten years ago there were only five. There are 210 corresponding members in unorganized towns.

The State Committee employs the services of six secretaries. At the State Convention over $8,000 was pledged for State work, besides $5,000 for the Association building at the Imperial University in Tokyo, Japan.

Special help was rendered by International Secretaries Williams and Hague in the railroad work, and by Secretary Ober at the State Convention, for all of which the State Committee is indeed thankful.

INDIANA.

Our annual State Convention, at Lafayette, in November, was attended by nearly three times the number of delegates present last year. D. L. Moody was present during the entire session and made a profound impression not alone on the delegates but through them on the whole State. The per capita apportionment for the support of State work was discontinued, after a year's trial.

We began the year with heavy financial obligations for State work, but are in hopes of coming to the next annual meeting entirely free from debt. At present every point employing a general secretary is supplied with a competent man, and good work is being done. During the year our force of physical directors has been increased by three, four now being employed.

There are now twenty-two Associations in the State, four—Odon, Lafayette, and the College Associations at Northern Indiana Normal School, and Butler University—having been organized since the State Convention.

Evansville and New Albany are in the midst of canvasses for buildings; that at Evansville is to cost $60,000 and is expected to be the best in the State; that at New Albany will cost $30,000. Richmond is also agitating the same question. There are now six buildings among the twelve local Associations, and one College Association building, at Hanover.

There are ten "Prayer Circles" as preliminary organizations looking toward Associations. The calls for help from organized places are by no means few, but are greatly exceeded by those from the unorganized towns.

We acknowledge gratefully the efficient aid rendered during the year by International Secretaries Ober, Williams, Hague, Hicks and Gates. At present we are without a State Secretary, Mr. Humphrey having resigned in March to enter business. Our assistant State Secretary will be aided in the college work by the undergraduate deputation men; and it is hoped with additional aid from the International Committee, and as much as possible from our own volunteer workers, to hold what ground we already have, and to do some aggressive work as well.

J. C. SHAFFER, Cor. Mem.

IOWA.

The past year has been one of decided progress. Early in the year Wm. A. Magee was chosen State Secretary, and a few months later an assistant was secured in the person of W. M. Parsons. The results have demonstrated the wisdom of these selections.

There are now forty-four Associations in the State, seventeen of which are in colleges having an attendance of three thousand young men. The first Railroad Department has been organized at Marshalltown, the Iowa Central Railroad contributing liberally to the support of the undertaking.

Twenty-two men are employed as general secretaries and assistants.

$2,558 was spent for State work during the year.

The annual State Convention held at Ottumwa, October 9-13, had the largest attendance of any yet held in this State. Every session was characterized by an earnest, prayerful spirit. $1,400 more was pledged for State work than at any previous convention.

No other one year has shown such an advance in the matter of buildings as this. The building at Cedar Rapids, costing $43,000, has been dedicated; the one at Des Moines is enclosed, and will probably be completed during the Summer, and will cost $75,000; ground has been broken at Sioux City, the fund there now having reached $30,000; the State University Association has a building fund pledged of $23,000, and Ottumwa one of $18,300.

Preliminary action has been taken to enlarge the State Committee from thirteen to twenty-one members. The State has been divided into five districts, each in charge of an efficient committee.

The assistance of the International Committee both at the State Convention, and since, has been greatly appreciated. The outlook is very encouraging.

M. H. SMITH, Cor. Mem.

KANSAS.

There are in Kansas 69 Associations—52 city and 17 college. The city Associations employ 34 men as general and assistant secretaries; the State Committee employs 8 secretaries, including the State Secretary; making a total of 42 men giving their entire time to Association work in this State.

For the fiscal year ending September 30th, 1889, the Associations report 351 committees, with 1,303 members; 64 Bible and training classes, with 536 average weekly attendance; 64 young mens' meetings, with 2,869 average attendance; number of professed conversions reported, with names of converts, 851; number of church accessions, with names of converts and pastor, 372.

The eighth annual State Convention was held at Topeka, October, 16-20. There were present 912 enrolled delegates and corresponding members representing 64 Associations. The State Committee reported an expenditure of $18,521, with every bill fully paid. Nearly $15,000 was subscribed for the State work the coming year. The International Committee was represented by its General Secretary and Secretary Hague.

Eighteen district conferences have been held during the year, with an attendance of 553 delegates.

The second annual Bible school, held at Marion, in camp, June 11-21, was attended by over 200 students. A most unusual missionary interest was awakened during the meeting, among the general secretaries and others in attendance, and already four general secretaries have resigned their positions, and are now on their way to Africa. It is believed that there are scores of our young men that will shortly offer themselves to the work of spreading the gospel to those that have never heard of the redeeming love of our Lord.

The State Committee has one secretary, an Indian young man, that is devoting his entire time to work among his own people in the Indian Territory; another secretary is giving his entire attention to the work in small, unorganized towns, starting Bible training classes and young men's meetings. A "Gospel Wagon" has been ordered, and is expected ready for service April 1st. It will be in charge of three or four workers, who will go from city to city, especially in the neglected portions of the State.

FRED. W. PARROTT, Cor. Mem.

KENTUCKY.

Since July 1st, 1889, we have had, for the first time in Kentucky, the services of a State Secretary, and the work accomplished during the nine months that have passed has proved the inestimable value of his services. We believe the work is on better footing, and giving better promise for the future than ever before. Three new Associations have been organized during the year, making a total of eighteen in the State. Our aim is not so much to increase the number of Associations as to promote the efficiency and stability of those already organized.

J. EDWARD HARDY, Cor. Mem.

LOUISIANA.

One new Association has been organized during the year, at Baton Rouge, and steps are being taken to reorganize at Minden.

The Association at Shreveport is occupying its new building, and has called a general secretary.

At New Orleans a fair amount of work has been done during the year, which might have been largely increased if the Association had had a building of its own. Efforts are being made to secure one, and with some prospect of success.

CHARLES H. SHUTE, Cor. Mem.

MAINE.

The work in this State has been very successful the past year, and we look forward to even greater progress during the present year.

Three new Associations—Belfast, Sandford and Old Town—have been added to the list, and there is prospect of several more additions in the near future. General secretaries are now employed at ten points.

Considerable attention has been given to and much interest aroused in district work, and several conferences have been held, resulting in the organization of Associations.

The State Convention was held at Waterville, October 17-20, 1889, and was well attended. A good degree of interest was manifested, and one result was the quickening of a large number of Association workers. H. M. Moore and F. K. Sanders represented the International Committee, and rendered valuable assistance.

The College Associations are in a flourishing condition and doing good work. They were well represented with large delegations at the State Convention.

The reports submitted at the State Convention indicated an increased interest in spiritual work among the Associations and a goodly number of conversions.

The Bangor Association will erect a building this year, having already broken ground; the Auburn Association is making an extra effort to remove a debt from its building; and other Associations are considering the subject of a building fund.

State Secretary Lawrence has taken the lead in the work, and we are indebted to him for much of the success of the year.

W. S. COREY, Cor. Mem.

MARYLAND, WEST VIRGINIA, DELAWARE AND DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

For the second entire year a State Secretary has been in the field. As the outcome of Mr. Wayte's vigorous prosecution of the work, one new building has been erected, two new libraries started, three new places have employed general secretaries, four new reading rooms opened, five local conferences held, five new Associations organized, five new gymnasiums established, a work for youths started by five Associations, six more men employed by the Associations, seventy-two visits made to twenty-two Associations, 1,510 additional members added, $4,100 secured for new work, $29,000 in new buildings and in the improvement of old buildings, the State of Delaware added to our territory and a promising Association started at Wilmington.

The secretaries of the International Committee rendered valuable assistance in effecting the organization at Wilmington, Del.; in the college work; and at our last Inter-State Convention.

The year closed nearly free from debt, and a larger amount than ever has been pledged for the work of 1890.

THEODORE A. HARDING, Cor. Mem.

MASSACHUSETTS AND RHODE ISLAND.

The last year has not been marked in the way of new organizations, but in contributing elements of permanency to organizations already existing.

There are at present sixty-nine Associations with a total membership of 20,756. Fifty-two report reading-rooms with an average attendance of 8,602; thirty-two report libraries containing 28,751 volumes; seventeen report buildings valued at $902,860, and sixteen report building funds amounting to $64,491. There are eighty-two general secretaries and other paid officers.

There has been an increase of thirty-three per cent. in all the branches of Association work during the past three years.

A vigorous Association has been organized in Pawtucket, R. I. Nearly $6,000 has been raised for current expenses, and a general secretary, an assistant, and a physical director, secured.

The State Convention held at Waltham, in October, was attended by over four hundred delegates. The convention was not only the largest ever held, but those that attended as delegates were mostly young men, deeply interested in the work of saving their fellows. The treasurer's report at that time showed that all the bills had been paid and nearly $700 was in the treasury. $6,000 additional was raised for the State work of the coming year.

This has certainly been a building year. The Lowell Association has secured a building, costing $25,000; the Bristol, R. I., Association has purchased a building, costing $7,000; the Attleboro Association dedicated a building, costing $10,000, the day previous to the convention; the New Bedford Association purchased a lot with a building upon it, at a cost of $17,000, and is now actively engaged in a canvass for $13,000 more for the erection of a new building; in Merrimac, a town of 2,800 inhabitants, a building has been dedicated, which cost $12,000; the Providence Association is erecting a building to cost $175,000, and it will be ready for occupancy October 1st; through the generosity of the family of the late George H. Corliss, the Newburyport Association is about to erect a building that will cost over $50,000; the Holyoke Association has secured a building lot valued at $33,000. A number of other Associations are expecting to have buildings in the near future.

We have also been blessed spiritually. Twenty-eight Associations report 219 professed conversions during the three months from October to January, and the good work has been going on since then.

The States have been redistricted, and it is expected that within a year at least one new Association will have been formed in each district.

The State Committee meets once a month. About four of the monthly meetings are held outside of Boston. The January meeting was held at Chelsea, and that of February at Lynn. These gatherings have been very helpful to the local organizations.

The International Committee was represented at our State Convention, and has very kindly aided in the work of the State whenever called upon. The State Committee employs a State Secretary, an assistant State Secretary, and an office secretary.

S. B. CARTER, Cor. Mem.

MICHIGAN.

During the year six new Associations have been organized, and three discontinued, making at present twenty-six Associations, of which six are in colleges. While the number has not largely increased, the work of the year has been one of interest and profit.

The Associations now in existence have increased in membership, and are on a more permanent footing than ever before. Most of them have gained financial strength; and a deeper spiritual interest has prevailed. Three hundred and fifty-eight conversions have been reported to the State Committee during the year.

ASSOCIATION BUILDING, MORRISTOWN, N. J.,

SOUTH STREET.

DEDICATED OCTOBER 10, 1888

Dimensions, 40x120 feet.

Cost, $29,050.

Population in 1888, 9,000.

Building funds have been increased in several places, and one Association (Bay City) has received a bequest of $30,000. Several Associations have added largely to their equipment. Detroit has increased its attractions by an athletic club house and grounds; Owosso has secured a library of six hundred volumes, and the Railroad Branch at West Detroit has purchased a lot for a new building.

The college work is growing, and student deputation work is now being put in operation.

The State Convention was held at Coldwater, October 10-13, with one hundred and sixty-two delegates in attendance. The International Committee was represented by C. K. Ober and H. O. Williams.

H. M. Clarke, our present State Secretary, commenced his labors in May last, and by his earnest efforts, wise counsel, and business methods, has done much to place the work in the way of permanent prosperity.

J. R. DUTTON, Cor. Mem.

MINNESOTA AND NORTH AND SOUTH DAKOTA.

The total number of Associations at the end of the Association year in this field was 43. Thirty-eight reported a total membership of 4,525; 15, annual expenses of $43,924; 14, libraries with 8,868 volumes; 6, buildings to the aggregate value of $40,000, and other real estate, and 4 building funds pledged, to the amount of $324,584; 17, an aggregate value of furniture of $14,905; 11, gymnasiums; 5, junior departments; 28, gospel meetings for men only; 15, seventy-eight receptions and socials; 11, sixty-two practical talks; 5, twelve educational classes.

Three Associations were organized during the year, Rice's Point Department, Duluth, Minn., and Mitchell and Redfield, South Dakota.

The State Convention, held at Duluth in October, had a larger delegation of young men than ever before assembled in this part of the country for a similar purpose. The amount of money raised for State work was quite in advance of any former year, amounting to $6,900. The presence of C. K. Ober, of the International Committee, and I. E. Brown, State Secretary of Illinois, and others from abroad, was very helpful.

College deputation work, and work for woodsmen and miners (which is in charge of two men especially adapted to the work, Messrs. Manson and Bovie), have been undertaken since the State Convention, and special attention has been given to evangelistic work for young men by Assistant Secretary Francis.

H. F. Williams gave valuable assistance during the year in connection with the railroad departments.

Not a little additional interest in missionary matters has been brought about by the pledging of $500 toward the Tokyo (Japan) building, and this in addition to the $1,000 already contributed by the St. Paul Association toward Mr. Speer's work in connection with the Students' Volunteer Movement, and a similar amount by the Minneapolis Association toward the support of Mr. Swift's work in Tokyo.

During the year the headquarters of the State Committee were moved to Minneapolis, and I. C. Seeley is now the efficient chairman.

District work has received much attention, and the plan of appointing corresponding members of the State Committee has been followed with good results.

A summer Bible school was held at White Bear Lake, July 16-23, with an attendance of 120. Every secretary and assistant but one was present.

JOHN H. ELLIOTT, Cor. Mem.

MISSISSIPPI.

Association work in Mississippi has progressed during the past year. Though the number of Associations is not as large now as at the beginning of the year, yet the work done has been more and better than ever before.

The State Convention held at Meridian, last spring, was attended by eighty-three delegates, and resulted in renewed interest in Association work throughout the State, and more of our people are taking hold of it.

A State Secretary was put in the field the first of December. He has been devoting his time to visiting the different Associations and working up the coming State Convention at West Point.

During the year three of our Associations have started building funds, and others have made many improvements in their rooms.

H. E. Brown, of the International Committee, was present at the Meridian Convention, and the Committee has given us from time to time such other aid as we have asked for.

Special attention has been given to the spiritual part of our work, and many souls have been made glad by being led to the Saviour. Taking everything into account we have much to encourage us.

J. R. DOBYNS, Cor. Mem.

MISSOURI.

I am glad to report that Missouri is coming to the front in Association work.

Last year the employment of a State Secretary, F. H. Jacobs, was reported; since then two other men have been added to our State force, Rev. E. M. C. Botterill, Evangelistic Secretary, October 1st, and F. C. Child, Assistant State Secretary, December 1st. Mr. Botterill has been greatly blessed in conducting evangelistic meetings for men under the auspices of the Associations.

The work throughout the State is growing rapidly, and was never in a better condition than it is to-day. There are 42 Associations: 24 local, 13 college, 8 railroad, 1 German, and 1 colored, a gain of four over last year. A few of the smaller, and less important ones, have disbanded, but those now in existence, with a very few exceptions, are strong and growing. Special mention should be made of the excellent organizations perfected at Springfield, one of our larger cities, and at Slater, an important railroad point. At both of these places general secretaries are employed. Reference should be made also to the flourishing College Association, organized during the year in the State University, at Columbia, and the local Association at Brookfield.

In regard to buildings, some progress has been made. At Kansas City the building is completed and furnished, and is one of the best in the country. The St. Louis German branch has the honor of having erected the first building to be used exclusively for German young men, in this country. The building cost $32,000, and is very complete in all its appointments. Gallatin has purchased a lot and a two-story brick building for $1,600, one-half of the amount has already been paid, and the building is now being remodeled for Association purposes. The Associations at Independence and Lee's Summit, and the Colored, Union Depot Railroad, and Down Town Branches of the St. Louis Association have moved into new and better quarters during the year.

One of the best State Conventions ever held in Missouri convened last October at Springfield. Two hundred and thirty delegates were present, and $6,000 was pledged for State work, with the understanding that $1,000 was to go to the International Committee. This is by far the largest sum ever raised by Missouri for State work.

The International Committee was represented at the convention by Secretaries Olandt and Hicks, both of whom rendered excellent service.

The Committee has placed us under very great obligations for the valuable services of its secretaries at other points in the State during the year, especially for Mr. Olandt's successful efforts in connection with the St. Louis German Branch building, and for Mr. Cree's and Mr. Hague's very important and helpful work at Kansas City.

The State was redistricted, and the district committees have accomplished a good work. Profitable conferences were held at Lee's Summit and Slater.

The outlook for the future is bright, and with three State Secretaries in the field, and by the blessing of the Lord, we will endeavor to make Missouri one of the first States in Association work in this country.

T. S. MCPHEETERS, Cor. Mem.

NEBRASKA.

There are now in Nebraska twenty-nine Associations, making an increase of nine during the year. Seventeen secretaries are employed at fourteen different places. Every city of 5,000 or more population, and two smaller places, are now occupied by secretaries. Five Associations are connected with the colleges. One interesting feature of our work is the fact that so many of our active workers are developing into secretaries, eight of our present secretaries having come from our own Associations. There are now twenty Bible training classes, with an average attendance per week of three hundred.

Boys' work is conducted successfully at twelve places. The boys held a several days meeting at Hastings last July, at which 125 were present; a similar meeting will be held again this year.

The work for commercial travelers has been developed at two places; and with a live, wide awake commercial traveler on the State Committee we expect great things in this direction.

The total membership of our Associations is now over three thousand.

Eight districts have been formed, and in five there are well organized committees. A convention will be held in each district during the year. A summer Bible school was held, with an attendance of 110.

The first County Secretary that we know of has entered the field in Pawnee County, and after a six months' trial we feel that it is no longer an experiment, but that such work can be conducted successfully in many counties.

Our State Convention, held in Omaha, October 24-27, 1889, was attended by 407 delegates. We were greatly assisted by Richard C. Morse, and H. F. Williams of the International Committee. We also acknowledge the other assistance rendered us during the year by the Committee through H. F. Williams and S. A. Taggart.

In addition to the Omaha building there is now one at Pawnee City, and at Lincoln there is one in the course of erection. Several other Associations have building funds.

While it is hard to gather up the results, the records show 73 young men added to the churches during the year.

The State Committee consists of eighteen business men that are deeply interested in the work. Our State secretarial force, Mr. Nash, Dr. Henry, and Mr. Hazelton, are all of them peculiarly adapted to the work, and much of our success the past year—the most fruitful in the history of our work—is due to their untiring efforts.

GEORGE A. JOPLIN, Cor. Mem.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

Several changes in the work in our State have been made since our last report.

The seventeenth annual series of gospel meetings, with the churches and Associations, began in October and continued until near February, with the success of former years.

The State Secretary, who held that office for about fifteen years, resigned December 27, but continued as Evangelistic Secretary, aided by his former assistant, until the canvass closed. Since then the State Committee has confined its work exclusively to local Associations, being the last New England committee to abandon evangelistic work under its auspices.

E. A. Lawrence, State Secretary of Maine and Vermont, was chosen State Secretary, to devote part of his time to New Hampshire in connection with his other fields.

Two successful district conventions have been held in the northern sections of the State, conducted by the Associations without general secretaries located in that section, and another was held in Great Falls under the direction of the sub-committee on work in centres. The State has been divided into four districts, each under the care of a general secretary with six assistants, and it is expected that a thorough work will be done by district conventions.

There are now six Associations with general secretaries, and several others without such officers, that are doing a good work.

The Associations in Dartmouth College, Keene and Concord are moving in the matter of buildings; the latter Association has added to its fund $1,170, the proceeds of an entertainment held under the direction of the ladies' auxiliary.

The twenty-second annual State Convention, held in Manchester, September 19-22, 1889, was the largest ever held in New Hampshire, 847 delegates being in attendance. The International Committee was represented by Claus Olandt, Jr., and C. L. Gates. Rev. A. T. Pierson, D.D., of Philadelphia and Ira D. Sankey, of Brooklyn, N. Y., were also present.

The International Committee has willingly rendered all aid asked for in every direction desired.

We hope the changes made will give renewed impulse to Association work throughout the State.

ALLEN FOLGER, Cor. Mem.

NEW JERSEY.

The work in this State presents many features of interest and encouragement. We believe the Associations generally have never been in a more useful and healthful condition.

Seven Associations have been organized during the year, three of which employ general secretaries. There are now forty Associations, with an aggregate membership of nearly nine thousand, a gain of twelve per cent. Nineteen Associations employ secretaries, with nine assistants and eleven gymnasium instructors, a gain of ten salaried officials.

The building movement is spreading. Seven Associations report building funds for the first time. Reports show that nearly every Association is enjoying increased facilities.

The spiritual work is being prosecuted with increasing definiteness and corresponding positive results. We note an increase in the number of religious meetings for young men, and also a notable gain in the line of Bible study. Upwards of four hundred professed conversions are reported.

The railroad work has received an impetus in the opening of rooms of the Delaware, Lackawana and Western Railroad Department at Hoboken. These rooms are said to be the most attractive and thoroughly equipped of any in the country, with the single exception of the Railroad Men's Building in New York. The organization is vigorous and spiritual, and has already made an impression on the employes.

District conferences were held in five districts, two combining in one instance, with an attendance of 255 delegates.

The State Convention at Bridgeton, March 14-17, 1889, was attended by 230 delegates representing 28 Associations. Twenty-five hundred dollars was expended in State work. State Secretary D. F. More is still in the field and doing excellent service.

The International Committee assisted at the State and district conventions, and rendered material aid in securing local secretaries.

NEW YORK.

The twenty-fourth State Convention, held at Binghamton, February 20-23, was attended by 633 delegates, and was a meeting of great profit and encouragement. The reports showed a gratifying growth the past year in all departments of the work. $8,200 was pledged for State work for 1890; and over $2,000 for the Association building at Tokyo, Japan.

The State Committee employs the entire time of three men—General Secretary George A. Hall, Secretary W. M. Griffith, and Office Secretary F. F. Calyer.

The total number of Associations in the State is now 142. Nine new ones, Batavia, Fredonia (Normal School), Fairport, Ilion, Nyack, Oswego, Walton, Wellsville, and the Bedford Branch, Brooklyn, were organized during the year. At present 184 men are devoting their entire time to the work, an increase of 22 during the year. Nine new secretarial points have been added since the last report.

At Addison, Cooperstown, Mount Vernon. Hamilton College, Cornell University, Port Henry, East Buffalo, East Syracuse, and West Albany, buildings have been occupied during the year. At Rochester, the fine, new building is nearly completed. A gift of $50,000, by a retired lumberman of Glens Falls, will enable the Association at that point to erect a handsome home.

Nearly all the Associations give encouraging reports of the religious work for the past year. Increased attention is being given to Bible study and personal work.

Conventions have been held in each of the ten districts of the State, attended by nearly 600 delegates.

A valuable work for railroad men is being prosecuted by 27 Associations; and active Associations exist in thirteen colleges and high schools. Work for boys is engaged in by 60 of the Associations.

The work of the branch at the State military camp, at Peekskill, grows in importance year by year. Not only does it help the young men during their stay at camp, but they return home with their interest increased in the work of the local Association.

The International Committee was represented at the State Convention, and, as in the past, has assisted us in other ways that have been very helpful.

WM. H. MICHALES, Cor. Mem.

NORTH CAROLINA.

The State Convention at Goldsboro, March 13-16, 1890, disclosed more clearly than ever the deep hold which Association work is taking upon nearly every section of the State. Fifty Associations were represented by 275 delegates, who showed either by their business or profession, their social position or character, that the real representatives of the young and efficient men of North Carolina are attracted to the organization.

Very few Associations were founded during the year, and a much smaller number died.

We enjoyed the services for one-half the time of a State Secretary, L. A. Coulter, whose judicious and faithful work is bearing valuable fruit.

The reports of the individual Associations showed that the members are disposed to do their work without unduly depending on help from without.

The State is now divided into five districts, in each of which a convention was held in 1889. Eight Associations now have general secretaries. The Wilmington and Davidson College Associations are about to begin the erection of buildings.

The college work under the joint efforts of the State Secretary, and J. R. Mott and C. K. Ober of the International Committee, shows vigorous growth. Nine colleges and five large schools have Associations. Through the efforts of the several college deputations, inaugurated last year, a considerable number of students have pledged themselves for the foreign missionary work.

In planning for a new year the field was carefully surveyed, and the necessities and possibilities were thoroughly canvassed. $3,000 was asked, and subscribed, for 1890, and the entire time of a State Secretary will be employed in the future. New lines of work were projected, and a vigorous effort will be made the coming year to place this State abreast of her sister States.

OHIO.

A review of the work in Ohio shows the most prosperous year in our history. The State Committee has been active, the State Secretary untiring, and the officers of many local Associations have been unusually intelligent and efficient.

Four Associations have secured $83,374 for new buildings, making seven Associations now engaged in building enterprises. Five new Associations have been organized in cities, and eight secretaries have been employed at points hitherto unsupplied. Subscriptions for current expenses of the local Associations have been liberal and they are now better than ever supplied with reading rooms, libraries and gymnasiums. Special attention to physical culture has been given by means of lectures and in providing healthful indoor exercise.

The twenty-third annual State Convention was held at Zanesville, February 13-16. The attendance was larger than ever before, nearly 450 delegates from 57 Associations being present. It was a harmonious, earnest gathering of representative young men, and a deep spiritual tone pervaded every session. This State is stronger than any other in the number of Christian organizations in its colleges. There were 283 students at the convention from 22 Ohio colleges. Under their lead, and after a few earnest addresses, $1,100 was pledged for the new Association building at the Imperial University in Tokyo, Japan. Mr. Mott was of great service in arousing and encouraging the college boys. It was decided to employ three State Secretaries during the coming year and $5,000 was subscribed to meet the necessary expenses. The plan is to secure for every city in the State, of 5,000 or more population, a strong, active Association. Meantime the work will be vigorously pushed in the Associations already existing.

H. P. LLOYD, Cor. Mem.

OREGON, WASHINGTON AND BRITISH COLUMBIA.

The Association cause in the Pacific Northwest has made rapid strides during the past year.

The annual convention held in Vancouver, Sept. 22-25, 1889, was the largest gathering of its kind ever held in this part of the country. There were fifteen Associations represented by 119 delegates, as against 90 last year. The International Committee was represented by Henry E. Brown. The reports from the Associations showed a large number of professed conversions among young men during the year. $21,447 was expended in the prosecution of the work; $39,994 was reported as subscribed for buildings; and the total membership was reported as being 2,093. $2,787 was pledged for State work, as against $1,840 a year ago. Noel H. Jacks was re-elected State Secretary, but resigned January 1st to take the general secretaryship of the Portland, Oregon, Association. Vernon N. Johnson, of San Francisco, was secured as his successor, and is doing good work.

The Pacific Northwest is a very promising field; young men are flocking to it by the hundreds, and everywhere towns are springing into cities. There are constant demands for Associations at these growing points, but the policy of the Executive Committee has been to discourage hasty organization, and to advise waiting until competent men could be secured to take charge of the work.

The building movement is developing very fast. At Seattle the Association owns a lot and has recently erected a portion of what is to be a magnificent building, and is now occupying it. In the near future the whole structure will be completed. Vancouver owns a lot, and has over $20,000 subscribed for a building; New Westminster has $8,000, and Tacoma, $13,000 pledged for the same purpose. Spokane Falls has a valuable lot and is erecting a temporary structure. Portland, Oregon, although the richest city in the country in proportion to her size and population, still carries on her Association work in rented quarters, but the people are beginning to wake up, and an effort will be made this year to get the much needed building.

During the year valuable assistance has been received from the International Committee, by correspondence, through the visit of Henry E. Brown, and by the appeal for help for the Seattle and Spokane Falls Associations after the disastrous fires that visited those cities last summer.

PENNSYLVANIA.

The annual State Convention was held at New Castle, October 10-13, 1889, with 820 delegates present. H. K. Porter, H. F. Williams and J. R. Moss represented the International Committee.

A number of district conventions have been held during the year.

At a State Committee meeting held in Philadelphia recently, W. A. Bowen, who had been assistant State Secretary for a number of years, tendered his resignation, to accept the general secretaryship at Camden, N. J., much to the regret of the committee.

The State Secretary, Mr. Hurlburt, has been doing very efficient work. He is now aided by two assistants, W. N. Multer and E. B. Lyttle.

The Johnstown Association, which met with a total loss of its furniture and fixtures, and many of its members, by the great flood that visited the Conemaugh Valley, has been enabled, by the aid of the Associations, rendered through the International and State Committees, to continue its work with increased usefulness.

The Wilkes Barre Association is erecting a building, with good prospect of securing sufficient money to complete it free of debt. Mauch Chunk has come into the possession of a $23,000 building.

There are now 118 Associations in this State.

Special help has been given to the college work by Mr. Mott, and to the encouragement of systematic giving, by Mr. Taggart.

On the whole, the work has never been in a more encouraging condition in the State.

C. H. ZEHNDER, Cor. Mem.

SOUTH CAROLINA.

In my last report I mentioned the fact that we had four secretarial points. One of these, Newberry, was lost during the year, but another, Spartanburg, has been gained. An assistant has been added to the secretarial force at Charleston.

L. A. Coulter, the State Secretary of North and South Carolina, has for six months during the year diligently applied himself to the work of State visitation. To his earnest activity is due much of the success that has been achieved.

Last year the State was divided into four districts. Each was placed under a special committee, and profitable conventions were held in all four.

A building was erected during 1889 at Cartersville, a town of 200 inhabitants. This building, which was the first erected in the State, cost $800, and was dedicated free of debt. The Charleston Association took possession of its new building on January 1st, 1890. It cost $40,000 and is one of the handsomest in this section of the country. At Walterboro and Timmons ville building funds have been started. Columbia has secured in pledges more than $16,000 for a similar object. It has purchased a desirable lot and soon will begin the erection of a building. Valuable aid was rendered in the latter movement by the International Committee through its agent F. W. Pickard.

John R. Mott and C. K. Ober during the year have visited the College Associations and definite results have attended their labors. The Association at the South Carolina University is preparing to erect a building on the campus, and $1,200 have been subscribed toward that end.

While the year has produced no very remarkable results, yet the advancement has been steady and, we believe, permanent.

TENNESSEE.

The past year has shown a steady growth among the Associations of this State.

The State Committee has made no special effort to effect new organizations but rather to make more efficient those already organized. Although the Associations are fewer in number than last year, those existing are better equipped, and report a larger membership than ever before.

The Nashville and Bristol Associations are now located in their buildings. The Union City building is nearing completion, and will be occupied at an early day. It is located upon the most prominent corner in the city, and will be very attractive. The Association at the University of Tennessee has raised a fund of over $7,000, and expect to build during the summer.

The State Convention, held at Chattanooga in October, was attended by 124 delegates, representing 24 Associations. One of the results of the convention was the removal of the headquarters of the State Committee from Nashville to Chattanooga, and the election of James B. Milligan to the position of State Secretary. H. F. Williams represented the International Committee, and did much to make the convention a success.

Two college conferences have been held, one at Vanderbilt University, at Nashville, and the other at Maryville College. C. K. Ober was at both conferences, and his presence was an inspiration to the large number of students in attendance.

Five district conventions will be held this Spring. The wisdom of the re-districting of the State into smaller districts has been proven by the increased attendance at, and more places reached by, the conventions. Four hundred and forty-six delegates attended the recent conventions, against two hundred and fifty-one last Spring.

JAMES H. COWAN, Cor. Mem.

TEXAS.

Texas is a vast missionary field for Association work. If there ever was a country where such work was needed, Texas needs it more. Such missionary effort expended on this field now, will be returned with interest in the years to come.

So far as is known there are twenty Associations in the State to-day. Of these, nine have general secretaries and are doing legitimate Association work. The distance between some of these Associations farthest removed from each other is eleven hundred miles. On account of these long distances and the cost of travel, it has been found impossible to organize district work. For the same reason it is found exceedingly difficult to secure anything like a good attendance at our conventions, or at the meetings of the State Committee. In fact such a thing as a full meeting of the State Committee has never been known. The lack of intercourse between the Associations is a great disadvantage. We are deprived of the stimulus, sympathy and encouragement that come from such communion.

The Associations employing general secretaries have found it a struggle to meet their financial obligations, and make any progress in the work during the past year. It has been with great difficulty that they have been able to maintain themselves. However, in the cities employing secretaries, the work of the Association is coming to be better understood, and the outlook is more encouraging.

Three Associations represented at our last State Convention, have since died. Since the convention held at Dallas, three years ago, eleven Associations have disbanded.

Many towns are now eager to organize Associations. In most of these cases but very little is known of the object of the Association, or the methods employed in its work, and the State Committee has been kept busy trying to dissuade some of them from organizing prematurely.

At our State Convention, at San Antonio last year, the International Committee was represented by J. W. Hansel, General Secretary at Kansas City, Mo. The Committee has also sent to our assistance the present year, W. E. Wayte, State Secretary of Maryland, who will spend three weeks visiting our Associations.

VERMONT.

The past year has been a prosperous one with the Associations of Vermont, and the work was never in a better condition. New Associations have been organized at Bennington, Poultney and Northfield, all of which promise well for the future.

Good reports come from all the larger Associations of the State, and in several instances the work is very encouraging. At one or two points the work seems to languish, but only temporarily, we believe. At St. Johnsbury, Rutland and Brattleboro the work is steadily progressing, and is stronger and in better condition than ever before.

The Burlington Association is extremely fortunate in its new home, which was completed last Autumn, at a cost of nearly $100,000. Very few Associations have as fine a building, and none one more attractive. It is an honor to the work at large, the city in which it is located, the Association whose home it is, and especially to the president, W. J. Van Patten, to whose influence, energy and munificence its erection has been mainly due.

The State Convention, held in Burlington, last December, was largely attended, and was the most interesting and profitable gathering of its kind in Vermont for many years.

The district system has been inaugurated in our State, corresponding members appointed, and other measures adopted that, under the able supervision of our State Secretary, E. A. Lawrence, are expected to result in much good.

F. W. SMITH, Cor. Mem.

VIRGINIA.

The year 1889 was full of hard work and great results. Twelve new Associations were organized, making a total of sixty-four in the State. Five vacancies in the secretaryship were filled, and one secretary employed in a new field. Twenty seven men have devoted their time to the work during the year.

Three district, one college, and one general secretaries' conferences were held last year. The new building at Staunton, costing $38,000 furnished, was completed and occupied during the year. Fifteen thousand dollars indebtedness on Association buildings has been raised, and $8,000 toward new buildings pledged.

Nearly one thousand new members have been secured during the year. Evangelistic meetings have been held at ten places, and over five hundred young men and boys have professed conversion.

The Staunton Association held a remarkable series of evangelistic meetings of several weeks, beginning with the week of prayer in November. The attendance averaged 252. There were more than two hundred requests for prayer, and nearly one hundred and fifty conversions. The attendance of young men at the Sunday afternoon gospel meetings of this Association has averaged 212 during the past year.

The International Committee has rendered valuable assistance in our State work, and was represented at the college conference, held at Lexington, Nov. 29-Dec. 1, 1889, by J. R. Mott and C. K. Ober.

During the year the work was under the efficient charge of H. O. Williams, State Secretary. This year he will have the assistance of E. T. Dadmun.

WISCONSIN.

There has been an unusual number of changes among the general secretaries the past year, and for this as well as other reasons the work has not been altogether prosperous. There are now 41 Associations alive and in working order, and including the State force, 35 men giving their full time to the work. Eight of the Associations are in the colleges and schools, and all are doing excellent work.

Baraboo hopes to complete its building this year; the Milwaukee German Department will occupy its new building by May 1. This building is valued at $15,000, of which $8,500 is paid; Oshkosh has voted to sell its building, pay all debts and with the amount remaining, $18,000, erect a building better adapted to the work; Ironwood, which is in Michigan but has joined the Wisconsin State work, has a lot purchased and hopes to build this year. New interest has been awakened recently in the project of a building at our State University and over $8,000 has been subscribed towards this object. The net value of Association buildings and building lots in Wisconsin is not far from $145,000.

The fifteenth annual State Convention held at Racine last October was the largest ever held in the State. Messrs. Olandt and Mott represented the International Committee.

An assistant State Secretary has been employed during most of the year in evangelistic work, and with good results.

The district conference work has been pushed earnestly, resulting in much good in every way.

The "lumberman's work" has been enlarged by placing in the field a third man. This work could easily employ the time of twenty men if the money to pay them could be secured.

The State work for the past year required more money than was raised and a considerable debt was carried over which, it is expected, will be entirely met this year.

The Lake Geneva summer meeting has grown in interest and power, and exerts an excellent influence upon the work in this State.

TABLE III.—CITY AND

COMPILED FROM OFFICIAL REPORTS RECEIVED BY THE INTERNATIONAL COMMITTEE BETWEEN JANUARY 15 AND MARCH 25, 1890.

The names of officers are the most recent that have come to the knowledge of the Committee, as far as convenience of printing permits their insertion. Some later changes among the paid officers of the Associations may be found in Table II., General Secretaries, etc. The Secretaries' names in SMALL CAPITALS denote General Secretaries.

As many Associations prefer to report for their official years, closing at various dates, it is impossible to secure reports to any one date. But the reports are, for the most part, for the calendar year 1889. A few reports from Associations recently organized cover a period less than a year.

There are three other Indian Associations, one at Santee Agency, Neb., in the Normal Training School, one at Carlisle Pa., in the Indian School located there, and the other in the Haskell Institute at Lawrence, Kan. They are reported in the college table.

TABLE IX.—BOYS' DEPARTMENT.

This table has reference to work exclusively for Boys. It includes only those Associations reporting organized Branches or Departments in operation prior to January 1, 1890. Several Associations have failed to report for their Branches; others have instituted Branches since January 1; and a number hold meetings for Boys, or grant them certain of their regular privileges.
